EXPECT GERMANS TO RENEW EFFORTS

Allied Leaders Not Deceived by Lull in the Conflict, Says Washington.

OUR TROOPS RUSHING OVER

April Saw a Record Made in the Shipment of Men and May Will See Greater Results.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—A note of warning was sounded in a high quarter this afternoon against any assumption that the Germans had abandoned their plan of driving a wedge between the British and French armies on the western front, rolling up the British forces and seizing the Channel ports.

It was made very plain that the allied Governments expected the Germans to proceed with their campaign with the greatest vigor possible until "they have shot their bolt." It is expected that the German high command will continue their assaults through the Summer in an effort to reach their objectives.

Entente leaders have been lulled into no sense of security by the fact that the lines in France and Flanders have held against the German onslaughts. Every energy is being strained to provide General Foch with increased reinforcements to enable him not only to hold the German advance in the immediate future, but also to turn the tide of battle and win the war.

The plans that President Wilson has developed for the rapid movement of troops to France and the raising of new armies show that he realizes the importance of placing as many men as possible at the disposal of General Foch in the quickest possible time.

A new record was established in April for the dispatch of troops from this country to Europe, and this is expected to be exceeded in the present month. Every available transport, American and British, has been placed at the disposal of the transport service for the overseas movement.

The men now going will be provided with supplies and munitions by the British and French Governments. Assurances have been given that the London and Paris War Offices are ready to furnish guns, ammunition, food, and other requirements for field service for all the men that can be sent at this time into France. This means that these men can travel "light" to France, and that transport space will not be given over to impedimenta for the present, the greatest need in France being men, rather than guns and munitions.

Tonnage that would be used for moving guns and supplies will, for the immediate present, be given over, as it has been for some days, to the transportation of soldiers. Later, after large numbers of American soldiers have been placed in France, the movement of guns, munitions, and supplies will be resumed.

The Entente Governments are more than satisfied with the manner in which their recent appeals for aid in reinforcements have been met by the Washington Government. The only limit at the present time to co-operation along this line is that imposed by ship tonnage available.

From a reliable source it was learned today that the British troops were outnumbered three and four to one by the Germans in recent battles, and that British forces yielded ground only in the face of terrific odds and concentrated attacks.

It was pointed out that while they sustained a temporary check in the attack on the British lines in Flanders, the Germans may resume their offensive on the Somme front and concentrate against the French army. In that event, the pressure against the British having been lifted, the British, it is asserted, will send reinforcements to the French front, just as the French have aided the British.

The brigading of American forces with the British and French, it was learned, was for the period of the present German offensive, and it is expected that before the Summer campaign is over the American forces may be organized into their own divisions and put into the battlefront as a distinct army.

Foe Had to Halt for Breath.

An official dispatch relating to military operations was received here today, as follows:

"Wednesday marked a very distinct standstill in the military operations. The enemy, tired out, pauses for breath. Only the artillery is operating here and there in Flanders, in the sectors of the Locre and Dranoutre, north of the Lys, in the region of Bethune, south of the Somme, in the region of Villers-Bretonneux, and on the banks of the Avre.

"The importance of the check suffered by the Germans in their attack of April 29 needs no demonstration. Here, however, is further and significant proof of it. The day before the attack the enemy notified the entire world that the taking of Mont Kemmel at the beginning of the new battle assured him a rapid march to the sea, and a radiogram from Nauen cited the article of the military critic of the Berliner Zeitung am Mittag, who stated that this success must have a decisive effect on the ulterior development of the struggle.

"Since then it was necessary to return to a more just estimate of realities, and the same official service of radiograms at Nauen on the date of May 1 indulges in these modest explanations of the military critic of the Svenska Dagbladet, pro-German paper of Stockholm:

"'The development of events southwest of Ypres shows that the taking of Kemmel was not the signal of an operation on a large scale. With that supposition, the struggle would have promptly continued and the advantage won would have been exploited in another way.' It is an admission of the costly check of April 29."

GIVE CASUALTY ADDRESSES.

War Department to Return to Original Plan of Publishing Lists.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The publication of army casualty lists, with the home addresses of the officers and men, will be resumed by the Adjutant General tomorrow. After carefully considering the whole matter it has been decided by the Administration to meet the public demand for the publication of the addresses with the names.

Casualty lists were originally handled through the Committee on Public Information and home addresses as well as names of soldiers were given out by the War Department through that committee. Nearly two months ago the War Department suddenly refused to make public the addresses of those named in the lists. This was represented as having been based on an urgent request called by General Pershing. The Committee on Public Information declined to handle the lists in that form and they were thereafter issued by the Adjutant General's office, without addresses. Now the department has gone back to the original plan of giving out names and home addresses, and tomorrow's list will be complete in that respect.

General Pershing Reports 96 Casualties; Two Officers Dead and Three Captured

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The War Department gave out today 96 casualties reported by Major Gen. Pershing, bringing the total casualties in our overseas forces from the beginning to 4,586. The list contains the names of 11 killed in action, 7 died of disease, 3 died of accident, 2 died of wounds, 3 died of other causes, 7 were wounded severely, 60 wounded slightly, and 3 missing in action.

The names of seven commissioned officers appear in the list. Captain Frank J. Abbott was wounded slightly. Lieutenant Clayton C. Ingersoll died of accident. Lieutenant August Leo Sundvall died from wounds. Lieutenants John R. Feegel and Frederick B. Stokes were wounded severely. Lieutenants Will F. Lovett and Edward C. Swenson were wounded slightly.

Captain Francis J. Cahill and Lieutenants Samuel Miller and Robert H. Jeffrey, previously reported missing, are now reported to be prisoners.

The War Department does not make public the addresses of officers and soldiers named in its casualty lists, but telegraphic notification is sent in each instance to the next of kin.

SEICHEPREY ATTACK COST GERMANS DEAR

Four-fifths of the 1,500 Shock Troops Killed or Wounded, Says Red Cross Man, Taken by Us.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, May 2, (Associated Press.)—The unit of German shock troops which attacked the American position at Seicheprey April 20 is known to have suffered more severely than was first thought.

A German prisoner brought in by one of the American patrols was a Red Cross man who assisted in the removal of the wounded and the burial of the dead after the engagement. He told the American intelligence officers that the German force was cut to pieces, about four-fifths of its 1,500 effectives being killed or wounded.

As the prisoner gave other information of a definite character, the intelligence officers seem to believe his statements relative to the German casualties.

Aside from sub-normal artillery activity, the American sector has been extremely quiet during the past thirty-six hours. The Germans, however, are doing much work behind their lines and it is expected that fighting will be resumed.

LETTER COMING TO MOTHER

Every Soldier in France to Write to Her on May 12.

PARIS, May 2.—"Mothers' Day"—a day on which every soldier of the American Expeditionary Forces, young and old, high and low, is expected to write home to mother—has been fixed for May 12. The idea originated with The Stars and Stripes, the official newspaper of the American forces in Europe, and was approved by headquarters, which is doing everything possible to help it along.

The experience of the army Post Office has taught that the mothers come first in the soldiers' thoughts, and so has decided to make every possible effort that every mother in America whose son is in France shall receive tidings from her "boy." Thus the date especially set apart for the purpose.

FINDS UNITY IN NATION

Rancor of Politics Is Put Aside, He Asserts, and "Sectionalism Is Dead and Buried."

Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels, speaking last night at the dinner of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers and the American Cotton Manufacturers' Association, at the Biltmore, asserted that America was getting ready to send to the front "every man who can carry a gun."

"Let us have no talk," he said, "of sending three million men, or five million. We have by the selective draft law dedicated twelve million men to fight this war, and we are calling them and training them for the army and navy as rapidly as we can have the tonnage. The only measure of our contribution is the measure of ships.

"We have seen anxious hours during recent weeks, but no ominous hours. We know that we shall pay a heavy toll, but we know that, though the line may move and sway, the line that holds for liberty will never break. And we know that this drive was timed as it was because the Kaiser knows that when the American Army in full force is added to those of the Allies the doom of the Germans is sealed.

"I have no doubt that all of us look back on our past ideas as to the merchant marine with profound regret. America lacked the statesmanship in peace time to provide a merchant marine big enough to carry our commerce to the ends of the world, and we are resolved that we shall never again find ourselves in a position where shipping is needed and is not forthcoming.

"Out of the tragedy of this war there are some compensations. One is a new horizon and a new map. For too many years we have been satisfied to live within ourselves and to look only at a small portion of the world. We have now seen a new map, a world map.

"It is for you manufacturers to lead the way, so that the great merchant marine that we are building for use in war may be continued also in times of peace.

Sees Unity in America.

"Another compensation is a new American unity. A few years ago we had bitter partisan discussions. There was a time when we Democrats felt that some of you Republicans were pretty bad fellows. It was not only a campaign cry; we believed it, and sometimes we proved it. And before this war you Republicans believed that some of us were pretty bad, and the worst of it was that sometimes you proved it.

"But we have lived to see the day when all of us have put aside the rancor of politics. In the shadow of this great war, in which we are all enlisted, we are all Democrats, all Republicans, all Americans."

There were cheers for the Secretary's reference to William H. Taft as "a splendid American, who is proving his Americanism in a very fine way in these days."

"We have come to see the day," Mr. Daniels continued, "and I believe it has come forever, when sectionalism is dead and buried. We are training our boys in Camp Grant and Camp Lee, Camp Sheridan and Camp Sherman, and Camp Stonewall Jackson.

"The spirit of our young men is something we might not have dared to hope three or four years ago, when it was being so widely said that they had lost their spirit. Men have learned as never before that nothing is worth while but courage and sacrifice. The line of demarkation between what is secular and what is religious is ended; this is a holy war, and religion and patriotism are married."

The Secretary talked briefly of the Liberty Loan campaign, and said: "I have never yet appealed to any man to buy a Liberty bond, though I have occasionally offered the privilege of buying one."

Destroyers the Best "Hun Hunters."

Speaking of the navy, he said that "almost every day now it is part of my duties to name a new destroyer; they are proving the best type of Hun hunters."

"I was talking today to one of the most successful cotton manufacturers in the country," said Mr. Daniels, "just as I have previously talked to Julius Rosenwald and Henry Ford, and he said that no business in America was run so well as the navy. And you cotton manufacturers may know that, for sometimes we have not agreed on the price.

"We are all in the war, and we are going to fight it out on this line if it takes all Summer, all Winter, all this year, all next year, or twenty years to come."

General Claudon, head of the French military mission, praised the American soldiers, whom he had seen in training camps in this country, and said that letters from French commanders at the front spoke most highly of the qualities of the American troops.

"Nothing could indicate better," he said, "the opinion entertained of their merits than the fact that today American soldiers are guarding the road to Paris, that they are in the battle line in Picardy, as well as in Flanders."

DISCUSS COTTON PROBLEMS

Manufacturers Urged to Lay Plans for Increasing Export Trade.

Close co-operation with the Government to win the war was urged yesterday at the joint convention of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, and the American Cotton Manufacturers' Association at the Biltmore. Next in importance on the convention's program were discussions of labor and foreign trade problems. D. Y. Cooper of Henderson, N. C., former President of the American Cotton Manufacturers' Association, presided at the group discussion, "America's Place in World Trade," following the opening of the morning session by Albert Farwell Bemis, President of the National Association.

"Let us now realize fully that this is your war—my war—our war," Mr. Cooper said. "This is America's war, and the victory must be won by American valor. From professional profiteering and pacificism it is but a short step to disloyalty."

At the afternoon session President Bemis presided at a group discussion on labor problems. Magnus W. Alexander, Managing Director of the National Industrial Conference Board, and consulting engineer of the General Electric Company, was the chief speaker. Mr. Alexander said he was convinced that before long labor would demand participation in the management of the shop as well as its share of profits.

O. P. Austin, statistician of the National City Bank, told the manufacturers that the country expected them to do their full part in capturing the world's markets.

"In the past," Mr. Austin said, "this country, producing 60 per cent. of the world's cotton, has supplied but 5 per cent. of the cotton manufactures entering international trade. To seize and hold your proper share of the world's markets you may find it necessary to reduce the cost of your product by increasing the share which you produce by the use of machinery. To do this you may require increased sums of capital, but to obtain this new capital you have only to send out the S O S signal to a country which has added $60,000,000,000 to its wealth in the last six years."

G. A. O'Reilly, foreign trade representative of the Irving National Bank, spoke on "Credit Facilities for Foreign Trade," and pointed out the way for obtaining financial backing and gave some advice as to how the export trade in cotton goods could be extended.

Today, the final day of the joint convention, will be a busy one with meetings at the Biltmore running from 9:30 A. M. to late evening. Important resolutions will be acted upon, but whether there will be any formal expression by the manufacturers regarding the proposed plan of the Government to fix prices for cotton was thought last night to be doubtful.

The National Textile Exhibition at the Grand Central Palace continued yesterday to draw crowds of interested visitors, who viewed the Fashion Show, the machinery driven at top speed, and other exhibits.

Officers of the National Wool Fibre Association, which has an exhibit at the exposition, said yesterday that if every person in the world was forced to wear wool clothing, fourteen ounces would be all that could be allotted to a human being to make the world's supply go round.

BISHOP HAYES NOMINATED.

Prelate's Jurisdiction at the War Front Announced in Rome.

ROME, May 2.—The Pope has nominated the Right Rev. Patrick J. Hayes, Auxiliary Bishop of New York, as Bishop of the American Army at the front.

The Rev. Joseph P. Dineen, Bishop Hayes's secretary, said last night that the bishop had been appointed last November Bishop Ordinary of all American forces in the field. The Pope's appointment at that time conveyed to Bishop Hayes ecclesiastical jurisdiction over Catholics in the service wherever the American flag was raised.

At the time of his appointment Bishop Hayes appointed Vicar Generals who were to supervise, under his direction, the work of the Catholic chaplains with the army. Mgr. James N. Connolly, formerly Chaplain of the Twelfth New York Infantry, is Vicar General of the American forces in France. He is stationed in Paris.

Bishop Hayes was born in New York in 1867 and received his early education in the parish schools here. He received his academic education in Manhattan College and studied for the priesthood at St. Joseph's Seminary, Troy. He was ordained a priest in 1892 and was appointed Chancellor of the New York Archdiocese and President of Cathedral College in 1903.

In 1907 he was appointed a domestic prelate to Pope Pius X., with the rank of Monsignor. He was named auxiliary bishop of New York May 31, 1914, and was made Titulary Bishop of Tagaste Oct. 28, of the same year.

LIEUT. BAER CITED.

American Flier Commended in the French Official Journal.

PARIS, May 2.—Lieutenant Paul Franak Baer, now of the United States Flying Corps and formerly of the Lafayette Escadrille, was honored by a citation which appeared today in the Official Journal. The citation follows:

"Paul Frank Baer, Lieutenant of the American Lafayette Escadrille, an American pilot engaged in the French Army, has shown himself at once a pilot of the first rank, engaging the enemy in numerous combats, in which he has always put the enemy to flight, and has downed an enemy airplane."

Citations in the Journal always appear some time after the events they chronicle. Hence Lieutenant Baer's later victories are not mentioned.

F. B. STOKES SHOT IN EYE.

Father of Wounded Officer Hears Son Will Not Lose His Sight.

Among the severely wounded reported in yesterday's casualty list from General Pershing is Lieutenant Frederick B. Stokes of this city, who is a son of Frederick A. Stokes, head of the publishing house of Frederick A. Stokes & Co. Mr. Stokes said yesterday that he had been notified that his son has been wounded in one eye, but that he would not lose his sight. Mr. Stokes has two sons in the army in France.

Captain Mervin K. Hart of the law firm of Hart, Stevenson, Walton & Sebior, 20 Nassau Street, has been gassed in France, according to information received in this city yesterday. Captain Hart was reported as recovering from the effects of the gas. Captain Hart is attached to one of General Pershing's first-line fighting units. He is a graduate of the 1917 Plattsburg camp.

The War Department has notified Mrs. Charles W. Cook of Dover, N. J., that her brother, Sergeant Betram D. Chamberlain, one of the veteran noncommissioned officers of the 16th United States Infantry, has been killed in action on the French front. Sergeant Chamberlain enlisted in the army nineteen years ago.

The Story Book Of Science

A book of popular science, about the metals under the earth, the plants and animals on the surface, and the planets in the heavens above, told in story form by the most gifted nature writer the world has known in a century.

Written especially for children from ten to sixteen years, it is a fascinating and accurate account in crystal-clear language for grown-ups with hearts still young.

8vo., 400 pages, illustrated, price $1.79.

THE Banks and Trust Companies of Greater New York have formed an association to make it as easy as possible for YOU to invest in Liberty Bonds on a Partial Payment Plan. Over 500 Banks, Official Liberty Loan Subscription Stations and Booths, are receiving subscriptions. A list of them is printed on this page. Some are near your home; some are near your place of business. You can subscribe at any one of them on the Partial Payment Plan.

For a $50 Bond you pay $2 down and the balance $1 a week. For a $100 Bond you pay $4 down and the balance $2 a week.

When you subscribe you receive a little book containing a blank receipt for each weekly payment, a schedule of dates when payments are due, and a list of over 700 places where payments may be made. When you make a payment at any of these 700 places a receipt for that payment will be stamped in your book. As soon as you have made all the payments your bond will be delivered to you.

You can make your payments in advance of the schedule of dates and receive your bond just so much the sooner. You can subscribe to as many $100 Bonds as you wish and pay for them on this Partial Payment Plan.

The FULL AMOUNT of your subscription will be placed at the service of the Government just as soon as you make the first payment. You are saving money for yourself with every bond you buy. You get the best and safest investment in the world. You shorten the war and save the lives of our soldiers.

You help to protect the business life of the nation—the incomes of the American people. You help all workers—all business enterprises. And you send reinforcements to our boys abroad.

Make your subscription TO-DAY—to all the Bonds you can. Then SAVE—for your own future and the future of YOUR COUNTRY.

Brooklyn Banks, Booths and Stations are printed in Brooklyn Newspapers. A list may also be obtained from Liberty Loan Headquarters, 120 Broadway, New York City.

GERMAN TRIES TO PIN IRON CROSS ON GIRL

RODIGER IS EXAMINED

A number of arrests, among them one woman, were made by agents of the Department of Justice yesterday. One of the men taken into custody is Hans Doneker, who was employed as a waiter at the Hotel Plaza. His arrest followed information furnished the Department of Justice by Miss Rena Logan of 143 West Forty-eighth Street. Miss Logan said that the German had tried to pin an iron cross on her.

After taking Doneker into custody the agents of the Government searched his apartment and obtained evidence which called for the arrest yesterday afternoon of Emil Reiners, who was employed as an auditor at the Hotel Latham. Reiners is a lawyer, who came here from Germany a few years ago. He is said to be a most loyal subject of the Kaiser, and, according to the Federal authorities, is an acquaintance of two German spies who are serving sentences in the penitentiary at Atlanta. Doneker and Reiners were both committed to the Essex County Jail until an investigation now being made as to their past activities is completed.

Doneker is the second waiter arrested within a week. The other was H. Schubert, who is known to have been a friend of Count Bernstorff.

The Federal authorities state that the two German spies whose acquaintance Reiners enjoys are Albert A. Sander and Charles W. Wunnenberg, who were convicted of sending spies to England to get information about shipping for transmission to commanders of German U-boats.

Investigate Rodiger's Activities.

Lieut. Commander Karl Rodiger, who, according to information in the possession of the Government, may prove to be the actual head of the whole German spy system in the United States, was subjected to a long examination by the Federal authorities yesterday. He is held a prisoner in the Tombs on the technical charge of plotting war in this country against England, and until certain investigations now under way are completed, the Federal authorities state that the details of Rodiger's activities in this country since his arrival at New York in December, 1917, will not be made public.

Wilhelm Moser, a German subject resident at Rosedale, L. I., was brought to the Alien Bureau, charged with visiting the army camp near Mineola. He got into camp by representing himself to be an American citizen. He admitted his guilt, and was given ninety days in jail.

The woman arrested is Frau Gertrude Esrich, whose husband is in the German Army. She has been working for a gun manufacturing concern and has been in the United States nineteen years. She is accused of wishing the United States was in hell, and is also said to have denounced purchasers of Liberty bonds. Her reported utterances were so violent that Captain Roger B. Hull, U. S. A., decided to send her to Bellevue to be examined by alienists as to her sanity. She is the fifth woman enemy alien arrested within a week.

August Kasnia, 70 years old, who arrived in this country when she month old, was arrested yesterday for failure to register as an enemy alien, and for visiting barred zones without a pass. Kasnia, who lives in Hoboken, said that until his arrest he never knew that he was a subject of the Kaiser. "I have always been a loyal American, and no person in all this country could be more loyal to the United States than I am," said the old man.

An investigation showed that Kasnia, who makes $70 a month, has pledged $20 of his wages to the purchase of a Liberty bond, and that he had a fight less than a week ago with a German who made slurring remarks about the United States. In the fight Kasnia lost two teeth. The Federal authorities are convinced that he is loyal, and have recommended that the Government take the proper steps to make him a citizen.

Josef Stechlin, a German born in Alsace, was arrested for making insulting remarks about the President and the army. He is held for further investigation, as is also Rudolph Surovy, who claims to be an American citizen of Russian origin.

SINN FEIN MEETING LIKELY TO BE STOPPED

It was thought likely yesterday that the Sinn Fein mass meeting scheduled to take place in Madison Square Garden, tomorrow night, would not be held. The owners of the Garden received hundreds of protests against their hiring the hall for the purpose of a Sinn Fein demonstration, at which two men, neither of them a citizen of the United States, and both under indictment in the criminal branch of the Federal Courts of New York, were among those on the program for speeches.

A representative of the New York Life Insurance Company, which owns the Garden, called on a high Federal official on Wednesday to ask his advice as to whether he considered it proper, at this time when England and the United States were fighting side by side in France, to rent the Garden to persons who were the avowed enemies of England. The representative of the Garden owners was told that the Government could not take action prior to the meeting, as it could not judge the actions of those responsible for it in advance.

The Gaelic American, the Sinn Fein weekly, of which John Devoy is the editor, in its issue yesterday stated that at the Garden meeting "the serious situation now confronting the Irish people will be explained by the most noted Irish speakers in this country including Mrs. H. Sheehy Skaffington, Miss Nora Connolly, the Very Rev. Peter E. Magennis, Patrick McCarton, M. P.; John Devoy, Liam Mellows, Peter Golden, Padraic Colum, Joseph D. Cannon, Edward F. Cassidy, and Joseph McGarrity. Harry Weinberger of this city will also speak."

McCarton and Mellows are under indictment for violating the passport laws of the United States, through efforts on their part to obtain, under false representations, American seaman's passports. John Devoy is the man who furnished the identification at Buffalo for one of the German spies sent to that city before this country entered the war, with instructions to blow up the Welland Canal. He did so at the request of Wolf von Igel, who was chief aide to Von Papen, the second in command of the German plot organization in this country at the time.

Yesterday's issue of The Gaelic American announced that last week's issue of the paper was barred from the mails by order of the Postmaster General.

The paper denounced as false the statement made by a Government official last Saturday that a large German fund had existed in this country to provide financial aid for certain Irish newspapers. The statement was denounced as a shameless falsehood. It might be pointed out that the Government official did not say, nor in any way indicate, that the Gaelic American had received money from German sources. What he did say was that the Government had information that a huge German fund was provided to aid certain unnamed Irish papers which were said to be pro-German.

The trial of Felix Mallitz and Gustave Engler, President and Secretary of the American Correspondence Film Company, who are charged with conspiracy to smuggle rubber goods out of this country into Germany, was continued yesterday in the United States District Court in Brooklyn. A Captain of the United States Army, whose name the authorities do not care to make public, testified that he was employed in Germany by the film company before this country entered the war, and that Mallitz wrote him that he could evade the British blockade by using the boats of the Norwegian-American Line. He asserted that he found in 1915 that Germany was not friendly to this country and he resigned his position and returned home. He then gave whatever information he had to the Government.

BALLOON BLOWS UP; 2 SOLDIERS KILLED

CAUSED BY ELECTRICITY

First Fatalities at the Army Balloon School Since Its Opening Several Months Ago.

OMAHA, Neb., May 2.—Two soldiers were burned to death and eighteen men were burned seriously when a captive observation balloon of the Cacquot type exploded tonight at Florence Field, the army balloon school at Fort Omaha, near here, according to a statement by Colonel H. B. Hersey, Post Commandant. In the fire which followed the explosion one of the balloon sheds was badly damaged. Colonel Hersey's statement follows:

"A serious explosion occurred at Florence Field tonight when one of the observation balloons exploded as it was being stored away for the night. Static electricity, generated by friction of the balloon fabrics, is believed to have caused the explosion.

"Two men are killed, burned so as to unrecognizable, and a roll call in the morning will be necessary before it is possible to establish their identity beyond question. Eighteen men were more or less injured in the blast, and a few quite seriously, but not fatally. The men burned received immediate medical attention by surgeons at the fort hospital."

Tonight's fatalities were the first since the balloon school opened, several months ago.

ROOSEVELT URGES NATION TO HURRY

Wants 5,000,000 Troops in Field —Calls Chamberlain and Wood True Patriots.

BOSTON, Mass., May 2.—No man is a good citizen at this time unless, in some way, he is helping in the war, declared Theodore Roosevelt in a Liberty Loan address here tonight. Decrying "broomstick preparedness" and urging a speeding-up of all activities that will make for the peace of complete victory, the ex-President hailed "men like Senator Chamberlain and General Wood" as "true patriots at this time" because they "have fearlessly told the truth—the truth with every German official knew, but of which our own people had been kept in ignorance.

"During the last few weeks—since the great battle actually began—our Government has partially waked," said Colonel Roosevelt. "There has been a real effort to put competent men at work in at least some of the more important departments or bureaus, a real effort to hurry up the shipbuilding, a real effort to hasten the shipment of troops abroad.

"I say solemnly, unless we hurry the preparation, we may be too late," continued the speaker. He condemned as "absurdly inadequate" and as "child's play" the announcement from Washington of the impending calling of 150,000 more men by draft.

"Make it a million and a half now and announce that we intend to put five million troops in the field," he urged.

Referring to the fine spirit displayed by American soldiers in France, including some of German ancestry, Colonel Roosevelt told of a wounded youth whose cot in the hospital was opposite that of Captain Archie Roosevelt, the Colonel's son. The surgeons found that the apex of the man's heart had been shot away, and told him that if he would recover he must lie eight days without moving. "It is taught to have to wait here all that time when there is so much to be done," was the soldier's comment, and he added whimsically, "I wonder what the Kaiser would say if he knew my name. It is von Holensdorf."

TARRED AND FEATHERED BY KNIGHTS OF LIBERTY

New Organization in California to Stamp Out Disloyalty Finds Three Victims.

SAN JOSE, Cal., May 2.—H. Steinmoitz, an Oakland tailor, was hanged here early today until he became unconscious; then he was tied to a tree, and later was taken away in an automobile by an organization known as the Knights of Liberty.

George Koelzer, who was tarred and feathered last night by members of the organization, was held in jail today for his own protection. Over the telephone today one of the "Knights" said:

"This organization has eighty-two members in San José and vicinity, with branches in San Francisco, Oakland, Stockton, Santa Rosa, Palo Alto, and other places. We are going to stamp out disloyalty. We give a fair and impartial trial, and, if the evidence warrants, we turn the man over to the military or civil authorities."

Koelzer, a brewery worker, who was accused of pro-German actities, told the police that "Knights of Liberty," wearing black coats over their heads, took him from his room, carried him in an automobile five miles into the country last night, where they applied a coat of tar and feathers, and then brought him back to the city and chained him to a brass cannon in a city park, where he was found by the police.

RICHMOND, Cal., May 2.—Guido Poenisch was taken from his home here last night by fifty white-robed persons, rushed to the municipal wharf, where he was "tried" for disloyalty, and then tarred and feathered. He was "found" not to have bought a Liberty bond and to have made disloyal remarks. Poenisch promised he would buy $100 worth of Liberty bonds and would join the Red Cross before his captors released him. He came here about ten years ago from Germany.

American Red Cross Not to Aid Teuton Wounded, It Is Alleged.

THE HAGUE, May 2.—The Weser Zeitung alleges that, according to American papers, Henry P. Davison, Chairman of the American Red Cross War Council, has told representatives of the Red Cross that they are not to give assistance to the German wounded on the western battlefield, but to leave them to their fate.

The Zeitung says that American papers do not fear to publish these "facts," but that John Stoddard, in the German Revue, asks if it is possible that a respectable member of society in any country can defend such a terrible crime and rob sinking humanity of the last atom of kindliness.

OPPOSE NEW POSTAL LAW.

Hear Protests Against Zoning Provisions for Second Class Mail.

Further protests against the application of the new postal zoning provisions for second class mail matter in the war revenue law were made public yesterday. Ex-Attorney General George W. Wickersham said: "There should be no law against limiting intelligence. It is against the public interest. The people are entitled to all the truthful information they can get."

Dr. Charles A Beard called the principle of the provisions "contrary to the principles on which our Government was founded. Jefferson," he said, "promulgated the theory more than a hundred years ago that newspapers and periodicals were essential to the success of our democracy. It is wrong in spirit and wrong in theory to hamper the national development of the country."

Newcomb Carlton, President of the Western Union Telegraph Company, said that the measure should be repealed and a more equitable method of raising revenue substituted. "I regard this contemplated change," he said, "as a serious detriment to the distribution of what must be useful and constructive material."

Sand and Gravel Shipments Not to be for Military Use, Handelsblad Said.

DISCUSS RAILWAY TRAFFIC

Agreement That Soldiers and Munitions Are Not to be Transported on Holland Lines.

By GEORGE RENWICK.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, May 2.—The Handelsblad today says it learns from a reliable quarter that an agreement has been reached between Holland and Germany regarding the sand and gravel question in the sense that without previous control limited quantities shall be passed through this country on the declaration of the German Government that such material shall not be used for military purposes.

Further discussions, the journal adds, have taken place in Berlin between the Dutch Minister and the German Government regarding the traffic on the Limburg Railway. That soldiers and munitions are not to be transported by the line has been agreed to, the difficulties remaining being on points regarding the carrying of foodstuffs for the military forces and the number of trains. On those details it is hoped that an agreement will soon be reached.

THE HAGUE, May 2.—The Weser Zeitung says that, although, as it now appears, German-Dutch relations have been decidedly strained, German official circles seemed to be ignorant of the facts and the public remained in ignorance.

The paper says that it is evident that the difficulties have not been overcome as rapidly as had been expected by the authorities, and that it has been a somewhat rude awakening to learn that there was a "warlike spirit" in Holland.

DUTCH KEEN FOR TRADE.

Urge That East Indian Traffic with United States Be Resumed.

AMSTERDAM, May 2.—Telegrams were dispatched by the Chamber of Commerce of Amsterdam today to the Dutch Ministers of Colonies and Foreign Affairs urgently requesting that shipping traffic between the Dutch East Indies and the United States be resumed immediately. The Minister of Colonies replied that instructions had been cabled on Wednesday to the Governor General of the East Indies to the effect that traffic in the direction of America might now be resumed.

The request of the Chamber of Commerce was made on the ground that the accumulations of colonial products were assuming unmanageable proportions with consequent deterioration, especially in the supplies of tobacco, tea, and rubber, while the difficulties of financing and insuring the cargoes, it was added, were becoming well nigh insuperable.

"I purpose to fight it out on this line if it takes all summer"

THAT was the American way then; it is the American way now.

¶ We have entered this great war with a clearly defined purpose, and have made that purpose known to all the world. We "will fight it out on this line" if it takes a dozen summers. UP-STATE MEN URGE SMITH FOR GOVERNOR

START BOOM FOR WALKER

Binghamton's Mayor is Proposed for Lieutenant Governor—Tammany's Leader Remains Noncommittal.

Up-State Democratic leaders are seriously considering the advisability of selecting Alfred E. Smith, President of the Board of Aldermen, as the candidate for Governor this Fall. This became known yesterday when Joseph J. Murphy, Democratic leader of Troy, and William M. Farley, Democratic leader of Binghamton, had a conference with Tammany Leader Charles F. Murphy, and also with Mr. Smith. Both Joseph Murphy and Mr. Farley are members of the Executive Committee appointed at the Syracuse conference of Democrats to canvass the political situation in the State.

The conference with Leader Murphy yesterday took place at Delmonico's. The two up-State leaders told Mr. Murphy, it was said, that they had found considerable sentiment in various parts of the State favorable to the nomination of Mr. Smith, and they wanted to know what the Tammany leader thought of the plan. Mr. Murphy, it was said, listened attentively to all the up-State men had to say, but he did not commit himself. It was said that he told his visitors that personally he would like to see Mr. Smith nominated, but that he was willing to leave the whole matter to the judgment of the up-State leaders.

Leader Murphy's attitude was described as being that of a man strictly "on the fence." It is known that William R. Hearst, whose agents are actively working throughout the State to bring about his nomination, would be uncompromisingly opposed to Mr. Smith's selection, even if he, Hearst, would not run himself. It was Mr. Hearst's opposition to Mr. Smith that influenced Mr. Murphy to reject the latter for the Mayoralty nomination last Fall in favor of Judge Hylan. That Mr. Hearst would oppose Mr. Smith for the Gubernatorial nomination just as vigorously, is thoroughly believed in Tammany Hall. Whether or not Mr. Hearst's attitude would influence Mr. Murphy as it did last year is what the up-State Democrats as well as Mr. Smith's friends in the city would like to know.

It is understood that several of the up-State leaders have become convinced that President Smith would be the strongest candidate the Democrats could name and the only one who could effectively campaign against Governor Whitman. Backed by the Smith sentiment they found existing all through the State, the Troy Democratic leader and the Binghampton leader decided to have a personal conference with Charles F. Murphy and find out just how the organization here would view his selection. Mr. Murphy's approval, it was said, would settle it in their minds that Smith would be the unanimous choice of the Democrats all over the State, and therefore it would be unnecessary to look further for a candidate.

Smith and Walker Proposed.

Mr. Farley put the proposal directly to Leader Murphy that the Democrats should nominate Mr. Smith for Governor and Harry C. Walker, Mayor of Binghamton, for Lieutenant Governor. Mr. Walker, although a young man, is popular in certain parts of the State and a good-sized Gubernatorial boom has already been launched for him. Previous to the Syracuse conference he was frequently mentioned as a Gubernatorial timber. Mr. Walker is Grand Commander of the Knights Templar of New York State, and as a running mate with Mr. Smith, Mr. Farley believes that the Democrats would have a ticket that the Republicans would have difficulty in beating.

After their conference with Mr. Smith the two up-State men said that Mr. Smith would not commit himself regarding whether or not he would run. He told them, they said, to go ahead with their canvass of the State and find out what kind of candidate the people wanted. They said they told Mr. Smith that they had found a great deal of sentiment in all parts of the State for his nomination, and that if he would consent to run they thought the party would win with him. Both men obtained the impression that if the demand for him was wide enough Mr. Smith would enter the race.

"All I care to say," said President Smith after the conference, "is that Mr. Murphy and Mr. Farley called upon me to find out just what had been done in regard to the enrollment of women on May 27 under the election law. About my being a candidate for the Gubernatorial nomination I have nothing to say whatever."

Popular in Tammany Hall.

If the question of Mr. Smith's selection is left with the rank and file of Tammany Hall or the district leaders, there is little doubt what the answer will be. The Aldermanic President is said to be the most popular member of the organization, and there was deep resentment when he was rejected for the Mayoralty nomination last year. With a united Tammany behind Smith and a demand for his nomination from up-State, it was said yesterday by local leaders that nothing could prevent his selection at the Saratoga unofficial convention this Summer.

"If Al Smith is the choice of the Democrats at Saratoga, it will make no difference who runs against him in the primaries," said a Tammany leader last night. "We would like nothing better than to have Mr. Hearst oppose him. Hearst has no friends in Tammany Hall, and judging from reports from up-State he has no followers there either. Of course, if Smith is nominated, Hearst may run against him as an independent candidate, but we will take care of that down here. Smith is the only man in sight to beat Whitman. If Hearst is nominated, 50 per cent. of the Democrats in Tammany Hall will vote against him, and fully that number up-State will vote for anybody else."

Republicans to Open Headquarters.

The Republican National Committee will move into its New York City headquarters in the Knox Building at Fortieth Street and Fifth Avenue next week. Will Hays, the new Chairman, will come here today to arrange for the opening and practically the beginning of the Congressional campaign in the East. Mr. Hays will remain in the city only a day or two, but it was said that he will spend much of his time here when the campaign gets under way. The committee's Washington headquarters will be in charge of James B. Reynolds, Secretary of the committee.

FIND BODY OF WOMAN BURIED BY SCHMIDT

HID UNDER A CEMENT FLOOR

Police Believe It Is That of Irma Pallatinus—Two Other Women Say Schmidt Married Them.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, May 2.—The mummified body of a woman was found today under the cement floor of a house in this city which was occupied for more than a year by Helmuth Schmidt, the confessed slayer of Augusta Steinbach, a New York domestic. Schmidt committed suicide in jail here after his arrest.

The body was bound in canvas and is believed to be that of Irma Pallatinus, who lived in the Schmidt home for several weeks and who disappeared as mysteriously as Schmidt's other wives. Schmidt's present wife and daughter insist that he never married Miss Pallatinus, but her sister, Mrs. Edward Rederer, is positive that a wedding ceremony was performed in New York City.

The discovery of the body came just as the laborers of the Department of Public Works, who had been working under the guidance of detectives for nearly a week, were about to quit work. Cement experts had said the floor of the cellar had not been disturbed since it had been laid. It was decided to investigate a rough spot and then abandon the task. It was here that one of the laborers threw aside a shovel of sand and revealed part of the body. When unearthed the corpse resembled an Egyptian mummy.

Dr. Kenneth Dick of the county physician's office made a hurried examination. No indentation or marks of violence were found. The body was taken to the County Morgue.

The disappearance of Miss Pallatinus caused much talk in the neighborhood, and when questioned about the matter, Schmidt said she died in a hospital. His daughter Gertrude, in her statements, said "that her father told her that Miss Pallatinus had run away with $700 of his money. He told the same story to the girl's sister.

The police believe that Schmidt engaged in the business of luring women through matrimonial ads, obtained their savings and then killed them. They assert that he moved from the house in this city to a new home near Royal Oak in order to have more space to dispose of the bodies of his victims.

Mrs. Helen Tietz-Schmidt, formerly a New York milliner, and Schmidt's latest wife, who is held as being an accessory in the slaying of Augusta Steinbach at Royal Oak, fainted when told that the body of Irma Pallatinus had been found.

Two more women were victimized by Schmidt, it developed today. Mrs. Helmuth Schmidt of Chicago asserts that she married him in that city in 1915. He disappeared in a few days with $2,000 of her money.

Marian G. Lewis, a New York attorney, whose client asserts that Schmidt married her as John Swift, says that another woman in Paterson, N. J., was robbed of $400 by Schmidt in 1914, after he had lived with her a month.

Dr. W. A. Ewing Left $100,000.

The will of Dr. William Alexander Ewing, who died on April 21 at 134 West Fifty-eighth Street, disposes of an estate of more than $100,000, and gives to his daughter, Mrs. Marion Ewing McCollom, $1,000 "for each child she brings into the world." Dr. Ewing also gave his daughter $10,000 outright and $1,000 each to Harold and Malcolm McCollom, grandsons. Alexander Ewing McCollom, grandson, got $5,000, and Harold C. McCollom, son-in-law, received $1,000. The residuary estate went to the widow, Mrs. Maud Mills Ewing.

Students Open Campaign for Fund to Meet Current Expenses.

More than five hundred undergraduates of New York University, including members of all of the nine schools of the institution, yesterday began a campaign to raise $150,000 among themselves for the university. The students' drive for the fun marks the opening of a general campaign plan among both undergraduates and alumni, in the course of which $600,000 will be sought. More than $10,000 was raised yesterday. The fund will be used to meet the current operating expenses of the university for the scholastic years of 1917-18 and 1918-19, and $150,000 of the amount will be devoted to the equipment of a new engineering and physics building at University Heights.

What Shall We Tell Berlin?

Did you see that dispatch from Berlin saying that the eighth German war loan amounted to 14,776,000,000 marks—with the soldiers' subscriptions still outstanding? That means $3,516,688,000—or more than 500 million above our goal on our third loan. If the Germans can do that on their eighth, what are we going to do on our third? What are you going to do before the end of this week?

how PYRENE puts CASH in YOUR Pocket

Pyrene KILLS FIRE SAVES LIFE

$1 to $10 is Yours the Moment You Equip Your Car with this Extinguisher

PYRENE makes money for you the day you buy it. The moment Pyrene goes on your car you are entitled to $1 to $10—a gift from the fire insurance companies.

If your car now carries Pyrene, $1 to $10 is due you. Ask for it. (Consult list printed here for exact amount.)

If you buy a Pyrene at the time you buy fire insurance, $1 to $10 is due and will be instantly paid in the form of a rebate on your annual premiums. Ask for it.

Each succeeding year your car carries a Pyrene extinguisher, additional money is due you. 15% reduction per year on fire premiums is now granted by all insurance companies on all Pyrene equipped cars.

Why this benevolence on the part of the insurance companies? Answer: the insurers know that with Pyrene on your car there's slim chance of a fire.

Seldom a dangerous blaze; seldom an injury; seldom a life lost with Pyrene on the job.

How Much a PYRENE Will Save You On Your 1918 Car

15% reduction on fire insurance for all cars equipped with Pyrene! Note how much actual cash you save on your car each year. These savings for 1918 models are based on the rates promulgated by the Eastern and New England conferences. Rates in the Central and Far West are slightly lower, so the saving there will be correspondingly less.

BLUE DEVILS YAWN WHILE YANKS LOSE

Chasseurs and Chauffeurs Start Peanut Battle During Game at the Polo Grounds.

LITTLE BASEBALL IS SEEN

French Fighters Leave Contest Unconvinced About Greatness of American Sport.

The Blue Devils of France got their first peek of baseball up at the Polo Grounds. They also got their first taste of peanuts, which was far more of an event in their young lives than the ball game. To these Tam o' Shantered zouaves and chasseurs, the limpid, wobbly altercation between the Yanks and the Athletics was about as exciting as a quilting party. The Yanks were beaten, 7 to 5, which was nothing unusual.

The French soldiers, 100 of them, marched across the field early in the game, their long bayonets gleaming in the afternoon sun. With them were the young women auto drivers of the National League for Women's Service, and they all sat in the field boxes back of third base, a locality occupied almost exclusively by inhabitants of the Bronx. While the Bronx folks did not understand the chatter of the Frenchmen, the Bronx dialect was Greek to the Frenchmen, even those who understood a little English.

The chasseurs were restless and uneasy until Del Pratt hammered a foul liner over among the soldiers at about a mile a minute, and then they felt more at home. After that they enjoyed the afternoon, for they started a little peanut tossing battle with the fair chauffeurs. A pretty chauffeur tossed a peanut to a gallant chasseur and hit him on the nose. Smiling, he tossed a peanut back and hit the chauffeur on her fair pink cheek. Thereafter, the peanut fight waxed warm between chauffeurs and chasseurs.

Harry Stevens's peanut boys did a land office business. Between munching the peanuts and throwing them, the Blue Devils found a way to avoid watching all the loose playing of the Yanks and Mackmen.

Soldiers Gain the Applause.

Everybody cheered the Frenchmen and cheered the Tricolor and gave lusty hurrahs for Sergeant McNiff of the old 69th. The fighting men got a hearty reception and in the midst of it Ping Bodie almost lifted his cap in acknowledgment. Ping hadn't made a circus catch or a home run, so at first he couldn't understand what all the noise was about.

It is too bad the Frenchmen will not be able to witness some other games, because if they go back to France and tell about the one yesterday the internationalization of the national diversion may not materialize. The Athletics' bats ripped the pitching of Mogridge and Russell to pieces and Mogridge went out in the seventh with the score tied, while Russell came in and lost it.

When the seventh inning came the Frenchmen got up and took the customary stretch, which shows that the two features of the game which first appeal to strangers are the peanuts and seventh inning yawn. The yawns of the seventh inning were saved up from several innings previous.

The Athletics used up three pitchers, Scott Perry going well for three innings, until he was yanked out for a pinch hitter. Then came Adams, another of Connie Mack's strangers, who was fine until the ninth, when the Yanks threatened to pull a rally. The Blue Devils were on their way down town when this happened, but how did they know that one would have to wait until far into the twilight before anything exciting happened?

The taciturn Mr. Mack has won so few ball games this season that when he saw Adams slipping he rushed another stranger, Geary, into the game, and this lad dampened the Yankee ambitions.

Walker Pleases Visitors.

One of the most interesting moments for the Blue Devils was when Tilly Walker of the Mackmen jogtied a home run into the left field bleachers. One of the chasseurs asked why Walker was running around the field so fast when no one was chasing him.

The Frenchmen also asked several other questions about the game, questions which even Manager Miller Huggins cannot answer. One was why Ping Bodie, when he throws the ball from left field to the plate, sends it to the catcher along the lawn. That's a secret with Ping. He won't let anyone know why he does it. When a French soldier asked why Adams, the Athletic pitcher, walked so many Yankees to first, a Bronx fan volunteered the opinion that it was because he was blind.

Twice the Yanks had the lead, and each time the pitching cracked so badly that the Athletics tied the score. This was too bad, because the chasseurs went away with the idea that all that each pitcher has to do is to be in the game for two innings. They thought it rather unfair to make some of the players work nine.

The Athletics won in the ninth when the mathematics was closely entwined at 5 to 4. Walker, the first Macklan hitter up, beat out a bunt, and Russell gave Burns a life by hitting him where it tickled. Larry Gardner got a pass and filled the bases. Shannon lifted a fly to Bodie and Walker scored. Then Dugan spanked a single to right and pushed Burns and Gardner over, which clinched the victory.

ST. LOUIS, May 2.—St. Louis outhit Cleveland today, but the latter team had better success in bunching hits, and won 3 to 2. Joe Wood, playing in the outfield for Cleveland, took a leading part for the visitors. In the seventh inning, with the score tied, he doubled, was sacrificed to third, and scored on a single by Bagby.

TIGERS COME FROM BEHIND.

White Sox Gain Early Lead, but Are Forced to Defeat, 9 to 6.

DETROIT, May 2.—After Chicago had piled up a four-run lead and driven Pitcher James from the box with none out in the first inning, Detroit, with a recruit pitcher in the box, bunched hits off Faber and Danforth and won the opening game of the series, 9 to 6, here this afternoon.

Kallio, although wild, was effective in the pinches, and received good support, particularly from Vitt at third base. Fifteen bases on balls figured in the game.

SENATORS' ERRORS FATAL.

Five Blunders Aid Red Sox to Take Final Game, 8 to 1.

BOSTON, May 2.—Boston took the odd game of the series from Washington 8 to 1 today. Shaw and Dumont were hit hard and the visitors made five errors.

Hooper made three doubles and McInnis singled three times in as many times at bat, also keeping his season's fielding record clean. Lavan fielded well and made three of the five hits Washington got off Leonard.

PERRITT APPLIES WHITEWASH BRUSH

Shuts Out Phillies, 6 to 0, Giants Getting Twelfth Victory in Thirteen Starts.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 2.—Pol Perritt wielded the whitewash brush with amazing precision this afternoon and the Giants romped away with the final game of the series with the Phillies, 6 to 0. This made the third shutout in a row for a Giant pitcher, and the Giants' twelfth victory in thirteen starts.

Perritt was the master of Pat Moran's men at every stage of today's contest. The Phillies gathered only four hits off his delivery, and the four were so well distributed over the nine innings of play that the Phillies had only one chance to score. That came in the sixth inning and was dispelled by Arthur Fletcher's catch of a line drive by McGaffigan and an ensuing double play.

On the other hand, the Giants combed the offerings of Miles Main and Bradley Hogg for nine bingles. Six of their nine hits and all of their six runs were pried loose from Main's slants.

The Giants delayed their initial attack until the third inning, when a pass inadvertently issued by Main to Ross Young started the league leaders on their way. There were two out at the time and the situation didn't look particularly acute, but Benny Kauff changed the outlook for Mr. Main by pasting a resounding double to right that scored Young.

That Kauff's blow marked only the beginning of Main's trouble became evident in the fourth inning, in which frame the Giants made only one run but threatened to knock Main out of the box, a threat which they made good in the fifth inning.

Zimmerman was first at bat in the fourth and he promptly singled to left, advancing to the middle station when Doyle followed with a blow to the same territory. Fletcher essayed a sacrifice, but the ball rolled so slowly down the third base line that the Giant captain reached first base a step ahead of Milton Stock's throw, and the sacks were loaded.

Holke hit the first ball pitched to him squarely, but his drive went straight at Bancroft, and Banny, scooping the ball out of the dust, whipped it home in time to force Zim. McCarty's sacrifice fly to Whitted caused Doyle to jog home, and Perritt closed the chapter with a fly to Whitted.

No time was lost by the Giants in getting under way in the fifth, though they were aided and abetted by Main himself. The elongated pitcher passed Young and hit Kauff with a fast one, and Burns got to first on a torrid smash that glanced off Main's gloved hand. Zimmerman lifted a sacrifice fly to Whitted, scoring Young, after which Larry Doyle sewed up the pastime by crashing the ball over the right field wall for a home run, scoring Kauff and Burns ahead of him.

Moran then called in Hogg to take the place of Main, who was by this time a bit bewildered, and Hogg made good as a relief hurler by holding the Giants at bay for the remainder of the game.

Meanwhile Perritt had gone serenely along, making the Phillies pop up or ground out with ridiculous ease. Pol's control was excellent and he did not issue a single pass. Only in one frame did he allow two runners to get on the sacks.

That was in the sixth, when, with one out, Hogg doubled to left and Bancroft singled to right, putting the pitcher on third. Fletcher killed the Phillies' rally a moment later by grabbing McGaffigan's liner and then pegging to Holke, doubling Bancroft off first.

Manager McGraw announced today that he had released Pitcher George Smith, who came to the Giants from Columbia University in 1916, to Cincinnati.

CUBS HOLD A BATTING BEE.

Overcome Five-Run Lead and Pile Up Score of 12 to 8 Against Reds.

CHICAGO, May 2.—Chicago overcame a five-run lead today, and in a batting bee defeated Cincinnati in the first game of the series here, 12 to 8.

The visitors hit Walker hard in the second inning, and he was replaced by Carter, who, although hit hard, managed to hold down the score.

McQUADE ALLOWS ONE HIT.

Fordham Pitcher Completely Baffles West Virginia Nine.

With Jim McQuade pitching almost hitless ball and the Maroon batters working in unison, Fordham scored a well-earned victory over the formidable West Virginia nine on Fordham Field yesterday afternoon by a score of 3 to 0. The veteran McQuade allowed the Mountaineers only one hit, a single by Rodgers, that just escaped the gloved hand of Dwyer, the Fordham shortstop. Rodgers, who is Captain-elect of the football team and a good infielder, played a fine game.

Only one of the visitors reached second base when Dorsey got there in the final inning on an error.

Fordham tallied in the first two innings. Keough walked, stole second, went to third on Shankey's out, and scored on Scanlon's grounder to Rodgers. In the second inning Abbott tripled and came home on Galligan's three-base hit over the centre fielder's head. Galligan scored when Latterner uncorked a wild pitch.

RAGAN LOSES CHARM IN SECOND ATTEMPT

Brooklyn toddled along to its third victory of the season yesterday when the Boston Braves were sorely battered by the hearty wallops which greeted the curves of the veteran Pat Ragan. It was this same Ragan who played conjurer with the Brooklyn team the day before, but yesterday the cunning had departed from his slants and they were sent rollicking to all parts of the lot, Brooklyn winning the fray by a score of 7 to 4.

Brooklyn opened the session with a pair of runs in the first inning. A pass to Olson started hostilities. He was sacrificed by O'Mara and scored on Daubert's single to centre. Daubert continued to third when Powell let the ball roll between his legs, and scored on Myers's sacrifice fly.

Two more runs came in the fourth. Johnston was safe on Rawling's error, and went to second after Henry had caught Hickman's foul fly. Schmandt, who carried off the batting laurels for Brooklyn, tripled to the scoreboard, and Johnston scored. When Krueger singled Schmandt galloped over the plate. In the sixth, with one down, Hickman breezed one past Herzog and scored on Schmandt's double over third, and the latter went to third on Ragan's wild pitch. Krueger hit to Smith and he, with Henry, tried to run down Schmandt. Smith made two wild heaves during the course of this proceeding, and on the last one Schmandt slipped by with the run. The final Brooklyn run was made in the seventh, singles by O'Mara, Myers, and Johnston accomplishing the result.

Boston made a tally in the fourth on a pass to Powell and a two-bagger by Red Smith that was almost nipped by O'Mara. In the eighth, Rawlings opened up with a single to left and Conway hit to Cheney, who threw badly to get Rawlings, and both men were safe. Kelly, batting for Ragan, drew a pass and filled the bases. Massey's infield out scored Rawlings and put Conway on third and Kelly on second. When Herzog singled over short both men came home.

MAMAUX LEAVES BROOKLYN

Pitcher Quits Team to Enter Munition Factory.

Al Mamaux, who joined the Brooklyn baseball team at the start of the season, coming to the Dodgers from Pittsburgh, in trade for Casey Stengel and George Cutshaw, quietly withdrew from the Brooklyn camp some time during Tuesday night. The fact was discovered yesterday when the pitcher did not report at the baseball park.

'Squire Ebbets said yesterday that Mamaux had announced about a week ago that he was going to enter a munition factory. He argued with Mamaux at that time, trying to induce him to await his call in the draft, Mr. Ebbets said, and thought he had convinced the pitcher that it would be better to carry out his contract with the Brooklyn Club for the present. Mamaux will be placed on the "voluntary retired" list of the Brooklyn Club.

Ebbets has sent a protest to President Tener of the National League against players entering munition plants instead of awaiting their call for the draft, but has received no reply at present. The matter may be taken up with the authorities in Washington.

FOOTBALL FOR BIG THREE.

Yale, Harvard, and Princeton to Arrange Schedule of Games.

Representatives of Harvard, Yale, and Princeton will meet in this city tonight to arrange a football schedule for next Fall. There was no competition between them last Fall, but it has been decided to have 'Varsity football as an incentive to attract the men into the game. The informal elevens of last Fall received no support among the students.

Yankee Outfielder Drafted.

Sam Vick, one of the Yankees' young outfielders, has left the club in response to a draft call from his home in Batesville, Miss. Vick showed great promise as a hitter on the Southern training trip.

Barton Leads Taberski.

George Barton defeated Frank Taberski in the second night's play of the 300-point handicap match being played at John Doyle's Academy. Barton won by 52 to 73. Barton playing 50 against his opponent's 100. The total score is now: Barton, 100; Taberski, 173.

Cathedral Beats Columbia Nine.

Cathedral College took an eight-inning practice game from the Columbia nine yesterday afternoon on South Field. The score was 5 to 4. Herdegan proved a puzzle for the Light Blue and White hitters until the eighth inning, when three singles, with a base on balls, enabled Columbia to come within one of tying the score.

CRANK'S RUSH DOWN STRETCH WINS RACE

PIMLICO, Md., May 2.—Clear skies and a good track caused considerable improvement in the racing on the second day of the Maryland Jockey Club meeting and good fields turned out for all the events except the claiming handicap.

The Govans Handicap served to introduce a greatly improved horse in Samuel Ross's Crank, which was making his first start of the season. Buxton had the mount on the son of Celt, but even this crack rider failed to keep Crank out of trouble. He was pinched off in the early running, while E. F. Whitney's Currency was making the pace and was knocked back into next to last place. Turning into the stretch Buxton saved ground, but again was pocketed and had to swing outside of the contenders. Crank finished with a determined rush when he got plain sailing and just got up in time to beat Peerless by a neck.

The summaries:

Our morning talks are so informal that we feel we may with propriety tell of an actual experience that brought us the news of the ramming of the ill-fated "City of Athens" before it appeared in the newspapers.

Late on Wednesday a survivor of that tragedy 'phoned asking if we would hold the store open for fifteen or twenty minutes so he could get into some dry clothes. Said he'd been in the water for over an hour.

Of course we gladly complied, holding men in our Clothing, Furnishings, Hat and Shoe Departments, so that he was completely reoutfitted in a few minutes after he arrived.

QUALIFYING ROUND IS WON BY GREEN

RISLEY MAKES TWO SLIPS

Favorite Loses Chance for Medal by Needing Seven Strokes at Twelfth Hole.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 2.—Although nearly a hundred golfers started in the eighteen-hole qualifying round of the Spring tournament at the Country Club of Atlantic City today, only one contestant, F. W. Green of Aronimink, succeeded in getting around under 80. He placed a 79 to his credit, thanks to a 38 on the last nine.

It had been expected that Maurice Risley, who won this tournament a year ago, would account for the qualifying medal, but he allowed whatever chances he had to slip away on two holes of the inward journey. He had gone out in 42, but a 5 at the short twelfth, where he overdrove the green, was supplemented a little later with a 7 at the long twelfth. After that Risley had to be content with an 83.

Frank Barton, the Marine and Field Club player, who won the Lakewood event last week, had a tale of woe because of a broken driver. This club went to smash with only two holes left to play and just when its owner had visions of coming back in 89. With the breaking of the club Barton's confidence disappeared, and everything went wrong, the last two holes costing him 7 each.

Another metropolitan golfer to get an 83 was P. A. Proal, the Deal man who lost to Barton in an extra hole final at Lakewood last week. Roy Barnhill, for years a committeeman at Fox Hills, took 93, and so did Walter Shoup of Baltusrol.

First Sixteen.—F. W. Knight, Aronimink, 41, 84—79; Maurice Risley, Atlantic City, 42, 41—83; F. J. Higgins, Trenton, 43, 41—84; J. W. Platt, North Hills, 43, 43—86; R. W. Smith, Greensburg, 44, 42—86; J. H. Lippincott, Atlantic City, 44, 44—88; Frank Barton, Marine and Field, 44, 44—88; Robert Wilson, Denver, 45, 43—88; Pierre A. Proal, Deal, 44, 44—88; C. M. Hicks, Philadelphia Country, 45, 44—89; C. N. Phillips, Atlantic City, 45, 44—89; W. J. Platt, North Hills, 45, 46—91; H. B. Newton, Frankford, 46, 45—91; William Wallace, New York, 45, 47—92; W. Roy Barnhill, Fox Hills, 46, 47—93; W. C. Shoup, Baltusrol, 46, 47—93.

Second Sixteen.—W. H. Edwards, Lansdowne, 45, 48—93; H. W. Wood, Cobbs Creek, 46, 47—93; W. P. Cleveland, Aronimink, 44, 47—93; R. L. Mishler, Lansdowne, 48, 46—94; F. S. Bicking, St. David's, 50, 44—94; W. L. Allen, Huntingdon Valley, 52, 43—94; B. I. Taylor, North Hills, 50, 44—94; W. J. McFarland, Galen Hall, 48, 46—94; J. S. Christy, Stanton Heights, 51, 44—95; N. J. McLeod, Lake View, 48, 43—95; H. J. Gormley, Atlantic City, 48, 48—96; H. R. Calef, Druid Hills, 47, 49—96; Samuel Allison, Midland, 51, 45—96; George Stattsell, Aronimink, 50, 46—96; Henry McSweeney, Atlantic City, 47, 49—96; B. D. Ticknor, Palm Beach, 50, 46—96.

Third Sixteen.—G. L. Wilson, Atlantic City, 50, 46—96; W. M. Nemond, Washington, 50, 47—97; C. L. Fistcher, Atlantic City, 48, 49—97; T. W. Cartar, Jr., St. Louis, 52, 45—97; W. P. Wood, C. C. of Virginia, 49, 48—97; C. B. Hollingsworth, Greensburg, 46, 52—98; Benjamin Holt, Atlantic City, 53, 46—99; T. Frank Devlin, Bucks County, 50, 49—99; H. W. Allen, Atlantic City, 52, 47—99; E. M. Mehl, Baltusrol, 54, 47—101; A. D. Stadler, Atlantic City, 49, 52—101.

COLUMBIA LOSES TITLES.

Teams Which Finished First in Relay Race Disqualified by A. A. U.

Columbia University's two relay teams, which finished first and second in the national medley relay championship race at the 13th Regiment Armory, Brooklyn, last week, were disqualified and ordered to return the prizes awarded to them, at the special meeting of the Metropolitan Association A. A. U. Registration Committee last night. The meeting was attended by four of the committee members, including Fred Niles, Chairman; Martin Klein, Bohemian Gymnastic Association; Edward Carr, Central Y. M. C. A., Brooklyn, and J. McInerney, St. Anselm's Athletic Club. The vote on the disqualification of the Blue and White teams was unanimous.

The action involved the amateur status of Whettles of the winning Blue and White team and Al Hulsenbeck of the second team. Wettles, it was shown, was registered as a member of the University Settlement Athletic Club, and was, therefore, ineligible to represent Columbia without having his affiliation transferred. Hulsenbeck was shown by the records of the local association to have competed on an expired registration card. In the cases of both athletes the committee was lenient, merely ordering the return of the championship medals and depriving the Columbia runners of their title.

When the prizes are returned the Jersey Harriers Athletic Association will be awarded first place, the Paulist Athletic Club second, and the Brooklyn Athletic Association third. Nelson T. Metcalf, coach, and Hubert O. Larson, manager of the Columbia track team, appeared with Whettles before the committee and requested that action be delayed because of a technicality. The committee, however, ignored the request. Hulsenbeck failed to appear. At the meeting Whettles transferred his registration.

The charges of professionalism against three wrestlers of the local district, which grew out of the recent Metropolitan Association championship tournament at the Crescent Athletic Club of Brooklyn, were dismissed.

CREWS HAVE TRIAL SPINS.

Columbia, Penn, and Princeton Tune Up for Race.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 2.—The Columbia and Penn eights arrived here this afternoon for the final tuning up trips before the Childs Cup race on Lake Carnegie Saturday. The visiting crews brought their own shells.

Coach Jim Rice's New York aggregation showed up well in their trial today, rowing with nearly perfect blade work. Both the Penn Varsity and Freshman crews took a spin around the lake late this afternoon. The Penn Varsity boat got off without mishap.

Coach Fitzpatrick gave the Tiger eight a light workout. Duncan, who has rowed at five on the Princeton crew all this season, may be out of Saturday's regatta on account of an injured knee.

TENNIS WOMEN ORGANIZE.

Players Plan Matches for War Relief Purposes.

The National Tennis Women's War Relief Association held its first meeting in the Assembly Room of the Merchants' Association yesterday afternoon. It is proposed to hold tennis tournaments in all parts of the country for the purpose of raising funds for the organization. Every cent of the money so collected will be used for war relief purposes. The expenses will be paid by individuals or by clubs.

Mrs. Lindley Z. Murray presided and was elected the first President. She introduced Julian S. Myrick, Vice President of the United States National Lawn Tennis Association, who assured the women of the hearty support of his organization.

The officers elected, in addition to Mrs. Murray, were: Miss Bessie Holden, First Vice President; Mrs. David S. Mills, Second Vice President; Miss Edith H. White, Third Vice President; Mrs. W. H. Pritchard, Fourth Vice President; Miss Marie Wagner, Secretary; Miss Edith H. White, Financial Secretary, and Miss Elizabeth H. Moore, Treasurer.

Runners in Dead Heat.

In a road run held in conjunction with a Liberty Loan parade in Brooklyn last night Louis Kaufman and Andy Craw, both of the Brooklyn A. A., ran a dead heat for first position. Their time was 5:02. J. Lorenz was third. Twenty-six started.

WANT AIRCRAFT CHARGES SIFTED

Department of Justice had started an investigation, or was about to start one, into the Borglum charges, but said he had no definite information about it.

Senate Wants Charges Sifted.

That the Senate was eager to have the charges sifted to the bottom was evident from the temper of the members throughout the day. In bringing the matter up, Senator Brandegee said:

"The other day I presented to the Senate a communication written by Gutzon Borglum to THE NEW YORK TIMES. It was stated on the floor on the other side of the chamber at that time that there were intimations that Mr. Borglum had some financial interest connected in some way with airplanes. I did not know anything about that and hence could not say anything about it. I have received from Mr. Borglum a telegram which I think, in justice to him, ought to be read, giving his statement about whether he is interested or not financially."

The telegram from Mr. Borglum was read, as follows:

Stamford, Conn., April 30.
Senator Brandegee, Washington, D. C.:

Please deny absolutely that I had or have interest in any airplane company or monetary benefits by result of inquiry. That lie and others invented by interests who most dread investigation, and since middle of January have used every means to invalidate and interfere even with Senate inquiry. I also deny that I have discussed other than general evidence with anybody, nor will I, except before a judicial non-partisan body. My letter to TIMES written solely to protest against aeromobile interests blaming Squier for everything. Aeronautic production is still in the clutches of this ring, and no headway will be made by Mr. Ryan or any one else until that is broken up. Tell Senator Thomas that the only reason my inquiry hurts anybody is that it is expert. My inquiry was finished Feb. 1. GUTZON BORGLUM.

Senator Brandegee spoke of the report of the Investigating Committee of the Aeronautical Society of America, published in THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday, in which inefficiency in the airplane program was alleged. Senator Brandegee had this report as published in THE TIMES, read into the record.

"I talked with Mr. Borglum this morning," Mr. Brandegee went on. "I think he is perfectly reasonable in his view about this matter. I know there are certain gentlemen who have heard tales that he is engaged in some improper financial operations—and some people say he is crazy. I will take my chances on that. His sanity could be readily established, if it is questioned. Such charges as these ought not go drifting about this country in responsible newspapers day after day."

Times Editorials Read Into Record.

Senator Brandegee here had THE NEW YORK TIMES editorial of yesterday, captioned "Who Is Guilty?" and that of today, with its caption, "A Federal Grand Jury for the Airplane Inquiry," read into the record. He alluded to the suggestion in the editorial of today that investigation on the failure in aircraft production ought to be undertaken by a Federal Grand Jury and at the instance of Secretary Baker.

"It will not be undertaken at the instance of the Secretary of War, of course," commented Mr. Brandegee.

"I think it is a matter to be undertaken by the Committee on Military Affairs of the Senate. Mr. Borglum is perfectly willing to give all his information to the committee, and so stated this morning. He has not declined to furnish the names of witnesses to the committee, except he does not want to furnish them in advance, so that the evidence that these gentlemen would be compelled to bring with them would be destroyed before it could be of use to the committee.

"A good deal of evidence has already been destroyed, Mr. Borglum says, and I am sure he has information of which the committee ought to avail itself."

Senator Hitchcock remarked that he "thought this matter was disposed of a day or so ago," when he "attempted to set forth the attitude of the Military Affairs Committee."

"I am frank to say," he went on, "that for weeks the committee was misinformed and misled by the members of the Aircraft Board and of the Signal Corps who appeared before the committee. Finally, however, the committee ascertained the truth, and told the truth to the Senate in a report, which was disagreed to by six members of the committee, but which is vouched for by nine members of the committee."

Senator Wadsworth of New York interrupted to suggest that the six members who refused to sign the majority report did not quarrel with the accuracy of the statements set forth in it.

Summarizes Conditions Found.

"None whatever," replied Senator Hitchcock. "But they objected to having the report made public at that time. Nevertheless the nine members took the responsibility of telling the country the truth, which summarizes as follows:

"That the manufacture of combat planes during the first year of the war was practically a failure; that at the time that report was made, with the enormous expenditure of money we had only made and sent to Europe one combat plane. Since then, I am told in the public press, some nineteen others have been sent. We also told the Senate that the Liberty motor, so-called, was just emerging from its stage of development or experimentation. We believed it would become in a short period a good motor. We told the Senate that the assurance we received from the Aircraft Board last June that the Liberty motor could be developed in six months had turned out to be utterly misleading, and its development had taken a year."

Senator Fletcher of Florida interpolated that the six members of the committee not signing the report, of whom he was one, felt that the facts adduced should first be submitted to the President.

"Most of us who declined to sign the majority report did so not because the statements were not reasonably and substantially correct but because it was incomplete," interjected Senator Kirby of Arkansas, another member of the committee. "It did not give a complete idea of what had been done. It did not give the people a fair view of the actual conditions throughout."

Senator Fletcher wanted it understood that the Senators refusing to sign the report did not mean that a report should be made to the President, but that the facts contained in the committee's findings should be submitted to him, after which a comprehensive report of the whole situation should be made to the Senate.

"The Senate committee," said Mr. Hitchcock, "is perfectly willing to go into a criminal investigation, if the Senate desires it. The committee, however, has no power to punish. If there is to be any criminal investigation, it is the opinion of the committee that it should be made by the Department of Justice, because the Department of Justice has power to prosecute."

Somebody "Ought to be Shot."

"Does not the Senator from Nebraska think that the committee ought to fasten responsibility?" asked Senator King of Utah. "An officer of the Government has told me that somebody 'ought to be shot for the failure in this department.' I believe there has been something criminal, and I think it is the duty of this committee to make a thorough and exhaustive investigation and to brand and pillory those who have betrayed the country and have deceived the President."

"That is a question too large for the committee to pass upon," replied Senator Hitchcock. "There may be grounds for criminal charges. If so, the President is the one who should decide that question. The Department of Justice is at his disposal. He not only has the committee evidence and the committee reports, but he has the report made by Mr. Borglum and the report made by his own special committee, chosen by him, to investigate the matter.

"The committee has stated the facts to the country and has had a share in bringing about the necessary reforms. It is important to expose and to prosecute men who may be responsible for and guilty of the substantial failure to produce aircraft; but, after all, the greatest matter at this time is to bring about a reorganization and produce aircraft. That the President has undertaken to do in the selection of John D. Ryan and the reorganization of the agencies of the Government which will operate under his direction and that of the Assistant Secretary of War, Mr. Stettinius."

Senator Poindexter of Washington, adverting to Senator King's statement that an officer of the Government had told him that "somebody ought to be shot," exclaimed:

"There is a very general and widespread opinion in this country, judging from editorials in leading newspapers, that not only has there been a failure, but there had been a willful and intentional failure to produce airplanes. Now there is such a thing as being an accessory to a crime. If the official of the Government who is responsible for the aviation program and for the expenditure of over $800,000,000, which Congress has appropriated for this purpose, when the failure has been pointed out to him, when it has become a matter of public scandal of worldwide notoriety, goes before the committee and Congress and instead of ordering these men to be shot defends them and denies that there has been any failure—when the Secretary of War says that we have done better than we expected to do—is not the Secretary of War himself the man who ought to be reached by the committee of Congress, or others who are proceeding to hold some one responsible?"

Believes Baker Was Deceived.

"I have no occasion to defend the Secretary of War," Senator Hitchcock replied, "but I believe fully that he has been as completely deceived by men who were in a position to know the facts as the committee was deceived for months at a time, and I have no other idea than that the Secretary of War, embarrassed as he is by multitudinous duties and tremendous responsibilities, was himself completely misled by the Aircraft Production Board and by officers of the Signal Corps."

Senator Knox of Pennsylvania expressed the opinion that the disclosures "involve not merely a criminal conspiracy but civil responsibility, and the funds can be followed into the hands of those who would appear upon the face of the transaction to be innocent parties. Congress ought not to refuse to follow this matter out and develop it. We ought to know what has been done with this money."

"I have nothing further to say, except that if the Senate will direct the committee to make a further investigation the committee will do so," replied Senator Hitchcock. "But I believe I express the judgment of the majority of the committee when I say that the matter is more a matter for the Department of Justice than for the committee."

Mr. Hitchcock then spoke of the Liberty motor having been developed by the Packard Company, "with such additions as were put into it by Mr. Hall of California."

Senator Pomerene of Ohio wanted to know if the Aircraft Production Board had "purposely deceived the committee and the public."

"I am not disparaging the Liberty motor. I believe the Liberty motor is, or shortly will be, equal to the great Rolls-Royce motor of Great Britain, which is of a corresponding size and power," continued Senator Hitchcock. "What I am saying is that the Aircraft Board deliberately played a great confidence game on the country. They conveyed to the public the idea that down in a hotel here in Washington they had created the motor. This discovery, made by members of the committee, does not show criminality, but it shows the character of men who were on the Aircraft Board."

WASHINGTON, May 2. (Associated Press.)—Upon learning of the Senate discussion, Attorney General Gregory said the Department of Justice would be glad to investigate the entire aircraft production situation under request by the President or Congress. He also said the department would welcome any complaints of specific cases of violation of law, either by extravagant use of Government money or in connection with attempts to obstruct the building program and damage machines.

MUSICAL SHOWS IN CAMPS.

Additional Companies to be Organized by Lee Shubert.

Plans were made yesterday for the organization of a number of additional musical comedy companies to play the sixteen national army cantonments, beginning about the middle of June. The work of organization will be undertaken by Lee Shubert, who has also agreed to furnish the necessary scenery and costumes. Traveling expenses and nominal salaries will be paid by the Commission on Training Camp Activities.

The demand for musical shows exceeds that for any other style of entertainment in the camps, and the quality of the fare offered the men to date has been the cause of some dissatisfaction. The pieces which will now be staged include "The Midnight Girl," "Oh, I Say," "The Bond Street Girl," "The Royal Chef," "Mlle. Mischief," "Fantana," "The Red Petticoat," "Two Little Brides," and "Love o' Mike." Performers desiring to take part are urged to make application at the Shubert offices.

An Evening Newark Ledger.

The Newark Morning Ledger is to have an afternoon edition, it was announced yesterday by Lucius T. Russell, the publisher. With the report several days ago that the Ledger was to broaden its field came the report that this change would mark the reappearance of ex-United States Senator James Smith, Jr., in the newspaper business. In 1915 Mr. Smith failed for about $1,000,000. In making the announcement yesterday Mr. Russell denied that Mr. Smith had any interest in the paper, and said that, so far as he knew, Mr. Smith was not re-entering the newspaper field.

SWISS SHOT AS A SPY.

French Refused to Modify Sentence of Convicted Man.

PARIS, May 2.—A Swiss citizen, Nivergel by name, was executed as a spy at dawn today at Vincennes. The Swiss Government had made representations in his behalf, but no reason was found by the French Government to modify the sentence of death pronounced by a court-martial three months ago.

Nivergel faced the firing squad calmly.

Hear this famous Victor artist!

To hear McCormack is a privilege and an opportunity which every music-lover will want to embrace. It presents the unique opportunity of a direct personal observation of his remarkably beautiful voice for comparative consideration with his historic Victor Records.

Attend this concert and hear the wonderful voice of this great Irish tenor, being particularly careful to observe the individual characteristics that so plainly identify the McCormack voice.

Then go to any Victor dealer's and hear the Victor Records by McCormack. You will be instantly convinced that on the Victrola his art and personality are brought to you with unerring truth.

It is this absolute fidelity that emphasizes the supremacy of the Victrola, so firmly established on a basis of great things actually accomplished; a supremacy readily recognized and acknowledged by the world's greatest artists who make records exclusively for the Victor.

There are Victors and Victrolas in great variety of styles from $10 to $400.

COMMON SENSE ABOUT SECOND-CLASS POSTAGE RATES.

For the building of the Union Pacific Railroad the Federal Government made grants of 12,600 acres of land for every mile of road completed and advanced by its own bonds from $16,000 to $48,000 per mile for the work of construction. This subsidy policy had its origin in the time of the civil war. The germinal thought was to form an indissoluble union, to unite the Prairie States, the Mountain States, and the Coast States with the Central and Eastern States by means of communication that would make of their inhabitants one people. Some sixty years later, Congress, reversing this wise policy of encouraging American people to feel and think and act as a nation, seeks by prohibitory rates upon the distribution of newspapers through the mails to put off the distant States of the Union from the great centres of activity, from capital itself, to obstruct the channels of communication through which go on the perpetual flow and interchange of information and public opinion, and thereby Congress directly promotes separatism, sectionalism, the destruction of that common feeling and pride and consciousness of national unity which are essential to the safety of every great State.

The proposed zone rates for second-class mail matter—so far as they relate to newspapers—are not for revenue. Their yield will be trifling, for they have designedly been made prohibitory. They will not punish the newspapers of the great cities. The loss in their revenue can be overcome. They will punish the people, the people of the whole country, and severely. The loss to them will be irreparable. In every community there are men of "light and leading" who subscribe to one or more leading newspapers published in the large cities, newspapers of the first class, able to put before them fully the news of their own country, of Europe, of the Far East, of the whole world. These men keep themselves well informed, they are the best informed in their respective communities. They become influential, they are able to tell their neighbors what is going on. Through them, in that community, thought and sentiment are created which are the basis of national unity.

The new postal rates, going into effect on July 1, will destroy all this. They will make subscriptions to newspapers published in distant cities too costly for all but the rich. They put a ban upon knowledge, a premium upon ignorance, they compel the people of towns and cities remote from centres where large newspapers are published to depend solely upon the necessarily limited news service of the local press for their news of the war, for all news, for information and vital discussion of the great issues of the war, for their knowledge of the policies and purposes of their own Government. This information they can get fully and in detail only from the great newspapers. Small local newspapers have neither the resources nor the space to publish the things that every well-informed American should know. For example, the memorandum of Prince LICHNOWSKY, the German Ambassador in London, putting upon Germany the responsibility for beginning the war, about the most important document published since it began, was printed in full in THE NEW YORK TIMES, with the accompanying documents, some 50,000 words filling twenty-four columns. No strictly local newspaper could have undertaken to put that memorandum before its readers, yet that it should be read, studied, and talked about in every community is essential to the proper understanding of the war.

The service of the great newspapers to the Federal Government in this time of danger and crisis has been of immeasurable value. They enable the people better to understand its policy, they stimulate powerfully that patriotic support of the Government without which it would never be able to make good the President's pledge that our entire resources shall be employed to make victory certain. But whether in war or in peace, it is essential to the national security, to the furthering of our aims, to the realization of our ambitions, that the people have a common understanding, that the great sources of information be open to them all, that they think and feel and aspire, as they now do think and feel and aspire, not as Easterners, or Southerners, or Westerners, or Pacific Coast folk, but as one people, as Americans. The great newspapers of the country, the newspapers that are able adequately to inform the people of the affairs of all the world, possible only at great centres of population, are of many political opinions, but they have this one quality in common, for without it they could not be great and successful, that they print the news fully and impartially, and that according to the opinions they hold they put before the readers intelligent comment and interpretation of the news. Congress can have no fear that the wide distribution of the chief newspapers of the country would have an improper or harmful influence upon public opinion.

Then why should any Congressman desire, by prohibitory rates, to deprive the people in Maine, Florida, Oregon, Nevada, Texas, of the privilege of subscribing to the newspapers published in Chicago, New York, Boston, Philadelphia, or San Francisco? It is monstrously illogical, for while shutting off the newspapers Congress continues to provide for the free distribution of the speeches of its own members, carried all over the country through the mails under the franking privilege. Do Senators and members really believe that their utterances will completely satisfy the public thirst for news and information? As we have said, the new zone rates will not produce revenue. The pretense that it was intended merely to establish compensatory rates has been repeatedly exposed as false and baseless. What could have been the motive, then, save that most unworthy one, the desire to limit the circulation of large newspapers to territory within a few hundred miles of the office of publication? It has never yet been the policy of our Government to enforce ignorance upon the people, to darken their minds, to limit their understanding, to confine their knowledge and their interest to parish affairs.

THE LIBERTY LOAN'S SUCCESS.

That the Liberty Loan will be fully subscribed is the positive statement of those best informed. The signs were clear when the first day's result was learned, but the signs were obscured by the fact that allowance was not made for New York's adjusting its effort to the country's. When funds were coming in from more millions than ever took a loan before it was objected that the responses from the financial centres were disappointing. The banks ought to have been more generous, it was suggested. But banks have no money of their own worth mention in comparison with the cost of war in multiples of billions. Our banks are in good condition to do commercial business because they are not congested with Government business. It is an inestimable advantage, a cause of envy to other countries whose banking institutions we envied before we improved upon them. The justice and significance of this observation will be apparent to the most doubtful when peace arrives and there is a demand for commercial credits. The United States is the only country not engaged in revising banking arrangements because the Governments leaned too heavily upon them for good banking.

The magnificent response of our young manhood to conscription was even stronger proof of the soundness of our national character than the loan subscriptions are proof of our financial solidity. Instead of our resources of either character or wealth being overworked, both give amplest notice that they are inexhaustible in a cause thus supported. We are united as we were not in the civil war. We are so much richer that the burden we have assumed is negligible. In proportion, we have not called upon half of the resources contributed by a nation divided against itself in the earlier generation. Including all three Liberty Loans, their interest burden is about a cent a day apiece, and we have but just begun to subscribe and fight. The principal will be repaid faster than any nation's debt was ever paid, ours excepted. Democracies are immortal, except for avoidable faults. Autocracies are doomed because their faults are inherent in human nature and cannot be avoided. The future of the world is bright because the political world will be free to emulate us, with all good-will on our part, and with profit to us in the profit of others. That is the moral and psychological meaning of the great success of the war loans and drafts in the United States. To doubt that is to be able to believe that equally good results can follow the success of the Kaiser where ATTILA, GENGHIS KHAN, NAPOLEON, and WILLIAM'S other prototypes failed. The loan is successful, not because of its total, but because of what it signifies regarding the inner life of Americans. The Allies cannot fail until we are conquered, and we cannot be conquered if the Kaiser's line should be prolonged for generations.

A WISE DECISION.

After nearly two months of casualty lists limited to names of the dead, wounded, and missing, a system that might have suited San Marino but was a travesty on publicity in the case of a country of great distances and multitudinous population, the order has gone forth to add the addresses of our soldiers.

It is creditable to our people that they endured a condition bordering upon the intolerable because they were told that the War Department was complying with the request of General PERSHING. The General is a man of such good sense that it may be doubted whether he ever asked that when John Smith of Springfield was wounded the town should be omitted from the bulletin. What the General desired was that details of a kind to identify the organization to which John Smith belonged should not be included. Our commander in France has never been quoted on the subject. He would doubtless be surprised to learn that the War Department held him responsible for the blind-alley publicity which it adopted. It is not unlikely that General PERSHING having been misunderstood, somebody in authority decided to stick to the new rule, presuming upon the docility and adaptable good nature of the American people. There was always a mystery about General PERSHING'S attitude toward the casualty list. It may be surmised that the military arm at Washington had no active sympathy with the desire of the civilian population for publicity of any sort.

The decision to make an end of the farce, for such the illogical practice was, could not be expected from a bureau of the War Department. President WILSON had to intervene. And yet if Secretary BAKER had taken it upon himself to issue the necessary order his busy chief would have approved. Mr. WILSON cannot look after everything, and some things are certainly too immaterial to trouble him with. Few, if any, of his subordinates are willing to accept responsibility even in minor matters.

It is to be hoped that the controversy over the casualty list will clear the air and point the way to an intelligent publicity in the conduct of the war. What the people are entitled to know can generally be determined without difficulty. They are willing to wait for tidings of their soldiers at the front; they do not cavil at regulation of the means of information; but arbitrary restrictions try their patience, and sooner or later they will register their protests. The Government should always consider that it is wise to keep up the interest of the people in every phase of the war.

HURRY THE RAILWAY CONTRACT.

After four months of Government management of the railways, $90,000,000 has been paid to several of them in advance of the settlement of the contract between them and the Government. The generosity was justified by the urgency of the case, for there would have been more than equal loss if the railways which received the funds had been compelled to wait for the contract over which four months have been spent, or perhaps wasted. The obstacle to the contract is the same cause that wrecked regulation of rates—jealousy of profits and obstinacy in the idea that the reduction of rates and profits is still popular. Nothing could be plainer than the approval of the President's terms in taking over the railways. The idea of President and people is that there should be quick and ample provision of railway accommodations, without regard to cost or profit. The railways are a war facility, and the cost of the war makes the matter of rates and profits unworthy of consideration in comparison with hastening victory. Yet the settlement of the contract between the railways and the Government is delayed four months after the President's announcement and is intrusted to officials who are living in a bygone time.

The terms of the contract are under consideration between the railways and the Interstate Commerce Commission, and the Commission is showing its characteristic narrowness and unfriendliness toward the point of view of the people in the war, the shippers in business, and the owners of the railways. This is contrary to public interest and contrary to the action of Congress. In the Senate, interests sympathetic with the Commission sought to have it exempted from the Overman bill, which gave the reorganization of Government departments to the President. The attempt was a failure so pronounced that it is impossible to misunderstand it. The House did not even make the attempt to preserve the Commission's influence which the Senate rejected. It was a new mandate to deal with the railways in the spirit of the President's announcement.

Both parties to the contract have submitted forms which show the difference between them. The Commission is seeking to fix Government policy in the contract, instead of overseeing the accounts in the interest of the Government when the contract is settled. It is seeking to have the roads subject to its ideas of accounting, instead of suggesting a contract in accord with the new policy. Instead of fixing the amounts payable to the companies on the average of years named, the Commission seeks to leave open doors for altering the accounting and therefore the consideration under it. It would overrule the President as it sought to overrule the railways. Other questions of principle are what deductions are to be made in the payments to the railways to reimburse the Government for betterments made with its funds, what rate of interest should be charged the railways for Government advances, who should control the policy of railway betterments, who should control corporate expenses, how depreciation should be adjusted, and so on. The full list takes in the points of difference between the Government and the railways under the generation of hitter experience with regulation by the Commission.

Niggardliness toward the railways has been practiced so long that generosity toward them is cheap in the interest of winning the war. If the Commission had been successful in executing the policy of regulation, it might have been intrusted with forming the policy of Government operation. But it is making the same mistake regarding its new duties that it made regarding regulation. It is using methods of theoretical perfection instead of methods of practical operation. The war is a necessity to which both Government and Commission must bow. Neither the cost nor the profit of transportation is of consequence in comparison with the loss of not having facilities enough, or even in excess. The President can ask no stronger mandate to make his position clear to the Commission that he is in charge and responsible for results.

The reason for being decided on this point is that the railways must be financed either by rates or by advances like the $90,000,000, which is a mere drop in the bucket and is given with a string. The entire resources of the War Finance Corporation and the railway revolving fund together will hardly be enough for the railways alone, and there are other eager applicants. Provision must be made for the railways, and at once.

CONSCRIPTION AND HOME RULE.

The State Department has had to slay officially the loud-quacking canard that the United States advised the British Government that Irish conscription shouldn't be applied until an Irish Home Rule bill had been passed by Parliament.

Of course the United States Government has minded its own business. It couldn't interfere in the internal policy of Great Britain. The United States has no more warrant to stick its nose into Irish conscription than the British Government would have had to stick its nose into American conscription and the draft riots of 1863.

If Great Britain seeks to draft in Ireland soldiers to fight in the common cause against Germany, American public opinion, whatever be the limits of official expression, must support whatever supports that cause. It is not to be gathered from the remarks of Cardinal LOGUE to a correspondent of The Manchester Guardien that a Home Rule measure acceptable to most Irishmen is likely. Neither conscription nor Home Rule. If Ireland seems to be miscellaneously recalcitrant, it is the recalcitrant Laborites in Parliament that seem to have caused the present delay or impasse.

American interest lies in Irish soldiers, not in Irish legislation.

UNFAIR TO THE APOSTLE.

When the seven Socialist Aldermen, after opposing the sale of War Savings Stamps, modified their attitude so far as to agree not to oppose the Liberty Loan, there was much premature rejoicing in many quarters over this "change of heart among the Socialists." Our friend The Globe, for instance, rebuked THE TIMES for viewing this "change of heart" with suspicion, and said:

> The roads to truth are many. Provided a man or a party arrives at it, the path traveled is not of much consequence. • • • Doubting THOMAS was recognized as a saint even though he demanded more evidence than sufficed for the other apostles.

We did not then, and do not now, recognize the attitude of the Socialist Party as resembling that of the cautious THOMAS. There was another of the original twelve disciples whose course suggests a closer parallel, though his membership had ceased at the time THOMAS made the investigation which gave him his nickname. The Socialist Party in this city is now voting on the question of whether to approve or disapprove the action of its seven Aldermen in withdrawing their opposition to the Liberty Loan. Twenty-seven branches have voted to disapprove and two have voted to approve.

We do not profess to be experts on socialism, but we do recognize JOHN SPARGO as such an expert. When Mr. SPARGO read of the reported "change of heart" in the Socialist Party, of its willingness to support the war now that their beloved Russia was being maltreated by Germany, he said: "The repentance is, so far as I can judge, as insincere as it is belated." Mr. SPARGO did not regard his former party associates as honest Thomases. Both then and since they have modeled themselves upon that other disciple. The Socialist Party in this country is German-born, German-ruled, the breath of its life is German. It makes no difference, truly, what road a man or party travels to arrive at truth, but truth will not be arrived at by any man or party who travels the German road; and the true spirit of the Socialist Party speaks through the German voices of those twenty-seven branches which have condemned their elected representatives—not for supporting the war, but for consenting, on Russia's account, not to oppose it.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Letters to Soldiers Considered.

Representative GALLIVAN of Massachusetts, in discussing the present deplorable state of the mail service between the American soldiers in France and their relatives and friends at home, well brought out the widely divergent views with regard to army letters that have been expressed by our military authorities.

There are not a few officers of various grades, just as he said—and said with deserved reprehension—who base their antagonism to both the writing and the receiving of letters by the men under them on the true statement, but false argument, that the business of soldiers is to fight, not to be reading mail or using their pens. There are such officers here in the home training camps, as well as abroad, and many justifiable complaints have been made by the recruits about the nagging to which they are subjected whenever they were seen to be thus engaged. "Haven't you anything better to do than this?" is the inquiry frequently addressed to them when they devote their scanty leisure to correspondence.

There are, however, wiser officers, who realize the important rôle that letters play in the soldier's life—the relation they bear to the improvement or deterioration of morale, both here and in France. One Colonel of a Massachusetts regiment now in active service abroad was quoted by Mr. GALLIVAN as urging the dispatch of frequent letters to the members of the expeditionary force, and declaring that "nothing in the world is so consoling to our boys as to hear from home."

Of course, in this matter of army correspondence, common sense should be used. There are wrong and harmful letters, as well as those that are encouraging and inspiriting, but the possibilities of abuse are no excuse for withdrawing a privilege or ignoring a right. And it is hardly less important that letters should come with reasonable speed and regularity from the men at the front, or near it, than that letters should go to them in the same way. Censorship is necessary, and it creates difficulties, but the difficulties would not be insuperable if they were attacked with intelligence and good-will. Why, for instance, could not all or most of the censoring be done on shipboard, and so cause no delay at all?

Harmonious with His Record.

Nothing could be easier to believe than the news that the Kaiser's eldest son has been much interested in the big guns by means of which Paris has been bombarded, and that he has fired some shots at the distant mark with his own hand. That he would do so agrees with all that we have heard and read about this somewhat elderly young man.

For one thing, the new artillery is posted so far behind No Man's Land that its examination and operation are attended by little or no personal danger, and while it would probably be unjust as well as ungenerous to say that anything except his duty as a high military commander keeps him most of the time, if not all of it, beyond range of enemy fire, the fact of the big guns' position can be noted as relevant to the veracity of the dispatch under consideration.

On the other hand, there is nothing in the Crown Prince's known record to indicate that he would recoil from sending shells into Paris, regardless of what or whom they might hit. He is not a person of delicate sensibilities or any more likely to be shocked by indiscriminating slaughter of French civilians than by the wholesale sacrifice of his own soldiers' lives. For him "military necessity" would cover with its convenient mantle consequences as theoretically unpleasant as the blowing up of maternity hospitals and primary schools. A brief expression of regret for the inevitable would settle scores like that for him, and "Load it again!" would be his quite natural order after the first shot had shaken the surrounding territory.

Russia a Loan Argument.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Who, particularly at this time, can doubt that the world is fighting a life-and-death struggle against the most cruel and inhuman machine which man has ever devised? This being the case, is it necessary for me, whose country has been devastated, ruined, tumbled into the mire of indignity by Germany, to urge anybody to help defeat the common enemy? It is so self-evident that no argument is necessary. An enthusiastic, oversubscribed Liberty Loan is one of the most effective means not only of properly supplying and provisioning the armies on the battlefields, but would tend to the disillusionment of Germany that there is no concerted support by the American people in the war against autocracy. The ruin, the disgrace, the blood of countless sons of Russia should convince all that German militarism can be annihilated only through blood and iron. Yes, Russia is the best example tending to prove that only by force can the genuine culture of the world be saved from German vandalism.

A Name for the Supergun.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The great gun which bombards Paris from long distance does little damage but costs enormously to operate. I learn that the Parisians, with characteristic precision, have dubbed it "L'Imbecile."

ALL IN THE BOND.

Wings for the airplanes, steam for the ships,
Powder and lead for the guns,
Wool for the soldiers exposed to the cold,
Steel for the throats of the Huns,
Harness and fodder for horses and mules
At the battlefront over the pond,
"Gas" for the motor trucks carrying food—
All in a Liberty bond.

Shells for the batteries, wires well-harbed,
Webs for the Teutons to spin,
Tickets for every Yankee in France
Over the Rhine to Berlin,
Victory sure for the banner we love,
Gallantly waving beyond
Billows of ocean in billows of smoke—
All in a Liberty bond.

NEWS PIRATING CASE IN SUPREME COURT

Untermyer Argues for Dissolution of Associated Press Injunction Against Hearst.

MAKES MONOPOLY CHARGE

Admits, However, That International Has Sold News Sent Out by the Other Service.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Arguments in proceedings brought in an effort to have set aside injunctions restraining the International News Service, or Hearst Service, from pirating news dispatches of The Associated Press began today in the Supreme Court. The opening argument was made by Samuel Untermyer, representing the Hearst Service, who will conclude tomorrow, after which Frederick W. Lehmann will present The Associated Press's side of the suit. Senator Johnson of California will close for the Hearst Service.

Mr. Untermyer attacked especially the contention of The Associated Press that news had property value, and charged that if the lower court injunctions were sustained The Associated Press would be allowed to become a "despotic monopoly."

Admitting that the International News Service had been guilty of selling news sent out by the other organization, the attorney insisted The Associated Press had been guilty of the same practice despite affidavits of employes of The Associated Press denying it.

The Associated Press also was attacked by Mr. Untermyer for bringing the present proceedings at a time when Great Britain and the allied Governments had denied the use of their cables to the International News Service for the transmission of news. He declared The Associated Press took advantage of this situation to institute the suit "because they thought the International News Service could be destroyed."

In explanation of the action of the Allied Governments, Mr. Untermeyer declared it was due to news matter sent by the International News Service to its offices in this country regarding the torpedoing of the British battleship Audacious and the naval battle off Jutland, and because headlines printed in one newspaper receiving the Hearst Service described London as being in flames.

"Frequent questions were asked during the argument by members of the court regarding the property value of news. They wanted to know also why, although the lower courts restrained the International News Service from pirating Associated Press news through employes of newspapers taking the latter service, an appeal was taken to the Supreme Court only from the part of the injunctions enjoining the taking of news from bulletin boards and early editions of Associated Press newspapers.

Property Value of News.

Mr. Untermyer summarized the questions involved as follows:

"Is there a right of property in news or knowledge of the news or in the quality of 'firstness' in the news that will survive its publication by the gatherer in any of the newspapers to which it has been delivered for the express purpose of publication and sale until the gatherer of the news and all of its customers have secured their reward; or does this news become public property as soon as it has been published by any of the papers to which it has been surrendered without restriction for that specific purpose? In other words, is there a sanctity of property right reserved to the news gatherer against the effects of publication as to matter that is admittedly uncopyrightable greater than that given by the statute to copyright matter?

"Assuming that the court would create a precedent in a case where it would be necessary to preserve a business against piracy in this case both parties and their respective members and customers have apparently from the time of their organization acted upon the exactly opposite construction and understanding of the law. News displayed on bulletins and printed and sold in early editions of newspapers has been regarded as public property, which it is in law and in fact. Each of these parties has freely taken the other's news and they are bound by that practical construction of their rights and obligations. The fact that one of them claims that it verifies and rewrites the story it takes from the other, while the other does not, is purely a question of business policy that can no wise affects their legal rights as determined by their long continued acts.

"There can be no remedy in law or equity unless actual damage is shown. Courts are not established to try out moot or academic questions. The complainant says it is not organized for profit, and that it makes no money difference to it what is the financial outcome of its activities. That being so, if there are any remedies, they inhere in the members and not in the corporation, which is organized on the grotesque theory that it is not engaged in business.

"The attempt by this order to protect complainant's members in their local news in a suit to which they are not parties and in which the judgment could not, therefore, be binding or reciprocal, is without precedent or reason. Conversely, if the defendant sued the complainant, could it secure an injunction that would run in favor of all the defendant's stockholders and customers?

Element of Competition.

"There is no element of unfair competition involved. The defendant is not seeking to palm off complainant's news as its (defendant's) news, nor as complainant's news, but simply as news that has been made available to every one. It has not secured it surreptitiously or as the result of a breach of contract, but publicly by paying for the paper containing it and in which it was authorized to be published. If defendant is right in its contention that it is public property, as the parties have always regarded it, there is nothing unfair in taking it, contrary to precedent and to the acts of the parties as evidencing their construction of their rights—both parties—it is now held to be private property, its use would be enjoined on that ground, but in no event on the theory of what is known as unfair competition. There is no such element in this case.

"Both the parties are in the position with respect to news that has been published of the man with an unpatentable idea or trade secret that has cost him years of labor and vast sums of money to develop. Or of the architect who has created a beautiful structure, or the landscape gardener who has laid out a novel garden, or of any one of the many inventions in beauty, usefulness, and science that are not patentable. So long as he keeps these things to himself he will be protected against their surreptitious taking. When he releases them they belong to the public.

"What the complainant is here trying to do is to release the news and at the same time hold on to it. That is impossible and in this case it is inequitable, for in the past it has been taken from the defendant, and now that events have temporarily changed, it seeks to escape from the consequences of its own action.

Calls Decision Dangerous.

"There is a manifest inconsistency in the attitude of the District Court, when it very properly declined to differentiate between 'tips' and 're-writes,' decided that the practice was universal in the newspaper trade and yet enjoined the defendant from continuing it on condition that the complainant would submit to a like injunction, which the latter was, of course, delighted to do at that particular juncture.

"This decision acts up a new and dangerous rule. The measure of a plaintiff's right is now made dependent, not on the extent to which the defendant has infringed a definite known rule of law, but upon an intangible unknown element that depends upon the extent of the activities of the plaintiff and those whom it happens at the moment to represent. If the news is taken from a paper of local circulation it may be immediately taken and used all over the United States except in that locality, for its commercial value will have passed away after the paper has been circulated in its own town. If, however, it happens to be a member of The Associated Press that same item of local news becomes ipso facto inviolate until every one of the 1,030 Associated Press newspapers in the United States and possibly until after The Associated Press agencies in foreign countries have utilized it. Is not this a reductio ad absurdum?"

HOPE FOR NEWSPAPERS.

Senate Post Office Committee Shows Disposition to Cut New Rates.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Action favorable to reducing the new second-class newspaper postage rates effective July 1 was believed to be forecast in consideration of the question today by the Senate Post Office Committee. A motion of Senator Watson of Indiana to suspend the increases was lost only by a tie vote, and sentiment was said to be strong for modification, at least, of the newspaper rates. Final action was deferred until tomorrow.

Senator Watson promised to renew his efforts. Senator McKellar of Tennessee and others vigorously urged that, instead of outright suspension, a modified zone increase be adopted.

Some committee members opposing complete suspension of the new rates, it was said, argued that, even should the Senate add an amendment to that effect, the House would not agree.

LANSING BEFORE SENATORS.

Explains President's Stand on War with Turkey and Bulgaria.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Secretary Lansing appeared before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today and discussed the Administration's reasons for opposing declarations of war at this time with Bulgaria and Turkey.

The Secretary's conference with the committee resulted from the recent agitation in the Senate for war upon the two nations and unofficial statements from the White House that the President was opposed to action at this time.

REJECTS TRADE BOYCOTT.

British Committee Decides Embargo After War Impracticable.

LONDON, May 2.—The interim report of the Committee on Trade After the War, of which Baron Balfour of Burleigh is Chairman, says:

"Any general prohibition of exports to present enemy countries after the war would be impracticable and inexpedient."

The report deals with the treatment of exports from the United Kingdom and British overseas possessions and the conservation of the resources of the empire during the transitional period after the war. The report declares the present system of rationing neutral countries is impracticable and inexpedient, but adds:

"The Paris resolutions can be carried into effect if the policy of joint control of certain commodities can be agreed upon between the Allies and the empire for the transitional period. Army measures should aim at securing priority for the requirements of the British Empire and its allies to materials which, mainly are derived from those countries and required by them."

The committee considers this policy should be applied by prohibiting certain exports except under license.

"It may be necessary for a year after the war to regulate the export of coal to meet the requirements of the United Kingdom and its allies. Compensatory outlets should be sought in France, Italy, and Belgium for a large portion of the coal formerly exported to Germany.

"The committee concur in the recommendation of the Iron and Steel Trades Committee that, so far as new be arranged, no new materials shall be permitted immediately after the war to be diltpatched to present enemy countries from the mineral resources under British control. If the Dominions find these suggestions impossible, they might secure results by heavy export duties to present enemy countries, with precaution to prevent neutrals from purchasing on account of such countries."

GIFT TO FRENCH RED CROSS.

Perkins Presents Check for 10,000,000 Francs from American Body.

PARIS, May 1.—In announcing the gift of 10,000,000 francs to French Red Cross organizations, Major J. H. Perkins, permanent head of the American Red Cross in Europe, declared in a letter to the Central Committee of the French Red Cross that the gift was a sign of the appreciation of America for the work of the French Army and the French societies. The letter says:

"The year which has passed since America entered the war has strengthened and deepened the union between our people and the people of France. In grateful appreciation of the great work done for a just cause and as a symbol of the fraternity which binds us together, the American Red Cross Society has instructed me to hand you its check for 10,000,000 francs to be distributed among the three Red Cross societies (the French Red Cross, Les Femmes de France and Les Dames Françaises) represented by your committee according to your established custom.

"It is the hope of our society that the funds may be used for the benefit and establishment of hospitals and infirmaries at railway stations. The relief rendered sick and wounded soldiers, both in hospitals and infirmaries, by your societies has been a fitting expression of the sympathy and loyalty of a great people to its soldiers and the soldiers of its allies.

"The armies of the Allies in France have become one army. It will deeply gratify the millions of American citizens who make up the Red Cross to know that their society has taken part in a work which will minister during the months to come to the soldiers of the Allies in France."

ACADEMY ELECTS BARTHOU.

French Ex-Premier and Alfred Baudrillart Are Both Honored.

PARIS, May 2.—Members of the French Academy met in the presence of President Poincaré today and held elections to fill three vacancies. Louis Barthou, ex-Premier and Foreign Minister, was elected to replace Henri Roujon, the writer, who died in June, 1914. Mgr. Alfred Baudrillart, Vicar General of Paris, was elected to succeed Count Albert de Mun, founder of the Catholic Workingmen's Clubs in France and one time Foreign Minister, who died in October, 1914.

The election to fill the vacancy caused by the death in August, 1914, of Jules Lemaitre, the dramatic critic, was postponed after four ballots had been taken. Henri Bordeaux, novelist, who was in the lead, failed to obtain a sufficient majority.

WORK FOR WAR CRIPPLES.

Vocational Education Urged by American Association.

The American Association for Labor Legislation in a special bulletin issued yesterday urges the vocational education of both war and industrial cripples into skilled workers. Commenting on the Hoke Smith bill, upon which joint bearings are now being held by Senate and House committees, to provide educational rehabilitation for disabled soldiers and sailors under the direction of the Federal Board of Vocational Education, it is urged by the association that the scope of the bill be extended so as to apply also to the maimed victims of industrial accidents.

It is pointed out that there are 100,000 industrial cripples who could be restored to skilled trades, and that the number is increasing each day. The association believes that the bill should be amended so as to provide for the restoration of all these to lives of usefulness.

CHARGES BAD FAITH IN PIER MUDDLE

Justice Greenbaum Criticises Corporation Counsel's Appeal from Court's Order.

REFEREE'S INQUIRY STANDS

Action on Hudson Dock Company's Motion to Prevent Sale of Wharf by Auction Withheld.

Supreme Court Justice Greenbaum yesterday severely criticised the conduct of the Corporation Counsel for having appealed from the Justice's order appointing Lewis L. Delafield a referee to hear all sides of the controversy over the leasing of Pier 60, North River. Shortly after the Justice had referred the case to the referee, Assistant Corporation Counsel Charles J. Nehrbas, on behalf of the city, took an appeal to the Appellate Division. It was said at the time that the city authorities were not desirous to have an investigation into the affairs of the Hudson Dock and Terminal Corporation, whose bid of $25,000 for the pier was accepted by Dock Commissioner Hulbert, over the bid of $30,000 by the Occident Dock Company. Pending a settlement of the case in the courts, Dock Commissioner Hulbert granted a temporary lease of the pier to the Bristol City Line, of which the Occident Dock Company is a subsidiary. Yesterday the motion of the Hudson Dock and Terminal Corporation for an injunction to restrain the Sinking Fund Commission from leasing the pier to anybody but itself came before Justice Greenbaum. Without taking any action upon the motion, the Justice said:

"I wish to say at this time to Assistant Corporation Counsel Nehrbas, that I think the Corporation Counsel has acted in bad faith in taking an appeal from my recent order appointing a referee. The question of leasing the pier has assumed such important proportions that I am disinclined to take any action on the new motion until I receive 'a' report of the referee in the taxpayer's action."

Mr. Nehrbas explained that it had been decided to have the question of law regarding the case reviewed by the Appellate Division so as to determine, in view of all the facts presented by the Occident Dock Company, if they had any cause for action. The court was not satisfied with the explanation, characterizing it as "insufficient," and Mr. Nehrbas then said he thought the appeal from the Justice's order appointing a referee acted as a stay to prevent the referee from going ahead to take testimony.

"I am not so sure of that," replied Justice Greenbaum. "I am inclined to think that pending the determination of the point of law that the Corporation Counsel has raised the referee may go right ahead making his investigation of conditions under which the pier was leased. I may require the examination to be held in open court.

"I shall refrain from taking any action on the present motion of the Hudson Dock and Terminal Corporation. I shall be glad to entertain a motion to let the testimony be taken before me in open court."

Counsel for Felix Behr, a taxpayer, who brought the original suit restraining the city and Dock Commissioner Hulbert from leasing the pier to the Hudson concern, made the motion, which Justice Greenbaum took under advisement. The Justice's action means that the Hudson concern loses its attempt to restrain the Sinking Fund Commission from going ahead and auctioning the pier to the highest bidder. William L. Wemple, representing the Hudson concern, said the company intended to get the pier according to the terms of their original agreement or not at all. If the Hudson concern finally loses its fight, it is likely that the city will face a suit for damages.

Earlier in the day Dock Commissioner Hulbert submitted an affidavit to Judge Greenbaum, in which he said:

"I deny that the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund at any time approved the leasing of this pier to any one at $30,000. I deny that I have made any contract whatever with the plaintiff Hudson Dock and Terminal Corporation. In view of the fact that it now appears that several parties desire to rent Pier 60, North River, it is my intention to sell at public auction the lease of said pier for the period of five years, and for this disposition of the matter, I have issued a permit for Pier 60 to the Bristol City Line, which is to continue its occupation during the month of May and pay for this privilege the sum of $5,000."

At a meeting of the Sinking Fund Commission yesterday it was decided to hold meetings hereafter every week until the commissioner's work is brought up to date. There are seven members of the commission, and heretofore it has not been considered necessary to appoint committees to look after the applications that come to the Secretary before they are presented to the full commission, but hereafter, before receiving the matters looked into and recommending them for consideration, adoption or denial. All that is to be changed under a resolution presented by Aldermanic President Alfred E. Smith and adopted. It provided for the appointment of two committees, one on dock leases and waterfront property, one on internal revenue on real estate other than waterfront, and another on available interior space rentals.

Dock Commissioner Hulbert announced that he would ask the commission to recommend to the Board of Estimate an appropriation for the construction of piers and building of bulkheads and providing for the filling with ashes so as to make an exterior street on Jamaica Bay.

"If this had been done six months ago," said the commissioner, "the Standard Oil Company would now be building tanks on Jamaica Bay instead of at Greenville, N. J."

"But we were not here six months ago," said the Mayor.

"No," replied the Commissioner, "you were not here, but I was considering Jamaica Bay as a member of the River and Harbor Committee in Congress. Jamaica Bay has been sleeping in Congress since 1910 and in the Board of Estimate since 1918."

It became known yesterday that the Federal Government has decided not to use the piers along the North River at Forty-sixth, Forty-seventh, Forty-eighth, and Fifty-seventh Streets, which were turned over to the Government in December last. The Government will not need the piers, it was said, in view of the fact that it is building a naval base in South Brooklyn at a cost of $40,000,000. The North River piers will be turned back to the original occupants, one to the French authorities, two to the Italian authorities, and one to the Furness-Withy Company, representing the British Government.

FORD FOR PRESIDENT.

Michigan Senatorship to be a Stepping Stone, Chicago Hears.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 2.—It is reported from Lansing, Mich., that Henry Ford is about to announce his candidacy for the Republican nomination for United States Senator.

Word also comes from the Michigan State capital that the automobile manufacturer contemplates using the Senatorship as a stepping stone to a higher place. His friends, who admit having talked with Mr. Ford on the subject, declare that he plans to serve in the Senate less than a year, and then become the candidate for the Republican nomination for the Presidency.

SUSPENDS HEAD OF HEALTH BUREAU

Copeland Submits His Letter to Hylan and Then Disciplines Brown.

DENIES ACTION WAS FORCED

Says if Director Had Not Replied to Charges He Would Be Unmolested.

PLAN FOR PUBLIC TRIAL

New Executive Tells of Great Personal Interest in Health Education.

Lucius P. Brown, Director of the Bureau of Food and Drugs of the Department of Health, was suspended yesterday pending trial on charges by Dr. Royal S. Copeland, Health Commissioner. Commissioner Copeland gave as the reason for suspending Mr. Brown the fact that he chose to make public a reply to the attack made on his conduct of the Bureau of Food and Drugs by Chairman James E. MacBride of the Civil Service Commission. Commissioner Copeland said that had Mr. Brown remained silent and had he permitted Mr. MacBride's attack to go unchallenged, he would not have suspended him.

Before notifying Mr. Brown of his suspension Commissioner Copeland said he went to the City Hall and read the letter of suspension to Mayor Hylan.

"The Mayor listened carefully to the reading of the letter," said Dr. Copeland; "then he placed his hand on my shoulder and said, 'I have no advice to give you in your own department. Use your own judgment. Do the best that you can.'

"The Mayor then reiterated what he told me when he appointed me, that I was free and unfettered. He said that I had an absolute free hand in my own department. I believe that I have the hearty support of the Mayor, and I will attempt to make the department greater and more useful than ever before."

Commissioner Copeland insisted that the suspension of Mr. Brown was his own free act and that it had not been suggested to him by anyone else.

"The Mayor has never asked me to depose or suspend any given official in this department," Commissioner Copeland continued. "He has never intimated to me that he wanted any particular official removed.

"At 11:30 last night I received a note from Mr. Brown, sent from the Hotel Astor. The note said:

Dear Dr. Copeland—Referring to the attached letter written this afternoon, I have concluded since writing it to try to reach you personally tonight. Up, however, until 10:30 o'clock I have been unable to do so and as I desire you to have this communication tonight I am sending it by messenger.

"I read that letter and then went to bed, not deciding what I was to do. I got out of bed at 6 o'clock this morning and wrote this letter of suspension. It seemed to me that the public had the statement of Mr. MacBride and that of Mr. Brown. They do not coincide. It seemed to me then and it seems to me now that these two diametrically opposed statements are such that some one must determine the facts as to who is right. It will be the purpose of the Board of Health to find out who is right. They can't both be right. One must be wrong."

Copeland's Letter of Suspension.

Commissioner Copeland's letter to Mr. Brown follows:

New York, May 2, 1918.

Lucius P. Brown, Esq., Director Bureau of Food and Drugs, Department of Health, 139 Centre Street, New York City:

Dear Sir—In spite of the unfavorable reference to your administration contained in Commissioner MacBride's letter, I had determined to await the arrival of the sworn testimony before taking action in the matter.

You have chosen to make a public announcement concerning your position. There is such a marked contrast between your statement and that of Mr. MacBride that the public must be quite at a loss to decide the real merits of the case. It is the duty of the Board of Health to know the facts, and to decide whether your administration is clean, or whether your efficiency as a public servant has been so impaired as to make it unwise to continue your connection with the department.

You are entitled to your day in court, and shall be given abundant opportunity to make all proper explanations and observations. To the end that you may not be distracted from your duties in the department while preparing for a hearing, I shall relieve you from duty pending official action by the Board of Health.

I will communicate with the Police Commissioner and the health officer of the port, my colleagues in the Board of Health, and ask that a special meeting be called, with the express purpose of passing on the merits of the controversy. The particulars and specifications of the charges will be prepared and served. Pending the hearing you are hereby suspended from duty.

Very truly yours,
ROYAL S. COPELAND,
Commissioner.

Hylan Urged Action by Amster.

Dr. J. Lewis Amster, former Health Commissioner, who resigned on Monday, was told last night that Director Brown had been suspended, and was asked if Mayor Hylan had requested him to suspend Mr. Brown when he was in office.

"About a week ago Mayor Hylan insisted that I suspend Director Brown," said Dr. Amster. "I talked the matter over with Assistant District Attorney Dooling, who was handling the charges affecting the Health Department. Mr. Dooling said it was inadvisable to suspend Mr. Brown as he was co-operating with the District Attorney's office in the graft investigation, and he said he was getting a good deal of useful information from Mr. Brown."

Following his suspension Director Brown made the following statement:

"The letter of Dr. Copeland is very clear; and explains his position. It is quite true that there is a marked contrast between my statement and that of Mr. MacBride. I am delighted that the public may have an opportunity to decide the real merits of the case. To this end I shall request as speedy and as public a trial as possible. All that I ask is a full and free presentation of the facts. I have no doubt as to the outcome, because I know that there is no ground for Mr. MacBride's charges.

"I am grateful to Dr. Copeland for his consideration in relieving me from duty so that I may have the time necessary to prepare for the coming trial."

The trial, according to Commissioner Copeland, will be public, and will take place before the Board of Health, which consists of three members, the Health Commissioner, the Police Commissioner, and the Health Officer of the Port. The latter is Dr. Leland E. Cofer. Police Commissioner Enright and Commissioner of Health Copeland, who comprise a majority of the Board of Health, are appointees of Mayor Hylan.

The case for the Department of Health will be handled by an Assistant Corporation Counsel. The charges against Mr. Brown will be based on those made by Chairman MacBride in the letter to Commissioner Copeland, made public on Tuesday.

Commissioner Defines His Attitude.

Commissioner Copeland said last night that his only desire was that the public should get all the facts. As far as he was concerned, he said, his mind was open, and he was anxious to see that justice was done to all concerned.

Had Mr. Brown not made public his statement, the Commissioner said, he would not have suspended him, even if he waited six weeks before the evidence in the case was submitted to him by Chairman MacBride. It was pointed out by an adviser of the suspended man that Mr. Brown's letter to the Commissioner contained the following clause: "If this [Mr. MacBride's] letter had not been given out to the press I should wait until the Commissioner of Health brought the matter to my attention, but inasmuch as Mr. MacBride has seen fit to publish his letter apparently at the same time that it was sent to the Commissioner of Health, my regard for the reputation and for the efficiency of the Bureau of Food and Drugs requires me to make at once a reply equally public."

"If Mr. Brown had kept quiet and allowed Mr. MacBride's statement to go unchallenged, would you have permitted Mr. Brown to remain in office until you sifted the testimony?"

"Yes. You can see why. I believe the people of New York are fair minded. They would not believe what Mr. MacBride said of Mr. Brown until they heard the statement of Mr. Brown. My opinion is that the great body of public opinion would have been reserved with respect to Mr. Brown. He has presented his side of the controversy to the public. I am going into the hearing absolutely open minded, and am going to give my best judgment to it and vote which way that dictates."

Dr. Copeland, in answer to questions, then told of his visit to the City Hall, and how he had read the letter of suspension to Mayor Hylan. Dr. Copeland was asked if he contemplated making any changes, particularly in the Bureau of Public Health Education, which Chairman MacBride suggested should be eliminated. Dr. Copeland said he had no intention of disturbing any of the bureaus.

"I have plans, however, with reference to public health education," he said. "Permit me to say with all due modesty that I have a right to speak of education. When I was a young man I taught school. I have had experience in teaching at a normal school. I have been interested in medical education for twenty-five years. I have been close to the problem of public health education. Whatever I have done along public lines has been done along the line of education. By reason of my education and my profession the question of education has interested me more than any other field. I would not attempt to tell the head of the Bureau of Child Hygiene how to run her department, and I could not tell the head of the Bureau of Laboratories how to run his bureau; but when it comes to public health education I claim to know something of it. Under me the department is going to do more popular education than ever before."

"Will you ask for a larger appropriation?"

"I don't know. When I clean up much matter from the past that has accumulated for me to dispose of, and when I begin to do constructive work, among the first things I will take up is the question of public health education."

"Do you believe in decentralizing work like that of public health education, or do you believe in keeping it in a bureau such as it is today?"

"I cannot answer that—it's like the question of borough autonomy. I must plead ignorance at present."

Commissioner Copeland was asked how he interpreted that part of the Mayor's letter to him which spoke of offices being created illegally. He was asked whether he took this to mean that seven of the bureaus of the Health Department, according to the Mayor, had been illegally created. The Health Commissioner said he knew nothing of the past and said that he had no intention of injuring any of the seven bureaus mentioned.

Dr. Eugene Lyman Fiske, medical director of the Life Extension Institute, wrote yesterday to Mayor Hylan urging the retention of the Bureau of Public Health Education on the grounds of business economy, humanity, and patriotism. He said he regarded the maintenance of the educational bureau and the other bureaus which have been threatened with elimination as a matter of military necessity.

The Allied Dental Council of Greater New York has unanimously adopted a resolution protesting against the abolishing of any of the bureaus of the Health Department.

Reference was made last night to the Mayor's investigation of the Health Department by speakers at the Academy of Medicine. The meeting was given over largely to technical discussions, but Dr. Abraham Jacobi, Dr. William H. Park, Director of the Bureau of Laboratories, and ex-Coroner Israel Feinberg took occasion to say a few words regarding recent happenings in the Health Department. Dr. Jacobi said that the physicians of the city should be thanked for the way they indicated their disapproval of Mayor Hylan's plans to reorganize the department, and Dr. Park said he believed that conditions in the department would calm down shortly. Dr. Feinberg paid a tribute to the watchfulness of the medical profession with regard to the Mayor's plans as to the department.

ACTORS TAKE THE FULTON.

They and Playwrights to Make Their Joint Productions There.

The Fulton Theatre, it is announced, has been taken over by the players and playwrights, who have organized themselves into the Actors' and Authors' Theatre, Inc., and will hereafter be devoted exclusively to their productions.

The first public meeting of the organization will be held at the theatre on Monday afternoon, when addresses will be made by Augustus Thomas, Francis Wilson, Edwin Milton Royle, Virginia Fox Brooks, Cosmo Hamilton, Louis K. Anspacher, and others. Details of the method of operation will be announced at a dinner of the organization at the Beaux Arts tonight.

Irene Williams Makes Her Debut.

Irene Williams, soprano, made her first appearance here in song recital last evening at Aeolian Hall. With a small voice, but agreeable style, she sang old Italian airs, modern French, Russian, and American pieces. Two of her numbers were the "Chant Hindou," from Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Sadko," and the "Hymn to the Sun," from "Coq d'Or."

Miss Katherine Mackay Operated On

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 2.—Miss Katherine Mackay, daughter of Clarence H. Mackay, President of the Postal Telegraph Company, underwent an operation at the Johns Hopkins Hospital last evening for acute appendicitis. This evening Mr. Mackay said that the operation was a success and that his daughter was doing nicely.

Miss Mackay is a student at St. Timothy's School, Catonsville, and will graduate this June. Several days ago she was taken ill, and when it was found that she had appendicitis she was removed to Johns Hopkins Hospital and her father summoned.

FIVE ARMY AVIATORS KILLED IN ACCIDENTS

Airplanes Fall While Making Practice Flights on Their Flying Fields.

4 COMMISSIONED OFFICERS

List of Dead Includes Colonel, Major, Two Lieutenants, and Cadet—Making Experimental Flights.

FORT WORTH, Texas, May 2.—Lieutenant James S. Ennis, Jr., of New York City, and Cadet Paul Herriott of Oakland, Cal., were killed at Camp Hicks today when the airplane in which they were making a practice flight fell 150 feet the aviators attempted a difficult maneuver. The accident occurred just an hour before General Grehle and his staff from Camp Bowie arrived to witness some "stunt" flying.

OAKLAND, Cal., May 2.—Paul Herriott, killed today by an aviation accident at Fort Worth, was known in nearly every city and town in California. He was 32 years of age, unmarried, and a graduate of the University of California. In his short life Herriott was a bricklayer, cow puncher, college student, newspaper reporter, member of the State Board of Control, and Secretary to United States Senator Johnson.

LAWTON, Okla., May 2.—Lieutenant William Dean Thompson of the 253d Field Artillery, a student observer at Post Field, was instantly killed and Lieutenant Foster Bailey, pilot, was injured seriously today when their plane fell 300 feet. The engine stopped when the men were doing a spiral, and as the pilot attempted to coast to a landing the machine went into a tail spin, falling to the earth.

Thompson was married three weeks ago. His mother lives at Eagle Pass, Texas.

DAYTON, Ohio, May 2.—Major Oscar A. Brindley and Colonel Damm, two expert aviation men from the McCook Federal flying field here, met death at the Moraine City aviation field here today, when their machine dropped 400 feet while making a turn in the air.

Colonel Damm and Major Brindley had started for an experimental trip, and had soared to a height of 400 feet when, witnesses say, in endeavoring to make a too sudden turn in the air, the airplane went into a tail spin and dropped to the ground. Major Brindley was dead when taken from the machine and Colonel Damm was unconscious. He died while being taken to a local hospital.

Major Brindley recently was named as chief instructor of the American aerial forces, and was graduated under the Wright brothers here in 1910. He was formerly an exhibition flier until the need for Government aviators became pronounced. Both men were attached to the McCook aviation experimental field in this city.

Lieutenant James S. Ennis, Jr., who met his death yesterday at Fort Worth, Texas, was born in this city on June 16, 1894. His father is Dr. James Seferen Ennis, Professor of Laryngology in the Medical Department of Fordham University. His brother, Lieutenant Frank S. Ennis, is Acting Flight Commander, 147th Aero Squadron, in France, serving under Major Geoffrey Harper Bonnell, who is credited with having brought down Boelke, the noted German ace. Another brother is George Seferen Ennis, second in charge of the safety department of the Baltimore Copper Smelting and Refining Company of Baltimore.

Lieutenant James S. Ennis, Jr., was an honor man of the class of 1915 at Yale. He did post-graduate work in French literature, Latin, Greek, and archaeology at the University of Toulouse, France, during 1916 and 1917 until the United States declared war on Germany. He then returned to this country and volunteered for the aviation service of the United States Army. He was graduated from the Military Aeronautics School at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology last October and was assigned for his flying training to the Royal Flying Corps at Camp Mohawk, where he was a student under Captain Vernon Castle. Later he went to Camp Borden in Canada, Camp Benbrook and Camp Hicks in Texas. On April 4 last he passed his reserve military aviator test and was recommended for a commission. Three days later he was made a Second Lieutenant.

He had been instructing cadets in flying at Taliaferro Field since April 1.

GABRILOWITSCH APPLAUDED

Throng at His Last Concert as Conductor and Soloist—War Speeches.

Ossip Gabrilowitsch introduced the Marquis of Aberdeen, who in turn brought forward Lady Aberdeen, for brief war speeches in an intermission of the Russian artist's last concert as conductor and soloist in Carnegie Hall last evening. The lengthy program and speeches combined ran nearly two hours and a half, but a capacity audience stayed to the last note, and the orchestra gave its leader a noisy salute at the close.

Mr. Gabrilowitsch conducted Beethoven's Seventh Symphony and Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Scheherazade," restoring the Russian music in particular from bacchanale to barcarolle, as the composer intended. It was a much retarded Sinbad's ship, and not a mad Sultan's harem, that met shipwreck in those imposing, slow, sonorous harmonies.

In the Belgian Cesar Franck's "Symphonic Variations," for piano, Mr. Gabrilowitsch as soloist, with Arnold Volpe conducting, made his deepest impression last evening. He gave a rare and poetic reading of music not often heard, an eloquent performance that held the great house enthralled. There were recalls after all three numbers.

Lawyer Sues Judge for Services.

Suit was filed yesterday by Gilbert Ray Hawes, attorney, against Judge Wauhope Lynn in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn for compensation for services alleged to have been given in gaining clear title to three islands in Jamaica Bay. The islands are Old Squaw Marsh, Big Fishkill Marsh, and Sales Point Hassock. Judge Lynn is said to have paid New York State $650 for them and later is declared to have expressed a hope of selling them for from $25,000 to $40,000 as a result of an appropriation for improvements in Jamaica Bay.

Weds Lieut. Schieffelin Tomorrow.

The wedding of Miss Annette Markoe, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James W. Markoe of 12 West Fifty-fifth Street, to Lieutenant William Jay Schieffelin, Jr., will take place tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the chapel of St. George's Church, Stuyvesant Square. Dr. Karl Reiland, rector of the church, will perform the ceremony in the presence of the relatives and a few intimate friends. Miss Pauline Bacon will be the bride's maid of honor and her bridesmaids will include the Misses Elizabeth Stuyvesant Howard, Pauline Morgan, and Mary J. and Louise Schieffelin, sisters of the bridegroom. A small reception will follow the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents.

Middleton-Hoxie.

Cornelius Walworth Middleton, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Middleton, and Miss Isabella Hoxie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Hoxie, were married at the bride's home, 315 Clinton Avenue, Brooklyn, Wednesday evening by Chaplain Nehemiah Boynton, 15th Coast Artillery, U. S. A. Mrs. Lewis E. Nisson of New York and the Misses Virginia Mollenhauer, Helen Brower, Josephine Moore, and Nan Pillsbury were the bride's attendants. Carl Chester Harriman, U. S. N. R. F., was the best man, and the ushers were Lieutenants William Todd Raymond Powell, Harry R. Leonard, and Sergeant Edward Dixon.

DENIES DISLOYALTY CHARGE

Auditor of Edison Company Arrested on Woman's Complaint.

Notwithstanding protests by Henry M. Edwards, auditor of the New York Edison Company, that he had two sons in the army and was the head of two Liberty Loan Committees that had sold $1,000,000 worth of Liberty bonds, Mrs. Henry Wiley of Philadelphia, who is stopping at the Hotel Vanderbilt, insisted that he be arrested for alleged unpatriotic utterances at the Lyceum Theatre yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Wiley said that during a Liberty Loan rally at the Lyceum Theatre yesterday afternoon, while a speaker was describing the crucifixion of a Canadian soldier by the Germans, Mr. Edwards exclaimed, "Good for him!"

Mr. Edwards explained that he said "Good for him" in applause of the speaker, and that as he had two sons in service and was doing his best to sell Liberty bonds, there could be no doubt of his loyalty. He was released after Edward J. Kenny of 302 East Eighteenth Street, Brooklyn, had put up a bond of $500 for his appearance in the West Side Court tomorrow. Mr. Edwards lives at 314 Ridgewood Avenue, Glen Ridge, N. J.

OFFERS SHIPYARD PRIZES.

$10,000 Award by Schwab to be Added to by Builders.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 2.—At a dinner to shipyard officials tonight at which he urged them to full speed ahead, Charles M. Schwab announced that he would give a prize of $10,000 to the yard which produces the largest surplus above its program for the year.

W. Averill Harriman, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Merchants Shipbuilding Company, said that if Bristol captured the prize he would add $10,000 to the Schwab prize. Charles A. Stone, President of the American International Company, and John Carse, President of the Submarine Boat Company, made similar offers for Hog Island and Newark, respectively.

The dinner was held at the Bellevue-Stratford. Mr. Schwab said he told the officials present that he wanted them to come through and make enthusiasm, ginger, and go ahead the slogan of all the yards.

"We have no definite program in mind," said Mr. Schwab afterward. "It was a get-together affair, one of these speed-up rallies that I believe in. Everything I heard made me feel splendidly. I just appealed to the officials to go ahead and make as plentiful speed as possible, and while I'm making no promises, I feel pretty much elated.

"I got a dozen Presidents and managers together. One of them, Paul Starrett, who is President of the George A. Fuller Company, is building a yard in North Carolina. Alva C. Dinkey, President of the Midvale Steel Company, told the men of the plants that he would see to it that the yards got all the steel they required.

"Just give us a chance with Hog Island. I think that when that plant gets going right it will make everybody sit up and take notice."

Rear Admiral Bowles and Charles Piez of the Emergency Fleet Corporation were among the guests at the dinner. Mr. Piez stated that the shipment of steel for the last month had been heavier than anticipated. He said that Rear Admiral Bowles would have charge of all the fabricating yards, and that his position would be as definitely responsible in the future as in the past. This reference to the Admiral was seconded by Mr. Schwab.

COL. ALBERT WEIS DEAD.

Head of American Theatrical Exchange Succumbs at 77 Years.

Colonel Albert Weis, head of the American Theatrical Exchange and a veteran of the Confederate Army, died suddenly yesterday in his apartments in the Sherman Square Hotel. He was in his seventy-eighth year. Colonel Weis was the lessee or owner of more than forty theatres in Southern cities, and the American Theatrical Exchange controlled the booking of more than 200 theatres in the South.

Colonel Weis was born in Germany, and was brought to this country by his parents at the age of 3 years. At the close of the civil war he went into the dry goods and banking business in Galveston, Tex. He moved to this city eighteen years ago, and soon after established the American Theatrical Exchange.

MANNING GIFTS TO CHARITY.

Aged Broker Left $193,000 to Catholic Institutions.

Generous gifts to charities are made in the will of John B. Manning, the aged broker who was sued for $1,000,000 for breach of promise by Miss Honora O'Brien, and who paid $100,000 to settle the case after a verdict for $225,000 by a jury had been cut to $125,000. The largest gift was $50,000, to the Catholic University at Washington, D. C., to be used to train young men for the priesthood, while $25,000 each went to the St. Vincent de Paul Society, St. Vincent's Hospital, and the Apostolic Mission House. The Cathedral College got $15,000 and $10,000 each went to the Seamen's Catholic Mission, St. Francis Hospital, St. Joseph's Hospital, and the Mission of the Immaculate Virgin. Other gifts were $5,000 each to St. Joseph's Seminary and the Church of the Good Shepherd; $2,000 to Misericordia Hospital, and $1,000 to the Church of the Holy Trinity.

Mr. Manning gave $50,000 each and a ninth of the estate to his sons, Joseph J. and Daniel Manning, and his daughters, Agnes M. Bannon and Catherine M. McKeon, while his son John B. Manning got a ninth of the estate and his daughter Mary Manning got $25,000 and an equal share of the residue. Three grandchildren also got $25,000 each and a share of the residue, while the income from $50,000 went to Mrs. Daniel Manning, daughter-in-law. Mr. Manning gave five coastwise sailing vessels to his children, and left the income from 500 shares of Lackawanna stock to Daniel Manning.

Priest Leaves $25,000 Estate.

The Rev. Father Michael C. O'Farrell, who died Jan. 4 last, gave the bulk of his estate of more than $25,000 to Roman Catholic organizations. His library, known to be one of the largest owned by a priest in New York, was left to St. Joseph's Seminary at Dunwoodie. He gave $3,000 to the Church of the Holy Innocents, of which he was pastor. The Society for the Propagation of the Faith received $1,000, the Catholic Institute for the Blind, $500, and the Trappist Monastery, at Melleray, Ireland, $500. He also gave $250 each to four churches at Rondout, N. Y., "being the scenes of my labors during the years of my priesthood," and an equal amount went to the St. Vincent de Paul Society of each church. Bequests of $250 each went to St. Francis and St. Joseph's Hospitals, Catholic Protectory, Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum, Mission of the Immaculate Virgin, Mission of Our Lady of the Rosary, and the Society of Catholic Missions for the Colored People of the United States.

The will of Luther Kountze, banker, who died on April 17, gives the bulk of his estate, which exceeds $500,000, to his wife, Annie Parsons Kountze; his daughter, Annie Ward Douglas, and his son, William De Lancey Kountze, Major in the 163d Infantry. The son gets his father's interest in the banking business of Kountze Brothers. Mrs. Kountze gets her husband's stock in the Metropolitan Opera Company and his box at the opera, and realty in Mendham and Passaic Townships, N. J. The son and daughter inherit tracts of New Jersey real estate. The banker's secretary, T. Irving Haddon, receives $10,000.

SEES JAPAN'S LOYALTY FIRMLY MAINTAINED

London Times Asserts That Baron Goto Has Answered Germany's Malicious Slanders.

LONDON, May 2.—"Baron Goto's statement is eminently satisfactory to the Allies," says The Times in commenting on the interview given by the new Japanese Foreign Minister to The Associated Press, in which he spoke of Japan's loyalty to her allies and asserted there would be no change in the foreign policy of the country. "It answers effectively the malicious slanders which Germany invented and circulated in the Far East and other parts of the world.

"Baron Goto indignantly contradicts the latest of these lying rumors, which insinuated that his advent to office would be followed by a change in Japan's attitude. Japan is pledged to stand with the Allies until they win victory, and she will keep her word.

"The Japanese Foreign Minister asserts with much earnestness that Japan bears the utmost good-will toward Russia and is sincerely anxious to see her restored to her position among the powers. Apart from all else, a raison d'état must inspire Japan with this wish. Japan has not forgotten what Germany's influence in the Far East has cost her. She believes a regenerated Russia will form an effective barrier against a revival of that influence and, accordingly, that it is to her interest to give Russia all possible help in the work of national reconstitution.

"Germany is trying to estrange Russia, as well as America, from Japan, but Japanese statesmen see through this obvious manoeuvre and trust that the good sense of the Russians will defeat it. They know that, whatever relations the Bolshevist Government may establish with Germany, there will always be plenty of sensible Russians who will continue to look upon Japan as their friend. The true policy of Japan and the other Allies is to encourage and assist these moderate elements and studiously refrain from any action which might estrange them. It is evident that this consideration has a certain bearing upon the delicate question of intervention on any large scale in Siberia.

"With China, as with Russia, Japan desires good relations, and from both she would welcome co-operation. They are her neighbors. It is to their interest as to hers to work together in the great task of keeping the peace of the Far East.

"The declarations of Baron Goto embody a policy which is worthy of his country. It is large, wise, loyal. We have all known for long that it is her policy, yet the assurance that it is unchanged will do good service in neutral lands."

A Little Talk On a Gilt-Edge Investment

IN order to win this war, enormous quantities of bonds must be sold in a short time. Some reselling in the open market is therefore inevitable, and with the war-time volume of these resales it is natural that bonds should at times bring a few cents less than par. But resales do not help the Government. They bring no money into the National Treasury. Resales do not help you, either.

If you hang on to your Liberty Bonds you can't lose. You have a sure thing. The Government promises to pay you dollar for dollar when your bonds mature, and the Government has never yet failed to meet its promise. Liberty Bonds are as safe as the United States.

Moreover, you stand the good chance that they will increase in value as the years pass. Every war bond the United States ever issued has steadily risen in value after the return of peace. Liberty Bonds should prove no exception to the rule.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Advance Under Good Leadership—Sentiment Is Cheerful—Loan Prospects.

Strength again marked a quiet session on the Stock Exchange, which carried nearly every issue to higher levels. Gains were most evident in the steel and railroad shares, but they were so widely distributed as to indicate a movement based on fundamental conditions rather than on any local or trade considerations. Steel common was consistently strong, moving up to 98½ in the early afternoon, at which point it just equaled the previous high record of the stock for this year, made on Feb. 1. In a little more than a month this issue has advanced a full 12 points from the low price made after the initiation of the great German offensive. Steel's net gain yesterday of 1¼ points was surpassed by the advance in Republic and Superior, while the other steel shares closed up a point or more. Reading led the rails in activity and moved up a full point, while New Haven, which was in unusual demand, closed with a net advance of 1⅞. The copper issues were generally higher also.

For the improvement in sentiment which has been made so manifest in the financial district to the last few days, it is sufficient to trace the growth of a feeling of optimism over the wonderful resistance which the Allies have offered to the attacks on Ypres and other threatened points on the western front. The war situation is still susceptible of great changes while the enemy continues his efforts to break through to the channel ports, but the conviction that his hardest thrust has been met is gaining ground. The domestic situation is more encouraging, especially as regards the railroads, with which Mr. McAdoo has shown disposition to make fair arrangements as to the points in dispute in the pending contracts. The recovery in the market has not been artificially produced by heavy speculative buying, but has appeared to reflect increasing demand for securities with a view to their after-war possibilities.

Better success which has attended the final days of the loan campaign has also been a factor in stimulating interest in the stock market. Commission houses have done little business since the opening of the campaign, and some traders have been acting on the theory that once the loan is oversubscribed a considerable volume of investment funds will be released to the stock market. To date the average subscription to the Third Liberty Loan has been so small as to emphasize the wide distribution it has obtained. From now on it is likely that the total will be brought up more rapidly by the inclusion of a large number of substantial subscriptions which have purposely been withheld until every opportunity had been given to small subscribers to put the loan over. It will not be necessary for banks and corporations to take an unduly large part of this issue, but their eleventh hour subscriptions will probably effect a material increase in the average amount taken. The campaign will close tomorrow night, with considerably more than $3,000,000,000 in band, but unless the large subscribers surpass expectations the New York district's total does not promise to run much past the allotment.

LONDON MARKET CHEERFUL.

Shipping Stocks More Active and Mines Freely Dealt In.

LONDON, May 2.—The stock market had a decidedly cheerful tone today. Gilt-edged securities and also foreign bonds were in improved demand at hardening prices. Shipping stocks were more active and mines were good, particularly tins. Oils were buoyant following an advance in petroleum, and industrials were firm features. Rubber shares moved irregularly.

There was a large increase in the floating supply of money. Discount rates were quiet.

Trading More Active on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, May 2.—Trading was more active on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes, 58f 50c for cash. Exchange on London, 27f 16c. Five per cent. loan, 87f 50c.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Pools and Talk of Pools.

Yesterday's stock market was broad enough and sufficiently active to attract numerous buyers who had previously been holding back, waiting for additional war news or something nearly as potent to point the way for speculative ventures. The steel and copper shares stood well in the foreground, but the demand for rails was large enough to arouse more favorable comment about them than had been heard in brokerage houses in many weeks. The Street was full of gossip about large and optimistic pools in Steel, Republic Iron and Steel, and Superior Steel. This sort of explanation for the vigorous rise of particular issues would be continued after the Liberty Loan subscription list was closed to "put" stocks still higher.

Steel Foundries' Net Declines.

The American Steel Foundries Company's earnings in the March quarter declined more than 30 per cent. from the total reported for the same period last year. Presumably, the company suffered chiefly from the unfavorable weather of January and February, as did practically all other steel concerns, with a further handicap in the way of raw material and fuel shortages. The net revenue amounted to $2,188,892, a decline of $991,065. These figures did not take into account the Federal war taxes, which amounted to $548,000, and constituted a charge which did not appear in the quarterly statement a year ago. The surplus left for dividends amounted to $1,507,592, compared with $2,401,401 in the first three months of 1917.

Cotton Puzzles.

After yesterday's session of the Cotton Exchange, during which futures prices had once more broken and gone down virtually as fast and as far as they had risen on Wednesday, more than one dealer made his way out of the ring, shaking his head and talking to himself. It is perfectly plain, aside from their own emphatic language on the subject, that the substantial men of the cotton trade do not like the present violent fluctuations in cotton prices. President Shutt of the New York Cotton Exchange went so far a week ago as to post a notice on the bulletin board repeating the caution of a year ago to members against violent and unexpected price fluctuations. But, as honest believers in a free market, cotton men are sticking by their guns in the faith that in the long run Wisdom will be justified of her children.

Redeeming Features.

Several points in the light of which the violent ups and downs of the cotton market may not seem so violent are stressed by cotton men. One is that at the present price of cotton a pound a variation of a cent a pound is no more violent in proportion than one of 40 trading points before the war. Another is that as everything in the world, life included, is beset with much greater uncertainty now than in peaceful years, it is only natural that the cotton market should have a harder time getting an equilibrium. Finally, no man in cotton, no matter how badly the market may have gone against him, really doubts for a minute the honesty of the market or the fairness of its reflection of true market conditions, no matter what the temporary fluctuations may be. Consequently they want to see the theory of an absolutely free market, upon which it is based, receive a thorough and fair trial.

Few Municipal Bonds Sold in April.

The Liberty Loan compaign had a marked effect on the output of municipal securities in April. The par value of city, State, and other municipal issues sold during the month was no more than $12,000,000, according to the records of The Bond Buyer, a decline of 50 per cent. from the March output. It was the smallest total for any month since August, 1914. In April last year the aggregate of new issues was $62,454,686, which was practically as large as the borrowings of the first four months this year. While the new Government bond offering submerged the needs of municipalities, it is probable that potential borrowers refrained from entering the market because of the general need to limit security issues to only the most pressing purposes.

Aetna Explosives' Income.

The Aetna Explosives Company earned more money in March than in any month since the receivers took charge a little more than a year ago. The gross income of $810,424 was $124,210 higher than the best preceding monthly record in the period. In January it amounted to $395,975. The March net income was at the annual rate of more than $7,700,000, compared with $3,618,773 in 1917 before making appropriations for amortizing the plants.

Bank Stockholders Must Pay.

Stockholders of the Borough Bank of Brooklyn must pay approximately $70,000 interest on $200,000 demanded from them by the State Banking Department when it was discovered the assets of the bank would not cover the claims of depositors. This was the decision handed down by Justice Callaghan in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn yesterday. The stockholders have fought payment of the demands of the Banking Department, principally on the point of interest payment.

British Bank Statement.

LONDON, May 2.—The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes:

Total reserve decreased	£675,000
Circulation increased	1,030,000
Bullion increased	355

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The Liberty Securities Corporation, newly formed by the Liberty National Bank, elected yesterday Harvey D. Gibson, President; Sidney W. Noyes, Vice President, and Frederick P. McGlynn, Secretary and Treasurer.

A dispatch from Amsterdam yesterday said the Royal Dutch Petroleum Company had declared a second interim dividend of 15 per cent., payable in Holland on May 6.

R. F. Wingard, Vice President of the Guaranty Banking Corporation of Chicago, has been elected Vice President of the Continental Guaranty Corporation.

The Royal Bank of Canada has opened a branch at Barcelona, Spain.

The Mercantile Trust and Deposit Company reports deposits of approximately $13,000,000 as of April 30. This date marked the completion of the first year of business.

Benjamin A. Morton was elected Vice President of the Union Trust Company yesterday to succeed the late C. C. Rawlings.

The Electric Bond and Share Company earned a gross income of $3,140,020 in 1917, an increase of $969,105 over the preceding year. The surplus, after paying dividends, totaled $953,791, compared with $733,151 in 1916.

Save Your Money and Save a Soldier

Safety is by far the most important thing to consider when you invest your money.

Bankers, insurance companies and big business interests seek the safest possible investments; the rate of interest does not matter so much, if they are SURE the investment is a safe one.

Your money is equally important to you. You can't afford to lose it. You have worked hard for it, and you want every dollar of it for use in after years, when you can no longer earn or make as much money as you do now.

You ought to be glad that U. S. Government Bonds, the safest investment on earth, are now issued in small denominations, and sold on easy terms, so that you can invest your money in them.

You take no chances. You will get your money back. you will be paid a good rate of interest for it.

Just look at it in this light: Every Liberty Bond you buy may save you discomfort and suffering in later years, and it may NOW save the life of an American soldier.

Could you ask for a better investment than this?

HEADED OFF SEIZURE OF THE STEEL OUTPUT

Agreement of Mills to Devote Facilities to War Work Followed Government Warning.

E. H. GARY REVEALS PLAN

War Industries Board Was Prepared to Adopt a Drastic Program.

The stenographic report of the meeting of steel manufacturers at the offices of the United States Steel Corporation last Friday revealed the fact, when made public by Elbert H. Gary, Chairman of the corporation, yesterday, that the mutual agreement of the steel makers to devote all their facilities to war work headed off a practical seizure of their products by the Government. The War Industries Board had decided to hurry up deliveries to munition plants, shipyards, and railroads by taking every pound of steel made by the country's mills, except such moderate tonnages as might be licensed by Government consent. J. Leonard Replogle, Director of Supply, appeared before the manufacturers, the report showed, for the purpose of laying bare the Government's plan and warning his hearers that it would be put in operation unless they took their own measures to increase their output and deliveries.

Mr. Replogle told the steel men at the start of his address to them that, contrary to the general impression, it was his firm conviction that an acute shortage of steel existed, which was delaying the war program.

"The immediate cause of this meeting," he said, "was a direct and positive order which I received from the War Industries Board and from Mr. Baruch personally, who has, under the authority of the President of the United States, delegated to him the powers as to priority of material and other things. And after consultation with the transportation people and the fuel people it was decided to go practically to the English system of an absolute prohibition on the consumption of any iron or the manufacture of any steel except for absolute war necessity. That has been done in England for several years, and I was just showing Judge Gary this morning that a concern over there was fined £156, according to the last current issue of The Ironmonger, because it made two tons of steel without a license from the directors of production."

Withheld Drastic Program.

Mr. Replogle stated that he received permission from the War Industries Board to withhold the drastic priority program until the results of the meeting were known. Certain of the steel makers, he asserted, "had not played the game."

"As a general rule, you have," Mr. Replogle said. "But we have run against the proposition that you are short of steel for this and that, and you are short of fuel and cannot operate, but somehow that shortage seems to fall on Government necessities. There are a great many of you—practically all, I will say, of the contractors who have British shells are far behind in delivery; some of them three or four months. And we find that forge plants have been shut down and we could not get steel.

"As General Haig says, their backs are against the wall, and the Kaiser is not going to wait, and we are not satisfied to wait on those shells if there is any way of getting those shells. If there is a shortage of fuel, if there is a shortage of ingots, it must fall on the less essential product, and the more essential and direct Government necessities must have such a degree of priority that that material must come.

"This is a crisis, and commercialism, gentlemen, must absolutely be sidetracked. There is just one thing we have to do—win the war. That is your job and my job. And I must speak frankly to you because those are my instructions. The Government will not tolerate any ... re of the procedure of some steel companies. We have a force of men now checking up ingot production. We want to know where every ton of ingots goes, and where there may be a surplus of ingot capacity or pig iron capacity. And some of you gentlemen say, we have a surplus of this or that and can put that in this commercial order. We are going to go into your plants and take that pig iron under Government commandeering order, or we are going to take that steel and give it to another steel manufacturer who is short, if that other steel manufacturer is working on Government material. That has been determined absolutely. There is too great a percentage of non-war material being produced."

The Director of Steel Supply said that it was his opinion, and the opinion of persons better able than himself to judge, that the fuel situation in the coming Winter would be worse than last Winter.

"We dare not reach the same position on steel," he stated, "that Dr. Garfield did on coal."

Will Not Tolerate Delays.

The minutes indicated considerable give and take between Mr. Replogle and some of the manufacturers, in which he declined to accept explanations for delayed deliveries. The explanations had to do with inadequate transportation, and the enticing away of labor by higher wages in other industries. Judge Gary, as Chairman, smoothed out the arguments, the report showed, and finally proposed a pledge binding all the companies represented at the meeting to shelve all commercial orders and devote full capacity to business for the United States and the other allied Governments. The pledge was accepted unanimously by a roll call of the forty-five concerns which had executive officers there.

In recounting details of the enormous Government orders now in hand, Mr. Replogle said that steel plates under contract would occupy the mills for the next eight months, with new business pouring in every day.

"We had 32,000 tons to place this last week for the Italian Government," he stated, "and yet we do not know where to get it without seriously affecting our own shipbuilding and necessary railroad construction. We received yesterday 15,000 tons additional from the British, and that is coming in right along, and will be 300,000 or 400,000 tons of plates. Some of the plates we have for Great Britain are now four or five months overdue. They are furnishing General Pershing an enormous tonnage of materials, which at the last report approximated 1,000,000 tons, which General Pershing has agreed to replace from this country, in the lines like plates and some pig iron. On projectile steel we have thirty-six weeks' rolling, all of which, of course, is for the United States and allied Governments.

"We are rolling so much projectile steel on rail mills, and the rail situation is becoming so acute—the Director General of Railways says he will have to have 2,000,000 tons—and any increase in rail production will necessarily increase our trouble as far as projectile steel is concerned. On rails, at the rate we have been rolling in the last three months, we have ninety-two weeks' work ahead of us, ninety-two weeks, almost a year and three-quarters, at the rate we have been going."

Wilson & Co. Earns $7,408,171.

Wilson & Co., the packing firm, earned a net income of $7,408,171 in 1917, an increase of $1,697,714 over the result the year before. After paying interest and preferred stock dividends a balance of $5,791,233 remained for the junior stock issue, equal to more than $25 a share. In the preceding year the balance was $4,213,158. The total surplus at the end of 1917 was $15,051,044, compared with $9,359,811 a year before.

McAdoo Provides for $250,000,000 to $300,000,000 Equipment Outlay.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Director General McAdoo announced today the allotment of orders for the construction of 70,000 additional steel freight cars, to various carbuilding concerns, on the same basis on which the order was recently placed for 30,000 cars. The 100,000 cars will cost between $250,000,000 and $300,000,000. The orders were all placed upon the basis of the minimum bids as to costs for labor and overhead charges.

The compensation of the builders will be approximately 5 per cent. on the cost, as estimated on the minimum bid.

The cars will be of the standard types adopted by the Railroad Administration. These standards are the result of the labors of a committee of experts.

The new order includes 15,000 forty-ton double-sheathed box cars, 16,000 fifty-ton single-sheathed box cars, 15,000 fifty-ton composite gondola coal cars, 5,000 seventy-ton low-side gondola cars, 19,000 fifty-five-ton hopper coal cars.

The apportionments among builders are as follows:

Bettendorf Co.	3,000
Cambria Steel Co.	3,000
Haskell & Barker Works	8,000
Keith Car Mfg. Co.	1,000
Laconia Car Co.	1,000
Lenoir Car Works	2,000
Liberty Car and Equipment Co.	1,000
Magor Car Corporation	1,000
Mt. Vernon Car Mfg. Co.	4,000
Pacific Car and Foundry Co.	2,000
Pressed Steel Car Co.	14,000
Pullman Co.	8,000
Ralston Steel Car Co.	4,000
St. Louis Car Co.	1,000
Standard Steel Car Co.	15,000

Also pending to the Barney & Smith Car Co., Dayton, Ohio, 2,000.

GERMANS SEEK MARKETS.

Company Formed to Exploit Textile Resources of the East.

In addition to the formation of the "Europaeasches Gesellschaft" for influencing the trade relations of neutral nations, German financiers, according to The London Times, recently organized, with headquarters at Bremen, another "European Trading Company," with a nominal capital of $250,000, for the purpose of exploiting the textile resources of Russia and the other countries in Western Asia, now laid open to German enterprise. The Directors, it is reported, include representatives of practically all the big German, Austrian and Hungarian textile enterprises, and the company is more or less under the direct "supervision" of their respective Governments.

Its principal spheres of activity, according to the German papers, are to be for the present, Russia, Roumania, and Persia. It will not send its own buyers and agents into the East, but will employ agents who had experience in Russia as representatives of German concerns before the war. The company, it is expected, will go into liquidation not more than one year after the conclusion of peace, as by that time the Germans hope they will have secured a firm grip on the markets they are after.

MOTHERLODE MINES SOLD.

Property Acquired by Kennecott Copper Interests.

Control of the Motherlode Copper Company, whose property in Alaska adjoins the Bonanza mines of the Kennecott Copper Corporation, has been acquired by interests connected with the latter company. The Motherlode Company has $5,230,000 stock outstanding and $254,500 convertible 6 per cent. gold bonds. It is understood that a new company will be formed, with the approval of the Capital Issues Committee, whose stock will be exchanged for the shares and bonds of the Motherlode.

The company owns seventy lode and placer claims, on approximately 1,400 acres of land in the Copper River district. Engineering reports have told of valuable deposits of copper, but lack of sufficient capital has heretofore held back development work. The new owners, it is said, are planning to push operations. Rumors heard of late in regard to the transaction have had it that the property would ultimately be turned over to the Kennecott Corporation, but confirmation has so far been lacking. Details of the Motherlode plans are expected in a few days.

Net Income Shows Decrease of $600,503, or 7.83 Per Cent.

On gross operating revenues of $54,643,793, an increase of $4,809,481, or 9.65 per cent., the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company in 1917, according to its annual report, issued yesterday, lost $600,503, or 7.83 per cent., in net income for the year, the net income being $7,066,378, or 11.25 per cent. on the capital stock outstanding. The decline was accounted for by an increase of $5,407,130 in operating expenses, $802,727 in taxes, $49,184 in rentals and other overhead charges, and $206,961 in interest charges, only partly compensated by an increase of $1,056,018 in miscellaneous income.

The increase in miscellaneous income was almost entirely due to increased revenue from hire of equipment, this item alone increasing $947,000. On the other hand, the tonnage of coal and coke moved, forming one of the largest sources of income of the Chesapeake & Ohio, decreased 3.9 per cent., compared with 1916, to a total of 26,230,768 tons. At the same time other freight tonnage increased 4.4 per cent., to a total of 11,648,957, and passenger traffic increased by 7.8 per cent. The company's increased wage bill for the year 1917 over 1916 amounted to $3,051,100.

TO PROTECT RAILROADS.

P. J. Doherty Named to Guard Against Thefts of Freight.

To protect the railroads from the loss by petty pilfering of freight in transit Director General of Railroads McAdoo has created a special division of the Law Department to deal with the subject and has appointed Philip J. Doherty as manager. He will have charge of the work of protecting railroad property as well as protecting shippers against loss of their goods.

Director McAdoo has announced the creation of the new division in a special order that has gone out to every railroad station in the country. All employes are asked to co-operate and send any information which they may have to Mr. Doherty at Washington, D. C.

Hercules Powder Earnings.

The Hercules Powder Company reports for the quarter ended March 31 gross receipts amounting to $8,800,872, a decline of $4,747,262 from the total a year before. After providing for operating expenses, the Federal war taxes, &c., a profit remained of $1,328,065, compared with $1,858,937. The quarter's surplus was $1,234,625, a decline of $468,128.

$12,000 for Sisters of the Visitation.

Special to The New York Times.

STAMFORD, Conn., May 2.—Mrs. Anna G. O'Connor, daughter of the late Hugh W. Collonder, pioneer billiard table maker, bequeathed $12,500 in trust to the Sisters of the Visitation, New York, of which order her daughter is a member. She also made other bequests to various Catholic institutions.

ALFRED E. MARLING NEW CHAMBER HEAD

150TH ANNUAL MEETING

J. Pierpont Morgan, George F. Baker, and Frank Trumbull Chosen Vice Presidents.

At the 150th annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York, held yesterday, Alfred E. Marling was elected President of that body, and was formally inaugurated, the oath of office being administered by Eugenius H. Outerbridge, the retiring President.

Mr. Marling is a native of Toronto, Canada, and is in his sixtieth year. He came to New York in 1875, at the age of 17, and from that day to this has lived in the same house, at 35 West Forty-seventh Street. On Oct. 1, 1877, he entered the employ of Horace S. Ely & Co., real estate dealers and appraisers, and last Fall celebrated the completion of his fortieth year of continuous service with that firm, of which he became President in 1904, on the death of Mr. Ely. He has been a member of the Chamber of Commerce ever since he can remember, and for the last two years has served as First Vice President of the body. He is prominent in Y. M. C. A. affairs, and is Chairman of the International War Work Council of that institution.

In addition to Mr. Marling, the new administration of the Chamber of Commerce includes J. Pierpont Morgan, of J. P. Morgan & Co.; George F. Baker, Chairman of the Board of the First National Bank, and Frank Trumbull, Chairman of the Board of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company, as Vice Presidents.

Before the regular annual meeting of the Chamber a special meeting was held, at which Joseph B. Morrell of Little Neck, L. I., was chosen Commissioner of Pilots for the Port of New York, to serve until October, 1919, filling out the unexpired term of the late Commodore Jacob W. Miller.

The ceremonies attending the change in administration of the Chamber were brief and simple. Mr. Outerbridge, in a brief and feeling address, thanked the members for their loyal support and assistance to him in the various efforts of the Chamber to be of assistance to the country during the trying times of the last year, and bespoke the same support for his successor. Mr. Marling devoted most of his remarks to a eulogy of the retiring President. Both speakers laid strong emphasis upon the war as the prime consideration of all loyal Americans, and promised the Government every aid which the Chamber could give for its prosecution to a victorious conclusion.

PUSHES THRIFT STAMPS.

McAdoo Asks That Liberty Bond Interest Be Put in Them.

Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo yesterday sent a telegram to the National War Savings Committees throughout the country, asking that holders of Liberty bonds of the second issue be urged to put their first interest money, due May 15, into War Savings Stamps and certificates. The interest distribution to be made on and after that date will amount to nearly $160,000,000.

Sales of War Savings and Thrift stamps in this city on May 1 amounted to $373,106. The average daily sales since Dec. 3 have totaled $75,862, according to announcement made yesterday by Frederic W. Allen, State Director for War Savings, and the aggregate now amounts to $11,531,486.

From March 30 to April 30, inclusive, sales of the stamps at the New York Public Library reached a total of $88,054. The committee in charge of this sales depot has arranged to have Mme. de Cisneros, of the Metropolitan Opera Company, sing the anthems of the allied nations on a day to be selected later. At that time members of the French Alpine Chasseurs, who are now visiting the city, will assist in singing the Marseillaise.

RECORD FOR W. S. S. SALES.

But Rate of Increase Fell Off Somewhat During April.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Sales of war savings and thrift stamps in April, although actually greater than in any previous month, showed a reduction in the rate of increase, and some Treasury officials attribute this to the Liberty Loan campaign, although previously it had been predicted that the war savings stamp sale would be stimulated by bond sales. War savings organizations had instructions to assist Liberty Loan campaigners, without discontinuing their own work.

War savings stamp sales in April were $60,972,000, or $7,000,000 more than the month previous.

WAR HURTS BRITISH COPPER

Shipping Shortage Discovers Earnings of Big Companies.

Reports of the larger British copper mining companies, as collated by the financial department of The London Times, show an even greater falling off in profits in 1917, as compared with 1916, than was shown by the principal American companies. Of course, the British copper-mining concerns are much smaller than the big American companies. Mason & Barry, one of the leading British firms, reported net profits for 1917 of £18,490, or about $88,000, as compared with £99,166 in 1916, or about $476,000.

The Tharsis Sulphur and Copper Company reported net profits for 1917 of £158,078, or some $758,000, as compared with £199,149, or about $956,000 for 1916. The losses of the British companies were due in large measure to special causes, as their principal source of ore is now the Spanish peninsula, Mason & Barry having mines in Portugal, and the Tharsis Company in Spain, and were unable to secure shipping tonnage to transport the ore.

BELIEVE GERMANY HAS STOCKS OF VANADIUM

Analysis of Shells Fired Into Paris Showing Presence of Alloy Arouses Curiosity as to Source.

An analysis of fragments of shells flung by the German long-range guns into Paris, showing that the walls of the projectiles contained a considerable quantity of vanadium, has aroused speculation among steelmakers as to the German source of this important alloy. Moderate amounts of the metal are produced in Sweden from ores found there, but it had been supposed that importations from this source had been used by the Germans in building their submarines and other war engines requiring steel of the particular quality obtained by the use of vanadium as an alloy. It is estimated that the American Vanadium Company, through its mines in Peru, supplied more than three-quarters of the metal which reached the world's markets before the war, and none of this is known to have reached Germany on direct shipments from the time when the allied navies began their rigid search for contraband on Europe-bound vessels.

The theory of steel men is that, in preparing for the war, Germany laid in large stocks of the alloy. In course of a discussion of the shells from the Teuton big gun Joseph de Wyckoff, foreign sales manager of the American Vanadium Company, recalled yesterday that fully a year and a half before the outbreak of hostilities the Krupp management hinted that substantial amounts of vanadium were held in the company's storehouses.

The phase of the situation which interests the steel trade particularly is the ability of the German shellmakers to make use of this precious alloy for a special and not altogether effective purpose after nearly four years of war. Either the accumulated stock was much greater than was believed in 1914, or imports by secret channels have kept the supply abreast of the heavy demand. After the submarine Deutschland left this side on her second trip it was rumored that a large consignment of vanadium was aboard, and that in both trips the undersea cargo carrier took back 25,000 pounds of the metal. None of this had its source in the American Vanadium Company's mines, officers of the company state, and presumably was supplied from a store accumulated by German agents here.

GERMAN BREWERIES SUFFER

Only Half of Those Operating Before War Still Running.

According to the Berlin Borsen-Zeitung, out of upward of 12,000 breweries operating in Germany before the war, there are only about 6,000, and probably less, still in business. Some of these represent fusions of formerly competing concerns, but many have simply been forced out of business, while of those remaining, at least 5,000, if not practically all, have undertaken some other activity as a sideline in order to keep their heads above water. The principal sidelines consist of the drying of fruit and vegetables, or the preparation of various synthetic food articles of the widely-known substitute class.

The German financial paper calls for the exemption of breweries from the burden of further taxation, despite the fact that some of the companies are still paying large dividends, in order that they may not be forced to curtail the output of beer, or its quality, or both, still further. In 1917, the writer says, breweries working for the army had only 16 per cent. of their normal allowance of barley, while others had only 13 per cent., and for the present year they may get only 5 per cent. of their normal allotment.

THE COTTON MARKET

Complete Reversal for Fourth Time in as Many Days Wipes Out Wednesday Gain.

One more surprise to add to its long list of sensations during the last month was scored by the local cotton market yesterday. For the fourth time in as many days, the market completely reversed itself, wiping out virtually all the gains which had been recorded in Wednesday's advance, and closing barely steady at a net decline of 92 to 111 points.

The reversal came so suddenly that even the closest observers of the market confessed themselves at a loss to explain it. The opening had been rather irregular, with August up 13 points, May and July practically unchanged, October up 12 points, and later deliveries on the new crop off from 5 to 14 points, a condition largely attributed to better weather reports. As soon as trading was well under way, however, the market turned very weak. The preliminary selling came from a group of bear operators who have been persistent all season in their efforts to find a weak spot, but as soon as it was evident that things were going their way, they obtained an abundance of recruits.

Confirmation of the opinion that the decline was at least accelerated by the bear operators was given by the strength of the covering rally which followed in the early afternoon, when profit-takers hid the market up more than $2 a bale once more before getting what they wanted. As soon as this demand was supplied, however, prices turned soft again, and reached the lowest prices of the day in the late trading, with only the barest recovery on realizing at the close.

Such trade buying orders as were talked of on Wednesday appeared to have been speedily filled, for very little was heard of this kind of support for the market yesterday, and the story was repeated that trade buyers had orders to take cotton on the spot, even at the present enormous premium, in order to insure getting proper grades, rather than rely on the futures market. Aside from market conditions the only subject of discussion was the crop news, which was generally better than earlier in the week, while the weather outlook was more favorable.

No exports were reported yesterday. Southern spot markets were reported unchanged to 100 points lower, the changes largely representing readjustments to recent declines by smaller markets, which have hitherto pertinaciously retained the high quotations in the face of almost complete cessation of business. The variation in spot quotations in the South is still, however, over $20 a bale.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

You Know Financial Values

You know the solid investment worth of LIBERTY BONDS.

Over and above that, have you considered what the SUCCESS OF THE LOAN is worth to you?—what its failure would mean?

The oversubscription of the Third Liberty Loan will be an enormous encouragement to our boys in France; to our hard-pressed Allies; to the whole civilized world.

It will serve notice once more on Germany's insolent war-lords that they are up against A UNITED AMERICAN PEOPLE.

It will hasten the final day of American Victory. It will make that Victory certain and decisive.

American Victory means, besides many other things, relief from burdensome taxes, the restoration of stable financial conditions, probably one of the most prosperous periods in the history of the country.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 8,838 packages. Demand still exceeds the supply, and all the desirable grades of fresh creamery clean up so closely that it is a sellers' market. Prices are a little stronger on some grades. Ladles held with a little more confidence, and there is a somewhat freer movement in packing stock. Creamery, higher than extras, a pound, 46½@47c; extras, 92 score, 46c; firsts, 88 to 91 score, 43@45½c; seconds, 83 to 87 score, 39@42½c; thirds, 32@38c; creamery, unsalted, higher than extras, 48½@49c; extras, 47½@48c; firsts, 44½@47c; seconds, 41@44c; creamery, old, 35@43c. State dairy, tubs, finest, 45½@46c; good to prime, 43@45c; common to fair, 38@42c; renovated, extras, 39@40c; firsts, 38@38½c; lower grades, 34@37c; imitation creamery, firsts, 35@36c; ladles, current make, firsts, 33½@34½c; seconds, 32½@33c; lower grades, 31@32c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 32½@33c; No. 2, 32c; lower grades, 29@31c.

EGGS.—Receipts, 37,804 cases. The market shows no material change. High grades of current packings from northerly sections showing good size and quality are in pretty good demand and fairly firm, and the other grades hold about steady as lately quoted. Not much call for storage packings at the moment, and the moderate sales, reported are generally at unchanged prices. Dirties steady. Checks in lighter supply and prime grades firmer. Nearby white eggs steady, with a fair demand. Fresh gathered, extras, a dozen, 38@38½c; storage packed, firsts, 36½@37½c; regular packed, extra firsts, 36½@37c; regular packed, firsts, 35@36c; seconds and poorer, 33@31½c; fresh gathered, dirties, No. 1, 33@33½c; No. 2 and poorer, 31@32½c; fresh gathered, checks, good to choice, dry, 29@30½c; under grades, 24@28c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby Western, hennery whites, fine to fancy, 41@42c; ordinary to prime, 35@40c; gathered, whites, ordinary to fine, 37@40c; Western and Southern, gathered, whites, 37@38c; State, Pennsylvania, and near by, hennery browns, 38@39c; gathered, brown and mixed colors, 35@37c. Duck eggs, 29@45c.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

Stocks closed strong in the market yesterday on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. Fractional declines were recorded from the day's high levels, when profit taking developed immediately before the close of the session, but the general tone of the list denoted strength. The turnover for the day was unusually large, with the steel, railroad, and, in the late afternoon, the copper shares, the dominant factors in the general upward movement.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

WHEAT.

Important factors in the wheat position at the present time are the steadily decreasing stocks of old wheat and the splendid outlook for the new crop. Authorities believe that there are still fair stocks of wheat in the country which may come out more freely as soon as farmers are through planting their corn. In fact the movement has increased a trifle during the last ten days. Reports from over the Winter and Spring wheat belts continue most encouraging.

RYE.

The local market was dull and featureless and entirely nominal. In Chicago, No. 2 rye was quoted at $2.57, while Minneapolis was at $2.68, a decline of 1 cent.

CORN.

The market was under heavy pressure during the first half of the day and prices declined 1⅝ to 2¼c for the new contracts. Selling was based on the weakness in oats, and also on the cash position, which gave evidences of an overstocked condition in the East where holders were trying to resell.

The Western cash markets showed a fairly steady undertone and it was evident that sellers were inclined to be cautious, owing to the fact that the new crop is not yet planted, and many complaints have been received regarding the condition of the seed corn. In the local cash market kiln dried No. 3 yellow was quoted at $1.60; No. 4 yellow, $1.55; No. 3 white, $1.30, cost and freight New York.

July	1.47⅞	1.44⅛	1.47⅞	1.45⅝	1.44⅞

OATS.

The overbought condition of the Eastern oats market and the absence of export demand caused a sharp decline in prices early in the day, when the July position in Chicago sold down to 67⅛c, the lowest point touched since trading began in the new contract. Eastern cash interests were offering to resell oats back to the West or the other Eastern markets at prices below a parity with the West, and Western cash premiums were also lower. The local cash market was weak; natural quoted at 89c to 90c and clipped white at 90c to 92c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

A decline of 10c to 15c in the hog market and some further liquidation caused an early decline in the provision list yesterday, but subsequently the market rallied on covering, prompted by the late upturn in grain. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 35,000, estimated for Friday 24,000; Kansas City received 7,000 and Omaha 14,000 hogs.

COFFEE.

The coffee market was generally steady again yesterday, but trading was quiet during the entire session. First prices were unchanged to 3 points higher, and the market improved slightly during the day on a scattering demand, with the close net unchanged to 6 points above Wednesday's final figures.

Owing to the scarcity of freight room, very few offers were reported in the cost and freight market, the only fresh ones mentioned yesterday being of Santos 7s and 8s at 8⅝c, steamer shipment, London credits. The local spot market remained dull, with Rio grades easier, on the basis of 8⅝c for 7s, while Santos was unchanged at 11c for 4s.

SUGAR.

According to the statistical department of the International Sugar Committee, the report of refiners' receipts, meltings, and raw stocks for week ended April 27 show that receipts at United States ports fell off about 18,000 tons, while meltings increased nearly 2,000. Stocks of raw sugar increased about 13,500 tons. The committee reported the following purchases: 38,500 bags Cubas, May shipment, for Canada, at 4.985c, cost and freight; 40,000 bags Porto Ricos, prompt shipment, at 6.005c, cost, insurance and freight; 3,621 tons Surinam centrifugal at 4.749c, cost, insurance, and freight, and 005 tons Surinam molasses at 3½c 89 test, both prompt shipment.

Omission of Advertisements

It is frequently necessary to omit advertisements from The New York Times, owing to the demand for advertising space in its columns.

On Wednesday of this week 10 columns, on Thursday 9 columns of advertising were omitted in order that news might be published, much of which cost The Times $2 a line for transmission by cable. This condition forces upon The Times careful discrimination in the assignment of space.

Therefore, preference is given to advertisements having news value—to those for which copy, including marrices, cuts or drawings, for the daily edition, is delivered before 6 P. M. on the day previous to their insertion, and to those for the Sunday edition for which finally approved copy is delivered before Friday night.

HOLD FOG AT FAULT FOR SHIP DISASTER

LIST OF THE SURVIVORS

Nineteen French Sailors Among Those Lost—Marine Tried to Save a Woman.

The officials of the Savannah Line began yesterday an inquiry into the circumstances surrounding the sinking of the steamship City of Athens by a French cruiser off the Delaware coast on Wednesday morning. No official statement was made by the company, but it was said that from what could be learned from passengers and the crew the collision was due to the dense fog.

Marine Superintendent Captain Collins of the line said that the reason for the heavy loss of life could be attributed to the fact that the City of Athens went down in seven minutes. Captain Collins denied that the lifeboats were insufficient or that they were poorly equipped. He said that the City of Athens was inspected early in February, and since that time her boats had been overhauled, painted, and the davits and tackle strengthened. He added that the steamer had her ports and deck lights darkened because of war conditions, but that she had her side lights burning, lights that would not be discernible in a fog at any great distance. The automatic fog horn was sending forth its blare at intervals, and the deck watch had been increased because of the fog. It was pointed out that a misunderstanding of signals would have meant that one vessel had whistled that she would pass either to port or starboard of the other, and that one skipper had misread the message. This sort of signaling would be impossible running in a dense fog.

Line officials said that the Government regulation as to lifeboats and life-saving equipment was as strict as ever. The City of Athens was carrying ample boats, it was said, and, in addition, she had three life rafts that were not required by law. One of these got adrift, and was the means of saving twelve lives.

It was said yesterday that 68 persons on the City of Athens were saved, and 67 were missing. The saved include 35 passengers and 33 members of the crew. The list of passengers missing includes, in addition to the names published yesterday, Edward Klug of Savannah, W. J. Mack, a United States marine; Josephine Gewehr, a child, daughter of Mrs. A. P. Gewehr of Brooklyn, and Miss Corrine Looper of 119 East Twenty-ninth Street.

The nineteen French sailors, who were traveling third-class in the steamship, are reported missing. They were quartered in the bow of the vessel, where the cruiser cut through, and it is feared that they either were killed by the collision or were cut off from the other part of the vessel and drowned. Lieutenant Jean Cadron, the officer in charge of the French sailors, was reported missing, but later it was reported he had been saved. The surviving Frenchmen are F. L. Tervinou, J. Phillippe, Y. Sauve, J. Seguillon, and F. Giraud.

The list of surviving passengers follows:

Marine Tells of Accident.

Propped up in his bed in his home in the Bronx, Nat Kahn, one of the United States marines who had been reported lost, told of the accident. He enlisted on Saturday and was on his way with other marines to Port Royal, S. C. He was awakened by the crash and aroused Stephen Tyng, his roommate. Both came on deck. By this time, he said, the ship was lurching and sinking rapidly. In attempting to pass through the saloon Kahn said he was thrown against the wall and dazed. When he regained consciousness a woman was groping her way along the room. He went to her aid, assisted by a colored waiter. They could not keep their feet and finally the three became separated. Kahn said he managed to work his way on deck and got to the rail, but a wave threw him back against the cabin windows. The swell carried him clear over the rail and he hung on to a door until help came. While he clung to the door a life belt was washed upon it and he hung on with one hand and managed with the other to fit the belt about himself. Kahn is with his mother at 1,219 Vyse Avenue, the Bronx.

Henry Rosenfield, whose name appeared in the list of missing marines, was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rosenfield of 1,125 Nostrand Avenue, Brooklyn. He enlisted several weeks ago.

Arthur S. Gewehr of 1,650 East Ninth Street, returned home yesterday with his wife and infant son. Their daughter, 4 years old, was lost. He said that when it became apparent they could not reach a boat the child was passed to a person on the upper deck.

Alden McClasky of 257 West Eighty-sixth Street, is a member of the theatrical profession. He is suffering from shock and exposure.

Fur Trimming for Next Fall.

That the popularity of fur for trimming on women's apparel last Winter is to last for at least another season is the opinion of most of the large coat and suit manufacturers in this city. Not only in coats and suits, but in capes as well, it is thought that fur will be the only really chic trimming for the coming Fall and Winter seasons. It is said that the few early buyers for Fall who are already in the market looking around for supplies are most favorably impressed with fur-trimmed garments of whatever sort, and that in some cases where the fur is lacking, they ask for prices with fur added.

Sports Skirts Are in Demand.

In separate skirts, sports and semi-sport models are having one of the best seasons they have enjoyed for a good many years, according to reports from several large manufacturers in this city. Stripes and checks are very much in vogue, it seems, and by the use of vertical pleats in varying widths many attractive effects are produced. Light colors are usually preferred, and sometimes many shades are combined in plaid effects. Reorders have been very plentiful during the last few weeks from many parts of the country. Linen seems to be one of the most sought fabrics for skirts of this sort.

Gray Goods Trading Quiet.

Trading in the local gray goods market yesterday was about as small as it could be without being nil. First hands continued to ignore bids under the nominal market level, which left second hands again to do the little business that was done. From these sources were sold May-July deliveries of 38½-inch 60-48s at 15¼ cents, and additional sales of Southern 39-inch 68-72s were made at 18¼ cents for shipment in May, June, and July. Aside from this there was apparently little of interest. Nominal closing mill prices on printcloths were:

Typewriters Getting Very Scarce.

Typewriters, both new and rebuilt, are getting to be about as scarce in this market as friends of the Kaiser, and it is due to the heaviest demand for these machines that has ever been seen in the history of the trade. Not only has civilian buying been active of late, but the needs of the Government have been so large in the last year that the market has been swept bare. Rebuilt machines especially are scarce. Because of this, one of the largest concerns dealing in them is closing some of its outlying branches in the city and is concentrating, so far as possible, in the "home" store. Careful search through the market recently by a dealer in a near-by city netted him just two machines, and other dealers are having even a harder time in getting part of their needs filled.

Bow Ties More Popular.

It is said that bow ties for men are selling now much better than they have been doing for some little time. They are taken in bright solid colors, and in figures whose background is a darker shade. There are some foulards being used for this purpose, and usually the conventional foulard designs are preferred. Four-in-hand ties are still very much in demand everywhere, and, contrary to prediction made by many in the trade, the brightest effects seem to be the best sellers. Evidently men generally, while they are turning to darker colors and more subdued effects in all other articles of wear, are allowing their love of color to run riot when it comes to selecting a tie. Some of the finest grades of ties are most in demand.

Ribbon Turbans Come to the Fore.

A new arrival in the millinery world, and one that is calculated to be an important factor in the trade, is the ribbon turban. One model of this type is a turban on which the ribbon is pleated in soft folds in faille silk, faille moire, or wide grosgrain. The trimmings used are very fine curled feelers, as many as three or four being used on one hat. Another attractive model is an elongated turban of ribbon. The ribbon is arranged in triangular shapes, and extends over the brim, covering the straw, which is either milan or lisere. In this case the trimmings are fancy pins or fringe, the latter extending over one side. The most popular colors are navy or navy combined with white, and the hats in question are especially suited for wear with tailored clothes.

Men's Spring Coat Trade.

Though it seems that no records are being broken, sales of light weight Spring coats for men so far this season have been very satisfactory, according to reports from the local trade. There are a few raglans being sold, and many models made up along military lines. For motor and sports wear many leather coats of the "trench" variety are in demand. Very extreme styles, either military or of any other kind, are not having a general popularity in the cloth garments this Spring. Tans are fairly well taken, but dark grays, subdued greens, and black are the most widely sought. Conspicuous checks are usually frowned on, though indeterminate stripes and checks are in favor almost everywhere.

How Goods Are Checked Up.

There is a concern retailing men's clothing, shoes, and furnishings in this city that has a unique system for "keeping a line" on the quality of the various goods it sells. When a shoe is returned, say, with a rip in the backstay, or the coat of a suit parts in the armhole, or several buttons drop from a shirt on the first wearing, a careful record is made in each case. This record is kept over a given period, and the manufacturer whose goods "stand up" best is the one who gets the bulk of the business when the time comes to reorder. The nicest thing about the whole proceeding is said to be that the concern in question in no instance returns the defective goods for credit, an example that is not followed by many other retailers.

Japanese Raw Silk Prices Up.

The Yokohama raw silk market is reported as active and excited, and to have advanced more than $100 a picul of about 133 pounds over prices current a week ago. According to a cable received by H. L. Gwalter & Co. of this city, 1,570 yen ($785) a picul has been paid there for Sinshiu No. 1. The price of Kansai No. 1 tram stock is placed at $5 a picul higher than that asked for the best Sinshiu. With cable service to Japan very irregular, local sellers are in rather an upset condition. New silk is quoted at Canton at almost the same prices that are asked for old, which is unusual at this time of the year. Shanghai and Milan show little of interest. Locally the market is active and prices are going up rapidly in sympathy with the trend in the primary markets. Present quotations here are very irregular.

Novelty Sweaters Big for Fall.

A very large business has been done to date for Fall on women's novelty sweaters, particularly on worsteds and zephyrs in very fine cardigan and fancy "rack" stitches. Models with sleeves have sold considerably better than the sleeveless ones. A new note in collars has been struck by lengthening the former shawl collar into one known as the tuxedo. This is done generally by "going down one button," though in some models the "going down" is clean to the waistline. The trend seems to be entirely toward beauty in sweaters nowadays, as against utility, and this is proved by the colors that are now popular. Turquois blue, coral, Nile green, pearl gray, and khaki are "it" in this respect, while the old standbys like Oxford, gray, navy, cardinal, and maroon are having rather a hard time of it.

PUSH Y.M.C.A. WORK IN ITALY

ITALIAN HEADQUARTERS IN NORTHERN ITALY, May 1.—(Associated Press.)—John R. Mott, representing the War Council of the American Y. M. C. A. and Charles R. Watson are visiting the Italian front to develop the extensive work which the Y. M. C. A. is undertaking among the Italian soldiers. King Victor Emmanuel received Mr. Mott at his headquarters near the front and the Duke of Aosta entertained the American party at the headquarters of the Third Army.

The meetings gave Mr. Mott an opportunity to explain American co-operation in the Italian Case del Soldato, which corresponds to the huts in the British and American Armies in France. The work has been proceeding most favorably under the direction of John S. Nollen, President of Lake Forest University, with a staff of thirty Americans, which soon will be increased to 200. Y. M. C. A. activities at the front consist in establishing huts with libraries, musical instruments, and games and in directing physical training on a large scale. Athletics are in charge of G. W. Braylan of Philadelphia. Another important branch is the establishment of courses in hospitals and convalescent homes for instruction in corrective gymnastics.

Tools and implements also are being supplied for the training of wounded soldiers in woodworking and other useful manual trades. The camps of prisoners of war from various countries are also being organized on similar lines.

Mr. Mott conferred today with Major Gen. Swift, head of the American Military Mission to Italy, concerning Y. M. C. A. co-operation. Referring to the results of his tour along the front, Mr. Mott said:

"It has given me the advantage of seeing and talking with a large number of people. Everywhere I received the same impression—that Italy is strong and determined to uphold her part in the war and can be depended upon to give a good account of her power."

DROWN KAISER'S EFFIGY.

Each Push Toward the River In Yonkers Cost a Bond Subscription.

Special to The New York Times.

YONKERS, N. Y., May 2.—With a military band from Fort Slocum playing a funeral dirge and 10,000 persons cheering their approval, an effigy of Kaiser Wilhelm was hurled into the Hudson River at Yonkers this afternoon as the crowning feature of a day of celebration in behalf of the Third Liberty Loan.

The official ceremony was conducted by Corporal Homer Whitehead, one of General Pershing's staff of fifty honor men sent back from the trenches to help in the loan drive. He addressed a large crowd in Getty Square, and when the wooden effigy was brought out announced that every person subscribing to a $50 bond would be allowed to push the dummy a distance of five feet in the direction of the Hudson. In an hour's time $20,000 was subscribed, and Kaiser Bill's image had reached the end of the city recreation pier, a distance of about 10,000 yards from the starting point. Traffic on Main Street was suspended during the ceremony, and the crowds followed to see the end. A twenty-pound weight was suspended by a rope from the neck of the dummy and it was kicked into the river.

It is estimated that the day's subscriptions amounted to $100,000, bringing the city's total to $2,600,000. The quota for Yonkers was $1,726,000.

SAILOR CHASTISES TURK.

Strikes Him for Not Standing When Anthem is Played.

As a result of his persistent refusal to stand up during the playing of the "Star-Spangled Banner" last night in the New York Theatre, Emil Demetri, a Turkish dishwasher, living at 253 West Thirty-fourth Street, was knocked down in the theatre by Harry Hackman, U. S. N., and dragged through Times Square, where he received the blows and kicks of persons who learned of his conduct. Demetri was at length arrested for disorderly conduct.

Hackman said that when he had noticed that Demetri did not arise at the beginning of the "Star-Spangled Banner" he had requested him to stand up, and when Demetri refused, he took him by the collar and pulled him up. As soon as Hackman let go, however, Demetri immediately sat down. Then Hackman punched him.

NEW RECORD FOR FUR SALES

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 2.—More than a million pelts were sold here today at the final session of the Funsten fur sale. The day's receipts were over $1,000,000, bringing the total for the ten days' selling to about $6,350,000, the largest ever recorded.

Argentine and Patagonian fox composed the first of the day's offerings. Individual skins brought as high as $5, with poor grades down to 50 cents. The 20,000 skins brought a total of $50,000. Beaver offerings brought exceptionally strong bidding, the 12,500 pelts offered bringing the high total of $175,000.

Muskrat also was keenly sought, more than 200 buyers participating in the competition. The top price was $1.85 for fine blacks. Prices ran close from that down to $1.25. Seal-dyed muskrat and muskrat plates also went swiftly at good prices. Some of the low grades of muskrat sold far above former prices established in this and the New York markets, the entire collection of 800,000 brought $750,000.

The sale just ended is the greatest ever recorded anywhere in magnitude of collection catalogued for variety of pelts and for scope and range of values. A larger attendance of buyers was registered than ever before, and all express themselves as well satisfied. Opening with Alaskan sealskins sold for the United States Government, and closing with a collection of muskrat, there were sixty-two varieties of furs sold.

HAS NEW SUBMARINE IDEA.

Greenwich Man Thinks His Invention Would Blow Up Kiel Canal.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., May 2.—Harry Goldstein of this place says he has invented an undersea craft that could easily blow up the Kiel Canal and the German submarine bases. He is negotiating with the Naval Construction Board with the hope of having his idea developed.

The craft, he says, is of submarine type, shaped like a turtle, and can creep along the bottom of the ocean, without being detected. One man can operate it. This type of boat can be attached to a submarine, says Mr. Goldstein, and will be provided with powerful glasses which will enable the commanding officer to see hostile vessels at a great distance. All that is necessary is to manoeuvre to a position underneath the enemy ship and shoot bombs upward, thereby destroying the enemy. Mr. Goldstein has been working on the craft for the last three years.

CALL OBJECTOR PHILLIPS.

Former Columbia Student Ordered to Report for Service.

The first of the New York City draft men, to be sent to a camp other than Camp Upton, left for Fort Slocum, the regular army concentration post near New Rochelle, yesterday. The number who reported to the Fort Slocum commander was about 500. Today, tomorrow, and Sunday about 1,500 more New Yorkers will proceed to Fort Slocum. The men who left yesterday represented draft districts in all parts of the city.

It was announced at the office of Martin Conboy, Director of the Draft, yesterday that Charles Francis Phillips, who was convicted last Summer of conspiracy to obstruct the operation of the selective draft law, has been ordered to report for military service tomorrow. The young man, who styles himself a conscientious objector, was dismissed from Camp Upton several weeks ago as a person not desired in the army. Provost Marshal General Crowder, however, took another view of the matter, and ordered Phillips returned to the camp. In the event he refuses to obey orders it was stated yesterday that he will be arrested and tried by court-martial. At Mr. Conboy's office it was said that Phillips had not been located up to 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Recently Phillips has been engaged in organizing a society of young men and women who oppose the military policies of the Government. A convention of the society is announced to be held in this city tomorrow.

At the office of the Recruiting Committee of the Mayor's Committee on National Defense, in the Hall of Records, a statement was issued last night to the effect that several men, with criminal records, had visited the committee's office seeking to enlist in the army.

"If Phillips, who has been convicted of conspiracy against the country, is eligible for service," said one of the men who sought to enlist, "I don't see why we should be barred."

Columbia Gives Play for War Aid.

Columbia students entertained a large crowd last night in the university gymnasium when they presented "Ten for Five," a musical comedy by Hammerstein and Lippman. The proceeds of the performance, which will be repeated tonight, will be given to the Columbia Service Bureau in Paris.

Nineteen songs were on the program, all except two of which were written by Oscar Hammerstein, 2d, and Robert K. Lippman, the latter a junior at Columbia.

Seeing America First has been a delightful revelation to many Americans who used to think that they could attain travel enjoyment only by means of an ocean liner.
Seeing the American label first has been just as pleasant a surprise to many who used to think that superior champagne could reach them only via an ocean freighter.
So, all 'round, America has come into her own, and hereafter, war or no war, people will see this American wine first.

BARS GIRL MESSENGERS.

Governor Signs Bill Prohibiting Their Use by Telegraph Companies.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 2.—Governor Whitman has signed the Nicoll bill prohibiting the employment of women under 21 years of age as telegraph messengers. Women over 21 may be employed not more than six days a week, or fifty-four hours in any week. They cannot, however, under the provisions of the new law, be employed as messengers before 7 A. M. or after 10 o'clock at night.

The bill also prohibits the employment of males under 21 before 5 o'clock in the morning or after 10 o'clock at night in cities of the first and second class.

The Governor also signed the Wicks bill changing the period of storage permitted for cold-storage foods from ten to twelve months. It also requires monthly instead of quarterly reports from the warehousemen.

William R. Stewart will be reimbursed to the extent of $30,537.43 for amounts paid by him as President of the State Charities Board to counsel for service in the investigation of the board by Charles H. Strong.

BANKRUPTCY SALES.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, DISTRICT of New Jersey.—In the Matter of HOMESTEAD BRICK YARDS, INC., a corporation, Bankrupt.—In Bankruptcy.—Notice of Sale.

Notice is hereby given that Meyer Eichman, the trustee, will sell at public auction, for cash, to the highest bidder or bidders, on May 13, 1918, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, at the United States District Courtroom, Post Office Building, Montgomery & Washington Sts., Jersey City, N. J., a complete brick manufacturing establishment, consisting of machinery, equipment, bricks, clay, wagons, office furniture, also the accounts receivable and good-will of the bankrupt company, together with a parcel of real estate located in the Township of North Bergen, County of Hudson and State of New Jersey, consisting of 18-20 acres of clay land. Sealed bids are invited for the said property in the following manner:

1. For all of the assets of the bankrupt company as a going concern, free and clear of the mortgage held by Frank Hall.
2. For the real estate and fixtures attached thereto, free and clear of the aforementioned mortgage.
3. For all the personalty in bulk.
4. For all the personalty in separate parcels.

Said bids to be submitted in writing and accompanied by a certified check in the amount of ten per cent. of the bid and which said checks should be payable to the order of Meyer Eichman, the trustee, and all of which said bids will be considered on May 13, 1918, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, at the United States District Courtroom, Post Office Building, Montgomery & Washington Sts., Jersey City, N. J.

Application for confirmation of sale will be made before Hon. George R. Beach, Referee in Bankruptcy, at the aforementioned time and place.

For further information apply to the trustee, or his attorneys.

FURST & FURST, Attys. for Trustee, 164 Market Street, Newark, N. J.
JOHN PLATOFF, Atty. for Trustee, 404 Lewis Street, Union Hill, N. J.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, Southern District of New York.—In the matter of ARBUL J. COLAIZZI, doing business under the name of ESTATE OF D. COLAIZZI, Bankrupt.

Please take notice that, pursuant to an order of this Court, the undersigned will sell by Charles Shongood, U. S. Auctioneer, all his right, title, and interest in and to a certain option on a lease for three years of premises known as No. 37-39 West 24th Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, formerly occupied by the above named bankrupt; also all stock of merchandise on hand in said premises, consisting of wines, liquors, cigars, groceries, canned goods, &c., &c. The sale will take place on the 9th day of May, 1918, at 10:30 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at No. 37-39 West 24th Street, New York City.

Said property may be inspected on any day between nine and four, at premises, 37 West 24th Street, Borough of Manhattan, New York City.

Dated, New York, May 1st, 1918.
PERCIVAL WILDS, Receiver.
YANKAUER & DAVIDSON, Attorneys for Receiver, 261 Broadway, N. Y. City.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, Southern District of New York.—In Bankruptcy.—In the Matter of PETER J. KEMP, Bankrupt.—No. 25224.

To the creditors of the above named bankrupt:

Notice is hereby given that personal property belonging to the estate of the above named bankrupt will be sold under the direction of Henry B. Singer, the Trustee herein, at public auction, under the rules and practice of this Court, by Charles Shongood, U. S. Auctioneer, at No. 539 Broadway, New York City, on the 3rd day of May, 1918, at 10:30 o'clock in the forenoon.

The property to be sold consists of 801 shares of the par value of $50 per share of the common capital stock of the Mutual Fuel Corporation.

The Trustee reserves the right to withdraw any of said property from sale, unless it shall bring at least 75 per centum of its appraised value.

HENRY B. SINGER, Trustee, 55 Liberty Street, N. Y. City.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

Importer Buys $100,000 Broad Street Corner—West Side Apartment Sale.

Investment interest continues to centre to a considerable degree upon business properties in the Front Street district, where another valuable holding passed into new ownership yesterday.

George Scandalis bought from Charles H. Phelps, administrator of the estate of John G. Butler, the southeast corner of Broad and Front Streets, known as 113 to 115 Broad Street and 25 to 27 Front Street, a plot comprising 5,000 square feet, which is improved with three, four, and five story loft buildings. The corner has been valued at $100,000, and has been purchased for cash.

Mr. Scandalis is a member of the firm of C. Platou & Co., importers and exporters, who are now located at 85 and 87 Broad Street, in the block front between Stone and South William Streets, which was recently acquired by the Mexican Telegraph Company as the site for a new home. The present transaction was negotiated by the Charles F. Noyes Company and William A. White & Sons.

West 139th Street Cash Sale.

An upper west side apartment house, held at $75,000, was sold in a cash transaction yesterday to Joseph Jovans, who acquired from the Broadway-John Street Corporation the six-story house at 504 and 508 West 139th Street. The structure covers a plot 50 by 100, beginning 50 feet west of Amsterdam Avenue, and shows an annual rent roll of about $10,500. Joseph G. Abramson represented the buyer as attorney. H. T. Wood was the broker in the transaction.

Heir Buys from Estate.

Mrs. Robert L. Livingston, one of the heirs of the late E. N. Taller, has purchased from the estate the other interests in the residence at 11 Washington Square North, a three-and-a-half-story dwelling, now occupied by her.

The property covers a frontage of 31 feet facing Washington Square and extends back 141 feet to Washington Mews, where the frontage is 31.1 feet. The land is a Sailors' Snug Harbor leasehold.

Jeanne D'Arc Home Adds to Holdings.

The Jeanne D'Arc Home for Friendless French Girls, which owns and occupies the property at 251 to 255 West Twenty-fourth Street, has added to its holdings by purchasing from Samuel Rosenthal the adjoining house at 249, a four-story dwelling, on a lot 20 by 98.9. Upon the expiration of the existing lease the house will be taken over by the society for its own use. Louis Schrag negotiated the sale, which marked the first change of ownership in the property since 1864.

Dwelling Sales.

The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, as trustee of the Martin Schrenkeisen estate, has sold the four-story dwelling at 17 East Seventy-fifth Street, on a lot 20 by 102.2, near Madison Avenue. The holding price was $60,000. Marston & Co. negotiated the transaction. The buyer will occupy the house.

A client of Pease & Elliman has purchased for occupancy the three-story residence at 8 West Ninety-fifth Street, for many years the home of the late Alexander S. Williams, Police Inspector. The house, which covers a lot 17 by 100.11, near Central Park West, was sold by the estate.

Tenement Deals.

The German Savings Bank sold to a client of Harry Sugarman 311 West 143d Street, a five-story double tenement, on a lot 25 by 100.

According to a report yesterday the four-story tenement at the southwest corner of Park Avenue and 109th Street, 80 by 17, has been sold by Carrie L. Jacobs.

Selling in the Bronx.

Gustav Brunges sold the five-story new-law apartment house at 2,131 Prospect Avenue. Cahn & Pittman and George E. & Charles Buckbee were the brokers in the deal.

William Rankin sold to the Nason Realty Company, Max N. Natanson, the two five-story new-law houses at 598 and 618 East 140th Street, each on a plot 38 by 100, located between St. Ann's and Cypress Avenues; also 437 East 142d Street, a six-story modern building, on a plot 40 by 100. The buyer immediately resold all three properties to the Benenson Realty Company, which in turn disposed of the 140th Street houses to an investor.

Minnie Isaacson purchased from D. K. Einfurer 1,913 Davidson Avenue, a three-story private dwelling, on a lot 25 by 101.4.

James H. Cruikshank resold to Mary Kaufman 3,124 Third Avenue, a three-story building, 13.8 by 36 by irregular, on the corner of Brook Avenue. D. H. Gerstenfield negotiated the sale.

Brooklyn.

The Artee Realty Corporation associated with the Realty Trust has sold the one-family, semi-detached dwelling 1,552 Forty-third Street, in the Martense district, to Mrs. Eva Cohen for a residence.

Tutino & Cerny sold for William J. Ward to Samuel Harris for occupancy the two-story brownstone dwelling at 452 Fiftieth Street.

Emma Landolt sold to a client of E. T. Newman, the two-story, two-family dwelling, at 375 Sixth Street, on a lot 17 by 100.

The E. M. and H. K. Real Estate and Contracting Corporation, Edward Miehling, President, purchased from J. W. Comey eleven two-family houses on Bay Ridge Avenue, Brooklyn, near the station of the new Fourth Avenue subway. In part payment the company gives a plot of four and one-half lots at Shakespeare Avenue and 169th Street, Bronx. The Bay Ridge Avenue houses have been held at $75,000. The Knap & Wassen Company negotiated the transaction.

Queens Borough Sales.

The Abingdon Building Company sold to J. A. Watt the dwelling and plot, 50 by 112 feet, on the north side of Mowbray Place, 326 feet east of Austin Street, Kew Gardens.

J. H. Judge sold to L. F. Reich the dwelling and plot, 60 by 100 feet, on the south side of Wyckoff Place, 100 feet west of Hilldale Avenue, Jamaica.

J. H. Allen Buys $70,000 Rye Estate.

John H. Allen, Vice President of the National City Bank, has purchased for a reported price of $70,000, from Mrs. J. J. Sutton, the twelve-acre estate with an old dwelling, at Rye, known as the Sutton Place, including a large frontage on Purchase Street. The property is near the homes of Stewart Matthews and J. J. Riker, and the Apawamis Club.

Purchaser of $55,000 Estate.

John T. Felton of New York has purchased, through Fish & Marvin, from John H. Hayden, his large stucco residence containing eighteen rooms and six baths, located on a corner plot on Secor Lane at Pelham Manor, N. Y., comprising about one acre. The property adjoins the estate of R. M. Owen, and was held at $55,000.

New Jersey.

The farm, consisting of forty-two acres, on the southerly side of Mendham Road, between the Edward P. Thebaud property and the estate of ex-Governor Franklin Murphy, at Morristown, has been sold. It was formerly owned by Mrs. Mary P. Baldwin and others, and has been purchased by Bernice Johnson of New York, through the agency of Howard I. Johnston. The farm will be occupied as a Summer home, and repairs to the buildings will commence immediately. The property was held at $16,000.

Connecticut.

The Greenwich Land and Development Company, Thomas N. Cooke, President, has sold the Colonial House at Putnam Manor, recently built by the company, on Plot 23, to Bresley N. Guthrie of New York City, who has taken possession. The company has sold Plot 18 to Harry Hubbard of New York City, a retired banker, who also purchased, through Raymond B. Thompson and Chester Montgomery, the Beverly Mead homestead, adjoining. Mr. Hubbard intends to remodel it for his own occupancy.

Commercial Leases.

The Herald Lunch leased from Annie E. Doscher and Henrietta M. Davisson the entire building at 271 West Street and 39 Desbrosses Street, located on the corner of West and Desbrosses Streets, also the store at 37½ Desbrosses Street, and three rooms above, for a period of ten years, from June 1, 1918. The Herald Lunch will renovate the premises for restaurant and hotel purposes.

Frederick Southack and Alwyn Ball, Jr., leased for Hyman Levy the store and basement at 8 Barclay Street to Ellsworth F. Corbett.

Henry Hof leased for Kathryn L. Cullom the store and basement at 645 Second Avenue to Hyman Bernstein; also for Peter F. Kane the store and basement at 739 Second Avenue to Ferdinand Visco.

Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen of New Jersey has rented for occupancy by his insurance interests a floor of 26 John Street. Charles B. Van Valen, Inc., negotiated the lease for Cammann, Voorhees & Floyd, the agents.

A Recent Buyer.

Miss Marion Davies, the actress, is reported to be the buyer of the dwelling at 331 Riverside Drive, recently sold by William P. Ahnelt, President of the Pictorial Review Company.

Realty Note.

The seller of the property at 233 to 243 West Twenty-fifth Street, acquired several days ago by the 233 West Twenty-fifth Street Company, was the Title Guarantee and Trust Company.

City.

The commission announces that it soon will conduct for the first time in its history an examination for four Deputy Commissioners for the Department of Foods and Markets. The commission recently had these positions put under civil service.

United States.

The commission announces for May 22 at the New York Custom House an examination for apprentice plate cleaner, transferrer, and engraver, for males. Vacancies in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing will be filled from this examination. The salary is $500 a year for the first year, $600 for the second year, $700 for the third year, and $840 for the fourth year. At the end of the apprenticeship assignment is made either to plate cleaning, with an initial salary of $1,000 and promotion by successive grades to a maximum salary of $1,300 a year; or to transferring, with an initial salary of $1,000 and promotion by successive grades to a maximum salary of $2,400 a year; or to engraver, with an initial salary of $1,000 and promotion by successive grades to a maximum salary of $3,000. Competitors will be examined in arithmetic, penmanship, copying from plain copy, and mechanical drawing. Applicants must have had theoretical and practical training of a mechanical character in metal work, such as is usually acquired in manual training schools or similar institutions or in occupations that give training in the handling of tools and machinery requiring great precision and accuracy in measuring and adjustment. They must have reached their sixteenth but not their eighteenth birthday on the date of the examination. Further information may be obtained from the commission, Washington, D. C.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Fair weather prevailed generally since Wednesday night except in Southern Florida and Eastern Texas, where there were scattered showers.

General frosts occurred Thursday morning in the lower lake region, the Ohio Valley, and the interior of the Atlantic States, extending southward into South Carolina, but during the day there was a decided rise in temperature except in the South, these warmer conditions extending through the Mississippi and Missouri Valleys, the southern portion of the upper lake region, and the Northwest.

Except for showers Friday night or Saturday in the northern upper lake region fair weather will continue east of the Mississippi River during the next forty-eight hours.

Temperature changes will not be important, although it will be somewhat cooler Friday along the lower lakes.

Winds for Friday and Saturday along the North Atlantic Coast will be moderate west; Middle Atlantic Coast, moderate southwest becoming variable; South Atlantic Coast, gentle variable, except moderate northeast off the Florida Coast.

FORECASTS TODAY AND SATURDAY.

Eastern New York—Partly cloudy Friday, probably showers in the northern portion Saturday fair.

New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania—Fair Friday and Saturday, little change in temperature.

New England—Partly cloudy Friday. Saturday fair.

Western New York—Fair Friday and Saturday, slightly cooler Friday in the northern portion.

Education Notes.

In recognition of his work as Acting City Superintendent, Dr. Gustav Straubenmuller will have a tribute to his services entered on the minutes of the Board of Education and will receive a leave of absence with pay for two months.

A new school building will be erected on the site of Public School 11, Richmond, at a cost of $90,000.

The sum of $8,100 has been transferred from the evening schools' account to recreation centres. There are 120 centres.

Miss Louise M. Webster of Hunter College, who has been in charge of Summer school work on an independent basis, has asked the Board of Education to appropriate $10,000 for the work this Summer. It affords 2,000 girls a daily course of instruction. It would enable the city to offer hundreds of better trained workers to the Government.

Associate Superintendent Shallow will speak at a patriotic mass meeting this evening in the High School of Commerce.

The Board of Education has awarded contracts for coal for the schools in Manhattan and the Bronx and for the parental school in Queens.

Dr. William L. Ettinger, the new City Superintendent, formally took possession of his office yesterday.

A Spanish play was given at the Girls' High School, on Wednesday, by the Commercial High School and Bushwick High School under the direction of Mr. Julio Mercado and Miss Ruth Willson.

On Saturday the teachers of ungraded classes in the public schools will hold a conference and give demonstrations of the work of their pupils, at the Brooklyn Training School for Teachers, Park Place, near Nostrand Avenue. Teaching demonstrations will begin at 9:30 o'clock, and will show the methods used in teaching high, middle and low grade children. In the afternoon, at 2 o'clock, a conference will be held in the auditorium. Mr. Thomas W. Churchill, ex-President of the Board of Education, will make an address. The teachers who are coming from Philadelphia to visit the New York schools, will attend the conference.

Representatives from many of the high schools met at the High School of Commerce yesterday afternoon to discuss the salary question. A large committee, with branches in each high school, was appointed to cooperate on this matter with the High School Teachers' Association and to bring it to the attention of the Boards of Education and Estimate. Alexander L. Pugh was Chairman. There has been no substantial change in high school salaries in eighteen years. The high cost of living has forced many of the teachers to do outside work.

LOAN MEN ACCUSE PASTOR.

Charge He Refused to Have Liberty Bond Meetings in His Church.

A special meeting of the Executive Committee of the Bronx Liberty Loan Committee will be held at the Bronx Liberty Loan headquarters, Courtlandt Avenue and 149th Street, this afternoon to consider what action shall be taken because of the refusal of the Rev. Frederick Noeldeke of St. Peter's Lutheran Church, 672 East 219th Street, to aid the Liberty Loan by holding meeting of his congregation and urging members to subscribe to the Liberty Loan.

It was said by Douglas Mathewson, Chairman of the Bronx Liberty Loan Committee, that Dr. Noeldeke had refused a request to co-operate with the Liberty Loan Committee, saying that the church was not the place for the Liberty Loan, and had refused to ask his congregation to take part in the Liberty Loan parade last Friday.

500 ANZACS HERE ON WAY TO FRONT

REVIEWED BY MAYOR HYLAN

First Time Australian Soldiers Have Been in America—Met by "Blue Devils."

Five hundred long-legged, broad-shouldered Australian soldier lads in khaki, with jaunty slouch hats on their heads, marching with a long, easy, rolling swing, came swinging up Broadway from the Battery to City Hall Park at 11 o'clock yesterday morning.

At first glance they might have been mistaken for a regiment from Wyoming or Arizona, or somewhere in the Southwest—they had the Anglo-Saxon frontiersman written upon them—but at second glance there were some differences. Their faces looked rounded and ruddier, and their heads were not closer down on their shoulders, in more British fashion, than those of the lean-jawed, lanky Westerners, and their uniforms were of a different cut from the American, with pleats and rolling collars on their blouses, and their hats were different from the high-crowned Stetson of the doughboy, with a crown like a low, truncated cone, and the brim looped up on one side and fastened with a gun-metal badge.

Here and there among their ranks, too, was a man who walked or swung one arm with a stiffness, and wore the look that New York is beginning to recognize—the look that comes from months or years of unceasing, determined struggle with the Germans. For many of them were the "Anzacs," who had gone through the long agony of Gallipoli, or had been in that last terrible charge of the Battle of the Somme, when the Australians fought their way up the muddy, shell-torn slopes of Butte de Warlencourt and who had been shot down on the field, and were now, after being invalided home, once more on their way to the front.

Unfortunately, the advance notices of the arrival of the Australian contingent in New York, after forty-five days in the troop-ships did not give the exact time when they would pass, and so when the blare of the band of the Ninth Coast Artillery, a detachment of which regiment formed their escort, gave the first intimation of their arrival in the financial district, only a fraction of the crowd which otherwise would have been on hand to greet them, lined the roadway.

The crowd gathered quickly, however, men and women running from all directions up the side streets on either side of Trinity Church to get vantage points, and as fast as they arrived, they began cheering and calling out New York's greetings to its latest guests. By the time they had reached the Equitable Building word of their approach had preceded them, and from then on they had to make their way through a throng as enthusiastic as that which the day before had welcomed the "Blue Devils" of France.

The Australians marched in column of fours, without either rifles or equipment, and if here and there a youngster craned his neck to look with wondering eyes at the lofty peaks of Mount Woolworth and Mount Singer, the officers did not rebuke him. Before starting up from Battery Park they had been formed up by their officers, under command of Colonel W. K. Fether, D.S.O., and had exchanged greetings not only with the Ninth Coast Artillery, representing Uncle Sam, but also with a squad of the "Blue Devils," who had come down to greet them.

The Australians include contigents of replacement troops for infantry, artillery, and engineers. Those who belong to the First Anzac Corps, which fought at Gallipoli, wear a small "A" in a badge on their arms. They carried with them the ensign of Australia, a Union Jack with five white stars on the arm of the cross, representing the five States of the Commonwealth. It is believed to be the first time the Australian flags were ever paraded in the streets of New York.

The veteran of the battalion is Corporal Joe Baxter, who wears the Distinguished Conduct Medal, and who fought in the Black Watch under Field Marshal Lord Wolseley in the first Soudan campaign in 1882. He served through all the earlier Egyptian campaigns, and was with the Australian cavalry in South Africa during the Boer war, winning his medal by swimming the Vaal River twice under fire, each time to rescue a wounded comrade.

At the City Hall Mayor Hylan reviewed the Australians, and said: "This is the first occasion Australian troops have set foot in this country, and I take pleasure in welcoming you. I hope that you will enjoy yourselves. The keys of the city are yours."

"I thank you for your welcome, Mr. Mayor," Colonel Fether replied. "We are all brothers in this war. I am glad it has given my men an opportunity to see New York and its people. Many of the older members of the command saw American warships when they took their famous trip around the world, but we never expected to have the pleasure of getting foot on your soil."

ANNA HELD HAS MYELOMA.

Only 50 Cases of Disease Known—May Use Blood Transfusion.

The condition of Anna Held, the actress, remained unchanged yesterday, though she spent a comfortable day in her apartments in the Hotel Savoy. Dr. Donald McCaskey, her physician, said that a consultation would be held on Friday to determine whether a blood transfusion would be necessary to restore Miss Held to her former vigorous condition.

"The X-ray examination has revealed a spongy condition of the bono marrow and the bone tissue," he said. "There are only fifty cases of this disease, which is called multiple myeloma, recorded in the history of medicine. The bone tissue gradually becomes spongy, and its course is insidious, steadily making demands on the blood supply until the patient becomes anaemic. The affliction is caused, I think, by overwork, and insufficient sunlight. Miss Held, however, is determined to fight the thing with her characteristic spirit."

Dr. McCaskey added that Miss Held had not gained in weight since her illness became pronounced. She still weighs 85 pounds, he said, although her normal weight is around 115 pounds. To increase her strength a blood transfusion inevitably would be necessary if a gain was not shown.

ONWARD TO VICTORY!

We must win the War. There are but two ways to do it, either FIGHT or BUY LIBERTY BONDS. YOUR COUNTRY needs your help. Be 100% American and act NOW. Third Liberty Bonds are U. S. Government Bonds, the best security in the world.

We pledge every dollar of our receipts (including charges)—at all Wallach Stores—from opening time Wednesday, May 1st, to closing time Saturday, May 4th—to the Third Liberty Loan. This is in addition to what we, and our employees, have already subscribed.

Of course You can Help

There's more for the stay-at-home to do than buy Liberty Bonds. Saving wool is another thing we are all asked to do.

It doesn't matter that you do yourself a good turn, when you buy good clothes to prevent wool waste. It is the result that counts.

Hart Schaffner & Marx Spring Clothes

You can be sure that you are saving wool, and labor, too, when you buy Hart Schaffner & Marx Clothes, because they wear better and last longer than clothes not so well made.

So, don't let it disturb your war-conscience if the styling, the tailoring and the new colorings seem somewhat better than what you've seen elsewhere. Those things have always gone with good all-wool clothes—so why not now?

The Wallach Price Policy

Every now and then we print an advertisement headed "What You Get for What You Pay"—and in that phrase lies most of the theory of price at the Wallach Stores.

The fallacy of mere cheapness finds no support here. Not that we pretend to a higher virtue—but because the only way we know how to succeed is to give our Customers what they want.

And Wallach Customers don't like to fool themselves on a price tag.

So—first of all we look to Quality. The Quality that spells satisfaction for the long months after the Sale, rather than for the few minutes that precede it.

Quality assured—we try to buy early enough and in large enough quantities to get our costs to the lowest point. Four busy Stores,—thirty-one years of experience, and ample capital help.

Small individual profit and large turnover is our way.

The other theory of merchandising has advantages as well for the Customer, but they are not the advantages Wallach Customers want; so,—as we have chosen, we go on—small profits—and many of them.

Every once in a while we have a "Sale"—when profit ceases to be a part of the picture, and the rapid movement of goods is all that counts.

Even then, you'll find no sensational statements—no camouflage—just goods. One man benefits by the early purchase, longer use, wider selection that goes with it; another by price reductions that may come later.

The main point is that each benefits. And so long as each who buys here really does benefit,—we shall succeed, which is the answer from our point of view.

LOAN SUBSCRIBED; DRIVE IS ON TODAY FOR BIG SURPLUS

$2,940,640,400 Total Officially Reported Without Yesterday's Subscriptions.

RECORD MARK ON THURSDAY

Chicago and New England Districts Are the Latest to Go Over the Top.

NEW YORK STILL LAGGING

"Match the President," Continues to be Most Potent Scheme to Get Subscriptions.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—The Third Liberty Loan has been subscribed. When work began this morning all over the country, with hundreds of thousands of bond sellers actively engaged, there remained to be sold to reach the minimum of $3,000,000,000, only $59,455,000. That amount beyond all manner of doubt was sold by noon today. A large part of today's subscriptions and all of tomorrow's will be oversubscription, the total of which is likely to run well on toward $4,000,000,000.

Yesterday saw a new high mark made. The day's total was $189,283,700, and the grand total down to last night was $2,940,640,400. This left to be raised in the last two days of the campaign less than $60,000,000, or a daily average of $29,877,800. Every one of the reports from all parts of the country indicates that there will be no abatement of the enthusiastic activities of the loan organizations throughout the country.

Subscriptions by Districts.

The subscription by districts with quotas allotted to each as reported for the close of business yesterday, follows:

District.	Subscription.	Quota.
Minneapolis	$133,541,050	$105,000,000
St. Louis	168,853,700	130,000,000
Kansas City	156,177,500	130,000,000
Chicago	433,610,850	425,000,000
Boston	262,331,250	250,000,000
San Francisco	206,701,800	210,000,000
Philadelphia	239,006,400	250,000,000
Richmond	120,163,550	130,000,000
Cleveland	274,081,750	300,000,000
New York	773,350,750	900,000,000
Atlanta	67,961,550	90,000,000
Dallas	78,700,250	80,000,000
Total	$2,940,640,400	$3,000,000,000

Minneapolis	131	Dallas	98
St. Louis	129	Philadelphia	95
Kansas City	120	Richmond	92
Chicago	109	Cleveland	91
Boston	104	New York	85
San Francisco	98	Atlanta	75

Although the official percentages show only five districts to be over their quotas, unofficial advices from both the San Francisco and Dallas districts are that they also are past their allotted marks. If this is true, every State and district east of the Mississippi River has exceeded its quota.

"Matching" the President.

The "match the President for a $50 bon" feature of the campaign continued today to be the most potent factor in obtaining late subscriptions. William H. Taft, at Elizabeth City, N. C., matched the President. At a meeting which James W. Gerard addressed in Philadelphia $100,000 was raised in "Presidential matches." Thirty-six thousand dollars was raised at a town meeting in Huntingdon, Penn.; $50,000 came in through a matching bee at Chautauqua, S. C., and Hot Springs, Va., reported fifty "matches." Similar reports came from almost every part of the country.

The Chicago District carried off the honor of being the fourth in the country to obtain its quota. It went over the top early today. A total of 4,075 communities in the district already have surpassed their quotas. Illinois has bought 719,000 bonds, Indiana 308,000, Iowa 520,400, Michigan 345,000, and Wisconsin 255,000. Campaigning will be continued energetically in the district until the last hour of the campaign.

A few hours after Chicago attained its quota the New England District reported that it had gone over the top. New Hampshire now has subscribed 122 per cent. of its quota, Connecticut 121, Maine 119, Vermont 107, Massachusetts 101, and Rhode Island 90. Eleven hundred communities have won honor flags and 1,007,300 individual subscriptions have been obtained.

Only three counties in the entire St. Louis Federal Reserve District have failed to attain their money quotas. Advices tonight, however, were that they would probably go over tomorrow, making a perfect score for the district.

Celebration in St. Louis.

St. Louis celebrated the district's achievement by a noisy demonstration.

Ulster to Get Veto In Home Rule Bill

LONDON, May 3.—The form of the new Home Rule bill continues to be the subject of discussion in the newspapers and among politicians. According to the belief current at Westminster, the Irish Parliament will receive powers which will be a combination of those recommended by the Irish Convention's majority report and those outlined by the letter written by Premier Lloyd George to Sir Horace Plunkett, Chairman of the conventioo.

It is expected that the control of customs and excise will be reserved to the Imperial Government until after the war, as stipulated in the Premier's letter, but this will be offset by the grant of a large sum of money for Ireland from the Imperial Treasury and a few millions for urban housing.

The Ulster Committee will be a feature of the Parliament, this committee having the power of veto over legislation affecting Ulster exclusively, possibly over the administration.

NATION GETS EHRET PROPERTY

$40,000,000 THEIR VALUE

Owner Is Not an Alien, but Has Lived in Germany Since We Entered the War.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Announcement was made today by A. Mitchell Palmer, Alien Property Custodian, that George Ehret, Jr., of New York, had announced his readiness to turn over to the custody of the United States Government property worth $40,000,000 belonging to his father, George Ehret, Sr., who is in Berlin.

Mr. Palmer authorized the statement that the younger Ehret, "upon receiving information through the State Department that his father, George Ehret, Sr., had been living in Berlin since the declaration of war, had reported to Francis P. Garvan, Director of the Bureau of Investigation, all of his father's property as of enemy character and had announced his readiness to turn over to the custody of the Government real estate amounting to $24,000,000 and personal property amounting to $16,000,000, or $40,000,000 in all."

Mr. Palmer said that no change in the management of this property was contemplated, and that George Ehret, Jr., and the Central Trust Company had been named as depositaries for the Alien Property Custodian. The rents and other incomes will be collected by George Ehret, Jr., as usual, and he will make periodical accounting to the Alien Property Custodian. Mr. Palmer added that this property became of enemy character under the Trading With the Enemy Act through the residence of its owner in Germany, although the owner was an American citizen.

"If Mr. Ebret, Sr., should return to America and thus lose his enemy character," said Mr. Palmer, "the Department of Justice would entertain any claim which he might make under Section 9 to have his property returned to him. Under Section 9 the President may return the property to him if satisfied of his return to this country and of his American citizenship."

Ehret's Rise to Riches.

George Ehret, Sr., head of the great brewing interests which bear his name, is now in his eighty-third year. He landed in the United States in 1857, and in the years that followed and until his return to Germany, just before the war began, he came to be one of the leading figures in the brewing industry in this country, and also a power in politics, although he has never been a candidate for office. He was an Elector at Large on the Democratic ticket in the Presidential election in 1908.

When Mr. Ehret came to New York sixty-one years ago he was already a practical brewer. He found employment in the brewery of A. Hupfel, and was soon promoted to the position of foreman in that establishment, then one of the principal breweries in this country. In 1868 young Ehret established his own brewery, which he called the Hell Gate Brewery. The Hell Gate establishment is now one of the largest properties of its kind in the United States, and a great part of the wealth which Mr. Ehret's son has turned over to the Enemy Property Custodian is said to be represented by the Hell Gate property.

Mr. Ehret for more than fifty years has been a prominent member of the United States Brewers' Association and of the New York State organization of brewers.

Other properties, which Mr. Ehret is Baker's $15,000,000,000 Estimate Based on Plan to Refill Camps.

1,885,000 NOW UNDER ARMS

Department Hopes to Have 1,500,000 on West Front This Year—Crowder Calls 233,742.

WANTS LIMIT TAKEN OFF

War Secretary Says People Must Be Assured We Will Not Be Handicapped in Numbers.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—The Administration's plans for raising an army large enough to insure victory were submitted in detail to the House Committee on Military Affairs today, which has begun the preparation of the army appropriation bill carrying $15,000,000,000 to finance the army during the next fiscal year.

Secretary Baker refused to go into the question of figures involved in the proposed increase in military man power, but it became known at the Capitol that the estimates he submitted were based on a force of not fewer than 3,000,000 men and 100,000 officers being in the field by July 1, 1919. The plan contemplates having 130,000 officers and 2,168,000 men, or a total of 2,298,000 in the field and in camps by July 1, 1918, and approximately an additional million to be placed in the field before the end of the fiscal year.

"I don't want to say anything in figures," said Secretary Baker when asked how large an army was contemplated, "because I don't want to be tied down to numbers. My objection to using numbers grows out of the fact that we want to raise just as large an army as will be needed, and I want the American people to feel confident that we are not going to be bandicapped by numbers but intend to raise an army that will be large enough in every respect."

Enlarging All the Camps.

All of the army camps and cantonments are to be enlarged, and very materially enlarged, to take care of the training of the men to be raised in the next twelve months. Secretary Baker said that the General Staff had this question under careful consideration, and that the idea was to increase the size of existing training camps rather than establish new camps. These camps, it is estimated, now have facilities for training close to a million men at one time.

Secretary Baker also made it clear that the total of $15,000,000,000 involved in the estimates as revised for the new army bill did not cover the whole cost of the army for the next fiscal year. The $15,000,000,000, he explained, was in addition to the large sums that would be carried in the Fortifications Appropriation bill, which covers the cost of heavy ordnance both here and overseas. Nor does it include the Military Academy bill. It was emphasized that although estimates were submitted on the basis of an army of a certain size, Congress was being asked for blanket authority for the President to raise all the men needed, and the approximate figures of $15,000,000,000 could be increased by deficiency appropriations.

1,500,000 in France this Year.

It was brought out in the committee today that the transportation service had improved and that the War Department was able to send more men to France each month. It is estimated that if transport facilities continue to improve, close to 1,500,000 fighting men

German Reply on Prisoners Fails to Satisfy America

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Answering an inquiry of the State Department through the Spanish Government as to the truth of reports that American prisoners of war have been mistreated in Germany, the German Government today declared American prisoners got the same treatment as was given to prisoners of other nationalities.

Germany's reply is unsatisfactory to State Department officials, who are convinced that all prisoners in German camps have been treated badly. Retaliatory measures will not be considered, however, until absolute evidence of mistreatment of American prisoners in specific cases can be obtained. Every report of mistreatment is carefully investigated through the Spanish Government. Germany permitting Spanish officers to visit prison camps. The result of every inquiry thus far made has been very unsatisfactory.

WILSON FAVORS AVIATION INQUIRY

President and Baker Approve Investigation and May Make One Themselves.

SENATORS AWAIT BORGLUM

Military Committee Ready to Act if He Can Produce Evidence to Back Charges.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 3. — There is every prospect that there will be a thorough investigation of the allegations made by Gutzon Borglum, whose charges with respect to men connected with aircraft production have aroused members of Congress.

President Wilson, it was asserted today, will interpose no objection to a Congressional investigation to get at the facts regarding aircraft production and those in charge of that important task in the past, and may even take action himself to clarify the situation. There was no official announcement from the White House, or any intimation as to the character of the action the President might take.

Secretary Baker is not interposing any objection to an investigation if the Senate considers it wise to seek the facts and is, in fact, himself, very carefully studying the text of the Borglum report to the President, which has as yet not been made public. When Secretary Baker was asked today regarding his attitude in the matter he said:

"The War Department will, of course, welcome any evidence of any wrong doing, if there has been any, in any branch of the War Department, and if anything is brought to my attention warranting an investigation it will be investigated."

Secretary Baker was asked whether the allegations contained in the Borglum report had been brought to his attention.

"I have the Borglum report before me now," said he, "and am studying the contents of it."

The Secretary added that the Marshall report, which was now before the President, was being considered by the Secretary also as part of his consideration of developments in the aircraft situation that had come during his absence in France. Both these reports were filed while he was in Europe.

Secretary Baker said he had not referred the matters covered by the Borglum report to the Department of

BRITONS ALSO TOOK PART

Small Force Held Out with French—New Draft Men Cool and Brave as Veterans.

By PHILIP GIBBS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WAR CORRESPONDENTS' HEADQUARTERS, Friday, May 3.—I went yesterday among some of the French troops who on April 29 inflicted a severe defeat on General Sixt von Arnim's storm troops between Dranoutre and Locre—when the British divisions to north and south shared the honor of the day with them—and before that for six days in front of Kemmel Hill held their lines with most noble courage, under a frightful fire that hardly ever slackened, when Kemmel had been turned and captured and these men whom I met were almost surrounded, so that they had to fight with long-enduring devotion and with great sacrifices to maintain their positions.

It was a moving narrative as I heard it yesterday from these French officers who lived through that fearful week of glory, of the simple soldiers of France there in those Flemish fields where when they were ordered to hold on at all costs they obeyed to the death.

"We were asked to hold our line," said a Colonel of one of these French regiments. "We held it."

His hand trembled for a moment as he touched a packet of papers, his orders during the battle, and he told me how each message there had been carried through a frightful fire by his runners, so that many of them were killed, and of his other losses in officers and men, but then this square-built man with grizzled eyebrows and moustache and blue-gray eyes that had a steady light in them said again:

"We held our line."

Heroes from Alsace Front.

His regiment came up from Alsace to Flanders. They were hardened fellows who had been through many battles. They were the heroes of Fleury, near Verdun, when the Crown Prince's army was broken against their defense after desperate assaults, and yesterday when I saw them marching through the Flemish villages I was stirred by the sight of them, because of their grim, keen look. They were young men, but veterans. The war had set its seal on them, as on all men who have passed through its fire, but had not weakened them.

When they came into the line between Locre and Dranoutre other French division troops were holding Kemmel Hill. It was during the days when the British had urgent need of this French help because of the exhaustion of many of the men after the long fighting.

"Then," said the commandant of a regiment I met, "the country about us was a sweet, smiling landscape, with fields harrowed for sowing and little Flemish villages with red roofs and farmsteads nestling between green hedges. A week later all this had been swept into ruin. Shellfire had turned this countryside into a barren and blasted place."

On the morning of the 24th the German bombardment was intensified and spread over a deep area, destroying villages, tearing up roads, and making a black vomit of the harrowed fields. Dranoutre, Locre, Westoutre, and other small towns were violently bombarded. That night the French discovered that the Germans were preparing an attack for the next morning, to be preceded by a gas bombardment. The officers warned all their men, and they stood on the alert with gas masks when at 3:30 in the morning thousands of gas shells fell over them, mixed with high explosives

Germany, Once Really Established in Russia, Can Fight the Whole World Forever, Says Cecil

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 3.—Lord Robert Cecil discussed today the expected German peace offensive, and said that he looked for it as part of their regular war plan.

"It will be meant mainly for internal consumption," he said. "Of course, it has proved futile to prophesy in this war, but I believe that the German general plan is, supposing that they cannot win a decisive victory over the Allies, to go on fighting in the west until they have acquired complete commercial hold over the East. If they once really establish themselves in Russia, there is no reason why they should not fight the whole world forever."

Asked if he included in the German plans the use of Russia's man power, Lord Robert said that he did not expect that immediately, but it might come later. He went on to say that these grandiose plans depended on many things, and the German Government's great object in launching a peace offensive at this time was to induce its own people to carry on from week to week and month to month, in the belief that peace was almost in sight, until its Russian plans were matured. He continued:

"The peace offensive, I believe, will be directed very largely against England. They will put out offers which they think will be attractive to this country."

He then explained his idea of the German tactics. First, there was in the German newspapers a great outburst of Pan Germanism, which was permitted, if not encouraged, by the Government. Then, when the German peace offers are made, perhaps to England, they will be so much less than what the Pan Germans have claimed that the Government will be able to appeal to its people to admire its moderation. Meanwhile, in case something might come of its move, it has permitted the circulation of the Lichnowsky memorandum and has paid official tribute to the bravery of the British troops, to lessen the bitterness of feeling against England."

GERMANS DEFEAT FINNS, TAKE 20,000

Berlin Reports Decisive Victory After Five Days' Battle Near Lakhti and Tavasthus.

ENTER RUSSIAN COAL REGION

Deporting Able-Bodied Russians to Germany—Ukraine Treated as Enemy Territory.

BERLIN, May 3 (via London.)—"In Southwestern Finland we have overwhelmingly defeated the enemy during a five days' battle near Lakhti and Tavasthus, capturing 20,000 prisoners," says the German official communication issued this evening.

This victory apparently frees the influence and places it under German dominance.

German influence has always been strong in Finland, due to the fact that before the war thousands of Finns went annually over into East Prussia for the logging season, and returned with marks and German Kultur. Of the entire population, however, of 4,000,000, including 3,000,000 Finns, there are only about 2,000 Germans to 500,000 Swedes and 8,000 Russians.

Finland was the first of the countries of Russia to declare her independence of the Petrograd Government after the Bolshevist coup d'etat of Nov. 7, 1917.

About a month ago it was announced from Danish sources that the German Kaiser contemplated a Greater Finland, including the Petrograd-Murman Railway to the Arctic, all under German protection. This railroad at its terminal at Murmansk is guarded by British, French and Russian troops.

GERMANS IN COAL REGION.

Already Deporting Russians—Opposition Crushed with Armored Cars.

BASLE, Switzerland, May 3.—German troops in Ukraine, with a base on the line between Ekaterinoslav and Kharkov, have advanced into the region of the Donetz River coal basin, according to a dispatch received here.

MOSCOW, April 25, via Vladivostok, April 26.—(Associated Press.)—Germany's barbarous treatment of the inhabitants of occupied territories and constant requisitioning of food are provoking great resentment and causing armed clashes. In a village in the Kiev district the inhabitants resisted the Germans for three days with machine guns and rifles and were subdued by the use of armored cars.

In the Government of Minsk the Germans seized able-bodied persons in the street and in their homes and are sending them to Germany in locked cars. Those trying to escape are shot. The inhabitants, panic-stricken, have gone into hiding. Streets in the towns and cities are armed camps with patrols of troops and machine guns everywhere.

The ambiguous wording of the Brest-Litovsk peace treaty is causing considerable friction and a constant exchange of protests.

Defeat of Prussian Reform Brings Warning: 'Let Soldiers and Munition Workers Hear.'

OTHER CAUSES OF UNREST

Failure of Western Offensive, Food Crisis, and High-Handedness in Russia Bring Protests.

AMSTERDAM, May 3.—All the political portents observable in Germany would appear to give good ground for the belief that affairs in the Fatherland are driving toward exceedingly stormy times. When the vote against the equal franchise and in favor of plural voting was announced yesterday in the Prussian Lower House, a Socialist Deputy cried, "Let the soldiers and munition workers hear," and today's Rhineland papers, in long discussions on the event, do not veil the seriousness of the position. The size of the reactionary majority in that chamber makes it extremely improbable that the junkers and their friends will rightly read the signs of the times before the third reading of the bill, and the general opinion appears to be that the Government will dissolve the chamber.

Throughout Germany the happenings in the Prussian Parliament have a very considerable effect, and even now political circles will have it that Hertling's days are numbered. After Hertling will there be a deluge of triumphant reaction? Strong conservative forces, so I learn from the most reliable quarter, are at work to bring in Heiferich as Chancellor, which would denote the complete triumph of the military party, for he is an advocate of grab, both as regards annexations and indemnities.

There is some talk of the return of Prince von Buelow to Wilhelmstrasse. He, it is reported, would stand between the two extremes, and probably accept the portfolio of Foreign Affairs should Hertling remain. Kuehlmann's position is regarded as greatly weakened, though the recent vulgar personal attack on him brought him some added support.

Many Causes of Unrest.

The situation in the Reichstag is almost as serious as that in the Prussian Parliament and I hear that a storm is brewing on account of military matters. The distribution of anti-democratic pamphlets in the army with the approval of the military authorities made a very bad impression, while the astounding deeds of the German commander in the Ukraine surprised and angered large sections of the Reichstag.

In both houses then the excited warlike hordes face one another and the recent debates have shown how high the feeling runs. Added to that is the bad food outlook. It has been officially announced that the bread ration must be reduced unless adequate supplies are forthcoming from the Ukraine.

PETAIN WINS SOUTH OF AVRE

Occupies Hill 82 Near Castel and the Wood Along the River.

GAINS NORTH OF HANGARD

British, in Co-operation with Allies, Also Defeat the Foe in Engagements There.

VON ARNIM STILL WAITS

But Gunfire Continues Vigorous on the Lys Salient, Also North of Albert.

LONDON, May 3.—By co-operation of effort the British and French forces along the Somme River southward, to below the Avre have further bettered their positions in this vital area at the tip of the German salient toward Amiens.

On the part of this front which is held by the French the most important success was the advance of their lines between Hailles and Castel, (south of the Avre,) with the capture of Hill 82 and the wood nearby bordering on the river.

Heavy artillery combats went on last night and continued today in the region between Hangard and Villers-Bretonneux. In some lively engagements here the French had the advantage.

On the British front in this sector there were some local conflicts last night in the neighborhood of Villers-Bretonneux, the British getting the upper hand. Today there were further clashes, with similar results.

The night bulletin of the French War Office reads:

There was no infantry fighting during the conrse of the day, but there was great activity by the opposing artillery in the region north and south of the Avre. Our batteries took under their fire and dispersed bodies of enemy troops south of Villers-Bretonneux and before Castel.

There were lively artillery engagements on the right bank of the Meuse.

Eight German airplanes were brought down on May 2, and twelve others, gravely damaged, fell behind their lines during a series of combats with our aviators. Effectual aerial bombardments were carried out during the day and night of May 2, 27,000 kilograms of projectiles being dropped on the railway stations of Atham, Nesles, Roye, Chaulnes, and St. Quentin and upon bivouacs and cantonments in these regions. Seven thonsand kilograms of bombs were dropped on enemy establishments in the region of Rethel and upon the railroad station at Asfeld-le-Ville.

The day report of the French War Office says:

In the region south of Villers-Bretonneux there was violent artillery firing by both of the combatants, as well as fairly spirited infantry engagements near the monument, in the course of which the French troops gained some ground.

South of the Avre the French late yesterday carried out a local operation which met with perfect success. Our troops attacked the German positions between Hailles and Castel, (a front of about one and one-quarter miles.)

We took possession of Hill 82 and the wood bordering on the Avre. The number of prisoners taken exceeds 160, including four officers.

French reconnoitring detachments were active, especially in the Woevre and in Lorraine, bringing back prisoners.

Field Marshal Haig's report from British Headquarters tonight reads:

In local fighting last night south of Villers-Bretonneux our troops cooperated with the French and secured a few prisoners.

The enemy artillery showed considerable activity this morning north of Albert, in the Beaumont-Hamel sector.

From a Staff Correspondent.

ON THE AMERICAN FRONT IN FRANCE, May 3.—Five American airplanes engaged in a spectacular battle with five German airplanes over the American sector this morning with even honors.

Charles W. Chapman, Jr., of Waterloo, Iowa, was probably lost when his machine was shot down and one German airplane was brought down by Captain Petersen.

The Americans were patrolling over the German lines at dawn when they saw the enemy fliers coming.

Chapman, the youngest of the Americans, was engaged by two Germans. His comrades saw his extremity and tried to save him, but they saw his machine go down in flames.

Captain Petersen engaged a big Albatross biplane, and after successful manoeuvring riddled the German's petrol tank and sent his adversary down ablaze.

The American aviators, returning to their hangars, said that beyond doubt Chapman was lost, and they expressed their admiration for the fight of "the kid."

He is the first American aviator in our sector to be lost. He was out in flight yesterday and today over the German line, where the American fliers had gone to search for the foe.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, May 3, (Associated Press.)—It was shortly after 9 o'clock in the morning when the American patrolling machines left the ground, one after the other. They circled above the hangars until they got into a V-shape formation. Then, with a roar of motors they struck out for the line.

They had patrolled the section once and were starting on a second tour, when sparkling specks were seen in the sky far away within the German lines. The American airmen turned quickly, but kept their formation. The men in the front lines watched the two formations, and saw the German group continue on its course and the American airplanes start out to head them off.

Suddenly the American formation took a dive toward the Germans, who swung about sharply. Then the machine guns came into action and the battle was on, while the watchers on the ground were unable to tell which was which as all ten machines darted in and out, up and down and turned and banked.

Then one machine, a German, left the formation and another, in which was C. W. Chapman, followed, his gun spitting bullets. The German banked and Chapman did likewise, while both were pouring lead into each other.

After Chapman's fall his companions continued the battle with the Germans, but the latter soon lost all stomach for the fighting and one after another turned and fled homeward.

both sides on the other parts of the front there is nothing to report.

The British War Office report today was as follows:

Local fighting took place to our advantage last night in the neighborhood of Villers-Bretonneux.

We carried out successful raids south of Arras and east of St. Venant, in the course of which ten prisoners and five machine guns were captured by our troops.

The artillery has been active on both sides during the night between Givenchy and the Forest de Nieppe, in the neighborhood of Locre and south of Ypres.

The British official communication dealing with aviation, issued tonight, says:

A thick haze Thursday interfered with the work of our airplanes. Three and a half tons of bombs were dropped on Bapaume and other targets in the battle areas. At times the fighting in the air was severe.

Fourteen hostile machines were downed and four were driven down out of control. Five of ours are missing.

During the night five and a half tons of bombs were dropped on Chaulnes, Juniville, the railway junction at Bapaume, and at Caix. Three very large bombs also were dropped from a low height on the lock gates at Zeebrugge.

Friday another most successful raid was carried out against the railway station and sidings at Thionville. The Carlschutte works again were hit, and several bursts were seen on the station, sidings, and gas works. All our machines returned.

Germans Feverishly Preparing.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, May 3, (Associated Press.)—The Germans have not yet had time to prepare for a further offensive, but it is apparent they are getting ready as fast as possible. The allied troops are in fine spirits, and looking forward with confidence to a renewal of the struggle.

A tremendous crescendo of gunfire broke out this morning, the principal increase being apparently in the Lys region.

The objective time tables of the Germans indicate that they are finding their task to advance in Flanders and on the Somme much heavier than they expected.

The Australians carried out successful minor operations at Villers-Bretonneux during the night, while the Canadians mopped up a strong post, taking seven prisoners and five machine guns.

TELLS OF AVRE FIGHTING.

BERLIN, May 3, (via London.)—The official statement issued by the War Office today reads:

Partial attacks by the enemy followed strong preparatory fire south of Villers-Bretonneux and on the western bank of the Avre. We took some prisoners in a counterattack.

On the Lorraine front lively enemy activity continues.

The night communication from Headquarters, after telling of successes in Finland, says:

From the other theatres there is nothing new to report.

FOCH NOW DIRECTS ITALIAN ARMY ALSO

This Puts Him in Complete Control of All Operations on the Western Front.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Telegraphic advices from Paris today state that the Echo de Paris has this comment on the results of the meeting of the Interallied Council of War at Abbeville this week:

"The military powers of General Foch, as a consequence of the Italian adhesion, have extended over all the western fronts. He becomes Commander in Chief of the allied armies on the western front.

"This means that the question of the single allied command has been solved with all its logical consequences. That means that military questions to be discussed have found their solution so as to bring about a total check which will be irremediable as regards the designs of the coalition of the Central Empires. M. Clemenceau returned from Abbeville Thursday night."

The Premier, according to the Echo de Paris, expressed his satisfaction over the doings of the conference. Questioned about the situation at the front, he said:

"Foch is very optimistic. That is all I can say."

GERMAN TUNE IS CHANGED.

Talk of "Kaiser's Battle" Ceases—Ypres' Importance Now Minimized.

LONDON, May 3, (via Ottawa.)—It is noteworthy that with the lull in the fighting since the German defeat at Ypres all German talk of the "Kaiser's battle" has vanished.

The German experts and newspapers have now been instructed to warn the people that no new Sedan is possible, that Ypres is very strong, that the British have fought most stubbornly, and that, after all, Ypres is not of importance for the Germans. They assert that the German command may decide not to take Ypres.

Sir William Robertson's warning that the war is likely to last for a long time is commented upon in London as timely. It is pointed out that one reason why American intervention did not sooner become active in some fields is because America made arrangements for intervention on an immense scale, and she realized that a successful offensive against Germany might be necessary to win the war.

The Times refers to a dispatch from Washington stating that diplomats expected a peace move, but that no offer of mediation, even from the Pope, would be considered. Any proposal of peace must come from Germany. The Times says, and the Allies will meet any such move with the same unbroken front as they met the latest offensive.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES, May 3.—With all our mechanical aids and the hunger of the world for news, it remains very difficult until long afterward to give, I will not say a complete, but even a substantially true picture of the great battle. The main results may be made known almost immediately; the process by which they were reached, especially if it includes errors unusually grave, will emerge only slowly. For three years black mystery reigned over the tragic beginnings of the war in the west, and it is only during the last few months that enough information has been allowed to leak out of staff offices for it to be possible to describe and account broadly for the initial defeats in Lorraine, the Ardennes, and on the Sambre, which made necessary the long retreat ended up to the battle of the Marne.

Such a regime of silence as that has not been, could not be, repeated. No one thought in those days of sustaining the morale of the nations behind the armies. Now we have at once more information and more secrecy. The daily life and sufferings of the armies are plentifully portrayed. The military censorship is more than ever necessary because the art of collating and using information about the enemy has enormously advanced during the war. But a real effort is made to distinguish that which can be published safely and to give it speedily to the public.

Just six weeks have passed since the great German offensive, which was to end the war and give the world a German peace, was launched. It may be divided, so far, into three phases: (1,) the general offensive of the Seventeenth, Second and Eighteenth German Armies between the Somme and Oise, lasting from the 21st to the end of March; (2,) a first pause in the general offensive, marked by local actions at the center and on the two wings lasting from April 1 to 8, and (3,) from April 9, the development of the offensive in Flanders from a diversion between Armentieres and the Lys to a drive against the bulwarks of Ypres, with hard local actions at the Franco-British junction south of the Somme.

While the armies have been fighting, their information bureaus have not been idle. We know very much more about the first stage of the offensive, its aim, plan, and means of operation, than we did a month ago. I have therefore brought my notebooks down from the front to a quiet place in order during this further pause to look at the affair as a whole and attempt to outline some of its features that were hardly apparent at the time of my earlier telegrams in this position.

Anxious Hours for Allied Commanders

The first of these features to demand appreciation is, of course, the remarkable accomplishment of the French armies directed by General Pétain under the co-ordinating infusnce and latterly the allied command of General Foch. It may be admitted now that there were in the first phase of the battle hours of most desperate anxiety for the French as well as the British commanders. No blow has been struck in this or, needless to say, in any previous war comparable for mass, speed, and skill with that of the last ten days of March.

Up to March 20 the sector of attack had been held by seventeen German divisions. By the night of the 21st thirty fresh divisions had been thrown in, and in the next nine days another thirty-six were added. Give the devil his due. Most soldiers would probably have said that the direction of a torrent of eighty-three divisions, or some 900,000 men, on a moving front, expanding from 50 to 80 or 90 miles in ten days would be impossible. It was a merciless plan, but its will and power may all the more be readily granted because this is the best measure of the heroism and success of the allied armies.

A Field Covered by First Offensive.

A map of the field covered by the offensive in these ten days shows clearly its aim under chief stress. It makes a rough equilateral triangle, the apex of which is fixed just north of the Scarpe and east of Arras. The east side of the triangle is the original front of fifty miles, running to the Oise near La Fère. The west side is nearly the present front, running by Albert to just south of Montdidier. The base runs east by Lassigny and the Oise to the Ailette for a length of about forty miles.

The principal force and direction of the offensive lay westward, across the centre of this field; but whether it should develop due west, toward Amiens, or southwest, toward Montdidier, may have been left to circumstances. That it was at first pressed southwest and then fell off by steps northward was due to the spead of von Hutier's success over General Gough's army, and then to the wonderful rapidity with which the French stepped into the expanding breach.

Petain's Men Filled the Gap.

On the evening of the 21st General Petain learned that Gough's divisions, overwhelmed in numbers and material, had fallen back to Epehy and behind the Crozat Canal. After telephonic communication with the British Headquarters he gave orders at 11 P. M. for three French divisions under General Pelle to be sent to the region between the Oise at Noyon and the Crozat Canal.

The 9th and 10th Infantry Divisions and the 1st Division of dismounted cavalry entrained at noon on the 22d and reached the ground in the course of that night. They had no artillery with them, no horses for their machine gun sections, and only such supplies and ammunition as they could carry. They did not know where the enemy was, or where the English were, and the roads were encumbered with masses of retreating troops and civilian refugees.

The pressure increasing, more French troops were ordered north, and on the morning of the 23d British and French Headquarters agreed that General Humbert, commanding the 3d French Army—the first to intervene—should take in hand the troops remaining in the region south of Ham and re-form them with his own units. For the most part, as General Pelle reported, the infantry were so exhausted that they needed relief, but the artillery continued to render valuable service.

That evening the British troops fell back to the northwest. It had been possible to bring up to them only two divisions of reserves, and these to the north of the Nesles-Roye high road, and the French extended as rapidly as possible in their wake. General Pétain arranged that, while Humbert held the line of the Oise so as to prevent any breach toward Paris, a new army, the first under General de Beney, should gather in the region of Montdidier to block the southwest. At the same time a further step was taken on the road of co-ordination, General Fayolle being put in command of all the forces, French and British, south of the Somme.

I need not recount the perilous steps by which the thin line was drawn back under constant threat and gradually strengthened, company by company, battalion by battalion, going piecemeal into battle against almost impossible odds. The worst bad been passed on the night of the 26th. On the 28th the first British-French counterattack was made. Artillery and infantry reinforcements were accumulating; the First Army was able to detrain and form as a whole instead of in fragments, and the enemy was nearly stopped. The first phase of the offensive was over, and its aims had not been attained.

There are many lessons to be drawn from these events, and many responsibilities to examine, but one conclusion leaps to the eyes as of supreme importance. The main aim of the German Grand Staff was to destroy the British Army as a preliminary to the destruction of the French.

The governing idea of its method was to strike as swiftly and powerfully as possible at the allied points of junction—in other words, to take full advantage of the weakness arising from the separation of the allied commands. All of them have been tried in turn—the Franco-British, the British-Portuguese, the Belgo-British—and there was on Wednesday a blow at the point of junction in Senterre, between the French and the first American division to take an active part in the great battle.

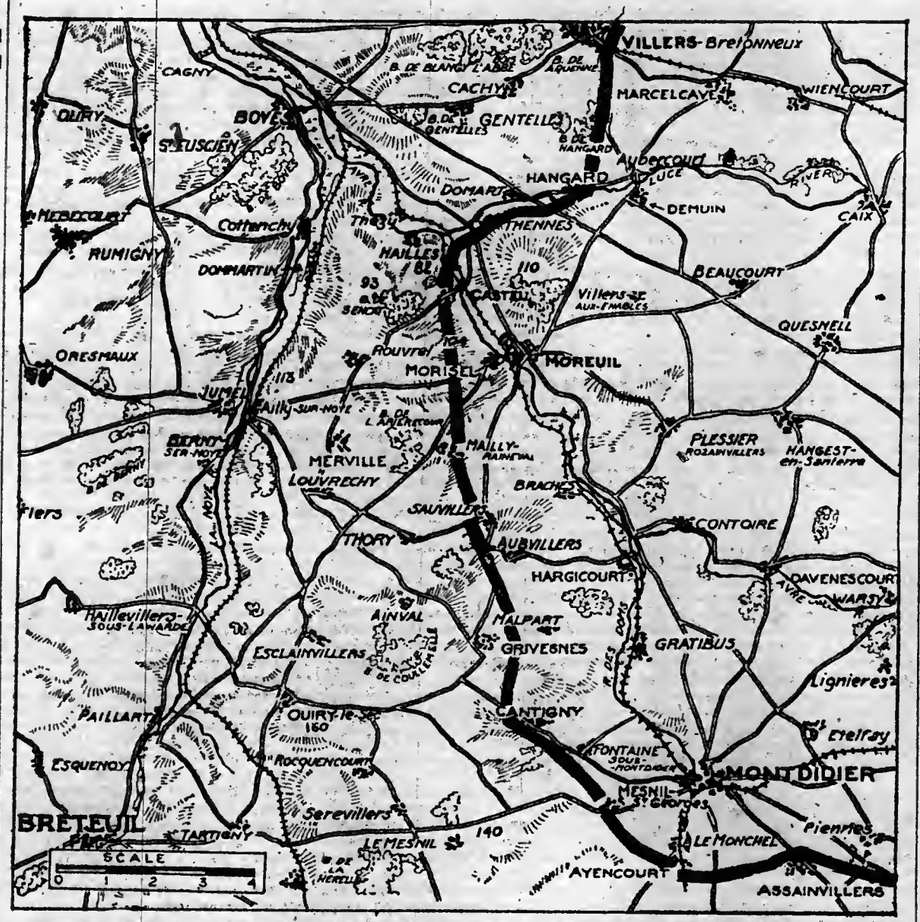
The Germans have always held lack of unity of command to be the most egregious weakness of the allied armies, and they have taken terrible toll of our insubordination. I know perfectly well what could be said in extenuation, and now we all know the cost of our excuses.

On March 26 we were in the midst of the most extreme crisis in our modern history. There were still hesitations, but on that day Lord Milner and Premier Clemenceau met, and on behalf of the British and French Governments arranged that General Foch should stay on the front to co-ordinate the efforts of the two armies—a rôle that received a few days later a plainer and more comprehensive name.

It is not in the nature of the alliance that its members should be steam-rollered in the German fashion, but in future struggles we start with this new advantage, that we have one front instead of five, one chief command, and in essentials not four armies but one band of brothers, rivals only in bravery and sacrifice.

General Marie Fayolle, who is mentioned in the preceding dispatch as in command of the Allied forces south of the Somme, was sent to Italy, after the Isonzo retreat, as head of the French troops assigned to aid in holding the Italian line against the Germans and Austrians.

At the Tip of the German Salient



This part of the battle front, closest to Amiens, has been the scene of some of the most furious fighting of recent months, considering the area involved. For days the lines swayed to and fro in the district around Hangard and Villers-Bretonneux. Now the Allies seem to have a firm grip on the strategic points and even to be able to push back the foe, whenever they think the effort worth while.

American troops have been in action in this district, doubtless as parts of French divisions or brigades. One report has located an American command near Hailles and close to the scene of Thursday night's success of Petain's men, when Hill 82 and the wood near by was occupied. Another report has indicated that the heavy but unsuccessful German attack on American forces in this sector on Tuesday was made at a point northwest of Montdidier, between Fontaine and Cantigny.

The War Situation

BY THE MILITARY EXPERT OF THE NEW YORK TIMES

When the Russians made peace with Germany and the Ukraine was recognized as a separate State there was a great deal of speculation as to just what amount of food supplies this new State would be able to send to Germany; or, to put it another way, what food Germany would be able to take from Ukraine. Apparently, the Germans have been bitterly disappointed. Either Ukraine did not have the food or the Ukrainians destroyed it before Germany could take it. Very probably the scarcity is due in a measure to both causes. Russia had been practically starving for some time before peace was made. If the Ukrainians had had the food it would have been transported by some means or other. That this was not done is an indication that there was not very much of it to move.

But, whatever the cause, we may be sure that Germany did not get a great deal. Under pressure of the situation at home—a pressure created by promises which Germany has been forced to take action from which better judgment would have impelled her to refrain had it been possible. She has seized the Ukraine, destroying its independence and setting up a government of her own. In the action of the German Socialists we shall learn whether such a thing as a revolution in Germany is possible. The German Socialists have supposedly accepted the doctrine of no annexation and no indemnities. They are still talking self-defense in spite of the history of aggression which the German armies have made. It will be interesting to see how they will manage to square this theory with Germany's latest bit of perfidy. The Brest-Litovsk treaty, which was honored by Germany only in the breach, may yet prove a most destructive factor to the German Empire. Dissatisfaction is growing in Russia, and rumors of disquiet come from every source.

The situation is one which threatens Germany seriously, if not in the immediate present, at least before she can make her conquests secure. As time goes on, Germany must defend herself from this quarter and in so doing weaken her position in the west, and it is in the west that Germany is faced with ultimate defeat. Germany certainly would not take measures which she must have known would only increase the hostility toward her unless forced by the direct necessity. Her latest action in Russia emphasizes the food shortage at home as nothing that has heretofore happened has done. At the same time it furnishes a further reason for the necessity for the German offensive. If, however, the German offensive owes its origin in part to the food situation at home, we are furnished with a most potent reason why the attacks should continue until Germany is no longer able to prosecute them.

The lull on the western front still continues, the Germans spending their time in a more or less desultory bombardment against various points on the line. Obviously preparations must be made for the next effort. After taking Mont Kemmel, the Germans, it will be remembered, did not wait, but tried to take advantage of their success by rushing the succeeding positions. For several days the Allies' fate in Flandere hung in the balance, since if the Germans had succeeded, the entire ridge positions west of Mont Kemmel would have gone. Ypres would have of necessity been evacuated under pressure, and a great wealth of supplies would have been sacrificed and probably great numbers of men would have been taken prisoners. But the allied lines held and the Germans were forced to desist after three days of destructive fighting. But immediately preceding Kemmel we had a lapse in the fighting after the capture of Messines Ridge, in which Germany was preparing the way for the attack. When the attack was delivered Mont Kemmel changed hands. The Germans will at some time or other try to duplicate this performance.

They are now taking advantage of the period of quiet to bring up their artillery for a new attack. If, after this period has passed, the Allies are still able to bear the blow and beat them back, the danger to the Flanders position will have completely passed. The defensive strength of the Allies has stood a terrific test, and they have come out of the fire with their lines still intact. The real test will come after the Germans have made their preparations anew with respect to the ground which they have taken within the last two weeks.

In the meantime, however, the Amiens sector, which, in so far as German victory is concerned, may be called the vital sector of the fighting front, has been relatively idle for many days. The only show of activity has been made by the Allies rather than by the Germans. Both French and British have been from time to time conducting minor operations of a purely local character for the purpose of improving their positions. The French yesterday attacked on the Avre just to the north of Castel and have cleared a small section of the river of German troops, driving them over to the other side. But the Germans have been very quiet.

This cannot be because the attack here has been given up. This must be the scene of the German success, if success there is to be. Flanders is a subsidiary operation, designed for the sole purpose of destroying the British hold on Arras. Now that this has failed Germany has two courses open to her. She may make one more attempt to drive through the circle with which she is surrounded in the north, or she may give up the attack here and make a further effort in the south. In any event the Allies have had sufficient time in which to bring up the needed strength. But, wherever Germany elects to strike, the result of the next attack will give us almost positive information as to the outcome of the battle. The battle of Verdun really ended in April, 1917, under just such circumstances. And now, if the Allies can stand and hold off the next German shock, the issue of the present battle will be decided.

GERMANS FAST USING THEIR FRESH DIVISIONS

British Official Believes Facts of Staying Power Are in Favor of the Allies.

LONDON, May 3.—A representative of General Radcliffe, Director of Military Operations at the War Office, summed up today the military situation on the western front as follows:

"In the north, while the Germans failed in their main objective, they made their right flank secure by the capture of Kemmel, but we must regard the operation from the viewpoint of economy of men, and they used up five divisions from the general reserve, besides seven or eight divisions previously employed.

"The results of the last week on the whole were satisfactory, because the enemy used up a larger number of fresh divisions than the Allies, without strategic result. In all he used on the north front thirty-five fresh divisions, besides the nine divisions already there.

"The effect of the operations in the north will be to reduce materially the number of fresh divisions the Germans have available.

"As to the future, the Germans have large numbers of divisions recovering which can be used shortly. It is difficult to make an exact comparison of the staying powers of the two armies, but the facts shown are in our favor. If the enemy continues his offensive in the north, he must impair his chances of success in the south.

"The main aim is to separate the Anglo-French armies in the south, and if the enemy continues the campaign in the north without important results, he is using up his forces to no purpose."

Petain Will Grant More Furloughs.

PARIS, May 3.—General Petain has decided that furloughs to soldiers, which in the past few months have been restricted to cases of death or dangerous illness of near relatives of soldiers, shall be extended in future to include leaves of absence to attend marriages or other family celebrations.

NEW CHIEF OF STAFF NAMED BY PERSHING

Major Gen. James W. McAndrew Is Chosen to Succeed Brig. Gen. James G. Harbord.

LATTER ASSIGNED TO FIELD

Policy of Making Shifts to Give Opportunities to Officers and Inject Energy.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, May 3, (Associated Press.)—Major Gen. James W. McAndrew has been appointed Chief of Staff of the American Expeditionary Forces, assuming his duties immediately.

Brig. Gen. James G. Harbord, who has been General Pershing's Chief of Staff, has been assigned to a command in the field, which he will take over this week.

These changes are explained as being in conformity with General Pershing's policy of making shifts among the officers of the General Staff. In this process some are sent to the field and replaced by others who have been on the front and by reason of recent personal experiences are better able to grapple with field problems. This policy also serves to give the General Staff officers an opportunity to serve with the troops. All of this is calculated to inject additional energy into the activities of the American Expeditionary Forces.

In further pursuit of this policy there have been a number of other staff changes. One section chief has been assigned as a Divisional Chief of Staff, and other officers of similar rank have been assigned to services with the troops. The new post of Deputy Chief of Staff at headquarters has been created, with a view to giving the Chief of Staff more freedom of action and enabling him to keep in closer touch with the combatant troops.

Major Gen. McAndrew has long been recognized as one of the brilliant infantry officers of the regular army. Unlike General Harbord, who rose from the ranks, General McAndrew is a West Pointer and on honor graduate of the Army School of the Line, as well as of the Army Staff College and the War College. As an officer who knows him well and served with him in the Third Infantry expressed it yesterday, "McAndrew has been specially trained for the big job that he now assumes."

General McAndrew is an alumnus of St. Francis Xavier High School of this city. In a letter to a friend here he stated recently that he was proud that he was one of the 300 fighting alumni that this school now has in the service of the United States. At the old school in West Sixteenth Street, near Sixth Avenue, the fathers referred with pride to the boy of 1883 and 1884.

Lieut. Col. Hugh A. Drum, one of the Adjutant Generals on the staff of General Pershing, is also a graduate of St. Francis Xavier High School, as is Father Francis Duffy, Chaplain of the 165th Infantry of the Rainbow Division. The school is represented in Europe by more than 100 officers, of whom four are Lieutenant Colonels, eleven are Majors, sixteen Captains, and the rest Lieutenants of the army and junior officers of the navy. Of the remaining 350 alumni in the service two out of every three are noncommissioned officers. Military training has been a compulsory course at the school for more than thirty years.

General McAndrew was born in Pennsylvania in 1862 and entered West Point in 1884. After graduation he was a Second Lieutenant of the Twenty-first Infantry in 1888. In 1895 he was promoted to First Lieutenant and transferred to the Third Infantry, the unit with which he has seen most of his service in the line. He received his Captaincy in 1899 and was promoted to Major in 1911. He was a Lieutenant Colonel when Congress declared war on Germany.

General Harbord started in life as a Kansas farmer boy and worked himself up from private to Brigadier General. He has long been one of General Pershing's closest army friends. He whipped the Philippine Scouts into the fine organization which it is today. He also served with General Pershing in Mexico, and is believed to be one of the young officers whom General Pershing has recommended for promotion to Major General.

MEISSNER PURSUED AIRPLANE IN FLAMES

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, May 2, (Associated Press.)—Lieutenant James A. Meissner, whose home is in Brooklyn, and who brought down his first German airplane today on the American front northwest of Toul, returned to his hangar to receive the congratulations of his comrades and to make his report with a bashful grin on his face. The Lieutenant is young and slight and "tickled to death" that he has one enemy scalp hanging to his belt.

The story of the exploit having trickled in over the telephone wire, the correspondent went to the Lieutenant's hangar. It had been reported that a wing of Meissner's machine had been torn off by his opponent's airplane.

"Impossible," said one of the members of Meissner's squadron before the young aviator had returned to his billet. "If the boche really had scraped Jimmy with his wing we would have had to call on the Red Cross to make inquiries through Switzerland as to what had happened to him."

Just at that time Lieutenant Meissner himself jumped out of an automobile and walked toward the group gathered about the hangar.

"Well! Well! There's Jimmy now," cried his companions as they all ran out to meet him.

All tried to grasp his hand at the same time and shake it, while many questions were hurled at the young aviator. The Lieutenant blushed and looked around as if at a loss how to begin. Then he briefly told an American story in an American way, just as if bringing down a German was an everyday trick.

"Well," he said, "I saw him at about 5,000 meters. There was another machine, which, I believe, was a French one, headed in the direction of the German. I just sailed in first, but the bochs swung down toward the earth when I was just above him. I went down after him, firing all the time.

"Then he straightened out and turned his wing point quickly and rammed my wing, but as that was happening I cut loose with my gun again. Smoke came from the German machine, which headed for the interior of Germany, and we both were soon over his territory.

"I thought that might be some sort of camouflage for a getaway, for they tell me these Germans are full of tricks, so I kept right on his tail. Then he began to drop, real red flames streaming from him. I knew that I had him and that I had fired 200 shots, but I also knew my machine was damaged. So I turned around and headed for home, but I thought I had better come down safely inside our lines than to risk a flight all the way, so I did it, and there you are."

The Lieutenant went over and told his mechanic about it. The pair stood beside another airplane, on the wing of which had been pasted as a "voodoo chaser" a Liberty Loan poster showing Liberty waving the American flag over the heads of the American soldiers and bearing the inscription:

"Fight or buy Liberty bonds."

D. S. C. FOR LIEUT. MEYERING

Reserve Officer Rewarded for Bravery in Enemy Attack.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, May 2, (Associated Press.)—To Lieutenant William D. Meyering, U. S. R., has been awarded the Distinguished Service Cross. He commanded a platoon which was attacked by the enemy on April 6. He took measures to defeat the enemy and handled his men well under fire until he was wounded seriously.

Compelled to attend to the wound, the Lieutenant refused assistance and walked through a barrage to a dressing station. He objected to being moved to the rear until he knew the result of the engagement.

In the official announcement it is declared his brave example inspired the men to drive off the enemy, who did not reach the American trenches. Lieutenant Meyering's right hand had to be amputated as the result of the wound he received.

War Department Gives Emergency Addresses Of Men Named in the Daily Casualty List

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—The War Department today announced 88 casualties received from Major Gen. Pershing, bringing the total casualties in our overseas forces from the beginning to 4,674. In issuing the list the War Department bowed to public opinion and gave the emergency addresses of the men. The list contains the names of 18 killed in action, 5 died of disease, 2 died of accident, 1 died of wounds, 2 were wounded severely, 58 wounded slightly, and 2 missing in action.

The names of three commissioned officers are in the list. Lieutenants Thomas F. Mooney and Dinsmors Ely were killed in accidents. Lieutenant Ely is the promising young flier from Chicago who was killed in an airplane accident in France on April 21. Twelve days later the War Department gives out the casualty. He was formerly a member of the Lafayette Escadrille, but was taken over into the American Army Aviation Service. Lieutenant Louis M. Edens is missing in action.

SUMMARY OF ARMY CASUALTIES TO DATE.

Deaths.	Previously Reported.	Reported May 3.	Total.
Killed in action	356	18	374
Killed by accident	207	2	209
Died of disease	976	5	981

RAINBOW MAN WOUNDED.

Charles Smith Is from Brooklyn—Bronx Boy on List.

Among those mentioned in yesterday's casualty list from General Pershing as having been slightly wounded is one soldier of the 165th Infantry of the Rainbow Division. He is Charles Smith of 1,265 Prospect Place, Brooklyn. Private Smith is a member of Company K.

Thurston B. Wilson, also reported slightly wounded, is a son of Samuel E. Wilson of 1,841 Marmion Avenue, the Bronx.

"I am proud to hear that my boy has received an honor wound," said Mr. Wilson.

ITALY PLEADS FOR AIRPLANE WOOD

SENDING COMMISSION HERE

'America Gives, but Not Enough Is Given Rapidly'—Supplies Sometimes Cut.

OUR AVIATORS 'DAREDEVILS'

Bombing of Cities Not to Cause Diversion of Airplanes from the Front.

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, May 3.—"Instead of each nation working separately and trying to get ahead of others, all the allied efforts ought to be co-ordinated and united to one great end—a fusion of all the forces brought to the greatest degree of efficiency in the shortest time possible. This aeronautic science a few years ago was almost a dream. It has now become a reality."

Thus spoke Signor Chiesa, member of the Italian Cabinet and Commissioner of Aeronautics, in the course of an interview with THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent.

"Congressman La Guardia," he continued, "is a symbol of these efforts, combining in his own person American strength and Latin geniality. In fact, forming a link between the two races."

Turning in his chair, Signor Chiesa said, with a kindly smile:

"La Guardia is more popular here than if he were an Italian Deputy. I love him like a brother. It is unfair to use him for other work. I don't want him to fly. I told him, 'Go and fetch me raw materials from America. You are the one man who can do it.'

Needs Steel, Copper, and Wood.

"What we need are raw materials, at once, at once," said Signor Chiesa, with emphasis, banging his hand on his desk. "No time must be lost. Every second wasted is a crime. Only America can furnish us with the materials we need, especially steel, copper, and wood, from her magnificent Western spruce forests."

Signor Chiesa arose from his desk, and, after rummaging a few seconds among his papers, handed me a photograph of three gigantic trees.

"You see this is what we need," he said, "but immediately. So much precious time has been lost in endeavoring to perfect new inventions instead of having a standard motor.

"Another source of delay is in having continually to wear myself out in persuading America that Italy really needs what I ask. But I have great faith in her. That is what spurs me on in my hard daily work.

"The United States ought to take us a little on trust, judging us by what we have accomplished. When last I was in Paris some raw materials which America had promised us were reduced to 10 per cent. This greatly pained me, setting back my work again, losing time, limiting our output.

Sending Air Commission Here.

"In a few days I am to send an aeronautic commission to America composed of several officers who will strengthen the relations between America and Italy, bringing a friendly greeting from this side of the ocean. Perhaps it can be demonstrated that, although ours is a small nation, it can be great in aviation."

I asked his opinion of the American aviators in Italy. His face beamed and he said:

"They are daredevils and don't know what fear is. Sometimes they are rather exacting in their demands, which, alas, I can't always satisfy.

"One of the greatest pleasures for myself and the Italian Supreme Command, even our Minister of Foreign Affairs, Baron Sonnino, will be the presence of an American aviation squadron on our front. It will be a great element of strength, especially among our southern men, who know your country well and see with their own eyes Americans in the firing line. From their presence they can draw greater strength and greater faith.

"The best news I have had lately, which has given me great pleasure, is this telegram received from Washington."

Here Signor Chiesa picked up a cable dispatch from among his papers and handed it to me to read. The message informed him of the construction of airplanes in America.

Naples Raid Incenses People.

I asked Signor Chiesa what he thought about the question brought up in the Senate the other day about the insufficient aerial defenses of Naples at the time of the recent raid. He said:

"I do not give much importance to such occurrences, the enemy's sole aim being to induce us to remove as many airplanes from the front as possible, but the best answer which I can make is to repeat the patriotic words of the Mayor of Naples: 'If to safeguard my city it were necessary to remove a single gun or airplane from the front defense, my mother country's need must come before that of Naples.'

"I visited the locality of the disaster and was struck with admiration at the calmness and fortitude with which the population took the bombing. Their only feeling was one of deep hatred and resentment against the Germans."

Signor Chiesa showed me a photograph of a German advertisement used as propaganda for aviation depicting a German airplane bombing Venice.

"They are worse than barbarans," he said, "and take pleasure, even boast, of the vandalisms accomplished in a city which for its historic interest and artistic value belongs to the whole world."

Signor Chiesa concluded by saying:

"Once again it is absolutely necessary to impress on America the necessity of losing no time. Every hour, every minute, every second uselessly gone counts. In my line of work, America gives, but not enough is given rapidly. I have great faith in her. All the allies look to the future with trust."

GERMAN UNITS FOR ITALY.

Some Italian Officers Expect Another Drive in the Trentino.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Official advices from Rome today brought word that German units had been concentrating along that section of the Italian front lying west of Lake Garda, and that along practically the entire front German officers and noncommissioned officers had been distributed among the Austrian units.

It is the opinion of some Italian military officers that the Austro-German intention is to launch a drive through the Trentino with a view to flanking the present Italian line on its left and driving toward the industrial centres of Italy. If this be the plan which the Austrians, with German aid, are now considering, it is that devised by General Conrad von Hoetzendorf, who favored an invasion of Italy from the Trentino, and undertook it unsuccessfully in 1916. His plans were abandoned when the Italian advance toward Laibach became so dangerous as to threaten the Austrians with disaster, thus compelling Germany to intervene and push back the Italian Army from the Isonzo to the Piave.

The abandonment for the time being of the plan of 1916 was prompted by Austrian apprehensions concerning the political effect of the capture of Laibach by the Italians. Now, however, since the Italians have been rolled back from the Isonzo, that menace no longer exists, and the Austrians, in the opinion of Italian officers, have returned to the original design contemplating an invasion of Lobbardy and Piedmont for the purpose of depriving Italy of her great industrial centres.

The position and morale of the Italian forces are asserted in official dispatches to be excellent. Minister Nitti has declared that Italy is now in better condition than last Fall. The food situation is the worst element in the Italian equation. Despite this, Italian liners have been turned over for use in moving American troops to France in the Italian Government's desire to give the closest co-operation to the Entente Powers in the present situation on the front in France and Flanders. Arrangements have been made for taking care of Italy's needs by shipping coal and foodstuffs in large quantities from America and England.

GIGANTIC OPERATIONS BACK OF OUR LINES

350,000 Tons of Material Handled by the Transportation Department in April.

AN AMERICAN BASE IN FRANCE, May 3, (Associated Press.)—"Some idea of the wonderful progress that is being made back of the lines," said James Kerney, Director for the France-American Committee on Public Information, to The Associated Press today, "may be gathered from the simple announcement that 350,000 tons of material were handled by the transportation department in April, as against less than half that amount in January.

"The storage facilities for three months' complete supplies for an army of 2,000,000 men are almost finished. We are operating 5,000 miles of wire. Big docks and railroad yards rapidly are nearing completion. Upward of $100,000,000 was paid out in France alone last month by the Quartermaster General."

Mr. Kerney was speaking of what he personally had seen in two weeks of what the American army had done and was doing in France.

"America," Mr. Kerney continued, "is rapidly growing into its full stride. The gigantic operations generally are now proceeding so expeditiously and smoothly as to make it easier for the people of France to appreciate just how determined we are to see it through. The best part of it all is that in this wonderful romance of transporting men and supplies and construction material 3,000 miles overseas, the health of the troops has been kept at such a high level. There has been some disease incident to overcrowding at times, but no man has had to sleep out of doors.

"The general health of the men is now most excellent. The number of men who have been unable to go on active duty because of sickness was .87 per 1,000 for the week ended April 18, which is a lower rate than prevails in the United States. Ours is the only army that goes into fighting with hot coffee as a stimulant. It's a proud thing for any country to have produced such a wholesome and healthy institution as the brave American Army in France."

Mr. Kerney spoke of a visit he had made to the American troops at the front.

"Everywhere," he said, "I found enthusiasm over the steady courage and ready adaptability of the Americans. One of the finest tributes to our men was the declaration of a very distinguished French officer that the seasoned soldier of France was eager to fight alongside the Americans, whose bravery and faculty for learning had quickly won the affectionate admiration of their comrades in arms.

"The French officers are amazed at the cheerful way in which the Americans have accommodated themselves to the rigid discipline necessary to this kind of warfare. Our men, they say, face the grim job with the rarest good nature and determination. The work of assimilation with the older armies has been easy. From General Pershing down to the privates the single idea prevails of making this a finish fight against the Hun."

Mr. Kerney's trip to the battlefront was made with representatives of the French universities and some provincial newspaper publishers. To have America's effort in the war better known in France a series of illustrated lectures is being given at the universities, showing just what has been accomplished by the United States.

TEUTON PRISONERS 'GUESTS'

Georgia Grand Jury Protests Treatment at Fort McPherson.

ATLANTA, May 3.—"Guestlike" treatment accorded to German prisoners at Fort McPherson, was made the subject of a special report of the Fulton County Grand Jury today to Judge Ben Hill of the County Superior Court.

The report asserts that the military authorities at the post permitted the playing of the German national air by German bands, and it enters a "vigorous protest against the manner in which the prisoners from the submarines were received at the camp some thirty days ago, at which time said prisoners were greeted by their compatriots quartered there as victors."

"The prisoners are in a large measure guests of the nation," says the report, "and they do no manual labor, they are well fed, well housed, well clothed, and are permitted to lead a lazy, indolent life."

It was suggested that a copy of the report he sent to the Georgia Senators with the "request that an immediate investigation be made by the proper authorities at Washington as to why the Federal authorities at Fort McPherson allow German bands to play the German national air."

Three Marines Wounded.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Major Gen. Barnett, Commandant of the Marine Corps, announced today three casualties suffered by members of the Marine Corps serving with General Pershing's expedition in France. Hereafter the home addresses of officers and men in casualty lists will be announced, following the new army plan. Privates Roy B. Graham, Charles A. Gordon, and Thomas S. Killian are reported slightly wounded today.

of all calibres up to the monster 12-inches, which burst like volcanic eruptions.

Shelling Worse Than at Verdun.

In the intensity of bombardment several officers who fought at Fleury said: "This is the most frightful thing we have seen. Verdun was nothing to it."

All the French troops jammed on gas masks, and on one day put them on fifty times, only removing them when the wind, which was fairly strong, blew away the poison fumes until other storms of shells came. For nearly a week they wore them constantly, sleeping in them, officers giving orders in them, and the men fighting and dying in them—and charging with the bayonet in them. It was worth the trouble and suffering, for this French regiment between Locre and Dranoutre had only twelve gas casualties.

That morning the German attack fell first on Kemmel Hill, which they turned from the north, and two hours later, the bombardment continuing all along the line, they developed a strong attack against Dranoutre in the south in order to take Locre and turn the French right. Until evening the troops on Kemmel Hill, with a small body of British, I am told, still held out with great devotion in isolated positions, but by 8 o'clock that morning Kemmel Hill was entirely cut off.

This was a severe menace to their comrades at Locre and southward, because both their flanks were threatened. They did heroic things to safeguard their right and left, which again and again the enemy tried to pass. I have already told in a previous message how a gallant French officer and a small company of men made a counterattack at Dranoutre and held the post there against all odds.

Up by Locre the commandant of the left battalion found machine-gun fire sweeping his left flank, and his men had to face left to defend their line. Small parties of Germans with machine guns kept filtering down from the north and established themselves on the railway in order to rake the French with an enfilade fire.

One French company, led by devoted officers, counterattacked there five times with the bayonet into the sweep of those bullets, and by this sacrifice saved their flank. Another company advanced to hold the hospice. There was desperate fighting day after day, so that its ruins, if any bits of wall are left, will be as historic as the château at Vermelles, or other famous houses of the battlefields.

Proof of German Confusion.

French and Germans took it turn and turn about, and although the enemy sent great numbers of men to garrison this place they never were able to hold it long, because always some young French Lieutenant and a handful of men stormed it again and routed the enemy. When it was taken last on April 29, the day of the enemy's severe defeat, the French captured 100 prisoners in the cellars there, and they belonged to fourteen battalions of four regiments of three divisions, showing the amazing way in which the enemy's divisions have been flung into confusion by the French fire.

On the morning of April 26 French companies made six attacks, and in the afternoon two more, and though their losses were heavy, that evening both the village and hospice of Locre stayed in their hands. That night, their men being exhausted for a time after so many hours under fire, they withdrew their line a little to the Locre-Bailleul road by the Château of Locre and west of Dranoutre in order to reorganize a stronger defense. The German bombardment slackened on the morning of April 28 owing to fog, and those few hours on that day and one other were the only respite these French troops had from the incessant and infernal gunfire when, owing to open warfare, "en rase campagne," as the French call it, as in 1914, without a complete system of trenches or dugouts or other artificial cover, they were much exposed.

"There were ten big shells a second," one of these officers told me, "and that lasted, with only two short pauses, for six days all through the battle, and other shells were uncountable."

The enemy had brought up light artillery and trench mortars almost to his front lines in Dranoutre Wood and other places and attempted to take the French in an enfilade fire from Kemmel, but by this time many French guns were in position, reinforcing the British artillery, and on the 28th they opened up and killed great numbers of the enemy.

Allied aviators saw long columns of Germans on the roads by Neuve Eglise and in Dranoutre Wood, and signaled to the guns to range on these human targets. The guns answered. Masses of Germans were smashed by the fire and panic-stricken groups were seen running out of Dranoutre Wood.

Night of Horror for Germans.

That night the Germans seemed to be relieving their troops, and again the French and British guns flung shells into them, and for the enemy it was a night of death and horror; but the next day, the 29th, the enemy made reply by a prolonged bombardment, more intense even than before, and then attacked with new troops all along the line. But the French also had many fresh troops in line—not those I met yesterday—who at 2 o'clock in the morning went forward into attack and took back the village. This defeated the enemy's plan of turning the French left.

All through that day the enemy's desperate efforts to break through were shattered, and that night the French held exactly the same ground as before and had caused enormous losses to the German divisions, at least 40 per cent. of their strength, as it is reckoned on close evidence.

That night even the German guns stopped their drumfire, as though Sixt von Arnim's army were in mourning for its dead. It was a night of strange and uncanny silence after the stupendous tumult, but for those French regiments who had been holding the line for nearly a week it had been a day of supreme ordeal.

It was a day also of devoted sacrifice by men who had laid down their lives with exalted courage, by men who were insolent to danger, by simple police who that day were great heroes. Take those runners who went through this inferno day after day until that worst day carrying orders where telephone wires had been smashed and there was no other way of getting through a message then when a man could get through with his life.

The Colonel with grizzled mustache and sombre blue eyes whom I met yesterday took pity on the men and said:

"Take a rest for an hour or two, my sons, you have done well and are very tired."

But these men said:

"Merci, mon Colonel, mais ils ont besoin de nous," ("They have need of us,") and they set off again through the drumfire along the tracks where many of their comrades lay and where at last they, too, perhaps stumbled and fell with bursts of flame bringing death to them.

So it was with the stretcher bearers, the heroic brancardiers, who for six days went up and down the road to the rescue of the wounded, up and down each time with some comrades, less one ambulance man. One of the infirmiere tended wounded in an advanced dressing station until he was killed by a shell.

The French transport men did well, gloriously well, and all through this fighting from April 23 to April 30 each regiment had good meat and good drink.

Foe's Fliers Harassed Infantry.

The Germans added one terror to the battle which was taught them by the British in the battles of Flanders last year from the air. They sent over swarms of low-flying airplanes from ten to a hundred yards above the ground. Their pilots fired on the French infantry in the open with machine guns and dropped heavy bombs.

"I counted some seventy-nine airplanes in the sky at one time over two battalion fronts," said one of the officers whom I met yesterday, and his friends here out this fact. They told me all these things frankly and simply, with fine modesty and openheartedness. Most of them were amateur soldiers before the war, but now they seemed to me very wise in the science of war, understanding the strategy and tactics of the enemy's attacks on them and quick to see any weakness in their own position. They were cool-headed fellows without bravado and utterly sincere, as only men who have faced death often are sincere, because to live near death strips the soul of its conceit and foolishness.

Their great pride was in the glory of their men. They touched the papers which had been delivered by runners with reverence as relics of the brave dead, and stood very silent when the old Colonel, who was like a father among them, took another paper out of his pocket, smoothed it out, and, clearing his throat a little, said:

"I had this from a young Lieutenant of mine, commanding a platoon, and would like to read it to you."

It was a message from a young French officer who, with a little party of men, was isolated for two days, with the enemy all around them. For two days they kept the Germans at bay with machine-gun fire, fighting north and south, facing both ways, and he had the honor to report, this boy of France, that he had not lost a foot of ground nor one men as prisoner.

"There must have been many things done like that," said the Colonel, "but the men who did them did not come back, and we shall never know."

Since the beginning of the war I have been recording heroic acts by English and all British troops, things done by them that make one's spirit big with wonder that youth should be so brave, and so they will not begrudge the things I have written about the French today, for they will like to know how those comrades in blue were fighting last Monday when the British lines from Vormezeele to east of Ypres held firm against all attacks, and on the days before then when they were gladdened by the news that the French were coming to their relief at the critical hour, when things looked worst.

A Lesson of Comradeship.

It is good that the British people should know the facts I have written and get this glimpse of the spirit of France, which is now mingling with the spirit of their own men on the same battlefields and as their bodies touch when they pass each other on the same roads. It is a lesson of comradeship which should draw them very close.

On the same day as the French were holding firm between Dranoutre and Locre, the men of the 21st, 49th, and 25th British Divisions were sustaining the same ordeal, and afterward, between Vormezeele and Ridge Wood. I have already given many details of this fighting, describing the colossal bombardment, the attacks of the enemy in waves, and the slaughter of his men. He was never able to get into Ridge Wood, and on the previous night, when he tried to advance on a big scale but was prevented by the British gunfire, which broke up his assemblies, the South Africans attacked and drove him back by machine-gun and rifle fire. The Yorks and Lancashires and Duke of Wellington received the enemy with fixed bayonets and inflicted heavy losses.

One fine feature of this battle which was a defeat for the Germans was the extraordinarily gallant behavior of some of the men of the new drafts who came into action for the first time. They stood the ordeal of intense shellfire with wonderful stoicism, and showed a gallant spirit in attack. One party of them actually attacked as a separate unit and did splendid work.

That perhaps is the most important news that any of us may tell, because if all the drafts are so good the enemy will be gravely disillusioned in believing they will not be of the same fighting quality as the men they have already met with longer training in the fields of war.

GERMANY IS FACING A NEW FOOD CRISIS

Her Own Farmers Object to High Prices Exacted by Those of Ukraine.

BERNE, May 3.—Another food crisis is developing in Germany. This is indicated by the press and the debates in the Reichstag. The Government has explained that this year's crisis can be averted only by the importation of food from the Ukraine and Rumania, and new opposition to the use of supplies from the former country has developed among German farmers. According to the agreement between the German and Ukrainian Governments, Germany promised to pay 406 marks a ton for rye and 457 marks a ton for wheat, plus transportation charges of approximately 150 marks a ton. This makes the price for rye delivered in Berlin 556 marks, (at normal exchange about $132.50,) a ton, and for wheat 637 marks, ($151.60,) whereas Germany is paying German farmers only 270 marks a ton for rye and 290 marks a ton for wheat. The German farmers object to the payment of these high prices, and the Ukraine farmers will not sell for less.

For this reason the German and Austrian commissions at Kiev are faced by difficulties which are still unsolved, and which may delay shipments of grain to Germany.

The crisis in Austria-Hungary is still grave. Vienna telegrams say that Szyerenyi has been unable to form a Cabinet because of the opposition of Tisza and Andrassy, and that no leader can be found to reorganize the Government, which has fallen into a state of chaos. Attempts are being made to get Wekerle to resume the post of Minister-President. If he does Apponyi, Esterhazy, Andrassy, and Karolyi will continue their opposition, and new and grave difficulties are expected—all because the Emperor has compromised with Tisza.

In Vienna it is announced that Parliament will be convened May 7, when the German Radicals and the Czechs will force the Polish question and that of the Rumanian peace to the foreground. Debate on the legal status of the House of Parma is also announced, and unless the Government succeeds in quieting the storm against the Emperor's relatives this may develop into another crisis involving the Austrian ruler.

In the meantime German internal propaganda is being centred upon uniting the nation under Hindenburg's leadership. The Berlin Deutsche Zeitung announces a new book containing Hindenburg's telegrams and speeches under the title "Golden Words of Hindenburg." In Government-inspired press reviews it is solemnly asserted that this book is to Germany today what the Ten Commandments were to the Jews in the time of Moses. In other cities, including those of Switzerland and other neutral countries, German book stores are placing pictures of Hindenburg and Martin Luther in their windows as part of a propaganda scheme.

Promises Food Enough from Ukraine.

AMSTERDAM, May 3.—Hope was expressed by Secretary von Waldow at the meeting on Wednesday of the Food Committee of the German Reichstag, according to Berlin newspapers, that the agreement with the Ukraine would provide 60,000,000 pounds of grain by the last of July. Herr von Waldow said the question of reducing the bread ration would depend upon the Ukraine supplies, but that the present potato supply would be sufficient until the end of the harvest year. He assured the committee there would be a fair harvest, and that the supplies expected from the Ukraine would make adequate food supplies certain.

Justice, and when asked what his attitude would be toward any investigation the Department of Justice might see fit to make, Mr. Baker said: "There will be no conflict whatever between the War Department and the Department of Justice."

The Senate Military Affairs Committee today laid the ground work for an investigation of aircraft production. In an informal discussion, the committee decided that if Mr. Borglum could present facts and witnesses to substantiate his charges, the committee would delve to the very bottom of the matter, and if it discovered conditions to warrant criminal prosecutions, would insist that the Department of Justice act promptly and decisively.

It all rests with Mr. Borglum. With facts, the committee will unhesitatingly go on. Without additional evidence, the committee will not act. Mr. Borglum's report to the President, as printed in THE NEW YORK TIMES, and read into the Congressional Record, does not contain enough substantiating evidence, the committee holds. But if the investigation is entered upon it will be amplified to include every division of the War Department.

Mr. Borglum today was engaged in rounding up witnesses and he is expected to communicate with the committee early in the coming week.

Word from the White House today that President Wilson would not in any way oppose a Congressional investigation of the aircraft situation rather spurred committee members toward action. Some members, however, take the position that the committee has gone far enough and that it now rests with the Department of Justice to investigate and prosecute if any prosecuting is to be done.

Senator Weeks of Massachusetts voiced the views of these members when he said:

"This committee has done its part. It has already shown conditions to be bad. It has called this to the attention of officials of the Government. The committee is made up of very busy men and we should not do any more investigating."

NIEMEYERS HATED AS PRISON TYRANTS

Two German Brothers Marked as Exceptionally Cruel to British Captives.

BOTH NATURALIZED HERE

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, May 3.—It will probably come as a revelation to most Americans to learn that among the odious tools of the Kaiser employed in German prison camps two brothers, who claim to have enjoyed American citizenship for many years, have earned unexampled notoriety for their infamous treatment of British officers and men.

The individuals in question rejoice in the name of Niemeyer. Their ages lie between 50 and 60. Both are officers of reserve, speak execrable English, and are decorated with the iron cross of the second class.

The scene of their activities lies in the Tenth or Hanover army command, which groans under the despotic rule of Lieut. Gen. Hanish, who selected the Niemeyers as his particular agents. Hanish is directly responsible to the Kaiser and none else.

Marked out for the dastardly work of ill-treating the British by their knowledge of the English tongue and by their claim to acquaintance with English and American customs, the Niemeyers have given their chief no regret on account of their selection. Active, plausible, relentless and ambitious to earn the favor of their General, these two German-American Captains are well fitted to execute the secret instructions of the venomous Hanish. No stone has been left unturned to humiliate, bully, rob, and injure the unfortunate victims of this iniquitous régime.

Lived in America Many Years.

There is no doubt that the Niemeyers have lived for many years in the United States. They probably have considerable possessions there now, but no self-respecting American would care to acknowledge kinship with such vile creatures, who in the uniform of German officers alternate the practice of hectoring and abuse of prisoners with the most cringing servility to their seniors. One brother claims to be a member of a Boston club and was supposed to sell agricultural implements in Germany. The other was supposed to have a fruit farm.

On first making the acquaintance of either brother, prisoners are struck immediately by the familiarity with which they are greeted. A stout, prosperous looking individual addresses some vulgar, insolent interrogation in English as to the prisoners' private affairs, but the allied officers perceive at once beneath the flourish of veneer the real brutal nature of the man.

"In a minute, my dear fellow, you will have such a dinner as you never enjoyed at the Ritz," was the greeting to a wornout arrival prior to receiving his wretched bowl of barley.

One of the Niemeyers once said to some orderlies working outside on a wet morning:

"It is raining. You have no coats. You will get wet and catch cold. You will die and I am damned glad.

THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent could quote many instances which are unsuitable for publication.

One of the worst characteristics is the swindling capacity evinced by the respective brothers who are commandants of these camps. By the sale of bad wine at canteens and illegal profits on firewood, which should have been provided free, these ex-citizens of the United States have fraudulently pocketed thousands of marks.

Exposed by Under Officer.

Hated by their own men even more, if possible, than by the captives, they have taken too big a risk, and a certain under officer, who resented being treated like a dog, has found means to inform the Berlin authorities how his master was making a fortune in butter by withholding the military supply and selling it elsewhere at exorbitant prices. One inquiry led to another. It is doubtful if even Hanish can now save his satellite from the well-merited punishment of being dispatched to the front as a combatant officer.

Though zealous to a degree in firing at officers, swift punishment overtakes any wretched sentry whose humanity sometimes bids him aim wide of the mark at point blank range.

Quite recently while the big offensive was in progress a captured officer was brought before the Commandant. "We shall bring England to her knees," said Niemeyer, and he ordered the officer to be forcibly stripped, himself pulling the officer's necktie until it was tight around his neck, and told the guards to force him to a kneeling position naked.

THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent has spoken to hundreds of former prisoners, officers, and men here, who unanimously express the hope that it may soon fall to the lot of some true sons of America to deal with these two brothers, who so insolently claim a share in the rights of citizenship of the United States.

POLITICAL STORM AHEAD IN GERMANY

A reduction in the meat ration is certain. Indeed, in Saxony the ration already has undergone a reduction from 200 to 150 grams, and the rejection of the potato ration at the present standard is a matter of doubt.

Then comes the question of the offensive. After six weeks of costly, indecisive struggle the feeling of the public is none too satisfied. Correspondents and critics lately have been much more sternly held in rein, and I am assured there is no little restiveness in political circles regarding the western effort.

Time Limit on the Offensive.

Information which has reached me provides me with ground which I think must be regarded as a good basis for the belief that something in the nature of a time limit was really set for the offensive. The military party played the same trick before the offensive as it did before the war. The Democratic parties were presented in the days before the war began with a choice of opposing or supporting the war, which they were assured would be short and triumphant; and the dangers to themselves and their future of opposing such a step won them over.

With regard to the offensive, they were placed before a similar choice, and were assured the offensive would be completely successful within a so-called reasonable time. On this occasion persuasion was not so difficult.

In neither case was it hard and the result was the same. In the second case, as in the first, it will be remembered the Vorwärts took its stand on the belief that only a western victory could bring about peace.

The limit in question, I understand, was in the nature of a casualty limit. It extended to as much as 30 per cent. of the effectives, though the military declared that was the maximum, and would not be reached. So it was that the official reports at the beginning of the offensive, so greatly insisted on a small number casualties.

As for time, there can be no doubt, my informant says, that the military planned for an early, a very early triumph. This was the point on which the financial interests were anxious, and I think this view is supported by a remark which I reported at the time by George Bernhard in the Vossische Zeitung. Discussing the prospects of peace in that paper on March 4, he said there was no hope that England at that moment would give Germany acceptable terms, but he added, "perhaps it will be possible in four weeks." Bernhard is not only political editor of the Vossische Zeitung, but also editor of the financial weekly "Plutus." He is the mouthpiece of financial circles.

Though the military party expected a quick victory, they were prepared for the other eventuality, and their limit of casualties, they reckoned, would cover a period of effort extending to three months. We are nearly half way through that period, half way toward that moment when some one in Germany may begin to demand a balance sheet. If that is the situation, and I have the best reasons to believe such an outline is correct, then the Allies' position is very favorable and their task is to stand firm.

BIG LOAN SALES HERE AS DRIVE NEARS END

New York's Total Reaches $773,550,650, with Two More Days' Figures to be Added.

OVERSUBSCRIPTION LIKELY

John D. Rockefeller, U. S. Steel, Prudential, and Metropolitan Life Take $5,000,000 Each.

The campaign for the Third Liberty Loan closes tonight, and there is every assurance that the New York District will oversubscribe its quota of $900,000,000, although the total of applications tabulated by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York up to last night was only $773,550,650. This figure, however, does not include the very heavy subscriptions that were filed with the various banks yesterday and which will be officially reported this morning; and furthermore, to it will be added the eleventh hour subscriptions that will be signed up today and not reported until Monday.

Yesterday's gain was $66,574,000, or $6,500,000 under the previous day's figure. The district's percentage stood last night at 86, and an analysis of the returns showed that while New York City had filled only about 81 per cent. of its quota, the rest of the district, which includes all of New York State, twelve New Jersey counties and Fairfield County, Conn., had already oversubscribed its allotment. Manhattan and the Bronx are the two boroughs which have not yet reached their respective quotas.

Big Subscriptions Announced.

With the patriotic demonstrations and public meetings practically over, the banks busied themselves yesterday with rounding up some of the larger subscribers, many of whom were induced to file additional subscriptions. John D. Rockefeller announced his first subscription of $5,000,000, which may be increased today. E. H. Gary of the United States Steel Corporation, reported an additional subscription of $5,000,000 for the corporation, bringing its total for the Third Loan to $40,000,000. J. P. Morgan & Co. sent over an additional subscription of $1,500,000, the firm having previously filed one for $10,000,000. The Prudential Insurance Company of America and the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company each applied for an additional $5,000,000 of bonds. The Central Trust Company entered a further application for $10,000,000 on behalf of itself and clients, and the Corn Exchange Bank added $5,000,000 to its previous applications. Several other substantial subscriptions were announced, and it was said that more would be forthcoming today. Practically all of the subscriptions just mentioned are not included in the Reserve Bank figures of yesterday, and there is every reason to believe that more than the $126,500,000 required to fulfill the quota will have been obtained when yesterday's and today's returns are tabulated.

Seward Prosser Discusses Drive.

The total for the New York District is not larger than it is for the reason that a great many corporations which keep their funds in this city have filed a large share of their subscriptions in other districts. This has been done despite the fact that the quotas fixed by the Treasury Department were based on banking resources of the various districts. Speaking of the campaign in this district, Seward Prosser, President of the Bankers' Trust Company, and member of the Liberty Loan Committee, said:

"I think New York is coming through in a large way in the matter of this loan. It is not having the easiest time in the world doing it. Her quota is based on her banking resources, but the big corporations which are doing their banking here are distributing the credit for their investments throughout the country. Many large depositors with homes in the suburbs are paying for their subscriptions with money in New York banks and crediting them up in their home towns.

"There is one other difficulty, too, in the situation, and that is the payment of income and excess profits taxes which will presently be due. New York, as the richest community in the country, will pay a large share of these, and many of our large corporations and men of large means will not feel that they can make as generous subscriptions to the loan as in former ones. But in spite of all this, New York will stand to her guns and do what is expected of her."

Real Sacrifice Marks Patriot.

Mr. Prosser said he was impatient with people who talk about patriotism in connection with loan subscriptions by wealthy citizens. "The truly patriotic subscribers," he said, "are those who are making a real sacrifice in order to make a larger subscription. In ordinary times the man of means who got word that by going down to Wall Street he could invest in Government bonds would put on his carpet slippers so as not to make a noise while he slipped down to his bank to get a share in the gilt-edged investment. His action would not be due to patriotism, and there's no real patriotism in such an investment in these days unless it is so large it hurts."

The following table gives the quotas, yesterday's recorded subscriptions, and totals to date for each of the subdivisions of the New York District:

NEW YORK CITY.

Manhattan	$618,794,000	$46,773,650	$488,859,650

Percentages of Subdivisions.

The following table gives the percentages of the quotas subscribed for by each of the above subdivisions of the district:

	P.C.		P.C.
Manhattan	79	Sub-District 1	91
Brooklyn	94	Sub-District 2	77
Bronx	85	Sub-District 3	75
Queens	157	Sub-District 4	100

New York City	81	Sub-District 6	165
Outside N. Y. City	101	Sub-District 7	112
The district	86	Sub-District 8	121

Although the table gives Brooklyn a standing of 94 per cent., later returns received yesterday showed that the borough had oversubscribed its quota by about $70,000. Brooklyn received an Honor Flag as well as the City of Buffalo, which reported $2,000,000 over its quota of $30,876,000. Hoboken won an Honor Flag and Montclair, N. J., won a star for its flag for doubling its quota. With the ninety-three flags awarded yesterday, the total for the district numbers 833. Stars were awarded to fifty-two towns that had previously won flags, bringing the number of communities with double and more than double quotas to 238.

Of the eighteen cities in this district which have a population of more than 50,000, twelve have already exceeded their quotas. The six that have not yet done so, according to the committee's records, are Albany, New York, Rochester, Syracuse, Bridgeport, Conn., and Jersey City, N. J.

H. G. S. Noble Issues Appeal.

H. G. S. Noble, President of the New York Stock Exchange, issued yesterday the following appeal:

I think that at this time, when the success of the loan seems assured, the importance of an impressive oversubscription should be emphasized. Our boys overseas should have in unmistakable terms a message of our whole-hearted support. In this connection our full duty as individuals is not done until we have bought to the limit of our financial capacity.

Synagogues Aid Loan Drive.

The congregation of Temple Emanu-El has supplied subscriptions totaling $500,000, Jacob H. Schiff filing an application for $250,000 and the Emanuel Brotherhood for $105,000. At a meeting of the congregation of Temple Beth El the Rev. Dr. Samuel Schulman made an appeal for support of the loan and more than $40,000 was subscribed. The members of the Free Synagogue, in response to an address by Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, subscribed at their meeting $101,000.

"Blue Devils" Visit Wall Street.

The French "Blue Devils" were the principal attraction at the daily noon-day meeting show on the steps of the Sub-Treasury yesterday. Others who appeared before a big crowd were Governor Whitman, twelve of the men who have been "over there" with Pershing, and a dozen of the Australian soldiers, who are now in New York. Lieutenant Albert Le Moal of the "Blue Devils" made a brief speech in English.

Joseph Hartigan of the Liberty Loan Committee called on every man, woman, and child in the audience to match the President and buy another bond before Saturday night, and it was estimated that fully 25,000 persons raised their hands in response. Speeches were also made by Rabbi Wise and Oscar S. Straus. Mme. Schumann-Heink sang "The Star-Spangled Banner" and Miss Cecil Arden sang "God Save the King."

The "Blue Devils" then visited the Stock Exchange. They were escorted to the gallery by President H. G. S. Noble of the Stock Exchange, and Lieutenant Le Moal offered a German gas mask, which he had taken from a prisoner, as a prize for the person who would make, on the spot, the largest Liberty Loan subscription. After some excited competition, during which a total of $1,030,000 was raised for the loan, J. Pierpont Morgan won the prize with a subscription of $500,000.

In the morning, before going to the Sub-Treasury, the French soldiers were taken on a visit to Bedloe's Island, where Major Charles E. Coates, in command of the garrison, showed them over the Statue of Liberty, and William Osborne McDowell, the only surviving member of the Statue of Liberty Commission, made a brief address. Today they are going to take part in the Drygoods' Committee Parade and meeting, and in the afternoon will attend Liberty Loan meetings all over town, winding up at Liberty Land.

German Section Leads List.

The German section of the Foreign Language Division of the Liberty Loan Committee tops the list of subscriptions with a total of $18,000,000. Incomplete returns from thirteen of the twenty committees follow:

German	$18,000,000	Lithuanian	$66,500
Polish	9,500,000	Danish	281,000
Bohemian	440,000	Armenian	190,000
Italian	8,500,000	Belgian	700,000
Swedish	420,000	Latin-Am.	5,825,000
So. Slavonic	149,000	Chinese	81,000
Russian	145,000

More than 850,000 coupon books for use of those who favor the partial payment plan for buying Liberty bonds have already been delivered to banks and other distributing agencies.

The Liberty Land War Exhibit at the 69th Regiment Armory closes at 11 o'clock tonight. Governor Whitman will be one of the speakers at the closing exercises and the "Blue Devils" of France will give an exhibition, ending the demonstration by the singing of "The Marseillaise."

Seventy-five boys and girls from the New York Institute for the Education of the Blind visited Liberty Land yesterday. A German helmet and a gas mask, trophies from a French battlefield, were awarded for the largest bond sales at Liberty Land last evening. Charles Hayden, banker, at 25 Broad Street, received the gas mask for his subscriptions, amounting to $200,000. The helmet was awarded to Lionello Perera, a banker at 69 Wall Street. Both of the souvenirs were returned by the recipients to be used again for the promotion of the loan. Martin Vogel, Assistant Treasurer of the United States, presided at the meeting.

East Side Plans Strong Finish.

The east side will wind up its campaign for the loan at a rally in front of 138 Second Avenue, scheduled for 8 o'clock this evening, under the auspices of the Hebrew National Orphan Asylum. The east side actors will hold a rally in front of the Hebrew Actors' Club, 108 Second Avenue, and another mass meeting will take place this evening in front of the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society, 229 East Broadway.

An outdoor rally under the auspices of the Decorators' Committee will be held from 3:30 to 7:30 o'clock today at Fifth Avenue and Fifty-eighth Street. Tonight a flying squad of bond salesmen will make a so-called "whirlwind" campaign of the Broadway restaurants which they say will partake of the nature of a "raid."

The meeting at Times Square, which beginning yesterday at noon is scheduled to run continuously for thirty-six hours, that is until midnight tonight, attracted large crowds throughout the day and night and many subscriptions were received. There were a great many cash sales of $50 bonds.

RAINBOW DIVISION SURE OF $450,000,000 QUOTA

Within Only $10,000,000 of Amount Needed to Complete Half of District's Allotment.

The eighty-six business organizations which form the Rainbow Division of the Liberty Loan will succeed today in filling their quota of $450,000,000, or one-half of the New York district's allotment. Late yesterday afternoon it was announced that the division was short only $10,000,000 after John D. Rockefeller had filed his $5,000,000 subscription, which he asked be credited to the Petroleum and Allied Trades Committee. A number of the committees announced long lists of applications and reported that a great many business concerns had earned 100 per cent. industrial honor flags for having obtained subscriptions from every one of their employes.

Arthur H. Hahlo	10,000
John Levy	10,000
Estate of C. W. Kraushaar	10,000

The employes of Manning, Maxwell & Moore yesterday subscribed $67,450 of bonds. This was credited to the Machinery and Machine Tools Committee. Among others reported by this committee were:

A. Schraders Sons and employes	$280,000
Automatic Sprinkler Co. and employes	166,350
Employes J. H. Williams & Co., (additional)	50,000

Aided by two French soldiers, the flying squadron composed of W. K. Meyer, Ben Strauss, and H. Seckel of the Men's Neckwear Committee obtained $1,600,000 in subscriptions yesterday. The canvass was made among employes in the trade.

Credited to the coal trade, of which Michael Burns is Chairman, were: Burns Brothers, $100,000 additional, and T. B. Davis, President of the Island Creek Coal Company, $100,000.

Nathan Strauss of Nathan Strauss, Inc., with ten butcher stores in this city, will use the entire receipts of the last three days of the campaign for the purchase of bonds. Reported by the Brewers' Committee were the Central Association of Borough of Manhattan, $440,000, and Central Consumers' Wine and Liquor Company, $50,000. The Coffee, Tea, and Spice Committee announced a subscription of $100,000 from B. H. Howell, Son & Co.

Although the Steam Laundrymen's Committee was not placed on the list of the Rainbow Committee at the beginning of the campaign, the Advisory Trades Committee did so yesterday, when it was learned that the members of this trade had voluntarily organized and had obtained a total of $101,950. This committee started work two weeks after the campaign had begun.

An additional report filed by the Machinery and Machine Tools Committee yesterday contained the following:

Cyclops Steel Co.	$40,000
Employes of Sperry Gyroscope Co., (additional)	35,850
Kent Iron & Steel Corporation	135,000

The Jewelry Committee reported another $500,000 in subscriptions, bringing its total up to $4,700,000. E. Heller & Co. subscribed to $72,000, placing the same to the credit of the Brewers' Committee.

The Underwear Sub-Committee of the Underwear, Knit Goods and Hosiery Committee reported that it had reached an even $2,000,000. Its subscriptions included William H. Sheip's Company, $25,000; M. & C. Mayer $6,400 additional and their employes, $3,000; Emanuel Brummel $5,000 additional, and Arthur C. Mendelsohn, $1,000 additional.

The Department Store Committee of the Rainbow Division of the Liberty Loan has piled up $7,067,000 toward its quota of $10,000,000 in the drive. The money has been raised among nineteen stores in Manhattan and five in Brooklyn, by the subscriptions of individual firms; 50,000 of their employes and general contributions from the public through store booths.

The following stores have earned the right to fly honor flags, more than 60 per cent. of their employes having taken bonds: Best & Co., Stern Bros., John Wanamaker, Stewart & Co., Franklin Simon & Co., Oppenheim, Collins & Co., James McCreery & Co., Bonwit Teller & Co., Lord & Taylor, and Arnold, Constable Company.

Every one of the employes of A. Lieber & Co. has subscribed to Liberty bonds, the total being $12,000. Employes of the Union Tank Line have subscribed to $60,000.

Individual subscriptions of railroad employes in all departments on the New York Central lines up to last night numbered 135,275, with a total of $9,524,500, according to an announcement by Clarence R. Dugan, Secretary of the General Committee at Grand Central Terminal in charge of the canvass ordered by President Alfred H. Smith of the New York Central system. As the total of all employes of these roads is 171,872, this makes the percentage of 78.9 already subscribed of every man and woman on the payroll, including even the considerable number of transient or "floating" laborers who work only a few weeks and are necessarily non-buyers.

Following is a record of Liberty Loan subscriptions filed through THE NEW YORK TIMES by its employes:

First Loan—639 subscribers	$108,150
Second Loan—881 subscribers	46,150
Third Loan—460 subscribers	49,000
	$203,300

Fred Sterry, Chairman of the Hotel Committee, announced last night that the total of subscriptions credited to hotels and restaurants of the city amounted to $11,801,000, as against a quota of $10,000,000.

CUBA GOES OVER THE TOP.

Oversubscription of Island May Be as Much as $2,500,000.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, May 3.—Cuba has oversubscribed her quota of $3,000,000 of the Third Liberty Loan in the most enthusiastic manner.

At 10 o'clock tonight it appears that the oversubscription may be as much as $2,500,000. At this hour Osgood Smith, Secretary of the Cuban Loan Committee, announced that subscriptions already tabulated amounted to $4,200,000, but indications are that subscriptions on the way from the interior will swell the total to $5,500,000.

Local banks today were fairly swamped with eleventh-hour subscriptions and enthusiasm was at the highest pitch.

PHILIPPINES PASS QUOTA.

Bond Workers Push Campaign for Heavy Oversubscription.

MANILA, May 3.—The Liberty Loan drive in the Philippines has passed the figure of 6,000,000 pesos, the quota for the islands.

The bond workers are continuing their campaign with a view to reaching the mark of 10,000,000 pesos if possible.

The Liberty Loan ball, which three weeks ago started rolling from Buffalo to New York, its course guided by Boy Scouts of the cities and towns along the route traveled, ended its journey of more than 470 miles yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock, when it was pushed into City Hall Park, where it was delivered into the keeping of the Government of the City of New York. The ball, which is a giant steel shell, which was canvas-covered when it started from Buffalo three weeks ago, reached the metropolis much the worse for wear.

In New York City the bonds which were sold as a result of the presence of the rolling ball in the city totaled, according to a statement issued by the Liberty Loan Committee, more than $5,000,000. The total sales credited to the ball since it left Buffalo are estimated at about $25,000,000.

The ball left Yonkers early yesterday morning. The route was down Broadway, and its progress was the occasion of a great demonstration which began at 262d Street and did not end until the ball had reached the end of its journey in front of the City Hall. More than 10,000 people followed the Boy Scouts who pushed the sphere cheering for the Liberty Loan. The band of the Street Cleaning Department, 100 blue-jackets from the Brooklyn Navy Yard and mounted police also joined the procession.

On the arrival of the ball and the escort at City Hall Mayor Hylan received it in the name of the city, J. A. Ritchie of the Liberty Loan Committee presenting the ball to the Mayor.

The ball was taken to the Hippodrome for display at the afternoon and evening performances. It then was taken to play a part in the thirty-six-hour rally in Times Square.

The Liberty Loan Coach, which is also coming from Buffalo, is due at the City Hall at noon. It is due at Arrowhead Inn, Haven Avenue and 177th Street, at daylight this morning, and will leave the inn in time to arrive at City Hall Park on schedule time.

LOAN SUBSCRIBED; DRIVE FOR SURPLUS

Bombs were exploded in all parts of the city, bells were rung, whistles blown, and sirens shrieked. Every effort is being made to obtain a percentage of 150 for the district.

Results by States reported from the Kansas City Federal Reserve District are: Missouri, $25,990,750; Colorado, $20,683,700; Kansas, $37,101,100; Nebraska, $38,212,400; Oklahoma, $27,488,700; Wyoming, $5,218,750, and New Mexico, $1,487,100. Percentages obtained by leading cities are: Kansas City, Mo., 129; St. Joseph, Mo., 152; Denver, 65; Pueblo, 104; Kansas City, Kan., 116; Wichita, 85; Topeka, 150; Omaha, 130; Lincoln, 108; Oklahoma City, 116; Tulsa, 100, and Muskogee, 75.

A twenty-four-hour gain of $17,593,250 was reported from the Philadelphia Federal Reserve District. Its returns are divided. Philadelphia subscribed $122,273,500; Pennsylvania, outside of Philadelphia, $93,024,650; New Jersey, $16,397,100, and Delaware, $8,211,150. Five hundred and thirty honor flags have been awarded in this district.

The Dallas District declares unofficially that it has at least $4,000,000 in excess of its quota. One hundred and twenty-five counties are officially reported to have oversubscribed and many others are claiming the right to fly the honor flag. Percentages by States within the district are: Arizona, 127; Louisiana, 115; New Mexico, 103; Texas, 98, and Oklahoma, 88. Leading cities have subscribed the following percentages: Beaumont, 132; Galveston, 115; Ft. Worth, 110; Shreveport, 107; San Antonio, 106; Houston, 95, and Austin, 82.

Three sections of the Richmond Federal Reserve District, the District of Columbia, and the States of North Carolina and Virginia have oversubscribed their quotas. The District was striving to double its quota, and Virginia, with an oversubscription of slightly more than $3,000,000, reported that "it was still going." Five hundred and fifty-six honor flags have been awarded in this district.

A message from Atlanta again expressed confidence that the Federal Reserve District would oversubscribe its quota. Atlanta is holding a big "over the top" rally tonight. Special war exhibit trains are returning to Atlanta after having sold millions of dollars' worth of bonds, particularly in the rural regions.

Twelve hundred and forty honor flags have been awarded in the San Francisco District. It has maintained that the district subscriptions, exclusive of Hawaii, are well over its quota of $210,000,000.

A report today to the office of the Director General of Railroads stated that the railroad men in the territory west of Chicago had subscribed $43,020,150 to the loan.

MAYOR CLIMBS FOR LOAN.

Griffin of Hoboken Wins $3,000 as Crowd Cheers.

Clad in evening dress, minus the coat, and watched by a throng of more than 12,000 persons, Patrick Griffin, Mayor of Hoboken, won $3,000 for the Third Liberty Loan campaign last night. The Mayor, who weighs close to 200 pounds, had climbed to the top of a seventy-five-foot fire ladder, and at the topmost rung had waved aloft the American flag.

The feat of Hoboken's Mayor was the result of a challenge issued in his office. The Mayor had proclaimed that he would do anything possible to boost the loan. The challenge to climb the ladder for $3,000 followed, and the Mayor promptly accepted.

The place was fixed for the feat at Second and Washington Streets. The onlookers gave Mayor Griffin a hearty cheer when he descended the ladder.

Bought by Engineers' Brotherhood.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 3.—With a subscription of $90,000 by the Pension Association today, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers has subscribed for a total of $500,000 of the Third Liberty Loan through its insurance, pension, and reserve fund departments. This makes a total of $1,000,000 of the Brotherhood's funds used for the purchase of bonds in the First, Second, and Third Loans.

Taft "Matches" Wilson's Bond.

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C., May 3.—William H. Taft "matched President Wilson" here last night in buying a fifty-dollar Liberty Bond. Mr. Taft made the purchase at a loan rally where he was the principal speaker.

Floor Lamps

in many styles

To fit in with your Summer Decorative schemes—

Those of gaily decorated lacquer, topped by silk shades of printed and plain silk, are of unmistakable Oriental origin, and will live in perfect harmony with the lacquered furniture and Japanese and Chinese patterned cretonnes so much in vogue.

Those of mahogany, ivory, or gold, with the hand decorated paper parchment shades attain the dignity that is part of simplicity of line and well chosen decoration. They will look well with the new Reed and Willow Furniture.

There are others that cannot be classed in either of the above groups, lamps that will lend distinction to any room. So artistically shaded that they will go far toward accomplishing that restfulness that should be the chief characteristic of the comfortable home.

Come in and look at our interesting collection. Perhaps the lamp you've wanted for so long is here.

Illustrated—Attractive lamp of mahogany or ivory enamel. Shade of blue, rose, or gold silk with border of figured silk and trimming of deep silk fringe. Fitted with two 40-watt Tungsten bulbs. Priced complete $21.74.

MANNED BY NEARLY 500,000

By End of the Year, He Adds, the Navy Will Have Full Half Million in Service.

America has now 150 warships in European waters, manned by between 40,000 and 50,000 sailors and marines, Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Assistant Secretary of the Navy, said last night in an address to 1,500 members of the Brooklyn Y. M. C. A., at 55 Hanson Place. He added:

"I must be careful what I say for fear of being court-martialed," he remarked, "but I do not think that it is telling any secret that hardly a day passes that we do not add one ship to that fleet in European waters. When we entered the war a year and a month ago there were 75,000 men in the navy. There are 350,000 men in the navy today and by the end of the year there will be half a million.

"Admiral Nelson said that there were two ways of winning a war on the sea—by seeking out and destroying the enemy fleet on the high seas and by bottling it up in port and preventing it from getting out. So far the British Navy has succeeded in bottling up the enemy fleet in port. We do not expect that there is any danger of the German fleet ever getting control of the seas. Of course, as far as the underwater craft is concerned, we would be wrong to give the impression that the menace is ended, for sinkings occur every day and will continue.

"We can thank God that the transportation of troops has been carried on with such very small losses. We must not be blind to the fact that it is possible that we may lose a transport now and then, but we are daily increasing not so much the defensive against the submarines as we are the offensive. In other words, we are building now not on the plan of waiting till we see his periscope alongside, but we are going after him and giving him no rest day or night. We believe that the general average of losses due to submarines will not merely remain stationary, but will decrease as time goes on."

Mr. Roosevelt said that he believed that one lesson which the country had firmly learned from the war was the principle of universal service, and that universal service was bound to be a national policy in the future.

DUTCH CRISIS STILL ON.

Full Agreement On Transport Not Reached With Germany.

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, May 3.—The Berlin correspondent of the Hollandische News Bureau announces that all questions pending between Germany and Holland were settled on April 27, including those pertaining to export, as well as to the transport of sand and gravel and the transport of goods over the Dutch railway to Antwerp, Munchen, and Gaidbach, excepting for a few details with regard to the latter question.

This is, however, in direct opposition to the general tone of the Dutch press yesterday and today, which persists in regarding the situation as still serious. A prominent Dutch politician, who plays an important rôle in the economic negotiations with Germany, informed The Times correspondent today that the question of transport over the Dutch railway was the most serious of Germany's demands. He said, "The trouble is there are two parties to negotiate with, the military and civilians, and we never know where we stand."

Meantime the question of grain ships leaving for America is still in abeyance, contradictory reports appearing daily. An energetic member of the House, Van Hamel, continues to ask questions on this subject which remain unanswered.

LONDON, May 3.—In an article regarding the disagreement between Holland and Germany, the Hamburger Nachrichten says that unrestricted facilities for transporting goods across the Dutch province of Limburg from Germany to Belgium would be of great value to the German high command, and that their use is becoming needed more as the battles on the western front rage more violently and the requirements for men and material increase.

The Dutch Government, however, took the stand, says the paper, that there must be no transit of war materials through Limburg. The paper argues that Holland's resistance to Germany's demands in this regard has been due to strong Entente pressure.

The Dutch Foreign Minister assumed an authoritative attitude toward the German Minister at The Hague, and spoke of a casus belli, the newspaper continues, and the German Minister did not answer in the right tone. Perhaps he did not wish to do so, believing that Germany would have to yield, as heretofore. But in the present case Germany will not be obliged to yield, the newspaper asserts, because the transit question is mainly a question of warfare and is not within the province of the German Foreign Office.

NEW ATTACK ON BURLESON.

Senators Charge Unfair Methods In Pneumatic Tube Campaign.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Postmaster General Burleson was assailed today by three members of the Congressional commission appointed to inquire into the pneumatic tube mail service and make recommendations as to its continuance. Senators Weeks, Hardwick and Bankhead, in a letter sent to each member of the Senate, declared that the Postmaster General had adopted unfair methods in a campaign against the pneumatic tube service, by writing to each Senator urging them to vote against the commission's recommendations. The commission in a report filed with Congress recently recommended continuing the service, and extending it in some places. The letter sent to the Senators by their colleagues said in part:

"The Postmaster General, apparently not content with having repeatedly recommended the abandonment of tube service, both in his annual reports to Congress and by special communications and statements to the press, attempts further to influence the action of Senators, and under the guise of seeking to put the department on record as protesting the action of the commission, addresses a personal letter to each Senator, which, aside from a number of glaring misstatements of facts, presents arguments against the utility value of the tubes which he and his assistants have heretofore repeatedly submitted to Congress, every one of which were presented by the department to the commission, and after careful consideration were decided adversely to the contention of the department.

"The commission not only did not ignore the department during its investigation, but, on the contrary and at the very outset, requested the Postmaster General to designate one of his experts to assist the commission. In each tube city, the Postmaster was requested to accompany the commission.

SOLDIERS PROTECTED BY NEW HEALTH LAW

Men and Women Affected Will Be Arrested Hereafter.

AT GOVERNMENT'S REQUEST

Whitney Measure, Now in Force, Described as Most Drastic Ever Enacted by Any State.

A health law, described as being the most drastic ever enacted in any State in this country and which was passed by the Legislature at the request of the Federal Government for the protection of soldiers and sailors, went into effect yesterday. It provides for the arrest and detention during treatment of persons afflicted with blood diseases.

Officials of the Health Department were sent to the Night Court last night for the purpose of enforcing the law, the administration of which is placed by the law mainly in the hands of the Health Department. The law was Bill 1007, introduced at the last session of the Legislature by Senator Whitney.

Health Commissioner Copeland said yesterday that this was a wonderful law and that the part which the Federal Government had played in its enactment foreshadowed a time when the Federal Health Department would control and direct the work of local health departments in all cities. The law resembles the Page act, which was in effect some years ago until it was declared unconstitutional by the State Court of Appeals. The law was held to be class legislation because it applied to women only, but the Whitney act applies equally to men and women.

The Health Department intimated yesterday that arrests would be made under this act at the beginning at the rate of twelve a night. The prisoners will be held for a diagnosis. After that only those will be held who are suffering from a communicable form of the diseases specified in the act. They will be held in city hospitals, or may be released at the discretion of the health authorities upon guarantees that they will receive treatment. Those who are detained will be kept in hospitals for a period generally of from two to four weeks, at the end of which time they cease to be sources of contagion.

The Federal health authorities have turned over to the Department of Health a list of "suspects," who have been named by soldiers who have been questioned at army hospitals. The complaint may be made by any person, soldier or civilian. It was announced at the Health Department that men were to be arrested as well as women.

STILL FOR DEARER WHEAT.

Senate Repeats Vote, but Is Blocked by House Opposition.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—The Senate again today formally recorded itself in favor of increasing the Government minimum guaranteed price for wheat from $2.20 to $2.50 a bushel, despite the rejection of the proposal by the House. It insisted on the wheat clause in the Agricultural Appropriation bill, returning the measure to conference.

Advocates of the price increase admit that there is virtually no possibility that the House conferees will yield, and the Senate's insistence was largely a routine procedure.

"I am unalterably opposed to this increase," said Senator Pomerene of Ohio. "It would be a public calamity. The increase of 30 cents a bushel means an increase of $200,000,000 to $250,000,000 in the cost of bread."

"The increase would be 1 cent on each loaf of bread," Senator Gore replied.

Senator Gore said that in the West farmers were plowing wheat under because there was a better profit in rye and other grain.

Senator McCumber of North Dakota asked if it were fair to fix the price of the farmers' products and not fix the price of the things he must buy.

Replying, Senator Gore said that he did not believe in the price fixing principle in general. He said it was better to have high-priced bread than to have none

PERSIA ANNULS TREATY.

Notifies The Hague That It Won't Recognize Russo-British Compact.

THE HAGUE, May 3.—Persia has informed Holland that it regards as null and void all treaties imposed on Persia in recent years, and especially the Russo-British treaty of 1907 regarding the spheres of influence in that country. The other treaties may be revised later, the communication from the Persian Government states, but that of 1907, with its appendices, is definitely annulled.

In 1907 Great Britain and Russia agreed between themselves to limit the spheres of their respective interests in Persia to the provinces adjoining the Russian frontier on the one hand and the British frontier on the other. The two powers agreed to respect the integrity and independence of Persia, but at the same time contemplated the possible necessity of financial control in conformity with the principles of the agreement. Between the Russian and British spheres a neutral sphere of about 186,000 square miles was delimited. The Russian sphere was approximately 305,000 square miles in extent, and the British about 137,000.

Last January Persia asked Russia to withdraw its troops from the Russian sphere. The Bolshevist Foreign Minister, M. Trotzky, denounced the Russo-British agreement, in a letter to the Persian Minister to Russia, as having been directed against the independence of the Persian people, and as null and void.

In March it was reported that a Persian delegation was on the way to Berlin to arrange a permanent Persian-German alliance.

THREE BURNED UNDER AUTO

Woman and Two Male Companions Killed on Jersey Road.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 3.—Mrs. Veleta Bowen of Philadelphia, William Wagner of Camden, and an unknown man, said to live in Camden, were burned to death tonight in the woods three miles outside Absecon, when an automobile in which they were riding overturned and burst into flames. Mrs. Mary Bowen, sister-in-law of the dead woman, was also in the car, but was thrown clear of the wreck. The accident occurred eleven miles from here on the Camden road, and the auto was bound for this place. On a dangerous curve the machine shot off the road, striking against a tree stump. As it overturned the big machine pinned three of the party beneath it.

Mrs. Mary Bowen became hysterical at the sight of her companions under the car, and she was standing helpless close to the auto when Milton Hitchcock of Absecon, passing in his machine, saw the fire. With other autoists who gathered at the spot within a short time he made every effort to get the victims from under the blazing machine, but could not. By the time the flames had been extinguished with

CALLS ON BERLIN FOR PROOF

Lansing Puts Foe to the Test on Hospital Ship Charge.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—The German Government has been called upon for proof of its allegation that the United States has abused the immunity to which hospital ships are entitled by allowing American aviators to go to Europe on such ships.

Both the British Admiralty and the American War Department promptly denied this charge, but the United States Government is not satisfied to allow the matter to rest there. When it was learned through news dispatches from London today that the German Wireless Press had reiterated the charge made briefly a few days ago, Secretary Lansing sent a communication through the Spanish Government to the Spanish Ambassador in Berlin, who represents American interests in Germany, requesting that he ask the German Government for its proofs, if it has any, to substantiate the assertion.

Since it has been officially stated by the War Department that aviators have not gone to Europe on hospital ships, it is expected that the allegations made by the German Government will prove to be a parallel to the false affidavits which Count von Bernstorff submitted to the State Department in the Lusitania case.

interested in are the Astoria Silk Works of Long Island City, the New York and College Point Ferry Company, the Bowery Bay Building and Improvement Company, and the Bowery Bay Electric Light and Power Company. He is a Director in all of these corporations.

Patron of Fine Arts.

Mr. Ehret's New York home is at Ninety-fourth Street and Park Avenue and is one of the finest houses on that avenue of splendid homes and apartment houses. His home is said to contain many splendid canvasses and other works of art. Mr. Ehret for years has been a patron of the fine arts. For half a century he has been one of the leading members of the Roman Catholic church in New York. In 1864 Mr. Ehret married Miss Anna Hasslocher, a daughter of J. B. Hasslocher of this city. She was a sister of the late Mgr. Hasslocher, who died in Rome in 1884, and who, at the time of his death, was Domestic Prelate to Pope Leo XIII. and the rector of the American College in Rome.

When Ambassador Gerard left Berlin after the breaking off of diplomatic relations between this country and Germany, it was reported that Mr. Ehret was accompanying him back to America. It was explained later that he decided to remain in the land of his birth on the advice of his physicians.

Mr. Ehret has always been an intense lover of Germany and a liberal supporter of German-American charities in this country. One of his last contributions to German-American charities was a gift of $10,000 to the German Bazaar, held in this city in February, 1916, just one year before this country declared war. He is said to have given large sums to the German Red Cross and other war charities in Germany in the last three and one-half years.

Mr. Ehret celebrated his eighty-second birthday in Germany on April 6 last. It is understood that he has never been made subject to war regulations in Berlin such as other Americans and German-Americans in Germany have been subjected to since the two countries went to war. He numbers among his German friends some of the most powerful men in the empire.

Mr. Ehret is the father of nine children, all of whom were born in New York. Six of them are girls. The sons are George Ehret, Jr., Frank A. Ehret, and Louis J. Ehret.

PALMER DEMANDS STOCK.

Custodian After Shares in Submarine Wireless Company.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—A demand that all enemy-owned stock in the Submarine Wireless Company of New York be turned over to the Government was made today by A. Mitchell Palmer, Alien Property Custodian. The company was incorporated in 1912, with a capital stock of $500,000. Most of the stockholders are Germans, Austrians, and Hungarians, many of them titled.

"The purpose of this enterprise," said Mr. Palmer, "is not yet clearly established, but among the Counts and Countesses in the stockholders' list are persons closely connected through marriage with Americans."

TELLS WAR STAND OF BRITISH SEAMEN

Head of Union Justifies Policy of "Bottling Up" Pacifist Delegates.

NONE CAN GET SHIP ROOM

Member of Federation of Labor Mission Cables Interview with Leader T. Havelock Wilson.

The American Alliance for Labor and Democracy last night made public the following cable message from Chester M. Wright, Director of Publicity for the alliance and a member of the American Federation of Labor mission to England and France:

"LONDON, April 30.—Why the Seamen's Union of Great Britain will permit no pacifists to leave the British Isles to attend an international peace conference was learned today in detail by the American trade union mission from J. Havelock Wilson, President of the Seamen's Union.

"It was the seamen who prevented the British delegates from going to Stockholm and who more recently prevented British delegates, suspected of pacifist tendencies, from leaving for the United States to propagate the idea of a co-belligerent conference. While the seamen adhere to their determination to transport no pacifists, no pacifist can sail.

"Wilson came to the Grosvenor Hotel, where he remained in conference with the Americans for several hours, during which he talked almost continuously, revealing to them the history and relations between the British and German seamen. Few men are more intimately familiar with the workers than Havelock Wilson. He was one of the organisers of the first pure trade union to be organized in Germany.

"In addition to the seamen's position regarding the pacifists, Wilson informed the American mission of another decision reached by the seamen, of which little, if anything, has been heard previously.

Tells of Seamen's Boycott.

"'On Sept. 21, 1917,' said Wilson, 'we formed what we call a merchant seamen's league, and declared that if German terrorism on the sea continued we would enforce a boycott against Germany for two years after the war, and that for every new crime from that time on we would add one mont to the length of the boycott. The length of the boycott now stands at five years seven months. We have reliable information that this action is making a very profound impression on German manufacturers and shippers.

"'The British seamen got their first intimation of German treachery when the international transport strike was first proposed by German delegates ostensibly to picket support. It the British learned later that the German delegates had in their pockets as they talked contracts signed with employers.

"'After that,' said Wilson, 'we watched the German Social Democrats in the Socialists international. But we never could get the Germans to face the issue. Always they had excuses and evasions. We never had confidence in them. When war came we felt it our duty to take care of the men on our ships who could no longer sail, and also to set a good example.

"'Here were Germans on our ships who had been in England so long that they had forgotten their language. On Aug. 20, 1914—you see we acted quickly—we bought an estate of thirty-nine acres and built the model internment camp of Great Britain. We asked the Government to give us charge of all interned German sailors and let it be known to the credit of Great Britain, that was done.

"'The Government allowed us all 10s. per week per man for upkeep. The camp became a great success. There were 1,000 German sailors interned in it.

"'Until May, 1915, all went well. On May 1, the interned men celebrated May Day, their international revolutionary holiday. They had their banners. "Workers of the World, Unite." "World Brotherhood," and so on. We had planned a great fete to be held later and I had secured the consent of several well-known persons to attend and help make it a success. On May 7 the Lusitania was sunk.

"'I called the Germans in camp together and told them the terrible things that had happened. I told them they were not to blame but that the celebration could not be held. And they made no protest to me. Now here were 1,000 Germans not under control of the Kaiser. Some of them had been among us twenty or thirty years.

Rejoiced Over Disaster.

"'As soon as I had got out of the place they sang and cheered and rejoiced over the Lusitania disaster. They kept this up for four hours. They made me conclude that the camp must be handed over to the military as soon as possible, and this was done. Six months after that came the U-boat campaign, and, what made that worse, the fact that the U-boats always turned their guns on open boats.

"'I have got hundreds of cases fo boys whose arms and legs have been blown off by U-boat guns while trying to get away from sinking ships in open boats. I wrote the Secretary of the International Transport Workers' Union protesting against these crimes. His reply attempted to justify every crime. That showed us that not only was the Kaiser responsible, but that the organized trade union movement of Germany was also responsible.

"'On June 1, 1917, a Socialist Congress was convened at Leeds.' it was advertised as the greatest conference ever held. We sent two men there to tell our story. Our men found that small bodies of only a handful of members had been delegated who got the floor easily for the pacifist cause. Our men could not secure anything like a fair chance.

"'In this conference MacDonald, Fairchild, and Jowett were elected delegates to Stockholm. We at once resolved that no delegates should leave this country. And none did.

"'That is the history of the seamen's determination to bottle up such British pacifists as may desire to go abroad spreading their doctrine. Mingled with it is the grim, sad story of 12,000 members of the Seamen's Union who have lost their lives on merchant ships through Germany's criminal conduct on the sea.

"'And while there is here and there one in England who resembles a leader of labor who is a pacifist, the determination of the British seamen to go through with the war to the finish is scarcely more than a reflection of the rank and file spirit that is to be found throughout the whole of British labor.'"

NEGLECT BRITISH WOUNDED

Germans Send Prisoners to Holland Without Proper Care.

LONDON, May 3, (via Ottawa.)—Dutch papers say that 107 severely wounded British who have arrived at Rotterdam for repatriation were not sent from Germany under proper conditions. No hospital train was provided, and the Dutch medical authorities expressed forcible opinions regarding the transport of stretcher cases under such conditions.

The German authorities, it is declared, must either confess inhumanity or admit that no hospital trains were available, owing to the German losses on the west front.

DENIES WORK FOR COLGATE.

W. C. King Says Manufacturers' Council Is Not Promoting Candidacy

Warren C. King, President of the Manufacturers' Council of New Jersey, sent a statement to the newspapers yesterday denying that the council was organized to promote the candidacy of Austen Colgate of Jersey City for United States Senator. The statement was given out in a controversy with Lewis T. Bryant, the State Labor Commissioner, upon the proposal to require all workers in munitions and other factories to take out cards showing that they were steady workers and not aliens.

The statement said that Governor Edge had not been invited to the meeting in Trenton because he had not accepted several other invitations after he had addressed the council last December. Mr. King said that Governor Edge had been invited to the foundation meeting of the council last September, and that Mr. Colgate had been elected Vice President of the council against his wishes.

ANZAC SAYS TURKS ARE 'GOOD SPORTS'

More Like Christians Than the Germans, Declares Commander of Australians.

FIGHTING HARDER IN FRANCE

Col. Fethers Insists Bombardment by German Guns Is Harder on the Men In the Trenches.

The 300 Australian soldiers on their way back to the front, who for two days have been helping the fighting men of France and America to impress upon New Yorkers the vital necessity for subscribing to the Third Liberty Loan, yesterday told of their experiences on the fighting fronts at Gallipoli and in France. In making a comparison between the two battle fields, the consensus of opinion was that conditions at Gallipoli were worse and the fighting was worse in France, and also that the Turk as a foeman was more like a Christian than the German.

"It is hard to compare the two war fronts," said Colonel W. K. Fethers in command of the Australians, who won his D. S. O. in the fighting on the Somme in 1916, after having served four months at Gallipoli. "They were both very terrible, but each was so in its own particular way. At Gallipoli the conditions under which we fought were infinitely worse. I mean that personal hardships were greater in the fighting against the Turks than they were in France. At Gallipoli all our supplies had to come by sea, and if there was a bit of a blow there were no supplies. We had a comparatively small force to hold our trenches, which meant that we had to stay in those trenches night and day, with hardly any relaxation. Any one who has been through it can testify to the invigorating effects of a rest period after a stay in the trenches. Also at Gallipoli we suffered from thirst, and our wounded could not be cared for efficiently. We didn't have such comfortable trenches as in France.

"But I do not believe, for all the hardships, that the Gallipoli campaign is to be compared to that in France for its effect on the men. The shell-fire at Gallipoli was only a fraction of the almost daily bombardment by the German guns. Even with the one day's rest in seven which was possible in France the strain on the men's nerves was far more severe than on the Dardanelles.

"But make no mistake about the merits of the Turk as a fighter. He hasn't the heavy artillery that the German has and he hasn't the masses of men to be used for cannon fodder whenever it suits the purpose of the high command, but when it comes to a man-to-man scrap I would rather face the German than the Turk. Abdullah, as we called the Turk, was always a gentleman and a good sport. Not one of the stories about his mutilation of the wounded was ever substantiated, and I do not believe them."

Colonel Fethers won his D. S. O. at the battle of Pozieres on the Somme in August, 1916. He was wounded on this occasion and invalided to England. Later he was sent to Australia on staff duty, whence he is returning to the front.

"We had been trying to take Pozieres Ridge from the Germans," said Colonel Fethers, "Several assaults had failed, and the Australian regiments were sent forward. My regiment went into battle with 28 officers and 800 men and we came out with 5 officers and 120 men unwounded, but the ridge was ours."

The contingent of Australians contains five officers who saw service at Gallipoli. With Colonel Fethers are Lieutenant Clifton Douglas, who was transferred to the Royal Field Artillery, and Captain H. S. Jacobs, Captain F. McCullom, and Captain R. Le Souge of the Medical Corps. Lieutenant Douglas took part in the famous landing in April, 1915. He was a member of the staff of The London Evening Standard when the war broke out, and enlisted in the 5th Battalion of the Victoria Public School Corps. After the landing, when he and his comrades waded ashore in face of Turkish shell fire, he won a commission, and was later transferred to the Royal Field Artillery. Lieutenant Douglas also fought at Arras and at Messines Ridge. He is returning from a six months' furlough. The three medical officers were enlisted men at Gallipoli and were later given furloughs to go home and finish their studies. They are now going to France with commissions.

Sergeant George Bell of the Australians has a reputation for being hard to kill. He holds a commission as "King's Sergeant," a rank from which only the King can remove him. On the storming of the heights above Suvla Bay, Sergeant Bell got his first wounds, being hit in the head by a bullet, while a bomb blew off his thumb.

"The Turks were heaving bombs at us which had long fuses attached," he said. "A good many reached us without exploding and I was throwing them back when one went off and took my thumb with it."

"Did you get a decoration?" he was asked.

"No," he replied, "I got my decoration on another occasion when I had a row with a machine gun." When the Sergeant refused to discuss his "row with a machine gun," one of his comrades broke in. "That machine gun was enfilading our trenches," said the soldier, "and had killed nearly 1,000 of our men inside two hours."

"I went quite mad at the slaughter," said Sergeant Bell. "I crawled up to the parapet and all of a sudden dashed over. I shot four of the gunners and bayonetted two. I think I must have been out of my head."

Sergeant Bell has since entertained an especial hatred for machine guns. On the Sommie later he went after one and was hit thirteen times, five times through the lung. It was with difficulty that he got back into service after being invalided home.

"How does it feel to be hit," he was asked.

"It feels as if you had been kicked by a thousand mules at once," he answered.

Under the auspices of the British recruiting mission, the Anzacs spent most of yesterday helping out in recruiting parades and at Liberty Loan rallies. One contingent marched from the mission headquarters at 220 West Forty-second Street to Fifth Avenue and thence to the battleship Recruit. Frequent stops were made for speech making. Lieutenant Gordon Sherris of the Canadian Black Watch Regiment sold $25,000 worth of bonds, and obtained twenty-five recruits for the British Army. The United States, represented in the parade by the Navy Yard Band, obtained ten recruits.

Another contingent, under command of Lieutenant Harold Sharp, an Anzac attached to the Recruiting Mission and headed by Harry Lauder's band of pipers invaded the east side. Twenty recruits for the British Army were obtained and nearly as many bonds sold. The Anzacs were entertained at luncheon afterward by the Hotel Ansonia.

The visiting Anzacs will be the guests of the Canadian Club of New York at the benefit performance in the Hippodrome on Sunday evening. Among the notables who will occupy boxes will be Brig. Gen. W. A. White of the British Recruiting Mission, Lieutenant Albert Le Moal, in charge of the "Blue Devils," and Colonel Fethera of the Anzacs.

Bureau Officers Ask Fighting Posts.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Every one of the 5,000 officers on duty in the War Department's Ordnance Bureau has applied for foreign service. High officers in the bureau today pointed to this fact as refuting charges that the Ordnance Corps had been used to furnish large numbers of staff officers with "bomb-proof" jobs. Cases have not been uncommon, it was said, where men have been reprimanded for attempting to use outside influence to get overseas service.

Brig. Gen. C. C. Williams, who was relieved as Ordnance Officer of the American expeditionary forces to become Acting Chief of Ordnance, took charge of that office today.

NEW SMITH COLLEGE UNIT.

Alumnae Will Send Another Group of Canteen Workers to France.

At a meeting of the Smith College Club to be held this afternoon in the headquarters of the Smith College Unit, announcement will be made that another unit, composed of canteen workers, will be sent to France soon. This action is being taken at the rgent request of the United States Government, it was said, in view of the excellent work accomplished by the college women alresdy in the devastated regions of France.

Heretofore each member of the unit had to guarantee $2,000 to the unit's fund before she could sail for France. Many capable workers were unable to provide this smount, but according to a representative of the unit the Smith College Alumnae has arranged to supply a fund for efficient workers of small means. Mrs. Cone, wife of Lieutenant Frederick H. Cone, attached to Maj. Gen. Franklin Bell's staff, raised $15,000 which will send seven workers to France.

In the first group of seven to leave are three New York women, Mrs. Barrett H. Witherbee, Miss Edna Seeber, and Miss Elizabeth Durpee.

SUSPICIOUS BLAZE WRECKS WAR PLANT

GOVERNMENT INVESTIGATES

Company Was Making Steel Containers Needed for Munitions.

The Department of Justice Bureau of Investigation, as well as the intelligence services of the army and navy in New York, began an investigation yesterday of a fire which damaged to the extent of probably $125,000 the factory of the Meurer Steel Barrel Company, at Third and Oliver Streets, Long Island City. The plant was nearly destroyed, and probably it will be several weeks before it can resume work on several important Government contracts, which call for the delivery of large quantities of steel barrels and other steel containers needed in the shipment of war munitions.

The fire started at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon, and by the time the first fire apparatus arrived the entire building, which covers a block in the Hunter's Point section, was in flames. There were about 200 persons at work in the building, and all of them escaped.

One of the reports made to Fire Marshal Brophy was that about the time the fire started there was an explosion, but at a late hour last night Marshal Brophy said that he had not been able to verify the report. By the hardest kind of work the firemen were able to keep the fire from spreading to other nearby buildings, some of which are now being devoted to Government work. A number of loaded freight cars in the yards of the factory were saved.

Jacob Meurer, the President of the company, said that he was not permitted to discuss the work which the company was doing for the Government.

"There are suspicious features about this fire, he said," but, of course, we cannot tell anything about that until the investigations now being made are completed. I am not prepared to estimate the amount of the damage, but it will be large. The machinery which has been destroyed was of special make and costly. The building is ruined. That's all I can say now."

A report that the company was making steel helmets for the American troops fighting in France was denied by officers of the company.

Lieutenant Commander Karl Rodiger of the German Navy, who, according to information obtained by agents of the Department of Justice, may prove to be the chief of the German spy organization in this country, was questioned for more than five hours by Government agents yesterday. His examination will continue today. Assistant United States District Attorney Ben A. Matthews and Chief Charles W. DeWoody of the Department of Justice Bureau of Investigation, are in charge of the examination of Commander Rodiger. Neither would discuss the matter last night.

George Dietz of 334 West 179th Street was arraigned in the West Farms Court yesterday, charged with uttering seditious remarks against the United States Government. Magistrate Corneli sentenced him to six months in the Workhouse. The charge on which Dietz was convicted was preferred by his wife, who said that on April 28 he denounced the President and the Government, and said he would like to blow them up with a bomb. Mrs. Ella Mayfield, Dietz's mother-in-law, corroborated her daughter's charge.

25,000 ENEMY WOMEN TO BE REGISTERED HERE

Police Will Handle the Detail in City—American Wives of Germans Must Report.

Attorney General Gregory notified the Federal authorities here yesterday to prepare for the registration of women subjects of the Kaiser living in this city, and also in the Hudson River counties which are included in the jurisdiction of the United States Marshal for the Southern District of New York. United States Marshal Thomas D. McCarthy said that the Police Department would handle the registration in New York City, Yonkers, Poughkeepsie, Newburg, Beacon, White Plains, Mount Vernon, New Rochelle, and Nyack. The postmasters will direct the work in the towns of 5,000 population and under.

Marshal McCarthy estimated that there were about 25,000 women in New York City who were subjects of the Kaiser, this number including women of American birth who were married to German subjects. Austro-Hungarian women will not be required to register.

The rules to govern the registration have not yet been made public, but the understanding is that they will be practically identical with those which governed the registration of male enemy subjects. All female German subjects of the age of fourteen years and upward will have to register.

They will have to state, under oath, their ages, the period of years they have been resident in the United States; to give the addresses of all places of residence they have had since Jan. 1, 1914; if employed here and by whom; the date of their arrival in the United States; the name of the ship on which they crossed; the names of any male relatives who may be serving in the army or navy of the enemy, and whether they have ever been arrested.

The Government registrars will also make a record of their height, weight, color of hair and eyes; shape of nose, shape of the chin, complexion, as well of any scars or other marks which might serve as means of identification. Whether the women will be finger printed will not be known until the regulations are made public.

Several of the best known of the interned Germans in this country have American wives. Rudolph Hecht is married to a Cincinnati woman. Dr. Schulz, the Poughkeepsie alien arrested last week, is married to a member of one of the oldest American families in that city. The wife of Colonel Pierkowski, the highest ranking German army officer now enjoying liberty in this country, was also an American. Colonel Pierkowski, who is a former agent of the Krupps and a reputed adviser of Captain Boy-Ed, has never been interned. He reports once a week to a custodian, Supreme Court Justice Hotchkiss.

One of the best known of the enemy alien women who will be required to register is Mme. Johanna Gadski, wife of Captain Tauscher of the German Army. Captain Tauscher was also a Krupp agent. He returned to Germany as a member of Count Bernstorff's embassy staff. Mme. Ober, another famous German singer, who recently applied for permission to return to Germany, will also be required to register.

The registration will probably begin in about three weeks.

Charged with shipping contraband rubber into Germany, Felix Mallitz and Gustave Engler, respectively President and Secretary of the American Correspondents' Film Company, 2 Rector Street, were found guilty last night by a jury in the Federal Court, Brooklyn. They will be sentenced today by Judge Manten, the maximum penalty being two years at Atlanta, or $1,000 fine, or both. The evidence at the trial proved that Mallitz and Engler, both born in Germany, smuggled the rubber into Germany through Holland and Sweden, employing sailors and stewards on neutral ships.

30 KILLED IN CARACAS.

Venezuelan Arsenal Blown Up—Drifting Toward Revolution.

AN ATLANTIC PORT, May 3.—Passengers who arrived today on the Red D liner Philadelphia from Venezuela and Porto Rico, brought the first news of a terrific explosion which occurred last month in the Government arsenal at Caracas, Venesuela. The explosion took place just before the vessel sailed from that country.

John D. Holby of Stamford, Conn., said that more than thirty soldiers, including a Major and two Captains, were killed in the explosion. The scene of the accident was a large storehouse in which great quantities of war munitions had been placed. The Venezuelan Government did not allow the newspapers to print any news of the disaster, even locally, and the matter was hushed up at once, he said.

Martin L. Thomas, an Englishman, expressed the opinion that Venezuela wee on the verge of a revolution. The people are becoming restive under the administration of President Juan Vincente Gomez, who is, he said, strongly pro-German. When the vessel sailed, he said, it was rumored that General Penaloza was gathering a force to attempt the overthrow of the present Government. General Penaloza is said to favor the cause of the Allies.

SENATORS ASSAIL THE SEDITION BILL

Sherman Injects a Sharp Attack on Attorney General Gregory.

SAYS HE SHIELDS ALIEN FOE

Instances the Case of The Nashville Banner—Vote on Conference Report Today.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—An agreement to vote at 4 o'clock tomorrow on the conference report on the Sedition bill, penalizing disloyal acts and utterances, was reached late today by the Senate after another day of attack on features alleged to limit freedom of speech and extending the Postmaster-General's mail censorship powers.

Criticism of the measure was continued by several Senators, led by Senators Sherman of Illinois, Republican, who again assailed Administration officials, including Attorney General Gregory and Secretary Baker. The Illinois Senator charged the Attorney General with lacking vigor in prosecution and with removing a Tennessee District Attorney who, he said, was proceeding under the Alien Enemy law against Major E. B. Stahlman, publisher of The Nashville Banner.

Senator Norris of Nebraska also attacked the censorship clause and announced that he would move for its elimination. He said the power proposed for the Postmaster General—to withhold mail which he believes would violate the espionage laws—was too great to give any man.

The censorship provision was defended by Senator King of Utah, one of its authors, and Senator McCumber of North Dakota, Republican. The latter said that the proposed legislation would not harm loyal Americans, but was needed to curb disloyalists.

Accusing Secretary Baker of having said in an address delivered in Jersey City some months ago that George Washington's soldiers "stole anything they could lay their hands on," Senator Sherman demanded to know how we could "blame the Haywoods and the Townleys when they deliver diatribes against soldiers living when the speech of the Secretary of War was of the soldiers dead."

Senator Fall, Republican, of New Mexico said the provisions prohibiting scurrilous remarks against the American uniform would have subjected Secretary Baker to prosecution. He favored the bill, he said, to stop such criticism.

Senator Sherman charged that Attorney General Gregory did not prosecute under the existing laws with the vigor he should. He said that the Attorney General had removed from office District Attorney Campen of Tennessee, because of the latter's activity in obtaining information tending to show that Major E. B. Stahlman, publisher of The Nashville Banner was an alien enemy. Senator Sherman asserted that testimony showed that Maj. Stahlman was an alien enemy, and that his utterances before the war showed him to be such, but that he had not been prosecuted. He added that he believed testimony would show that Campen was removed at the request of Major Stahlman.

Senator Walsh, Democrat, of Montana remarked that he understood from press reports that Campen was removed because the Attorney General did not think he was sufficiently vigorous in the prosecution of the Espionage act and similar acts during the war.

Senator Sherman reiterated his assertion that the District Attorney was removed because of the information he had secured against the Nashville publisher.

In answer to the statements made by Senator Sherman, Major Stahlman, who is here in connection with the Senate postal rate hearings, denied that he was an alien enemy, saying that he had been naturalized in 1886 and had lived in Nashville for fifty-three years.

Major Stahlman also denied that he had any connection with District Attorney Campen's dismissal, of which, he said, he knew nothing until he read a statement issued by the District Attorney announcing the severance of his connection with the Department of Justice "for the good of the service."

Major Stahlman said his naturalization had been questioned by political enemies because he had "turned a bunch of rascals out of the City Hall and the Court House."

many interprets as obliging them not to leave ports and not to cruise in territorial waters. M. Tchitcherin, the Foreign Minister, objected to this interpretation and suggested that a commission be appointed to settle the dispute. This was accepted by Germany, and the commission will meet in Berlin.

At the same time Foreign Minister Tchitcherin demanded a guarantee of immunity in the Crimea for the Black Sea Fleet, a report of whose capture by the Germans has not been confirmed.

Germany has refused to admit into the territories occupied by her 300,000 starving refugees who are gathered near the frontiers, as requested repeatedly by the Russian Foreign Minister.

It is reported from Irkutsk that China is claiming territory near Chita. The Siberian Soviet Government has protested to the Chinese Government.

Ukraine Treated as Enemy Country.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 3. — Official French dispatches were received today indicating that the Germans had decided to install themselves in the so-called independent province of Ukraine as if it were a conquered and colonized region.

"From recent debates in the Committee of the Reichstag," said one of the dispatches, "it is learned that Marshal Elehhorn conducted himself as if he were occupying enemy territory.

"It is stated today that he had not confined himself to obliging Ukrainian peasants to cultivate their fields, but he has just laid his hands upon the police at Kiev, established a court-martial and arrested a certain number of members of the Government.

"Such is the fate of all States which for one reason or another think they can have confidence in Germany and deliver themselves to her. Wherever the soldiers of the latter penetrate there is no longer a place for the slightest independence or liberty. It means the rule of the sword with all its horrors. This question is holding the attention of the French papers this morning."

CHOLM SEIZED BY POLES.

Ukraine Loses Territory She Got by Brest-Litovsk Treaty.

LONDON, May 3.—A dispatch from Kiev to Copenhagen, as forwarded in an Exchange Telegraph dispatch, says that the Cholm district, which under the Brest-Litovsk treaty was given to the Ukraine, has been taken over completely by the Poles. Polish functionaries have been appointed and Polish courts have been established.

The Cholm district was included in Russian Poland. A large part of its inhabitants are Poles. When the Ukrainians declared their independence of Russia they laid claim to this territory and under the arrangement made at Brest-Litovsk it was included in the Ukraine.

This caused great dissatisfaction in the Polish State set up by the Germans and Austrians, and for a time threatened to bring on a crisis in its relations with the Central Powers.

FINNS WANT A MONARCHY.

Peasant Party Organ Openly Advocates German Prince as King.

STOCKHOLM, May 3.—The first Helsingfors newspapers reaching here since the Finnish revolution are filled with discussions as to whether Finland should be a republic or a monarchy. Every bourgeois newspaper with the exception of the Helsingin Sanomat strongly favors a monarchy. A courier reaching Helsingfors from the headquarters of General Mannerheim also is quoted as saying the sentiment of the "White," or Government Army is overwhelmingly in favor of a monarchy.

Negotiations are in progress to offer the crown to Duke Adolph Friedrich of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, according to the Helsingfors correspondent of the Svenska Dagbladet.

LONDON, May 3.—Finnish newspapers are calling for the establishment of a monarchy in Finland, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen. The Svenska Tidningen, the organ of the Peasant Party, openly advocates that a German Prince be appointed King.

The Ultimate in Men's Suits and Overcoats

At $25, $30 and $35

To our minds, and to the minds of reasonable men who are acquainted with existing conditions in the clothing trade, (and who isn't, by now?) the prices named represent fair quotations for suits of such quality as are displayed today at GIMBELS.

Certain it is that they are the Ultimate in point of today's values, judged from any standpoint. GIMBEL Clothes are made from models designed here. They must meet rigid specifications as to tailoring, trimming, fabric, style. You would be astonished could you learn the pains we are at, today more than ever, to give men worthy clothing at moderate prices.

At each of the figures quoted, there is a choice of the season's best colors and cloths in single breasted one, two, and three button styles.

We can fit any man or any youth no matter what his preferences or build.

Special at $18.50
Men's Suits and Overcoats

which possess the individuality and "class" of clothing costing considerably more. Plain Blues, Plain Greys, Grey Mixtures, in big assortments.

To Our Own Workmen

In the name of the great cause for which every true American is fighting, in one way or another, we thank you for the splendid response you are making to the Third Liberty Loan.

Here are the amounts which the workingmen of our various companies have subscribed up to Friday noon. These amounts will be still greater by tonight.

Think of it! 9,349 men out of 10,254 loan $649,750! If all workmen in the country lend their support as loyally, that will make over a billion dollars from workmen alone!

Aren't you proud? We are. We are proud of the way you are working. We are prouder still of the way you are loaning your money to our country.

CAILLAUX CASE WITNESSES CALLED

BONNET ROUGE EVIDENCE

Hero Officer Testifies Against Duval, Then Leaves for Front. to Fight Again.

PARIS, May 3.—A preliminary hearing in the case of Joseph Caillaux, former Premier, who is charged with treason in connection with the operations of Bolo Pacha, was held this morning. Captain Bouchardon of the Military Court of Paris presided. The witnesses heard were Charles Roux, First Secretary of the French Embassy at Rome, and Gustave Hervé, editor of La Victoire.

The most of today's session in the trial of the Directors of the Bonnet Rouge, the defunct Socialist and Germanophile newspaper, was taken up with the consideration of trips to Switzerland by M. Vercasson, one of the accused men, in behalf of M. Duval, Director of the Bonnet Rouge, who is also on trial. M. Germain, an expert accountant, testified that Vercasson brought from Switzerland 475,000 francs, which he gave to Duval. On being cross-examined, Germain said that Vercasson's operations appeared to be regular and in good faith, but that he personally benefited to the extent of 25,000 francs from his work.

According to the testimony Duval offered to loan Vercasson 130,000 francs, taking French National Defense bonds as security. When Vercasson presented the bonds at a bank he was informed that no loan could be made on such collateral because Alexander F. Ribot, then President of the council, had forbidden such transactions.

Captain Paul Denoe, recently severely wounded at the front and wearing the Cross of the Legion of Honor, the War Cross, with five stars and two palms, was another witness. He was formerly administrator of the San Stefano Casino Company, and said that he resigned from that post owing to the fact that Marx, the Mannheim banker, had obtained control of the company and desired to dominate it entirely. He said his impression was that Duval was unreservedly devoted to Marx's interest, and had become "Marx's man." The witness said that Marx was a dangerous man of a sort well known before the war, "a German ostentatiously professing Francophile sympathies."

After the conclusion of his testimony, Captain Denoe asked that he be excused for the balance of the trial. "I have serious business to attend to," he said. "I must return to the front. My commandant has just been wounded and I command by battalion now."

Permission was granted to the Captain to absent himself during the remainder of the trial.

The close relation between the Bonnet Rouge case and the prosecution of Bolo Pacha was established when Police Commissioner Faralicq, who is charged with the investigation of the Bonnet Rouge affair, testified that Abbas Hilmi, former Khedive of Egypt, had obtained in 1916 a complete report concerning the conditions existing in General Sarrail's army at Saloniki. A man called Adda, private secretary to Yozen Pacha, came to France frequently and always returned with important military information. The report concerning the condition at Saloniki was full and complete, showing that General Sarrail's army was unable to take the offensive, giving the exact number of men incapacitated by sickness and disease, and the exact losses in recent battles in Macedonia.

The report was a copy of a document sent by General Sarrail to the French Government exposing the situation and asking for reinforcements. Mme. Lewis, former stenographer for M. Marion, assistant manager of the Bonnet Rouge, identified the document, which she typed at her employer's request. They were copies of two letters from General Sarrail to the Minister of War, two telegrams, and a ten-page letter from Captain Mathieu to M. Paix-Seailles, who was suspected in January of having given important military information to unauthorised persons and was tried before a court-martial concerning the situation at Saloniki.

M. Paix-Seailles was called to the stand and admitted giving the documents to Miguel Al Mereyda, another one of the accused, who died in prison before the trial began.

WOMAN SCARED BURGLARS.

They Tied Her Up and Attacked Husband, but She Got Away.

When Mrs. Barnard Muller opened the door of her flat at 14 Lincoln Place, Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon, expecting to admit her husband upon his return from work, three men seized her. While they were tying her to a stationary wash tub and gagging her so that she could not scream her husband entered the flat. The men attacked him and in the confusion Mrs. Muller slipped the thongs and made her way down the fire escape from the third floor.

After Muller had been knocked unconscious with blows from the butts of the robbers' pistols, the men heard Mrs. Muller screaming for the police. They ran to the street just as Policeman Kinane of the Bergen Street Station ran up. He pursued the thieves to Sixth Avenue, shooting at them. At Sixth Avenue the men leaped into a motor truck and commanded the driver, Charles Sauer of 323 Forty-third Street, Brooklyn, to open his throttle wide.

At President Street, after a three blocks' run, they decided they could not outspeed the policeman, who had commandeered a swift automobile and was taking more careful aim. They leaped from the truck and ran into the basement of an apartment house at 214 Sixth Avenue, and escaped. Policeman Kinane found a diamond ring valued at $900 in the dust in the basement, with a Deputy Sheriff's badge, where the thieves had dropped them. Muller told the police $1,000 in cash and $850 in Liberty bonds were missing from his desk.

TO FLY TO PITTSBURGH.

French Aviator Leaves Mineola to Open Warfare Exhibit.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., May 3.—Piloting a fast Spad fighting plane, Lieutenant Georges Flaschere, a French instructor at the aviation field here, left at noon today to fly overnight 461q miles to Pittsburgh, where his arrival will open the French Aerial Warfare Exhibit, presided over by Mrs. Benjamin Thaw, mother of the famous American ace, Major William Thaw. Lieutenant Flaschere's schedule called for stops at Philadelphia and Altoona.

A telegram to Henry Woodhouse of the Aero Club of America announced the aviator's arrival in Philadelphia in the late afternoon and his continuance of the flight. The exhibit which the Lieutenant will open is for the purpose of obtaining funds for the orphans of French aviators who, unlike the American flyers, are not insured by their Government.

BUILDING MORE SUPERGUNS

Germans Start Work in a Belgian Factory and Employes Quit.

LONDON, May 3.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Amsterdam says a frontier correspondent asserts that the Germans are constructing long-range guns of the type used in the bombardment of Paris at Seraing, five miles southwest of Liége, in Belgium, and that they have requisitioned the Cockerill works for the purpose.

The dispatch says that all the workmen in the factory have refused to work and will be deported this month.

FAVOR TAKING OVER BRITISH LIQUOR TRADE

Committees Estimate the Cost to the State Will Be Less Than $2,500,000,000.

LONDON, May 3.—The English, Scotch, and Irish Committees appointed to investigate the purchase and control by the State of the liquor traffic have reported in favor of the feasibility of the scheme. The cost is estimated at more than £400,000,000, but less than £500,000,000.

The Scottish and Irish Committees favor the inclusion of wholesalers in the plan, and also making the purchase of the stocks of liquor a separate transaction from that of the other assets, thus solving the difficulty concerning the inflation of whisky prices which has taken place since the war by the application of the principle of the excess profits duty.

The English Committee, dealing with a smaller liquor business, declares that the bulk of the stock may be regarded as working capital required to earn a profit, and that its value should be included in the sum arrived at by capitalizing the net profits of the concerns owning it. This committee maintains that the trade should be bought out on the basis of the profit which it was capable of earning before the war.

In regard to the form of payment, the English Committee points out that at the time when the State's obligations come to be discharged the conditions of the money market are likely to be very different from those before the war, and the general standard of capital values substantially lower. As the extent of depreciation cannot be predicted at this time, the committee recommends that the sum arrived at should be written down to the standard of capital values prevailing when the purchase transaction comes to be completed, and that special Government guaranteed stock should be issued at a price enabling it to command in the market cash equivalent to the sum so adjusted.

The Scottish and Irish Committees favor the same principle of purchase on the basis of pre-war profits. All three committees agree as to the interests which must be included in the scheme. All include the export trade as subject to acquisition, and all propose to exclude allied trades, such as a major portion of the hotels, clubs, railroad refreshment rooms, theatre bars, passenger vessels, and dining cars.

The cost of the purchase of the breweries, distilleries, and public houses, with means of supply, is estimated at £350,000,000 in England and Wales and £61,000,000 in Scotland. The Irish Committee supplies only certain data for an estimate.

SEES 3 MORE YEARS OF WAR.

This Country Not Yet Fully Awakened, Says William Allen White.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 3.—In the opinion of William Allen White, author and editor of Kansas, it will require heavy war losses to arouse this country to the gravity of the present situation. Moreover, basing his opinion upon his observations on the battlefields of France in the service of the American Red Cross, Mr. White does not hesitate to predict that the American casualty lists will be heavy.

"But America already is awakening—awakening wonderfully," he added.

The war, Mr. White asserted, would last possibly three years.

In discussing politics as it relates to the war, Mr. White said:

"There will be no war party this year. Both parties claim to be the war party and each will be more or less right. There is no dividing issue on the war except to win it now. The Democrats have been too slow. The time element will be the chief difference. But even at that they have done the best they can. The war will last two or three years more. It will be the biggest thing in our politics until 1920.

PLAN TO RAISE FUND FOR SALVATION ARMY

Committee Is Organized for Campaign — Commander Booth Appeals to Workers.

Fifty women who are to take a leading part in the campaign to raise $250,000 for the war work of the Salvation Army met yesterday afternoon in the Waldorf-Astoria and organized a Campaign Committee, with Mrs. William Cumming Story as Chairman. They heard speakers describe the work the Salvation Army was doing on the western front, and they listened to an appeal for help from Commander Evangeline Booth, the head of the organization in the United States. The campaign is to be made in the week of May 5-12.

Commander Booth spoke of the great need of keeping the war work of the organization going. She referred to the devotion and self-sacrifice of the men and women who had gone to France under the blood and fire flag of the religious army. She said that some of the workers were mere girls in years, but they were filled with the spirit of devotion and self-sacrifice. They asked little of themselves, she said.

Sergeant Barre of the 18th Infantry, U. S. A., described the hardships of the Salvation Army workers in the army huts back of the line. Their desire was, he said, to move toward the first line trenches regardless of the danger.

It was announced that the campaign would begin with a mass meeting in the Hippodrome tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. The speakers will be ex-Ambassador James W. Gerard, Governor Whitman, and Commander Booth. The Chairman of the meeting will be George Gordon Battle.

Among those present at the meeting yesterday were Mrs. Charles S. Whitman, Mrs. John Fowler Trow, Mrs. William Rogers Chapman, Mrs. Henry Judson Shaw, Mrs. Robins A. Lau, and Mrs. Clarence de Vaux Royer. Each woman present represented some organization, and all pledged their support to the campaign.

AWARDS SPINGARN MEDAL.

W. S. Braithwaite, Colored Poet and Critic, Receives Prize.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 3.—William Stanley Braithwaite of Cambridge, literary critic for The Boston Evening Transcript and known as a poet throughout the country, received the Spingarn medal here tonight. Governor R. L. Beeckman made the presentation at exercises held at the First Baptist Church.

The medal is the fourth to be awarded and the donor is Major Joel E. Spingarn of New York, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. It is given each year to the man or woman of African descent and American citizenship who is adjudged to have made the highest achievement during the preceding year in any field of elevated or honorable endeavor.

This medal has been awarded in previous years to E. E. Just for researches in biology, to Colonel Charles Young, U. S. A., (retired,) for services in organizing the constabulary of Liberia, and to Harry T. Burleigh for excellence in the field of creative music.

HONORS ORONSA'S CAPTAIN.

Liverpool Humane Society Gives Him a Medal for Bravery.

LIVERPOOL, May 3.—The Liverpool Shipwreck and Humane Society has awarded a silver medal and certificate to Captain Holt Hobson of the British steamship Oronsa for gallant and high discipline on the occasion of the torpedoing of that ship by a German submarine.

Use a Real Blood Builder

A body, which has become poisoned and weakened by thin, impure blood, can't be restored to former vigor and capacity by a mere temporary tonic, or "pick-me-up." The blood must be made all over new, rich and red by a genuine blood reconstructive.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan

helps to create new, sturdy blood cells. These tiny beats carry oxygen up the blood-stream to all the body cells and tissues, nourishing them, charging them with new vigor, vitality, and purpose. If your health is below par because your blood is deficient in red cells try Gude's Pepto-Mangan. Gude's Pepto-Mangan is a splendid general tonic and appetizer, easily digested, promptly assimilated by the blood, exceedingly pleasant to the taste. Endorsed and prescribed by physicians everywhere.

Study this picture so you will know how genuine Pepto-Mangan looks.

Friendly Warning: There are many imitations of Pepto-Mangan on the market, but you can be sure of getting the genuine if it bears the name "Guda" and is put up in the bottle and sealed package as pictured here. Ask for it by its full name—"Gude's Pepto-Mangan." For sale at all drug stores.

2—We use the greatest care in the selection of the finest leaf of each variety for this 1,000 lbs.

3—Uniformity of this 1,000 lbs. assured by the careful weighing of each grade contained in blend.

4—Mellowness and mildness of this 1,000 lbs. made perfect by the proper ageing of the tobacco.

5—Evenness of smoke and taste of this 1,000 lbs. preserved through careful and suitable fermentation.

6—Smoothness of this 1,000 lbs. produced by a thorough intermixing of the tobacco after careful shredding.

7—Absolute cleanliness of this 1,000 lbs. safeguarded by an automatic sifting and purifying process.

8—Harmony of fragrance of this 1,000 lbs. maintained by storing of tobacco in containers and temperature registered by thermometers.

9—Each Piccadilly is made of an exact fractional part of this 1,000 lbs.

10—The filler in each Piccadilly, from the 1,000 lbs., is encased in a golden-brown, silk-like wrapper.

Banks, Trust Companies and Booths open for subscriptions until midnight.

UNTIL MIDNIGHT

Your subscription to this Liberty Loan cannot be received after today.

The following underlined Banks and Stations will be open until Midnight tonight.

Go to one of them and subscribe.

The Banks and Trust Companies of Greater New York have formed an association to make it as easy as possible for YOU to invest in Liberty Bonds on a Partial Payment Plan. Over 500 Banks, Official Liberty Loan Subscription Stations and Booths are receiving subscriptions. A list of them is printed on this page. Some are near your home; some are near your place of business. You can subscribe at any one of them on the Partial Payment Plan.

For a $50 Bond you pay $2 down and the balance $1 a week. For a $100 Bond you pay $4 down and the balance $2 a week.

When you subscribe you receive a little book containing a blank receipt for each weekly payment, a schedule of dates when payments are due, and a list of over 700 places where payments may be made. When you make a payment at any of these 700 places a receipt for that payment will be stamped in your book. As soon as you have made all the payments your bond will be delivered to you.

You can make your payments in advance of the schedule of dates and receive your bond just so much the sooner. You can subscribe to as many $100 Bonds as you wish and pay for them on this Partial Payment Plan.

YANKEES BEAT RED SOX IN PITCHERS' BATTLE BETWEEN SLIM LOVE AND JOE BUSH

PIPP'S TIMELY STAB UNRAVELS RED SOX

MILLER HELPS SAVE GAME

His Throw to Plate Gives Love Enough Encouragement to Outpitch Joe Bush.

Wallie Pipp swung his bat with triumph in the eleventh inning of the game between the Yanks and the Red Sox at the Polo Grounds yesterday. His slashing single to centre coaxed Frank Baker over the plate with the run which gave Huggins's lads a 3 to 2 victory over Boston. Pipp's timely tap broke up the greatest pitching duel of the season between Bullet Joe Bush and Slim Love. The game was finished just in time to turn the emotional populace loose into a hard rainstorm.

It was Ed Barrow's first appearance here as manager of the Red Sox, and the new combination looks like a pretty strong ball club. Li Hung Schang, who used to catch for the Athletics, is playing left field and was bothered by the sun. Stuffy McInnis, for so long the first baseman of Connie Mack's $100,000 infield, is holding down third base. Stuffy seems to be one of those players who can play anywhere with grace and ease.

Bullet Joe Bush, another acquisition from the Mackian school of baseball, gave the Yanks six hits up to the volcanic eleventh and had a little bit the better of the flinging duel with Love. Slim, however, grew stronger as the game went along into the night, and, after a sensational play by Elmer Miller in the eighth pulled Love out of a deep hole, he pitched wonderfully effective ball.

That play in the eighth brought the crowd to its feet yelling. In that chapter Bush came to his own rescue and hammered out a single. Harry Hooper pounded a single to right, sending Bush to third. Dave Shean then slammed a high fly to deep centre field, and it looked as if Bush would score easily after the catch and break the 2 to 2 tie.

Miller Saves the Day.

As Miller caught the ball Bush was away down the third base path like a jack rabbit. Miller, without any apparent effort, threw the ball toward the plate. A straighter and more accurate heave was never made on a ball field, for it went like a streak plumb into Truck Hannah's big mitt and he tagged Bush just as he was sliding into the plate with the hurrah run.

Hooper went to second on the play and Amos Strunk, another graduate of the White Elephants, was at the bat and looked dangerous. A single would give the Red Sox the game. Strunk cracked a long drive to right field and it looked as if it was going to carry the grand stand wall. Gilhooley romped over to the concrete stockade and plucked the ball just as it was going to crash against the wall. With that kind of support to encourage him, Love did his part after that with credit.

Ping Bodie made himself solid with the bleachers fans when his hit in the seventh pushed Pipp over with the run which tied the score. The bleacherites have reserved their decision on Ping for some time, but their loud admiration broke forth yesterday without restraint. It was music to Ping's ears, for the only reason that Ping plays ball is for the glory—and his salary.

The Red Sox were gay with Love in the first two innings and it looked as if they were going to have a regular Barrow holiday picnic. With one out in the first Shean singled to centre and went to third on Strunk's safety to right. Love unpeeled a wild pitch, which sent Shean home. In the second inning, with one gone, Scott pummeled a triple to left centre and scampered home on Agnew's sacrifice fly to Bodie. Ping's throw home touched the earth before it got to Hannah and bounded over Truck's head.

Huggins Emotional at Last.

The Yanks got into the counting game in the third. Hannah, the first man up, was called out on strikes by Umpire Nallin. The third strike called did not meet the approval of Manager Huggins or Hannah, and there was a general rush for the plate to shout the matter over with the umpire. Huggins was quite emotional. He went at Nallin just as if he was going to get "Strangler" Lewis's head hold on the umpire and squeeze him until he yelled "Uncle."

Love smashed a single to left and Schang tried to pluck it from the top of the daisies, but failed. Gilhooley forced Love at second and went to third on Peck's single to right. Gilhooley and Peck then started a double steal. The ball was thrown down to second to head off Peck, and Peck cleverly kept the Red Sox throwing the ball back and forth until Gilhooley had a chance to cross the plate. The Red Sox kicked on that decision, but it did not do a bit of good.

The Yanks tied it up in the seventh. With one out, Pratt singled to right and was forced by Pipp. Bodie then jammed a hard drive to left centre, which Strunk knocked down, but he fumbled the ball trying to pick it up, and Pipp rushed over with the tying run.

The Yanks had a glorious chance to win in the tenth when Bodie doubled and Miller laid down a bunt. Bush tried to get Bodie at third, but all hands were safe. Hannah then walked and jammed the bases, with no one out. Huggins was going to send in Caldwell as a pinch hitter, but changed his mind, and Love hit into a double play. Caldwell then batted for Gilhooley and hoisted a fly to centre field, which, if it had come earlier, would have permitted the winning run to score.

Peck fanned for a starter in the eleventh. Baker singled to right and traveled around to third on Pratt's single to centre. Then up came Pipp and poled a drive to centre, which sent Baker home with the victory.

WHITE SOX PILE UP RUNS.

Hit Tiger Pitchers at Will, Scoring a 19-to-3 Victory.

DETROIT, Mich., May 3.—Hammering three Detroit pitchers virtually at will for a total of twenty-five hits, six of them for extra bases, Chicago scored a 19 to 3 victory over Detroit this afternoon.

James, who started for Detroit, lasted two innings, and gave way to Hall after yielding six hits and as many runs. Hall retired in the fifth after the visitors had added eight more runs to their count. Coveleskie finished the game.

George Burns Gets Two Triples in Game Which Mackmen Win, 8 to 6.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., May 3.—Philadelphia defeated Washington today, 8 to 6. Shaw, replacing Ayers, with the score tied in the seventh, was hit freely. With two out in the ninth, Washington rallied, and three hits drove Myers out of the box.

Gregg replaced him, and Walter Johnson, batting for Judge, doubled. With runners on third and second Morgan flied out. George Burns drove in half of the local runs, twice hitting a triple with two on bases.

BENTON GETS AWAY TO WINNING START

Giants Fall Upon Offerings of Nehf, While New York Veteran Masters Braves.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, May 3.—The Giants found Arthur Nehf an easy proposition this afternoon, and by hammering the offerings of the little southpaw for eight hits, including a double and two triples, defeated the Braves in the opening game of the series, 5 to 1.

Boston provided the Giants with a sterner opposition than that which they encountered in Philadelphia, but failed to make much headway against the southpaw slants of Rube Benton. Benton, making his 1918 mound début, allowed only six hits, and these were so judiciously distributed that only the minimum damage resulted.

Ross Young, by meeting the first ball pitched to him for a single to left, started the Giants on their way in the opening inning. Young took second on a wild pitch. Kauff rapped the ball at Nehf, but the pitcher's throw to third to head off Young was late, and both Ross and Benny were safe. Burns fouled to Konetchy, but Zimmerman delivered a double to left that scored Young and put Benny on third. Doyle's single to right sent Kauff home, but Zimmerman was cut down at the plate on Rehg's throw to Wilson.

For three innings the Braves went runless, but in the fourth they hung up one tally, and only sharp work on the part of the Giant infielders prevented a tie score. Massey raised a high foul, which Zimmerman caught at the edge of the field boxes back of third base. Herzog singled to right and Kelly singled to centre, Herzog pulling up at second. The pair then worked a double steal, and when Benton passed Rehg the bases were loaded. Smith brought in Herzog with a sacrifice fly to Kauff, and when Benny's return shot through Rariden's legs, Kelly dashed for home and Rehg ran for second.

Benton, backing up Rariden, scooped up the ball, at which Kelly turned back for third. Benton threw to Doyle, who chased Rehg back toward first. Rehg then started for second again and Kelly tore for home, but he was out at the plate. Kelly protested so loudly when Umpire Moran declared him out that the arbiter banished him to the clubhouse.

With two out in the fifth, Young beat out an infield hit and Kauff sent a single to right. Burns hit for a triple to right centre, on which Young and Kauff trooped home.

Benton and Kauff accounted for the Giants' last run, which was registered in the seventh inning. Benton drew a pass and after Young had taken three futile swings at the ball, Kauff tripled to right, scoring the big lefthander.

Dunlevy Blanks Rivals.

Evander Childs High School's baseball team shut out the Townsend Harris nine yesterday at the Catholic Protectory grounds by the score of 10 to 0. The game went seven innings. Dunlevy twirled for the victors and furnished one of his best games of the season. He struck out twelve and allowed only one hit.

DODGERS TUMBLE PHILLIES.

Coombs Suppresses Visitors, While Mayer Is Pounded Hard.

There was more dash and spirit in the play of the Brooklyn baseball team yesterday than has been shown this season, and as a result the Robins crowded the Phillies back to defeat in the opening game of the series by a score of 5 to 2. Erskine Mayer was of little avail in holding back the Dodger batsmen, who seemed possessed with the idea of heavy stick work at opportune moments.

Coombs was a factor in the fray, for while the Dodgers were pounding Mayer with fair success Coombs was holding back the Phils by masterly twirling. The hits off Mayer were not so many, but they were juggled together in just the right allotment to bring about runs. Tincup succeeded Mayer after the sixth when Mayer was taken out to make way for a pinch hitter.

Brooklyn assumed the lead from the outset. In the first inning Olson led off with a double, went to third on O'Mara's infield out, and scored on Daubert's sacrifice fly. In the next inning Whitted dropped Johnston's fly, and the latter went to third when Hickman doubled to right. Schmandt's single through short scored Johnston, Hickman taking third and scoring a minute later when an attempted double play failed owing to Bancroft's error.

Brooklyn added the final two tallies in the eighth. With one down, Daubert singled to centre and went to second when Meusel fumbled the ball. Myers's hit past Pearce brought him home. Myers was caught stealing, but Johnston was passed and stole second and scored when Hickman tripled to the fence in left centre.

The first Boston score was made in the seventh. Whitted doubled to left and scored on Meusel's bit to centre. In the eighth Meusel carried a run in. He singled to left and scored on Tincup's two-bagger.

SUNDAY GAME IN TANGLE.

Ebbets Refuses to Let Robins Play at Harrison Park Tomorrow.

The gauntlet was thrown down to the National Commission yesterday when the proposed plan of having the big league teams play games at Harrison Park in Jersey on each Sunday during the Summer encountered another obstacle in the refusal of Charles Ebbets, owner of the Brooklyn National League Club, to allow his team to compete in the opening game tomorrow against the Philadelphia Club. Early in the day Ebbets had a conference by telephone with Harry Hempstead of the Giants and Colonel Jacob Ruppert of the Yankees, and following this sent the following telegram to John K. Tener, President of the National League, and Garry Herrmann, Chairman of the National Commission:

"In conference with Hempstead and Ruppert today we deem it inadvisable to play game at Harrison next Sunday as advertised in today's papers, pending later consideration of the subject." This word was concurred in by William H. Baker, President of the Philadelphia Club.

The question of territorial rights is one of the vital issues at stake, and owing to the protests of International League clubs that their territory would be violated if the big leagues played there, law suits were threatened if the schedule was followed.

Four of the major league clubs have now practically defied the National Commission, which, it is understood, ordered that Sunday games be played at Harrison Park. They are, in addition to Brooklyn and Philadelphia, the Red Sox and the Yankees. The latter two teams were originally scheduled to play the opening game at Harrison, but this was abandoned when Colonel Ruppert did not take kindly to the idea. Then came the substitution of Brooklyn and Philadelphia, with the result that has been mentioned.

Ebbets said that if he were an owner of an International League club under the existing circumstances he would most certainly protest against the invasion of territorial rights by the majors, and that he would probably fight. Ebbets several years ago held the Newark franchise, and, therefore, probably speaks with a more accurate estimate of the viewpoint of the minors.

It is believed that the matter may eventually cause a more exact determination of the powers of the National Commission. Thus far Ebbets has not received any official notification that his team was to play at Harrison tomorrow. Asked what he would do if the National Commission ordered him to play, he replied that he would cross that bridge when he came to it. The impression was gained, however, that Ebbets would have nothing whatever to do with the proposed Harrison plan, and with the backing of the Yankees, Philadelphia, and the Red Sox in this stand, there would be the foundation for a battle in major league circles.

CHICAGO, May 3.—Inside details of the part the major leagues and National Baseball Commission played in financing the old International League when that organization was in distress in 1914 during the war with the Federal League were revealed tonight by August Herrmann, Chairman of the National Commission, who said that approximately $30,000 had been loaned and contributed to the league to enable it to meet its obligations.

Chairman Herrmann's statement was made in reply to the protest by John H. Farrell, President of the new International League, against the proposed action of the major leagues in playing Sunday games at the former Newark Federal League Park at Harrison, N. J., which is in the five-mile limit of Newark, now a member of the new International.

"President Farrell sent me a check for $3,000 as full payment for claims against the old International League," Herrmann said. "But there still is an unpaid amount of $8,700. This sum represents money which the National Commission and the major leagues loaned to Edward G. Barrow, who was then President of the International, to meet certain obligations during the latter part of the 1914 season.

"President Johnson of the American League personally loaned Barrow $3,200 in September of 1914, and later the National Commission reimbursed him. The American and National Leagues, in addition to the loans, contributed $5,000 and $10,000 at various times to support the league."

Chairman Herrmann said he did not know whether Barrow, who since has become manager of the Boston Americans, had acquainted Farrell with the exact financial obligations of the old International organization.

MISKE AND DEMPSEY DRAW.

Neither Gains Commanding Lead in Ten-Round Bout at St. Paul.

ST. PAUL, May 3.—Billy Miske and Jack Dempsey fought a tame ten-round bout here tonight. Neither fighter gained a commanding lead, and a poor draw was the general verdict of newspaper critics.

HUB GUNNER SETS RECORD AT TRAPS

James Clarke, Jr., Breaks 198 Out of 200—B. A. A. Team Beats N. Y. A. C.

Establishing a new record of 198 out of a possible 200 targets, James Clarke, Jr., Boston Athletic Association, won the preliminary shoot of the amateur clay bird championship of the United States over the traps of the New York Athletic Club yesterday. His individual runs were 25, 25, 25, 24, 25, 24, 25 and 25. E. C. Griffith, who comes from Pasque, R. I., finished second with a total of 192. Then came R. L. Spotts, a former national champion, with a card of 191.

One hundred and one gunners from all sections of the country competed, including C. H. Newcomb, present holder of the national title. The champion did not do particularly well yesterday, returning a card of 184.

In addition to the preliminary shoot, teams representing the New York Athletic Club and the Boston Athletic Club shot the third and last leg on an inter-club shoot. The Hub gunners won the first leg, decided at Lakewood, by 24 targets. In the leg decided in Boston the New York A. C. marksmen pulled down the advantage to a single target. Yesterday the Hub gunners surprised the home marksmen by winning by a score of 935 to 907 targets. It gave them the shoot by a grand total of 29 targets. It was the first time in the history of Travers Island shooting that the New York A. C. has been defeated on its own traps.

MARATHON RACE TODAY.

900 Runners to Start in Annual Race from Bronx to City Hall.

Aspiring distance runners to the number of about 900 will strive today for athletic glory and prizes in the eighth annual running of the Evening Mail Modified Marathon race from the Bronx to City Hall. More than 1,000 entries were received, but about 100 of these were eliminated because of A. A. U. eligibility rules. Fifty-nine clubs have nominated full teams of five runners or more and a representation from a number of military or naval training stations will lend a decided war-time tone to the contest.

Hannes Kolehmainen, the veteran Finnish runner, now attached to the Meadowbrook Club of Philadelphia, will be among the starters. He has won the race four times, his last triumph being scored in the 1917 event. Villar Kyronen, another Finn, of the Millrose A. A., winner of the 1916 race, is another prominent starter, and the others include Hans Schuster, the Morningside A. A. veteran, and Terry Halpin, another wearer of the Winged M; Fred Travelena of the Mohawk A. C., Nick Giannakopulos of the 306th Infantry at Spartanburg, S. C.; Arthur Vaughan of Pittsburgh, Charles Mellor, Logan Square A. C., Chicago, and R. E. Secord of Grand Rapids, Mich., winner of a recent race held at Grand Rapids.

Chajes Wins from Janowski.

Oscar Chajes, the New York State chess champion, yesterday won another game in his match with D. Janowski at the Manhattan Chess Club, the twentieth of the series, and now needs to win but one more game to win the match. Janowski, on the other hand, needs to win three more games.

WHITNEY'S CRESSON IN VAN.

Leads Field All the Way in Fifth Race at Pimlico.

PIMLICO, Md., May 3.—Harry Payne Whitney had a mortgage on the chief portion of the $1,000 purse offered in the fifth race for two-year-olds today. He started both Cresson and Comfort, and though the latter has a great stable reputation it was evident that the hopes of Trainer Simons depended on Cresson, which had previously shown winning form. This smart daughter of Old Gold had Frankie Robinson in the saddle.

She was on her toes at the break and rushed into a long lead, with the others scrambling for positions behind her. Mrs. W. M. Jefford's Kerensky might have been a more serious contender but for being forced wide all the way after a slow beginning. He found clear sailing in the stretch and made up a lot of ground to finish second, two lengths behind Cresson, which won as her rider pleased.

Only four started in the Howard Handicap at a mile and a sixteenth. The chances of Barry Shannon were ruined when he was knocked against the fence at the start. Air Man, which had not been long in the Viau stable, showed great improvement, and, taking the lead at the start, galloped in front all the way to win by a length and a half from Obolus.

The summaries:

FIRST RACE.—For maiden 2-year-olds, selling, purse $700, four furlongs. Tommy Waac, 102 pounds, (Rodriguez,) $8.60, $5.10, and $5, won; St. Quentis, 100, (Midgely,) $53.80 and $20.60, second; Lady Vulvain, 99, (Walls,) $11.60, third. Time—0:49 2-5. Pigeon, McLane, Keynote, Poultney, Maramon, Milda, Lydia 3d, and Marmon also ran.

SECOND RACE.—For 3-year-olds and upward, claiming, purse $700, mile and sixty yards. Judge Wingfield, 113 pounds, (Ensor,) $9.70, $5.40, and $3.70, won; Brother Jonathan, 118, (Walls,) $6.80 and $4.10, second; Amalgamator, 113, (Stalker,) $13.20, third. Time—1:46 1-5. Aldebaran, Harwood, Col. Valentine, Captain Ray, and Irregular also ran.

THIRD RACE.—The Baltimore Steeplechase, for maiden 4-year-olds and upward, purse $700, two miles. Dramaturge, 145 pounds, (Barrett,) $54.30, $12.20, and $8.40, won; Big Four, 137, (Bush,) $5 and $4.80, second; First Out, 145, (F. Williams,) $7.50, third. Time—4:39 2-5. Turmoil, Sea Coast 2d, Jack Carl, Ormeshead, Kilwinsing, Brand, and Porin also ran.

FOURTH RACE.—For 3-year-olds, selling, purse $700, one mile. Game Cock, 110 pounds, (Walls,) $25.60, $10.80, and $4.70, won; Happy Valley, 104, (Callahan,) $7.20 and $3.80, second; Blazonry, 107, (Rodriguez,) $3.30, third. Time—1:42 4-5. Mohican, Producer, and Bughouse also ran.

FIFTH RACE.—For 2-year-olds, purse $1,000, four and a half furlongs. Cresson, 111 pounds, (F. Robinson,) $2.80, $2.10, and $2.40, won; Kerensky, 114, (Ambrose,) $2.50 and $2.70, second; Comfort, 111, (W. Robinson,) (coupled with Cresson,) $2.40, third. Time—0:54. Rainbow Girl, Honest George, Broken Promises, and Thistledon also ran.

SIXTH RACE.—The Howard Handicap, for 3-year-olds and upward, purse $1,000, mile and a sixteenth. Airman, 111 pounds, (Dominick,) $10.40, $3, and out, won; Obolus, 108, (Kummer,) $2.60 and out, second; Monomoy, 102, (Lyke,) out, third. Time—1:48 2-5. Barry Shannon also ran.

SEVENTH RACE.—For 3-year-olds and upward, selling, purse $700, six furlongs. Nominee, 105 pounds, (Kummer,) $4, $3.20, and $2.30, won; Sandman II., 122, (O'Brien,) $6.60 and $3.10, second; Amackassin, 110, (Mergler,) $2.40, third. Time—1:14 3-5. Dragoon, High Low, Neville 2d, Surprising, and Sorcerer 2d also ran.

WALLACE WINNER ON LINKS.

Defeats Smith After Hard Battle in Atlantic City Tourney.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 3.—A remarkable golf match, the typical man-to-man battle, marked the meeting between William Wallace, formerly of New York, and R. W. Smith of Greensburg, in the first round of the Spring tournament at the Country Club of Atlantic City today. When the pair finished all square on the home green only one of the eighteen holes had been halved. Then Wallace won the extra hole in 3, a stroke better than par.

In the afternoon Wallace defeated Robert Wilson of Denver, and as a result will have a chance at Maurice Risley in the lower semi-final bracket tomorrow. Risley was at the top of his game today, especially in the afternoon, when he traveled at a 75 pace at the expense of Pierre A. Proal of Deal. Walter Camp, now a Naval Commissioner, saw the finish of this match.

The summary of the first sixteen follows:

FIRST SIXTEEN.—First Round—F. W. Knight, Aronimink, beat H. B. Newton, Frankford, 5 and 4; F. J. Higgins, Stenton, beat C. N. Phillips, Atlantic City, 1 up, (22 holes;) Frank Barton, Marine and Field, beat W. J. Platt, North Hills, 1 up; J. W. Platt, North Hills, beat C. M. Hicks, Philadelphia Country, 5 and 4; Robert Wilson, Denver, beat J. H. Lippincott, Atlantic City, 3 and 2; William Wallace, Port Sewall, beat R. W. Smith, Greensburg, 1 up, (19 holes;) Maurice Risley, Atlantic City, beat W. Ray Barnhill, Fox Hills, 4 and 3; Pierre A. Proal, Deal, beat Walter C. Shoup, Baltusrol, 3 and 1.

Second Round—Knight beat Higgins, 6 and 5; Barton beat J. W. Platt, 2 and 1; Wallace beat Robert Wilson, 4 and 2; Risley beat Proal, 4 and 2.

CREWS RACE TODAY ON CARNEGIE LAKE

Princeton, Columbia, and Penn Take Final Spins for the Child's Cup Contest.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 3.—Princeton, Columbia, and the University of Pennsylvania had the finishing touches applied to them this afternoon for the Child's Cup race that is to be rowed over the mile and seven-eighths course on Carnegie Lake tomorrow afternoon. Joe Wright had the Penn 'Varsity and freshman eights out on the water for an hour this morning, and took them for another brief spin this afternoon. Jim Rice likewise gave his Columbia charges two workouts, and at the completion of the practice expressed himself as satisfied.

The Tiger oarsmen have only one concern. The Princetonians are alarmed over the injured knee of Duncan, No. 6. Duncan has been troubled off and on with a knee which he injured in his freshman year, and several days ago the old trouble developed. He worked out with the eight this afternoon, and the Tigers are hopeful of his being able to be a member of the eight tomorrow afternoon. The placing of a substitute in the boat at the last minute would prove a very great handicap to the Tigers.

Many of those who have seen the three eights work out are favoring the Columbians to cross the line first. The Morningside Heights eight is the huskiest it has been in years, and it works with a dash and vim. Penn's crew is light, but it is well balanced and imparts a fine drive to the boat. The Tigers are lighter than usual, but are good in form.

Indications are that there will be ideal weather for the regatta. There is little wind, and the water conditions are excellent. The race between the Penn and the Princeton freshman crews is to be held at 5:15. The 'Varsity race will start at 5:45.

GOLF PROS IN DEADLOCK.

Barnes and Reid Beat McLeod and Campbell, Then Are Beaten

BALTIMORE, Md., May 3.—A patriotic golf match between English and Scotch teams this afternoon on the links of the Baltimore Country Club ended in a deadlock, the score being two up for each team after the thirty-six holes of play. James M. Barnes and Wilfred I. Reid represented England, while Fred McLeod and Alec Campbell comprised the Scottish team.

There were two rounds, one in the morning and the other in the afternoon. With two up the Englishmen won the morning round, but their opponents came back strong in the afternoon, winning by the same margin and evening up matters.

Over Here

THE STORY OF A WAR BRIDE

Over Here is a very fine book. It is fine in its naturalness, its unforced human realism, technically fine in all its character work. It is fine in its spirit, a brave and unpretentious little story for us all to read. It will bring us, "over here," closer to an understanding of the war's personal reality, and, by the very lightness of the author's touch, of that simplicity that is the crowning splendor of its courage.—N. Y. Times.

The book has surprising depth beneath its light reading, and it reads bouncingly.—Chicago News.

SIGN TRADE TREATY WITH NORWEGIANS

War Board Permits Exportation of Food and Other Supplies Needed in Country.

SHE WILL HELP OUR ALLIES

Agreement Provides That Our Shipments Must Not Find Their Way Into Germany.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—The signing of a general commercial agreement between the United States and Norway, the first agreement of the kind to be entered into by America with one of the North European neutrals was announced tonight by the War Trade Board. Under the agreement Norway is assured of supplies to cover her estimated needs so far as they can be furnished without detriment to the war needs of the United States and its allies, and Norway, on her part, agrees to permit the exportation to America and its allies of all Norwegian products not needed for home consumption.

It is provided that none of the supplies imported from the United States or its allies or forwarded with the aid of American bunker coal shall go directly or indirectly to the Central Powers or be used to replace commodities exported to those countries. This applies to anything produced by any auxiliaries to production obtained under the agreement.

The agreement was signed by Vance C. McCormick, Chairman of the War Trade Board, and Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, the famous explorer, who was sent here on a special mission by his country.

The agreement enumerates the quantities of foodstuffs, fodder, fertilizer, textiles, metals, and minerals, rubber and miscellaneous commodities which Norway is entitled to receive. Norway is to furnish among other things, nitrates, iron ore, metals used in hardening special process steels, timber for mine props, wood pulp and other exports, particularly for the Allies, America's own requirements in the way of imports from Norway being relatively small.

"It is, of course, provided that none of the supplies imported from the United States or its associates, or forwarded by the aid of American bunker coal shall go directly or indirectly to any of the Central Powers or be used to replace commodities exported to those countries," says a statement by the War Trade Board announcing the agreement. "A further but easily comprehensible proviso stipulates that nothing manufactured, grown, or produced by means of machinery, implements, fuel, lubricants, or other auxiliaries to production imported under the agreement is to be exported to the Central Powers. Guarantees, too, are to be exacted by Norway in the case of any re-export to neutrals against a benefit to Germany or any of its allies from such re-export.

"Bunker coal and supplies for ships carrying the supplies to Norway will be furnished and such vessels will not be seized or hampered by the United States and associated Governments, though the powers of inspection and supervision, necessary under war conditions, are of course retained.

"The agreement, which in its terms is considered most liberal to Norway, represents an arrangement satisfactory to both parties, the American representatives having some time ago informed Commissioner Nansen that they accepted the final Norwegian proposal as a basis for the completed agreement.

Believes Public Will Indorse It.

"The War Trade Board believes that this liberality toward Norway and the sacrifices which this country is making to place at the disposal of that country the supplies of which Norway stands in need will be understood and indorsed by the American people, in view of the attitude which Norwegians have adopted and maintained in adhering to their right and obligation as a neutral seafaring nation and public carrier to keep their shipping in operation regardless of the menace of the ruthless, unsparing German submarine attempting to enforce an illegal piratic holdup of the world's commerce; of Norway's unwavering adherence to its neutrality in the face of heavy German pressure.

"It will be remembered that, according to figures published a short time ago, Norway has paid a heavy price in 1,500,000 tons of shipping destroyed and 1,000 lives sacrificed as toll to the German submarines to maintain this political and maritime neutrality. Norway in addition, alone of the northern neutrals, is absolutely dependent upon outside imports of food and supplies to maintain her national existence, and is not, aside from fish and fish products, a food-exporting nation.

"Not all the supplies enumerated in the schedules are to come from the United States, but will be made accessible to Norway, which is to draw as large a part of these supplies as practicable from these other sources. Arrangements are also being made for licensing to Norway for a long list of so-called 'nonessentials' not covered by the agreement.

"The completion of the Norwegian agreement represents in a way a triumph for methods of open diplomacy, since the negotiations were, it is recognized, decidedly furthered by the publication some time ago for open discussion of the terms of the American proposal to Norway and of the Norwegian reply to it. Tribute is paid by the War Trade Board to the eminent qualities of Dr. Nansen, which have done so much to make the negotiations a success."

The principal items on the list of supplies for Norway include 300,000 tons of bread grains, 200,000 tons of foodstuffs, 14,500 tons of coffee, 50,000 tons of sugar, 10,000 tons of pork and beef, 20,000 tons of oil seeds, 76,250 tons of mineral oils, 250,000 tons of iron and steel, 40,000 tons of phosphate rock, and smaller quantities of many other products.

NORWEGIANS JUBILANT.

But Newspapers Warn Public Against Expecting Too Much.

CHRISTIANIA, Norway, May 3.—Public feeling approaching jubilation has resulted from the announcement in the newspapers that Dr. Nansen had signed an agreement in the United States for an exchange of necessities for the people of this country in return for Norwegian shipments. Nothing is yet known of the details, and some newspapers advise their readers not to expect too much from the settlement immediately.

The Tidens Tegn expresses confidence in Dr. Nansen's "strong will and unfailing uprightness," and adds "only a week ago we were told that America had demanded conditions which it would be treachery to accept. We cannot believe that Dr. Nansen accepted conditions unworthy of our national dignity."

Wellesley to Limit Commencement.

WELLESLEY, Mass., May 3.—The senior class of Wellesley College voted today to eliminate the usual commencement festivities in June and to devote the fund set aside for this purpose to the purchase of Liberty bonds and surgical dressings. The concert, senior play, garden party, and float, long regarded by students and alumnae as the attractive events of commencement week, will be dropped this year, and all the graduating ceremonies, including the baccalaureate sermon, will take place on Friday, June 14. There are more than 300 members of the senior class.

ACTORS TO GIVE TWO PLAYS.

One at Daily Matinees and Another at Night on Co-operative Basis.

The method of operation to be pursued by the Actors' and Authors' Theatre, Inc., upon their taking the Fulton Theatre under their management later in the month, was the subject of an informal discussion at a dinner of the organization last night at the Hotel Des Beaux Arts. Those present included Edwin Milton Royle, President of the organization; Augustus Thomas, Mrs. Henry B. Harris, Mrs. Thomas A. Wise, George Henry Trader, Hilda Spong, and Minnie Dupree.

The Actors' and Authors' Theatre plans to give plays at the Fulton Theatre on a co-operative basis, beginning in about three weeks. The first play to be presented, it was said last night, probably will be a patriotic piece by Captain H. H. Hughes, now stationed at Fort Myer. For this first piece, it was declared, practically an all-star cast had been obtained. All of the players, regardless of their professional standing, will be paid $50 a week, but will also be given a share of the profits. Royalties to authors will vary, plays having been offered free of royalty by several well-known dramatists.

It will be the plan of the organization to present two bills simultaneously, one at the matinees, which will be daily, and one at night. All new plays will be presented first at the matinees, and later played at night if their reception justifies it. The main purpose of the organization is to provide employment for players between the periods when they are regularly engaged by commercial managers, and also to provide a laboratory in which plays which might not otherwise be produced will be given a hearing. Both long and short plays will be produced. The organization has been capitalized at $50,000, about half of which has been subscribed.

A public meeting of the organization will be held at the Fulton Theatre on Monday afternoon, at which time addresses will be made by a number of prominent actors and authors.

GIVE MUSIC OF THE WAR.

Columbia University Chorus's Program Includes "Stand Up, America."

Music growing out of the war and its impress on a European composer of distinction marked the concert of the Columbia University Chorus last evening in Carnegie Hall, where recently another choir had produced Florent Schmitt's "Chant de Guerre," a voice from the French battlefields. Sir Edward Elgar's "The Spirit of England," heard for the first time in America on the present occasion, echoed another side of war, the spiritual effect on those at home.

Remote from conflict, the challenging "Fourth of August" was contrasted with two episodes of poetic elegy, "To Women" and "For the Fallen." Elgar's music, in its measured tread, carried a suggestion of the call to war, the marching men, darkly seen as through a veil. His text, from Laurence Binyon's "The Winnowing Fan," rose to a climax impressive in its sincerity, a lament for the slain on foreign fields, "known to the heart of their own land as the stars are known to the sight."

There was a patriotic moment later when Edward Horsman's "Stand Up, America," conducted by the New York composer, brought an American audience spontaneously to its feet. Mme. Laura Turczynowicz made an address, followed by the Polish hymn. Herbert Witherspoon sang "The Marseillaise," Dan Beddoe carried the tenor airs in the Elgar work, and Claudia Muzio and Mary Jordan also assisted in Rossini's "Stabat Mater," which, like "The Spirit of England," was conducted by Walter Henry Hall.

Soprano and Pianist in War Benefit.

Alyn Michot, a French soprano of evident experience, and Lester Donahue, the pianist, who is about to join America's army, gave a benefit concert in Aeolian Hall last night for American artists affected by the war. Miss Michot was heard in airs from "Manon" and "The Barber of Seville," and Mr. Donahue played music of Bach, Chopin, and Debussy. There were patriotic speeches and the audience waited late for visiting French soldiers who were among the invited guests.

Organ Recital at Holy Rood Church.

Frank P. McNulty will give a free recital on the new organ of Holyrood Church at 179th Street and Fort Washington Avenue on Sunday afternoon, assisted by Maud Morgan, harpist, and H. T. Burleigh, baritone. The recital is in part to meet the expense of the organ, recently installed.

GOVERNMENT TO SEE WHERE STEEL GOES

75 PER CENT. CUT IN AUTOS

Passenger Cars May Be Further Curtailed to Help in Ship Construction.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Every ton of steel and pig iron in the country virtually has been commandeered by the Government for war purposes, and any surplus remaining after war needs are met, will be distributed to non-war industries under strict Government supervision. This was learned officially today, following publication in New York of minutes of a meeting there last Friday, attended by the chief steel men of the country, and J. Leonard Replogle, Director of Steel for the War Industries Board. At that meeting Mr. Replogle announced the Government's new policy to guarantee a constant supply of steel for the nation's war activities. He told the steel men they would be required to devote their entire capacity to war orders, and they signed a pledge agreeing to this program.

Eight thousand tons of pig iron were taken today from a large mill engaged in less essential work and shipped to a steel mill doing war work, which was about to close down because of pig iron shortage. Similar action has been taken more than once during the last few weeks, and the practice will be continued whenever steel mills and plants engaged in non-war work have steel for the Government's war requirements.

The passenger automobile industry, one of the largest consumers of steel of the so-called less-essential industries, will be among the first to feel the effect of the new policy. Representatives of 75 per cent. of automobile manufacturers of the United States are to meet next Monday a Government committee composed of P. B. Noyes, Director of Conservation of the Fuel Administration; George N. Peek, Director of Finished Products of the War Industries Board, and Mr. Replogle.

These officials will announce that the Government's and allies' steel requirements will necessitate a 75 per cent. curtailment of the passenger automobile industry, or possibly a greater restriction. Voluntary agreement to this program will be asked, but the Fuel Administration is prepared to enforce such a restriction on manufacture of this kind of automobiles. A voluntary 30 per cent. curtailment is now in effect.

Figures in the possession of the War Industries Board and the Fuel Administration show that during 1917 1,600,000 passenger automobiles were made in this country. This year's production, if manufacturers were permitted to carry out the program they announced to the Government, would be more than two million cars. This is declared to be sufficient steel to build 9,000,000 dead weight tons of shipping. Other less essential industries, large users of steel, will likewise be affected, particularly commercial and private building construction.

AVIATOR HEALY KILLED.

Cadet O'Hanley of Garden City Injured by Fall at La Jolla.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., May 3.—Flying Cadet Nicholas Healy was instantly killed and Cadet O'Hanley's ankle was broken as a result of an airplane accident today at La Jolla, near this city. According to reports from La Jolla, the airplane fell in a spinning nose dive from an altitude of about 300 feet after the cadets had made a forced landing for some unknown reason and had started up again.

O'Hanley's home was in Garden City, L. I.

DEMOTE WOODS INSPECTORS

Tierney and Mead Now Captains —Enright Refuses Reasons.

Following rumors that police officials alleged to have been active in favor of Mayor Mitchel in the last campaign were to be punished, Inspector Frank A. Tierney and Inspector Charles S. Mead were reduced yesterday to Captaincies. When asked why the two men had been reduced Commissioner Enright said: "No reason at all." He would not discuss the matter further.

Both Inspectors were in high favor under Commissioner Woods. The ability of Inspector Mead had earlier been recognized by Commissioner Bingham, against whom Commissioner Enright, then a Lieutenant, brought suit for damages. Inspector Mead studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1906. Under Commissioner Bingham, Inspector Mead organized the Legal Bureau of the department in 1907. He became a Captain in 1915 and was made an Inspector on Dec. 4, 1917, in the last month of Commissioner Woods' incumbency. Inspector Tierney joined the department in 1896 and became an Inspector in 1915. Both men have fine police records.

Captain Dominick Henry, who had been an Acting Inspector, was made a full Inspector. He is President of the organization of Police Captains and a strong personal friend of Commissioner Enright. He was placed in charge of the fourth district, the so-called "upper tenderloin." Captain Charles A. Formosa was also promoted to an Inspectorship. He had previously been an Inspector from 1911 to 1915, when he was reduced by Commissioner Woods.

GOVERNMENT DOES BAKING.

Runs Six Big Buffalo Shops When Unpatriotic Bakers Strike.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 3.—The Federal Government went into the baking business here today to meet a situation created by a strike of 200 bakers in twenty shops. All wage demands had been granted by the master bakers, but the men demanded a reduction of sixty minutes a week and refused to leave this question to arbitration.

James B. Stafford, Federal Food Administrator, commandeered three of the largest bakeries, ordered them to discontinue all baking except bread, and instructed the bakeshops where strikes were in force to get their supply of bread from the Federal bakeshops.

Men who would strike on such an issue in the present crisis, Mr. Stafford said in a letter, were not 100 per cent. American.

"This is no time to mince matters," the letter continued, "and any organization that will jeopardize the safety of the country in such a crisis is not patriotic. I do not think the rank and file of the men realize this, but I do think there is an element among them who have misinstructed them and made them blind to the loyalty and devotion which they owe to this Government which is protecting them and their children."

Following a conference with master bakers, Mr. Stafford added three more bakeries to those working for the Government, these with the three commandeered at midnight having a total capacity of 200,000 loaves daily. This amount, it was said, would supply the city's normal demands.

SHIPPING BOARD'S GOAL 13,500,000 TONS A YEAR

Can be Done by Launching Three Vessels a Year from Each Way in Nation's 157 Yards.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Working at full capacity, the 157 shipyards now established in the United States will be able to turn out approximately 13,500,000 tons of shipping each year if three ships are launched annually from each of the ways. Most of the recent launchings have been accomplished in a much shorter time than that from the laying of the keel.

The United States Shipping Board and the Emergency Fleet Corporation are putting forth every effort to obtain the highest efficiency so that, with the completion of the big Government-owned fabricating yards, the nation will be in a position to supply enough shipping for all of the men who can be trained this year and next.

There are at present 398 ways for steel ships. It is proposed that contracts for steel ships will call for an average of about 8,000 tons each, and this program under the "three ships from each way" estimate would provide 9,552,000 tons.

The ways for wooden ships number 332, and these, on the same time basis, with wooden ships averaging 4,000 tons, would provide an additional 3,984,000 tons, giving a total of 13,536,000 tons without taking into consideration construction work which may be done on concrete ships.

Here is what has been accomplished since the Emergency Fleet Corporation took over the shipbuilding industry:

Steel contract ships launched, 18; tonnage, 136,250.
Steel requisitioned ships launched, 183; tonnage, 1,195,887.
Wooden ships launched, 35; tonnage, 108,500.
Total of steel and wooden ships launched, 236; tonnage, 1,440,627.
Steel contract ships delivered, 4; tonnage, 35,200.
Steel requisitioned ships delivered, 134; tonnage, 942,171.

U-BOAT SINKINGS STILL EXCEED SHIP OUTPUT

Colby Declares More Vessels Were Sunk Last Month Than America and England Built.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, May 3.—"During the year 1917 German submarines sank more than 10,000,000 dead weight tons of shipping—11,000,000 would be nearer the truth"—said Bainbridge Colby, member of the United States Shipping Board, before a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association today.

Last month, he said, the sinkings exceeded the combined tonnage built by Great Britain and the United States during that month. More than 11,050 large British steamers have been sunk since the war began.

"The submarines today," Mr. Colby continued, "are sinking ships faster than are built at present, and the only way to cope with the underwater assassins is to build ships with such a frenzy that the lanes of the ocean will be choked and the submarine pirates will be beaten. We must have the ships. I want to see a million men in the shipyards; I want to see all non-essential industries stopped so that ships may be built. The submarines are still sinking more ships than are being built. Without ships we cannot send men, food or munitions to the other side. It is for our workingmen, our employers to realize that we can, by their enlightened impulse, achieve that unity of purpose which will win for us."

As a result of this exposition of the havoc wrought by the German U-boats the committee unanimously adopted a resolution pledging its fullest support to the Government shipbuilding program.

Holden Evans, President of the Baltimore Dry Dock and Shipbuilding Company, announced that they had laid the keel of a vessel yesterday which he promised would be launched in fifty days.

A White Paper, published March 22, 1918, placed the gross merchant tonnage lost in enemy action in 1917 at 6,623,623 tons, distributed as follows:

Period.	British.	Foreign.	World's Total.
First quarter	911,840	707,533	1,619,373
Second quarter	1,361,870	875,064	2,236,934
Third quarter	952,938	541,535	1,494,473
Fourth quarter	782,889	489,954	1,272,843

The same White Paper revealed the output to be as follows:

Period.	British.	Foreign.	World's Total.
First quarter	246,239	282,200	528,439
Second quarter	249,331	377,109	626,440
Third quarter	248,283	368,170	616,453
Fourth quarter	419,621	512,402	932,023

The net loss for the year was shown to be 3,920,268 tons; the net loss since August, 1914, 2,632,297 tons.

SHE WINS $25,000 VERDICT.

Manicure Charged F. G. Noble with Dragging Her Into Divorce Suit.

A jury before Supreme Court Justice Platzek returned a verdict of $25,000 yesterday for Miss Anna Dickhoff, a manicure, in a suit against Frank G. Noble, Vice President of William Baumgarten & Co., interior decorators, of 715 Fifth Avenue, because of occurrences in Mr. Noble's apartment at the Savoy Hotel on the night of Feb. 23, 1917. The plaintiff testified that she was summoned to the apartment by Noble in her professional capacity, and that when she got there she found him in a bathrobe, but he told her Mrs. Noble would be in shortly. She then saw him go to a window and signal to some one in the street. While she was manicuring his fingers two men forced their way into the apartment and said they "had the goods" on Noble.

The plaintiff said she left the apartment at once and learned the next day that she had been named as co-respondent in a suit for divorce brought against Noble by Mrs. Jessica Noble of 755 Park Avenue. She filed an answer denying the charges, and Mrs. Noble then attempted to withdraw the action, but was not permitted to do so until after the court had ruled out all the allegations affecting Miss Dickhoff and had compelled Mrs. Noble to pay her costs. Noble was fined $200 later in Special Sessions on Miss Dickhoff's charge of assault. She sued him for damages, alleging that a manicuring and hairdressing business she had established had to be abandoned because of the troubles brought on her by the Nobles. The case was not defended by Noble.

Whitman Banks on War Record.

Governor Whitman, talking on patriotism last night before the members of the Kings County Republican Club of the Fifth Assembly District, Greene Avenue, near Broadway, Williamsburg, intimated that he thought his Gubernatorial war record would result in his re-election. After asserting that his terms had been free from scandal, he recounted the State's contributions to the national forces, and added: "We shall stand on our record."

Wooden Soles for Army Shoes.

BROCKTON, Mass., May 3.—Experiments with wooden soles as a substitute for leather in army shoes have been ordered by the Government, it was learned today. An order for 1,000 soles to be made from maple and poplar wood has been placed with a firm in this city. The manufacturers assert that a saving of nearly $2 a pair can be made if the sole is found to answer requirements.

ARMY CLERK IS ARRESTED.

Also Three Dealers Charged with Giving Him Bribes.

Lawrence Goldman, a clerk employed in the purchasing office of the Army Transport Service of the Quartermaster's Department, was arrested yesterday, charged with having accepted bribes for assisting dealers in wartime needs in getting Government contracts. Three of the latter were also arrested. They are William C. Colson, agent of a concern which makes lifeboats at Cos Cob, Conn., who is accused of paying Goldman $1,000 on Feb. 28; Thomas B. Galbraith, representing the Combination Rubber Company, and John Craven, a broker in chemicals and other army supplies. Craven is charged with having offered Goldman $25 on Jan. 5, and Galbraith with having offered him $200 to pass a contract for fire hose. United States Commissioner Hitchcock held Goldman in $5,000 bail and the others in $3,000 each for examination on May 18.

It was said that $100,000 worth of contracts were passed by Goldman which might not have been accepted except for the assistance given the bidders by Goldman. The latter is thirty-two years old, is married, and lives at 50 Harmen Street, Brooklyn. Suspicion was aroused against him when some of the supplies failed to give satisfaction, and Federal officials asked Police Commissioner Enright to have an investigation made. Lieutenant George Busby discovered that Goldman was apparently living beyond his means and that deposits aggregating $5,000 had been made in a bank by Goldman in the name of his wife. Prosecutor Stephenson said that he believed that the frauds had been going on since Jan. 1.

ARMY OF 2,298,000 IN JULY, BAKER PLAN

will be on the western front by the last of this year.

This country now has in camp and in the field, it was explained to the committee, the following enlisted men and officers:

Enlisted men	1,765,000
Officers	120,000
Total	1,885,000

It became apparent today that the opposition to giving the President unlimited power to determine the size of the army was disappearing, and it is believed the committee will readily grant him such power. Major Gen. Crowder has recommended that Congress extend this power to the President, and his recommendations, not yet formally presented to the committee, contemplate extending the draft age. Opinion in the Military Affairs Committee favors extending the draft age to 40 years.

Secretary Baker merely outlined in a general way today the program the General Staff has recommended to him. Distinct features will be explained to the committee during the next ten days by experts in the different military bureaus. Major Gen. March, who was General Pershing's director of artillery, is especially interested in improving this branch of the service. He will tell the committee on Monday of the War Department's plans to build up the artillery.

In order to get big guns quickly, War Department officials conceived the plan of helping the United States Steel Corporation to build one or two plants. This corporation has agreed to devote itself to ordnance, and all its resources will be given over to the Government. Money will be advanced to the corporation which will be protected in its expenditures in case the war should end soon. The plants will be built at places to be designated by the War Department within short distances of the embarkation points.

Before the committee agrees upon the aviation program, which will be taken up next Tuesday, there will be a thorough inquiry into the causes of the failure in production of aircraft.

Secretary Baker informed the committee that the airplane building program had not been an utter failure. He said that he welcomed an investigation by the committee, which might lead to good results.

Some of the items in the Army bill are:

Quartermaster, $5,000,000,000; Ordnance, $4,000,000,000; Engineer Corps, $1,000,000,000; pay of officers and men, $3,000,000,000; Medical Corps, $1,000,000,000; Aviation Service, $1,200,000,000.

In addition to these there will be more than a $1,000,000,000 appropriation for miscellaneous items, some of which will be obtained from Congress in deficiency bills before the end of the next fiscal year.

Representative Dent, Chairman of the Military Committee, who has opposed many of the war policies, announced today that he would oppose the proposition to give the President unlimited power. He stands almost alone in his position in the committee. Other members said that if the President should attempt to raise an army larger than Congress favored all that was necessary to prevent it was a refusal to appropriate the necessary money.

Sherman an Objector.

Senator Sherman of Illinois today voiced opposition to the request for blanket authority to draft men as they are needed without further recourse to Congress. Declaring that too many broad powers have been conferred on the executive departments, Senator Sherman said:

"The extreme limit has been reached. In this morning's press we read that Mr. Baker has now asked for blanket power to draft men. We should not delegate this power. Congress should fix the number of men to be raised, and specifically limit it. The Constitution empowers Congress to raise and maintain armies."

Senator Smoot of Utah supported Senator Sherman, who then continued:

"I do not think we are justified in further broad grants of power to the Executive in view of the failure to make a better accounting of some of the enormous appropriations we have made."

CALLS 233,742 MORE MEN.

Total Draft for May Is Now 305,000 —Order Is for May 25.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Provost Marshal General Crowder has issued a call for 233,742 men. They are ordered to entrain for camp within five days after May 25. This brings the total number of men called for the month of May, including special classes, to approximately 305,000.

The call for 250,000 men during May goes to all States except California, Oregon, and Nevada, which, with the District of Columbia, already have supplied so large a part of their quotas that it was decided not to include them this time. By this order the War Department abandons its plan of assembling men in even monthly increments of approximately 100,000. Under the original program it was intended to call out not to exceed 860,000 additional men during 1918. The call for 150,000 in April and 233,000 this month will bring out in two months half of the number originally contemplated for the year. Officials made it clear that it is now the purpose to mobilize all the men for whom equipment and training facilities can be provided.

In connection with the exclusion of three States and the District of Columbia from the May call, officials explained that an effort was being made to balance accounts among the various States preparatory to the application of the new quota basis when Congress has approved that measure. The May draft allotments were made on the population basis heretofore used, but subsequent distribution of quotas will be much altered when the number of men furnished by any State is computed from the number of availables it has in Class I.

The men called out this month will be mobilized generally at the cantonments to which men from the same States have previously been sent. In any cases they will find the divisions originally created at these camps gone. Some of the camps will have been converted into replacement divisions, and the new men will be redistributed in accordance with their qualifications after being inspected, rendered as nearly immune as possible from disease, and furnished with the initial equipment.

Under the increased army plan a great number of new divisions may be created. With authority now asked for unlimited power to create fighting units, some of the men of the May draft may be assigned to these new organizations.

It is regarded as likely, however, that the April and May drafts will be used largely to fill up divisions at home, while the seasoned personnel from those divisions is sent overseas to fill the gaps. Since the number of divisions on the other side is rapidly and steadily increasing, the flow of replacement troops must increase proportionately.

A call for 6,207 skilled men for the national army also was sent out by General Crowder. All States are included excepting New Jersey. It directs the movement of the men on May 17.

The men represent about seventy-five occupations. They include chauffeurs, carpenters, engineers, stenographers, telegraph operators, wireless operators, and welders.

WANTS 5,000,000 DRAFTED.

McCumber Declares We Must Send That Many Men in a Year.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Five million men must be sent on the battlefront by the United States within a year, Senator McCumber of North Dakota said today in an address to the Senate. The results of America's efforts have been almost negligible up to the present, he said. Six months have been wasted by the Shipping Board and $640,000,000 for aircraft "has been worse than squandered."

"If we fail to put less than 5,000,000 men on the fighting line before the end of another year," he continued, "we will again have grossly failed to measure up to our moral duty. We will have charged to our discredit another year of colossal blunders."

Senator McCumber contrasted a statement of Charles M. Schwab of the Emergency Fleet Corporation that the United States would produce ship tonnage of only 10,000,000 deadweight in 1919 with the estimates the U-boat losses of 7,000,000 gross tons in 1918, and said:

"A program which contemplates but 10,000,000 tonnage is trifling with the most serious question that ever confronted the people of this country. It is worse than trifling, it is suicidal."

ARMY CHIEFS TRANSFERRED.

Reassignment of Departmental Commanders is Completed.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—The War Department has completed its reassignment of officers in command of the departmental subdivisions of the army by which officers on the active list have been substituted for those who were taken from the retired list. Under the completed plan the army departments are to be commissioned as follows:

Department of the East—Brig. Gen. William A. Mann, in place of Brig. Gen. Eli D. Hoyle.

Northeastern Department—Brig. Gen. John W. Ruckman, in place of Brig. Gen. John A. Johnston.

Southern Department—Major Gen. Willard A. Holbrook, in place of Brig. Gen. John W. Ruckman.

Central Department—Major Gen. Thomas H. Barry, in place of Major Gen. William H. Carter.

Western Department—Major Gen. Charles G. Treat, in place of Major Gen. Arthur Murray.

Southeastern Department—Major Gen. William L. Sibert, formerly second in command to General Pershing, in place Major Gen. William P. Duvall.

Hawaiian Department—Brig. Gen. Augustus P. Blocksom, in place of Brig. Gen. John P. Wisser.

Major Gen. James A. MacRae has been assigned to command the division at Camp Dix, but Major Gen. Hugh L. Scott will continue to be in charge of the training camp there. Major Gen. William P. Burnham has been assigned to command the Eighty-second Division at Camp Gordon.

THE RUSSIAN PEOPLE NEED HELP

The report from Berne that, according to a Petrograd dispatch received there, "the Bolsheviki are trying to "unite the Russian Socialists, with the "object of effecting a coalition Gov"ernment capable of demanding a re"vision of the Brest-Litovsk peace "treaty," and that they have already released from prison members of the Kerensky Cabinet who "have accepted Government positions," finds a curious confirmation in a Paris dispatch to our neighbor The Sun, published on Wednesday, in which this intimation of Bolshevist purpose is given:

> A leading Bolshevist has confided to a French diplomat that his co-workers are trying to reconstruct the Government with the assistance of members of the Menshevist party, or even with the help of the Cadets. The Bolsheviki are not prepared to make great concessions, and will not choose powerful members of the rival parties except in a supreme emergency.

If this is true, it is evident that the Bolsheviki have been driven to the expedient of organizing a coalition Government in the hope of saving themselves yet a little while from the rising wrath of the Russian people. There is no indication that they intend in good faith to temper the radical rigor of proletariat rule through the Soviets by inviting really influential leaders of more moderate opinion to take part in the councils of the Government. It is more probable that they have in mind the creating of the appearance rather than the reality of a Government more representative of the Russian people and of Russian opinion. It is a move that, if not correctly interpreted by the Governments of the Allied Powers, may involve very grave dangers for them and for the Russians.

When the revolution occurred, a little more than a year ago, the Russian people were filled with joy. It was like the coming of the millennium. At last, after centuries of autocracy, after innumerable revolutionary attempts, liberty had come. The word "svoboda" was on every lip. Under the Provisional Government and under the Kerensky Ministry there was a nearer approach to liberty than the Russians could have hoped for during the preceding years. But the organizers of Russian liberty were not men of sufficient strength and resolution to guard and maintain it. In a few months they were overthrown, overwhelmed by the elements, not very numerous, but organized and determined, aided all the time and powerfully by the German agents and propagandists that worked among them, who seized the power of the Government and established proletariat control. The new Government was anti-social, it represented the will and purpose of the class struggle, it was not anti-German. It is hardly possible any longer to doubt that LENINE, at least, was acting under German direction, in the German interest. There were many others like him, and their influence was very great in the successive acts and policies, beginning with the disorganization and disbandment of the army and ending in the complete surrender of Russia into the hands of the Germans at Brest-Litovsk, which wrecked Russia as a nation and brought on the dreadful ills which now afflict her.

Under the rule of the Bolsheviki and of the local Soviets throughout Russia, the new-born liberty has been strangled in its cradle, the Russian people have known no freedom. The Bolsheviki dispersed the Constituent Assembly, a representative body chosen by the people themselves. No meetings are permitted save those of the Bolsheviki, no newspapers are allowed to appear save those which advocate their principles and support their Government. The doors of Russian prisons have closed upon many of the ablest and best men, sincere friends of Russian liberty, true representatives of real Russian opinion. That is not the worst of it. A people may be ruled by a despot and yet be reasonably happy and contented if they are permitted to make a living, if they have enough to eat and the wherewithal to clothe and shelter themselves. That is not true of the Russian people today. The industries of Russia are broken up, practically destroyed. The transportation system is disorganized. Production is at a dangerous minimum—even Germans are complaining that by refusing to plant crops the Russians have violated a provision of the treaty. Throughout large areas of the old Empire the people are dangerously near to starvation, their suffering is so great that intimations are given that in some provinces there is danger of social disorganization, when every man will be forced to look out for himself. Capital, of course, is in biding or has been seized by the Bolsheviki, as the peasants were persuaded to seize so many of the landed estates.

Information comes from many sources that the eyes of the Russian people have at last been opened. They see that the Bolsheviki are the authors of their distress, of their ruin. They now understand that with all its promises of ease and plenty for the masses as the result of proletariat war upon capital and the bourgeoisie, a socialistic government is death and destruction for those who were to be its beneficiaries. Highly significant evidence of the disillusionment of the Russian people and of their changed feeling toward the Bolsheviki may be seen in the attitude of the Russians and Americans of Russian birth here toward the Liberty Loan. All over the east side there have been multitudes of enthusiastic workers for the loan and subscriptions have been large. These people are deeply concerned for the interests and for the future of Russia. If they were for a time misled by the specious program of the Bolsheviki, they see the truth now, they know that the fruits of proletariat rule in Russia are of the bitterest, that instead of deliverance LENINE and TROTZKY have brought misery and a new slavery, the worst of all, enslavement to Germany. They see that the only hope for Russia now is the triumph of the Allies, and they willingly give their aid and their money to fortify our Government for the prosecution of the war.

While Russians here turn to the Allies for succor, there is no little danger that in Russia itself circumstances might lead many of the people to seek help from another quarter. In extreme distress men will accept relief from anybody who can give it. The Russians have been misled before, they might now, in their suffering, be deceived into the belief that even under German control they would be better off and happier than under the rule of the Bolsheviki. They would say that they could hardly be made more miserable. The imminent danger is, therefore, that any approach to recognition by the Allies of the Bolshevist Government, to co-operation with it, will be looked upon by the Russians as a move to give aid and encouragement to their worst enemies, to the very men who have brought them to their present desperate straits. A not unnatural or surprising result of such overtures to the Lenine-Trotzky Government would be a general appeal to Germany for help. It could hardly go far in relieving present Russian distress, it would go so far in serving German interests that the Imperial Government would instantly seize upon the opportunity to secure, so far as possible, the adherence of the Russian people to its cause. No very skillful propaganda would be required to convince great bodies of Russians that by uniting with the Bolsheviki the Allies had declared themselves to be the enemies of Russia, for it is very evident that the impression is growing there that the Bolsheviki are the people's enemies.

If the Allies could by any means reach the great mass of the Russian people, they could forestall Germany, they could initiate movements that would overthrow the Bolsheviki, they could lay the foundations of a movement that would deliver Russia from the grasp of Germany, and, it may be, ultimately put the Russians in a position to give them important reinforcement and aid in bringing the war to a nearer conclusion. It would be a task of very great difficulty, calling for the highest exercise of allied statesmanship and diplomacy. Necessarily, it would be a work undertaken through channels of civil communication, with military support. The beginnings might bring discouragement, but it is not alone their own interests in the war that the Allies have to serve. It is a work of humanity, of the greatest magnitude, and urgent. Its aims would be the deliverance of the Russian people from both the Bolsheviki and from the Germans.

CLOSING THE LIBERTY LOAN.

This morning the Liberty Loan needs a smaller addition than was reported yesterday morning as necessary to make the quota. That the addition will be enough to assure oversubscription is sure, for the campaign is ending, as it began, with strong support from New York. The starting impetus was given here and the finish will be led here. The country reported yesterday an addition for the day leaving but 2 per cent. untaken, but New York's share was 35 per cent. of the increase. There is no reason to doubt that New York will fill its quota. There will be a late closing today, and $75,000,000 was subscribed after Thursday's tabulation was ready for Friday's papers.

Every State west of the Mississippi has filled its quota. The remarkable response to the President's purchase on the installment plan of a $50 bond is characteristic of this campaign as distinguished from the earlier ones. The President's subscription of thousands had small effect compared with his committing himself to weekly payments. The worker who makes the same arrangement will do more for himself than for the country, and well for both. The country will profit by his economy, and the savings from his wages will make him secure against a rainy day. These are flush times for wage earners. Some are choosing to spend more in proportion that they earn more. It is a short-sighted view, and explains much of what happens to keep the poor poor. When wages are up goods cost dear, and money spent buys smaller satisfactions. In human experience there are alternations of high and low wages, high and low goods. Those long-headed enough to save high wages can use them to buy cheap goods, and make a profit on their patriotism.

Secretary MCADOO urges that those who can should buy Thrift Stamps with the interest of $160,000,000 which the Government is about to pay on May 15. Not all can buy bonds, but anybody can buy Savings and Thrift Stamps, and thus earn interest on interest, again killing two birds with one stone by enabling the Government to pay its way with the money saved for the individual's use when money will be harder to get than now. No more is likely to be heard about the comparison with the German loan. The totals are not very different, but Germany would delight to have dollars instead of marks, whereas nothing could induce us or anybody else to make the exchange.

Although the loan closes tonight, only approximate figures are to be expected. For several days there will be additions from outlying States, counties, and cities. The changes will be only in details. The broad popular response everywhere is on the record beyond removal. Also is on the record that New York adjusts itself to the emergency, whatever it may be. Now there will be an interval when people can apply themselves to their own affairs, in preparation for another appeal with easy confidence that the country, like New York, is equal to the emergency, whatever it may be. The country never was more united, nor was prosperity ever more widespread, nor the excellence of the cause ever surpassed. The end crowns the work, and Germany will rue the day that it ever began a struggle that will never be abandoned until it is finished.

RAISING AN ARMY TO WIN THE WAR.

The proposal to authorize the President to summon to the colors as many men as he may consider necessary to win the war will hardly find favor with Congress. It is the President's function to command the armies of the United States, not to raise them—that is the concern of Congress under the Constitution. Chairman DENT of the House Committee on Military Affairs has introduced a bill providing for increase of the army up to 5,000,000 men. "It seems to me," says Representative DENT, "that is as large an army as we can possibly use at this time." It would certainly insure as large an army, excluding the force now in France, as could be transported overseas in the next two years.

It may be assumed that if the President could be invested with sole authority to raise armies he would not send to France between May, 1918, and May, 1920, more than 5,000,000 men, less those required for military duty in the United States and its dependencies. Representative KAHN was for dispatching 6,000,000 men to France in two years, when interviewed in Washington recently, but as the Dent bill has his support it may be supposed that the transportation experts have told him what the shipping limitations will be.

At this point it should be said that more than 5,000,000 soldiers may be needed to defeat the Teutonic Powers decisively. Congress should plan for more millions, but with the understanding that it takes time to organize, train, equip, and transport great armies. The controlling factor in the problem is ships. It is known just how many are available for transport purposes now, but how many will be available at this time next year cannot be estimated with any degree of accuracy. Our facilities will become progressively greater, but the maximum number of troops transportable in 1919 would average less than 200,000 a month. Most of the shipping experts would say that an average of 200,000 a month was not attainable. While planning for an American army adequate to the titanic task of bringing about the military defeat of Germany and her allies, no matter how long the war lasts, it would not be the part of wisdom to authorize at this time the raising of greater forces than could be sent to France in the next two years. Congress at its next regular session, perhaps a year from now, could provide for still another addition to the army, to be transported to France in the Summer of 1920, so that there would be an unbroken procession of troops crossing the Atlantic to the end of the war.

The operation of the draft is also an important factor in the problem. There are said to be 1,800,000 men in Class 1 who could be called to the colors. When Congress adopts the joint resolution, including all those who have become 21 years of age since June 5, 1917, the total of available men in Class 1 will advance to 2,500,000. Under the Dent bill, if the army should be raised to a strength of 5,000,000, (there are 1,600,000 men in France and undergoing training,) it would be necessary to add 3,400,000 to the land forces. Class 1 would be short 900,000 men. Therefore it would become necessary to draw on Class 2 or to make a change in the minimum age limit.

Another factor in the problem which must have consideration is camp and cantonment accommodation. The War Department should prepare to build more barracks, hospitals, quarters, warehouses, and storerooms, and without delay. As soon as troops move out to take passage for France, drafted men can move in, but the present facilities are woefully inadequate, if our land forces are to be increased to 5,000,000 men and the procession of troops across the Atlantic is to be maintained.

The whole subject will be thrashed out by Congress, the sooner the better. It would be well to err on the side of large numbers, but they should be definite. The effect on Germany of action by Congress to call men to the colors until 5,000,000 are under arms far service in France, with no delays in equipment and training to be tolerated, would be far more impressive than a direction in blank form to the President to raise as large an army as he deems necessary to insure victory.

WARTIME TRADE ADJUSTMENTS.

With one accord the steel trade of the nation has bound itself to abandon commercialism and devote its output to the use of the Government for war. In all the world outside the United States there is not more coal and iron than there is in this country alone, and the larger part of that other half is devoted to the same cause as the American half. Germany's perception of the meaning of these facts was revealed when it seized the French deposits as its first act of war after crossing the Belgian border. Without these deposits Germany could not hope to sustain its struggle, and if allowed to retain property stolen from its neighbor, France is deeply hurt industrially. Thus the war of the iron and coal trades of the world resembles the war between the nations in that it is a war between honest industry and robber commerce. Earlier in the war it was thought that Government requirements would take under a quarter of the nation's resources, but now the calculation is that there will be left for general trade less than the proportion which it was thought that the Government would need. In such conditions there can be no such thing as dullness in the iron trade, and with the iron trade busy there is surety of trade activity.

The New York State Industrial Commission has tabulated the changes in the various trades. The ordinary building trade is depressed, and Secretary MCADOO has abandoned even governmental buildings. But this deficiency is more than made good by Government requirements in other directions. For example, the Government is building in this neighborhood eleven million feet of storage warehouse floors. That alone would rival the erection of the Equitable Building and would be a fair year's work, but it is only one item of many. The diversification of the Government's needs is shown by the fact that one leading carpet factory is now running its machines 90 per cent. on the production of duck. Wool, too, is under Government requisition, and railway orders from the Government are on a scale exceeding anything received from the railways themselves for several years. The building material industry is safe to put 100,000,000 tons of freight on the railways. Thirty million feet of lumber were used in the cantonments, and now they are to be enlarged for the growing army. Before the war there were buildings enough for all of us, and now there is more room in them for those who are left behind. Against the decrease in ordinary building projects there is to be placed $298,000,000 of Government engineering and building work, according to the record down to March.

The gain is more than the loss, and the demand will be placed where it will do most good. It is not too much to say that the war has regenerated the highly competitive steel industry. The members of the trade are co-operating under Government leadership in a patriotic effort to meet public demands with only fair profit. The Government will regulate the priorities, and assist the contractors to keep down the cost of materials. The plans run for months, even years, ahead. In rails alone there is ninety-two weeks' work ahead, of ship plates there will not be enough until the submarines are mastered, and there are foreign orders behind the domestic orders. Wages will not be low under such conditions. Money will not be scarce, bank credits will be available for all who can get materials, there being a surplus from those whose orders are not on Government account, and therefore who must be idle in the interval between placing themselves under the new conditions. No section of the country can escape the summons to activity in the work of spending money for the Government and against Germany. This is stirring news, not depressing. Capital challenges labor in the excellence of its response, and labor makes a good response. The material and moral reactions are surprisingly good, and need only to be kept so.

OUR TURN NOW.

When the war broke out all good Germans were instructed to hate Russia, as its originator. Later it became more advisable to hate England, so the German people were ordered to hate her, and did so. Now hate is being organized from headquarters against the United States. This country is being portrayed as a greedy monster whose aim is the commercial conquest of Europe. The Cologne Volkszeitung, for instance, calls upon "the whole of Europe, including, of course, England and France," to units against the American Mammon. The World truthfully says that this is the best possible evidence of the fact that we have at last become a real danger to the German rulers—that "the German General Staff never proclaims "national hatred except when it is "afraid"—but it adds:

> Even so, how, as reasonable beings, are we to account for the lunatic idea that France and Great Britain, to whose aid this mighty force is sweeping, should turn upon it and make common cause with the enemy?

Germany does not expect it, and there is nothing "lunatic" about the expectation which she really does entertain. She does not expect that the Governments of France and Great Britain will be fools enough to believe its nonsense, but she does expect that there will be plenty of fools in those countries who will. It is a mistake to estimate this campaign of hate as mere panic and rage. It is carefully calculated and very intelligent. Judge the future by the past. What has been the purpose of these campaigns of hate when directed against other countries? By that we can tell what is the purpose of this one.

The German newspapers which print these exhortations in obedience to orders are giving the cue to their propagandists and accomplices in enemy countries. When, for instance, Great Britain was painted in German newspapers as the crafty originator of the war, the German agents in the United States saw the signal thus hoisted and instantly obeyed it, and the whole course of their labors was bent in the direction indicated from Berlin. In the same way the German newspapers gave the cue to the German propagandists in Italy, and there the seeds of distrust against both France and England were sown with devastating results. The signal is being hoisted again. These articles in the German press are signals to the German agents in England, France, Italy, and South America—perhaps especially in South America. They know now what lins to take. They will not labor with the Governments of those countries, any more than they did when the other campaigns of hate were under way; but they will labor with the ignorant, with the fools, with the pacifists, in those countries, with the purpose of inspiring distrust and fear of the United States. It is not a "lunatic idea." It has worked well in some cases, though never as well as Germany probably hoped; it has never, except for a tragic moment in Italy, produced great results, but it has produced some results, enough to warrant Germany in trying it again, this time at the expense of the United States.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

By No Means a Fiend in Human Form.

Many people are taking a wrong view of the pro-German teacher whose departure from Vassar has just been firmly and very properly accelerated by the Federal authorities. It is not necessary, or even justifiable, to see in her opinions evidence of a deep depravity on her part. They only show that the young woman is a German, a peculiarity which she could not well help, and while it is a little more surprising, from the American standpoint, that she, having education and intelligence, should remain as ignorant of the facts with relation, say, to the sinking of the Lusitania, as the dullest peasant in East Prussia, the phenomenon should be familiar by this time.

Miss RICHRATH ought to know—she has no excuse for not knowing and in a way does know—that even if the Lusitania really had been armed and loaded with ammunition to be used in killing Germans, instead of being entirely unarmed and carrying no ammunition, it still would have been an abominable crime to sink her until after visit and search had demonstrated the nature of her cargo and her passengers and crew had been removed to a place of safety. In forgetting or denying these facts, however, she does only what has been done in scores of cases by the German "intelligensia" and illustrates a form of mental blindness found in all lands and well known to the student of humankind. All of us find it lamentably easy to believe what we want to believe, and ignore what we do not want to see.

That Miss RICHRATH would do what she could to advance German interests is more than probable, but the freedom with which her sympathies are expressed shows plainly enough that she is not either a professional or an amateur agent of the Kaiser. Such agents guard their tongues far more carefully than she does, and her frankness in defining her hopes and preferences makes her about the least dangerous of our enemy aliens.

This is not to say, or even to hint, that her removal from Vassar was unjustified or that her internment for the duration of the war would be undeserved. It is only to declare that her courage in speaking her mind at such cost to herself was far less reprehensible than silence and spy-work, and that her conduct here has been about what we would all expect that of a patriotic American woman's to be if she had been caught in Germany by the outbreak of the war and unable to get away.

Soldiers from Far Away.

For our own men who are now walking the streets of New York after learning by experience what it means to fight the Germans in France we feel a thrill in which mingle fervent admiration, pride in the recognition their courage and ardor have so soon won from the other fighters at the front, and a trace of honest envy. For the "Blue Devils" we have another thrill, different, though it goes as deep, and yet a third for the English and Canadian soldiers who on their various high errands here give us by their bearing and the look in eyes that have looked long on noble and dreadful things a new appreciation of the task in which we soon hope to take an equal part.

And now the Australians have come to meet with a new emotional reaction, peculiar in that, though they have journeyed further than any of the others, they are of a type familiar to us. Big and long and lean, their like can be found all over what used to be our "frontier"—that "out West" once distant from "the East," but now so near. Not all of them are veterans, but all of them look and act as if they were, and veterans of just about the sort we expect ours to be when they return from the wars.

It is not easy to see in the faces of these antipodeans any clear traces of the agonies and the disappointments suffered by them on the bare, brown hills of Gallipoli. They are not depressed, at any rate, by what they endured in that most ill-fated expedition, and though success was not theirs, it is evident that the thought of defeat, there or anywhere else, has not entered their minds. A special something is theirs for which "vivacity" is not exactly the right name, though near it. Certainly of weariness they show not a sign, as they make here the brief halt in the voyage around the world now so nearly completed. It is a hint of eagerness and haste to be again where there is waiting for them more of the work they know how well to do that they manifest in their quick, light movements.

They have the responsiveness of the French, with the solidity and more than the sturdiness of the other British troops.

None who sees these Australians can doubt their right to take their place among the world's finest soldiers, and not as military machines, blindly obeying orders, but as men fully understanding what they are about, ready to do and, if necessary, to die for a cause they have judged and known to be good.

A Ravager Laments His Work.

It is with a sort of humiliation—with the sort of embarrassment or mental sickness sane people feel when they hear the ravings of a madman—that one read yesterday the report made by the Kaiser's personally chosen chronicler of what the master of the German people said and did when he had before his eyes a typical illustration of what the war he started has brought upon the world.

The horror of the spectacle impressed him, in one way, much as it would, as it does, other beholders, but so far was he from seeing its lesson or meaning that he could only wish that thousands of the Germans who are not soldiers might stand where he did and so get his realization of what Germany had been spared by the prowess of its armies! That, of course, is nothing else or less than lunacy—a complete misunderstanding of obvious facts and clear implications.

With even a remnant of ordinary intelligence, the Kaiser's wish is quite the last one he would have expressed or felt, for unless the excursionists for whose presence on the battle line he yearned were as mad as himself, they would have felt, not gratitude to him for what they had escaped, but an agony of well-justified terror as they thought of what was likely to happen to themselves when the day of reckoning came. For not many of them now can believe that he struck to ward off a blow—not many fail to know that their present danger is of his own creation.

And on the battlefield the Kaiser bemoans the destruction of French cities and picks violets to send to the Kaiserin! The impulse to laugh at him turns into a shudder of disgust. His very existence is a sort of indecency, not fit for honest eyes to rest upon.

A Nimiety in Germans.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In looking up the word "nimiety" (in the dictionary today I found a rather interesting illustration from Coleridge, as follows: "There is a nimiety, a too-muchness, in all Germans." We certainly can feel the truth of this at the present time.

M. S. BLISS.

New York, April 30, 1918.

THE NEW ARMY.

Hark to the tramp of our millions of soldiers,
Splendid and steady, with eyes stern and grave,
Bearing before them a Star-Spangled Banner—
Who, can you say, are these heroes so brave?

They are America's spirit incarnate,
See on their faces that glorified light!
Summoned to join all the forces for Freedom—
Finest and best, armed with strength and with might!

Why are they joyous, these millions of soldiers?
Why are heads high and their shoulders unbowed?
Why, though they're facing both darkness and danger,
Look they so eager, exalted—so proud?

Why, they're America's spirit incarnate,
Privileged now to go forth to the Line!
Consecrate, laureled, the choice of a Nation,
Finest and best—could they sigh or repine?

God speed you onward, ye millions of soldiers,
Loved of your country, its joy, its life's breath!
Great your devotion, but greater your glory,
E'en though the march leads to anguish and death.

For you're America's spirit incarnate!
Facing the sunrise that follows the night!
Yours to join battle for Justice and Freedom—
Finest and best—yours to win the Great Fight!

CALLS TAINTED NEWS A PERIL TO PUBLIC

F. W. Lehmann Uses the Argument in Defending Associated Press Against Hearst.

EXPLAINS PROPERTY VALUE

Attorney Tells Supreme Court That Publication Does Not Relinquish Agency's Rights to News.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Presentation of arguments on the petition of the International News Service—the Hearst service—for dissolution of injunctions restraining the organization from pirating Associated Press news was completed today in the Supreme Court. The case was taken under advisement and there was no indication as to when an opinion would be rendered.

In presenting The Associated Press's side of the case, Frederick W. Lehmann of St. Louis, urged the court to sustain the lower court in enjoining the Hearst service from taking Associated Press dispatches from bulletin boards and early editions of newspapers receiving The Associated Press service. He contended that there was a property right in news and that if that principle were overturned, chaos would result, making impossible the establishment of a responsible system of gathering news.

Senator Johnson of California, in making the concluding argument for the Hearst service, argued that the very principles to which The Associated Press objected in this suit, the taking of news by one organization and using it as its own by another, has been common since "time immemorial," and that both services had been guilty of the same practice. He paid particular attention to the legal phases of the case, declaring the question of property right in news had been up for consideration before the courts in a number of instances. He cited the so-called Tribune suit in which The Chicago Tribune endeavored ineffectually to prevent The Associated Press from carrying certain news items taken from a London newspaper during the Boer War, and efforts of THE NEW YORK TIMES and London Times to enjoin certain New York newspapers from printing Rear Admiral Peary's story of his trip to the North Pole, to which exclusive rights had been obtained.

"News, as disseminated by the many journals of the country," Mr. Lehmann argued, "is powerful to shape public conduct. If its influence is to be on the side of good, rather than upon the side of evil, the business must be in clean hands and conducted by honest methods. If it comes to the public from tainted sources and by tainted means, the news itself will not escape contamination."

Property Right Continues.

Mr. Lehmann presented argument at length and referred to decisions to uphold the contention that publication of news does not relinquish the property right in it.

"News is unlike any material commodity," said he. "In the field of general news, whether it is gathered and disseminated by a co-operative association of newspapers or by an agency conducted for pecuniary profit, it is obvious that the paper which is permitted simply to appropriate the news without payment of any kind would have a great advantage over its competitor who had paid for it or had shared in the labor and pains of getting it.

"In the case of newspapers published in the West the conditions would be worse. Because electricity outruns the apparent movement of the sun, we can clip the news appearing in the New York morning paper and send it to any paper in the Mississippi Valley or to the west of that in ample time for publication in the regular and even in the first editions.

"Any person doing this would have a great advantage over The Associated Press. What The Associated Press got through the diligence and daring of its correspondents at more than one battle front, and at the additional cost of transmission by cable across the Atlantic, this man would get sitting securely at a safe desk in New York by the mere use of a pair of scissors.

"May the product of the news gathering activities of The Associated Press, intended so far as concerns current publication in the daily papers, exclusively for its own members, be appropriated in the manner suggested by the International News Service and sold by it in its course and conduct of its business as a news agency in competition with The Associated Press?

"That is the question presented by this case, and it is answered by counsel for The International News Service boldly in the affirmative.

News Consists of Report of Facts.

"News, they say, is an account of facts and events, and in facts and events no one can have any exclusive right. This is conceded. But the facts and events themselves are not news. The report of them is news. Before the fact can be reported it must be ascertained. Somebody must be where he can get knowledge of it, and he must be a person of intelligence and experience, competent to determine whether what has happened is of interest and importance enough to constitute news, and he must provide for prompt transmission or conveyance of the information he has gotten to the place where it will be put in course of distribution for publication as part of the day's news.

"The Associated Press does not create the facts or produce the events of which it endeavors to give first information to its members, but it does create, it does produce the news budget which gives such information. And to create, to produce this news budget requires human effort of every kind from the hardest toil to the highest integrity, attended sometimes by the gravest perils. It requires also the expenditure of money to second and sustain the human effort. The elements of labor, skill and capital thus essential to the production of a news report are themselves elements of value and are property, entitled to protection as such. Why is not that true of the product itself? It is throughout the civilized world the subject of barter and sale. And because a news report, as a news report, has value and pecuniary value, the International News Service takes that of The Associated Press and sells it to its own clients for dollars and cents in hand paid.

"They say that a mere budget of news is not literature and so is not the subject of copyright, and even if it were we have not complied with the copyright laws, and so are not entitled to the protection it affords. Fundamental principles of justice announced in copyright cases may have application here, but the formal law of copyright has no place. Has not the complainant some right of property in the daily news report it produces and a right which a court of equity will protect? Are not the practices of the petitioner complained of by the respondent and admitted by the petitioner unfair as against a competitor, and will not a court of equity enjoin them?

Charges Unfair Competition.

"There is here at one and the same time a taking of property of The Associated Press and unfair competition in business. Counsel for petitioner say that unfair competition exists only where one dealer sells his product as being that of his competitor. In such case they say there is a double wrong which the law interferes to prevent, viz., the fraud upon the public who do not get what they believe they are buying, and the injury to the fair dealer who has been deprived of a customer.

"What right of the International News Service is denied or impaired by enjoining it from taking our news and selling it to others? The source of all property right is labor. All commercial values are created by labor of some kind. The product of field, forest or factory is the result of toil. The good will of a merchant's business is created by years of labor and pains. The right to values thus created may, of course, be acquired by purchase or exchange. They are produced that they may be sold or exchanged. Here is a news report, created by labor and held for sale and exchange. The International News Service did not create, and has not acquired it by purchase or exchange. When it is enjoined from boldly taking it and selling it, what injustice does it suffer? It is simply prevented from reaping where it has not sown. No ethical argument is adduced or can be in support of the petitioner's claim. It is the endeavor to get something for nothing, and has so impressed every court which has had occasion to deal with a like contention."

Asked by Justice Brandeis if the question involved in the case was not one of unfair competition between two news agencies instead of the broader question of property right in news, Samuel Untermyer, representing the Hearst interests, said there was no question of unfair competition. There is no claim of subterfuge or misrepresentation involved, he said, but lower court injunctions give news a property right that not only affects the news gathered by The Associated Press, but also local news which the newspaper members of that organization collect and which is of no use to the organization.

"Aren't you taking the news so you can give it to the public?" asked Justice Pitney.

Mr. Untermyer replied that the news was taken and sent out by the International News Service without any effort being made to deceive the public and that it was to be published for the benefit of the public.

"So does The Associated Press," quickly interjected Justice Pitney, "and they are spending money and time in getting it."

ART NOTES.

The May Collection of Ancient Japanese and Chinese Objects.

An exhibition of ancient Japanese and Chinese objects and of Japanese color prints collected by the late Frederic May is now open at the American Art Galleries. Mr. May was the kind of collector who assembled works of art for his personal enjoyment, because he loved to have them accessible and his own, and not because he had made up his mind to achieve a collection. Howard Mansfield in his introduction to the catalogue of the exhibition says: "Japanese art in whatever form, and the art of China and Korea in the form of porcelains, pottery and jade, were to Mr. May's eye an unfailing attraction which apparently he could not often resist, and he seemed to be seldom able to bring himself to part with any object of Oriental art that he had acquired. His collection as a whole, therefore, is not only illustrative of the extent and variety of art creations in the Far East, but shows the collector's wide range of taste while equally revealing his marked individual preferences;" and Edward S. Morse calls attention to the fact that the Japanese in recent years have been buying back their treasures, which bring higher prices in Japan than they bring here. The collector of the present day will find in Mr. May's very general and almost unsifted collection not only objects of unusual charm, selected with discriminating taste, but objects of importance from the point of view of the salesroom. The group of fine lacquers will have a particular attraction for those who see the art of the Far East at its best in work done on a miniature scale and with a passionate patience in the development of a surface quality.

The color prints form by far the largest section of the collection and range from Moronobu of the seventeenth century to Hiroshigi of the nineteenth. Among the interesting eighteenth century prints are Kiyomitsu's "Girl Catching Fireflies," of exceptional quality, a superb tryptich by Toril Kiyonags, showing women engaged in domestic occupations in a courtyard near the Sumida River; Hiroshigi's beautiful "Bow-shaped Moon," an impression of which recently brought in Tokio the equivalent of $600, and nine of the ten prints comprising the rare series, "Chi-e No Ume," by Hokusai, one of them, "Surf Fishing," a magnificent impression in perfect condition.

An important and exceedingly rare print by Toyokuni in the style of Utamaro is the portrait of the popular waitress Ohisa of the Takashima Tea House, in a kimono of exquisite red, the three tones of "beni" having the freshness of the first printing.

The catalogue by Mr. Gookin is a fine example of scrupulous and instructive work of this kind. To a print that has been "faked" in an attempt to make it pass for a great rarity, he gives, for example, almost a page of careful description of the faking process for the benefit of print buyers unfamiliar with it.

The sales take place on the evenings of May 6, 7, 8, 9, and 10.

Class in Military Camouflage.

A feature of the exhibition of the New York Evening High School of Industrial Art this year is the work of the class in military camouflage. Two tables perfectly modeled and in scale show sections of Van Cortlandt Park, sizzagged by trenches, scarred by shell holes, pitted by gun fire, and otherwise marked by modern agencies of destruction, are on view. A first-aid dressing station is shown; there are splintered rocks, dugouts, listening posts, &c., practically all the characteristics of a battleground as it would appear in this country if the fighting were taking place in the region depicted.

Pictures by Charlotte B. Coman.

The paintings of Charlotte B. Coman are on view at the Macbeth Galleries. It is, perhaps, an impertinence to consider the exhibition from any point of view save that of its merit and charm, but the fact that Mrs. Coman has passed her eighty-fourth birthday without losing her power to enjoy and translate for others the beauty of the out-door world is so inspiriting as to justify mention. She is generally known as the painter of a certain phase of nature, when both near and distant objects are more or less veiled by delicate mists, but the present exhibition, which contains only recent work, includes a number of pictures in which the detail of the scene is fully developed. The "Chickens' Breakfast," "Path to the Village," "The Little Stone House," are examples of close observation and careful drawing, and possess with the more generalized canvases unity of color and tone. The artist strikes a lyric note of youth and joy, without sentimentality and with sincerity both of feeling and workmanship. The exhibition closes May 9.

Saimaguadi Sale.

The annual auction sale of [illegible], comprising twenty-four examples painted by well-known artist members of the Saimagundi Club, is to take place in the gallery of the club at 47 Fifth Avenue on Tuesday evening, May 7, at 9 o'clock. The proceeds of the sale go to the library fund. Among the artists represented this year are J. Francis Murphy, Alexander Shilling, W. Granville-Smith, Franklin Booth, Thomas Shields Clark, Norward McGilvary, and others. Admission is by invitation or visitor's personal card.

WOMEN IN UPROAR OVER GERMAN PRESS

Hiss Miss Reiffert for Objecting to Resolution Aimed at Teuton Papers.

QUESTIONED HER LOYALTY

3,000 Members of New York City Federation in Patriotic Demonstration at the Astor.

Patriotism, red hot, seethed in the hearts of the members of the New York City Federation of Women's Clubs meeting in the Hotel Astor yesterday, and as a whole the federation rose with a great clamor to denounce what it considers the "boche" spirit in one of its members," tried to down her with hisses, and was on its feet with such a strong "over the top" spirit that it looked for a time as if the convention would end in disorder. Trouble came when the federation started to pass a resolution presented by its Chairman of the Committee of Americanization and Citizenship, Mrs. W. Sporborg, for the suppression of publications in the German language.

Miss Edith Reiffert, a lawyer, and ex-President of the Society of American Women of German Descent, rose to object. She did not get far in her remarks, for the 3,000 women who filled every inch of the big ballroom were on their feet to protest with hisses and shouts.

The resolution was a long one, the substance of it to which Miss Reiffert took exception being contained in part of the last phrase: "Therefore be it resolved that the City Federation of Women's Clubs, in convention assembled, go on record as indorsing the suppression of German publications during the period of the war."

"There is no bill before the Legislature embodying just what this resolution expresses," Mrs. Sporborg said, "only one for the suppression of everything German. We can only indorse this in spirit, but while I believe any woman would rather listen all day to loyal sentiments expressed in German than seditious sentiments expressed in English, still we are in a fight with everything German in this country."

"Here! here!" cried Charles Bittner, a young American in khaki on the platform. "I wish I could tell some of the things I know."

Rouse the Fighting Spirit.

"The only way to go into a real fight," continued Mrs. Sporborg, "is with full steam on. Rouse your own fighting spirit and let the enemy know it. This keeps up your own morale and undermines that of the other fellow. If Germany knows that we repudiate everything German—its culture, its trade, its customs, and its very language—it will know we mean business, that we mean vigilance, that we mean victory, and that we are going over the top."

There was enthusiastic response to this address, and the women were in fighting trim when Miss Reiffert rose and started by saying:

"Two men in the Senate have repudiated the suppression of all German publications as un-American—"

Hisses were heard at once, every one shouting while Miss Reiffert could be heard calling:

"You place yourself in the category of snakes when you hiss."

"I protest against this," she added "because it is not just to German-Americans."

"There are no German-Americans," shouted several women.

Mrs. John Francis Yawger, the City Federation President, was on her feet, pounding with the gavel and crying: "Keep calm! Keep calm; you will all have a chance to speak." One of the women sitting in a front seat rushed to the platform and seizing an American flag that lay upon the speaker's desk stood in front of the big excited throng waving it.

Most of the women were talking at once, and Miss Reiffert, growing more pale as the confusion increased, but holding her ground, finished her sentence:

Convention in Confusion.

"I say it is not democratic or according to the principles of my country."

The last words, "My country," the excited women took to mean Germany, and the confusion redoubled.

"She ought to be reported," cried Mrs. Roy Emery Fletcher, and Mrs. Belle de Rivera, founder of the federation, came to the front of the platform, raising one hand for quiet.

"What do you mean when you say 'my country'?" she asked.

"The United States. I have no other country," said Miss Reiffert.

"We are all citizens of America," said Mrs. Yawger.

There were cries of "Question! Question!"

"The question is, is this federation going to indorse this resolution?" said Mrs. Sporborg. "Everything else is out of order."

"We will take a rising vote," said Mrs. Yawger.

There are only 350 delegates representing as many clubs belonging to the federation who are entitled to vote, but every woman in the ballroom, with one exception was on her feet.

"I go on record as opposed to this resolution," said Miss Reiffert.

This occurred at the morning session of the convention, which quieted down for luncheon. The afternoon session went on quietly but marked with great outbursts of patriotic enthusiasm for the remarks of the speakers, who were Dr. Stephen S. Wise, Colonel John T. C. Tilison, and Suffragan Bishop Burch of New York. Magistrate William McAdoo spoke on "Probation." The women's patriotism rose to a high pitch of excitement, and they shouted with enthusiasm during Dr. Wise's speech when he said:

"We will keep up this war until the damning Prussian foot is out of Belgium. We will send word to the Kaiser that war was made in Germany, but peace will be made in America."

Talked on Health Situation.

It was an outlet for the enthusiasm of the women, and they shouted themselves hoarse. They were equally enthusiastic when he took up civic patriotism, and applauded and laughed with delight when he told of a "certain city in Oklahoma where the head of the Health Department allowed himself to be forced out of office rather than betray the health of the citizens."

"This city has a Mayor as has New York," said Dr. Wise. "This Mayor is known as the Municipal Marcelline. He dares to insult the intelligence of his people by asserting greater knowledge of their needs than trained, educated, and capable officers he has himself chosen to serve the people. When you ladies take up your burden as citizens I hope you will remember this Mayor. There are legal ways whereby such officials may be removed from office and such men should be told plainly that if forced to do so the people will make use of these means. This kind of talk is being made in Oklahoma and somebody ought to make it in New York, and I am the one to do it."

Mrs. Yawger, President of the federation, was asked at the close of the meeting if any action would be taken against members showing undue interest for Germany.

"No," said Mrs. Yawger. "They will not be happy here; there will be a natural process of elimination. That will be better. They will be among the missing."

"We will freeze them out," said Mrs. De Rivera.

TOWN BANS GERMAN PAPERS

Montclair Makes It a Misdemeanor to Sell Them.

According to an announcement made yesterday by the American Defence Society, Mrs. Oliver Cromwell Field, who has been leading the fight to have German language papers suppressed in New York for the duration of the war, has opened a drive to persuade theatre managers here to stop advertising in the enemy language newspapers. Mrs. Field, it was stated at the American Defence Society Headquarters, has obtained from S. L. Rothapfel, manager of the Rialto and Rivoli Theatres, a promise to abstain from advertising in the papers she would bar.

In Montclair, N. J., the Board of Commissioners last night adopted an ordinance making it a misdemeanor to sell or circulate newspapers or periodicals printed in the German language. For the first offense a fine of $10 is provided. A second offense is punishable by a fine of $20. At its meeting next week the Board of Education will take up the question of excluding the study of German from the public schools.

In Patchogue, L. I., the members of the Emmanual Lutheran Church voted yesterday to discontinue services in German. Two services on Sunday have heretofore been the custom, one in German and one in English. There will be only English services from now on while the war lasts.

The Allied Printing Trades Council of New York last night adopted resolutions to be sent to Mayor Hylan protesting against any action looking toward the suppression of German language newspapers.

"We appreciate in common with the view of high Government officials," the resolutions read, "and especially with the opinion of our President, Woodrow Wilson, that the American newspapers published in the German language are the best available mediums for placing the American point of view regarding the war before a class of readers who in no other way can get an opportunity to intelligently understand and appreciate the rectitude of this country's position.

"Many of the employes of the German newspapers in New York City, members of the Pressmen's Union, Stereotypers' Union, Mailers' Union, and the Mail Drivers' Union, are neither German nor of German descent. All of the employes of the German newspapers have given undisputed evidence of their loyalty to the United States Government."

THANKS FOR MAYOR HYLAN.

He Writes to Secretary Baker That "Such Things Are Rare."

Mayor Hylan made public yesterday correspondence he has had with Secretary of War Baker, Secretary of the Navy Daniels, and Attorney General Gregory regarding the city's action in assisting the Federal Government's war policies. Secretary Baker wrote the Mayor thanking him for obtaining hospital facilities for the nation's Medical Department in New York City, and particularly in turning over for army use Sea View Hospital on Staten Island. In his reply the Mayor wrote:

May I not thank you personally for your word of appreciation? Such things are rare indeed in these times, which makes me value your letter all the more. If there is anything at any time that you desire done in this city, and I can be of any service to you, please command me.

Secretary Daniels thanked the Mayor for the city's action in granting to the Navy Department the use of the Marginal Parkway between the Shore Drive along Bay Ridge and the bulkhead in Brooklyn. Attorney General Gregory expressed his appreciation of the assistance of the Police Department in recent registration of male German aliens, and requested that the department give further service in the work of registering female German aliens.

Blood Transfusion for Anna Held.

Dr. Donald McCaskey, attending Anna Held, the actress, who is suffering with multiple myeloma in her apartments in the Hotel Savoy, said yesterday that Miss Held had suffered intense pain throughout the day. During Thursday night she rested fairly well, he said, and had brief intervals of sleep. Her blood agglutination and other tests would be taken today, Dr. McCaskey said, preparatory to a blood transfusion, which would be made on Sunday or Monday. Miss Held is conscious all the time.

Two Comedies in Aid of Red Cross.

Two comedies, "The Twig of Thorn," and "Between the Soup and Savory," were given for the benefit of the American Red Cross last night at the Plaza, by members of the Gardner School. A dance followed the program.

Mrs. T. C. Dawson Engaged.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—The engagement is announced of Mrs. Thomas C. Dawson, widow of the former United States Ambassador to Brazil, to Philip Charles Soyez of the French High Commission located in Washington for the period of the war.

The marriage will take place shortly in this city, where Mrs. Dawson has made her home for several years.

Today's Weddings.

Miss Polly Guy, daughter of Justice and Mrs. Charles L. Guy, will be married today to Captain Harold de Yoe Dyke, U. S. R., in the chapel of the Union Theological Seminary, Broadway and 120th Street.

In St. George's Church at 3:30 o'clock, Miss Annette Markoe will become the bride of Lieutenant William Jay Schieffelin, Jr. A small reception will be held after the church ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. James W. Markoe, 12 West Fifty-fifth Street.

Miss Martha V. Seggerman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor A. Seggerman, and Captain Ernest W. Boley, U. S. R., will be married at the Hotel Gotham.

Lieutenant John T. Strong, 314th Field Artillery, U. S. A., and Miss Lucy Hilton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hilton, are to be married at noon in the chapel of All Saints, Trinity Church.

COPELAND PRAISES HEADS OF BUREAUS

FAILS TO UPHOLD MacBRIDE

Public Education Work, He Asserts, Is of "Highest Importance" and Will Be Extended.

Dr. Royal S. Copeland, the new Commissioner of Health, said yesterday that he considered the Bureau of Public Health Education, the abolition of which had been recommended by President MacBride of the Civil Service Commission, to be one of the most important branches of the department, and that he intended to give more of his own attention to it than to any other branch.

Commissioner Copeland gave the heartiest praise to the organization and work of the Department of Health as he found it and showed not the slightest inclination to give color to the statements by the Mayor that there was need that the department be "healthy within" before it was fitted to administer health laws or to corroborate Commissioner MacBride's sweeping charges of mismanagement, extravagance, and graft.

"It is my belief," said Dr. Copeland, "that the different bureaus at present are being magnificently handled. Most of those at the head of these bureaus might easily be earning twice their salaries if they were in occupations in private life."

Differs With MacBride.

Civil Service Commissioner MacBride in one of his reports had asserted that the work of Dr. Charles F. Bolduan, the head of the Bureau of Public Health Education, could be done satisfactorily by a clerk receiving $40 a week. Dr. Copeland was asked for his views on this work yesterday, and said:

"This is not the work for a $40-a-week man. It is work of the highest importance. However it is done in the future, I will assure you that it will be done as adequately from now on as it has been in the past. With all due respect to Dr. Bolduan, I will say that, if possible, there will be more public health education than there has been hitherto. It is a work in which I take the greatest interest. I intend to leave most of the other activities of the Health Department to bureau heads and devote much of my own time to public health education. That and the work of the Bureau of Preventive Medicine, especially as it affects industry, I am going to consider my own particular fields."

Dr. Copeland was asked if this was to be construed as meaning that he might abolish the office of Dr. Bolduan and take the work over himself. He said:

"I don't think it is proper to draw any inference at all from my statement."

To Continue Fight on Nostrums.

Dr. Copeland was asked regarding his attitude toward the crusade against various patented nostrums which he Department of Health has been carrying on for several years past and which friends of Dr. Bolduan have believed to be the cause of the determined effort to abolish his office. Dr. Copeland said he had not heard that the patent medicine interests, which had been attacked by the Bureau of Public Health Education, had had any hand in attacks on Lucius P. Brown, who has analyzed and assailed various patent compounds, and on Dr. Bolduan, who has attacked them in Health Departmentliterature and on the forum in public schools, settlement houses, and elsewhere.

"That subject is perfectly new to me," he said, "but I will find out if there is anything in that suggestion."

Asked if attacks on fraudulent patent medicines would continue under his administration, Commissioner Copeland said:

"They certainly will continue. There will be absolutely no letup in the aggressive fight which is being waged on these vicious, damnable nostrums. I am an ethical doctor. I have been the dean of a medical school, and I have taught ethics. This war will go on more vigorously than ever. I would not stand for anything else."

Dr. Copeland was asked for his views on the attitude of the Health Department toward alcohol. Dr. Bolduan has been criticised by President MacBride of the Civil Service Commission for carrying on an alleged "prohibitionist" campaign in the issuance of literature and in lecturing on the harmful effects of alcohol, which was classed by Health Commissioner Emerson as a "habit-forming drug" and treated like morphine and heroin. Dr. Copeland said:

"I think it is perfectly right for the Health Department to point out alcohol as one of the causes of disease. But the activities of the Health Department are limited to that. We are not going to issue any propaganda on the subject or go into the political phases of the question. I don't know just how far the department has gone in the past, but I have seen one pamphlet on the subject, which in my opinion went too far. If I had been here at the time it was issued I would have edited it."

Dr. Copeland had before him yesterday a large number of clippings from newspapers and other publications all over the country, dealing with the Health Department controversy. He said:

"The general impression conveyed by these is that the people throughout the country have the idea that the Health Department in this city has broken down and that health conditions here are becoming very bad. This is, of course, very unfortunate. I wish that this controversy was over so that the impression would no longer be spread. I consider that one of the most important things for me to do is to prove that the Health Department has not broken down and that its standards are not going to be relaxed.

"I think that the city is tremendously fortunate to have men and women of the high type of the bureau heads in the Health Department today serving it, and there is not going to be any loss of efficiency."

Bureau Heads "Worth More."

Dr. Copeland was asked if he thought any of the bureau heads could be replaced at the salary of $5,000 a year being paid. He said:

"The salary is not so important. Probably all those now serving the city at that figure are worth more. They realize that they are in the service of humanity, and they are willing to make the sacrifice. I don't think that they could be replaced while this controversy is on. Later, if it is demonstrated that the Health Department is to be conducted on the proper basis, I think that we could get others, if necessary, not because the salary would attract them, but because the work would. But I want you to understand that I have no changes in mind. I am entirely open-minded as to the charges against Lucius P. Brown."

Dr. Copeland was asked if he had taken any action regarding the accumulation of garbage in city streets, which the former Health Commissioner, Dr. J. Lewis Amster, said he called repeatedly to the attention of Mayor Hylan, and which he said Mayor Hylan ignored. Dr. Copeland said:

"I have asked for full information on that subject to be placed on my desk. I cannot say what I will do until I know what the condition is."

TAKES UP POSTAGE CHANGE.

Senate Sub-Committee to Consider Form of Legislation.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Another development regarded as favorable to opponents of increased second class postage rates, which become effective July 1, came late today when the Senate Post Office Committee appointed a sub-committee to report whether the postage question, under the rules, may be made a rider to the Post Office Appropriation bill, or must be a separate bill.

The sub-committee, consisting of Senators Watson of Indiana, Sterling of North Dakota, and McKellar of Tennessee, will report to the full committee next Monday. A vote by the committee on suspension of the rate increase or substitution of modified rates was postponed. Senator McKellar favors modified rates, but other committee members said that they believed a majority would recommend suspension during the war.

Preliminary study of the parliamentary situation, it was said, indicated that the postage proposal could not be added as an amendment to the appropriation measure. In that event any action by the committee to upset the rate increase would have to be taken by means of a separate bill or resolution.

ARREST RUBBER DEALERS.

Government Suspects Shipments Were Intended for Germany.

Agents of the Customs Intelligence Bureau, who are engaged in preventing the shipment of goods to firms and persons in neutral countries who might be induced to reship them to representatives of the Central Powers, because of the high prices they would bring, arraigned before United States Commissioner Hitchcock late yesterday four persons who were held in $1,000 bail each on a charge of conspiring to violate the law placing an embargo on rubber. The prisoners were Wolf Goldsmith and his son Samuel T. of Newark, N. J.; Gertrude Schoenfield, a relative of the Goldsmiths, who gave her address as 612 West 112th Street, and Julius Steigler of Trenton, N. J.

Earlier in the day James M. Ware, Paul Emil Gottwick, and Richard L. Barger were held in $2,000 bail each, to answer the same charge. They were accused of having a large quantity of rubber stored at 20 Washington Street, ready for shipment to Buenos Aires without the necessary permit.

Federal officials are especially desirous of preventing shipments of rubber because it is known that Germany is in sore need of fine grades of rubber for gas masks. It was said that recently a large shipment was made to Spain which later got into the hands of Germans.

FIGHT VAN CORTLANDT WILL

Relatives of Banker Will Contest Bequest to Columbia.

With the filing yesterday of the petition for the probate of the will of Robert B. Van Cortlandt, the retired banker who committed suicide at his country home at Bedford, in the northern part of Westchester County, it became known in the Westchester County Surrogate's office at White Plains that several relatives of Mr. Van Cortlandt, who left his entire estate to Columbia College, intend to start a contest. The petition for probate was made by the trustees of Columbia College, who under the terms of the document inherit the Van Cortlandt fortune, which is estimated to be worth between $500,000 and $800,000. Under the terms of the will three fellowships of $50,000 each are founded at the college.

Mr. Van Cortlandt left a brother, Augustus Van Cortlandt, and a sister, who married an Englishman. Both receive nothing under the terms of the will. The executors named by Mr. Van Cortlandt were James B. Ludlow of Yonkers and Hamilton Fish Kean, and they were appointed temporary administrators by Surrogate W. S. Sawyer.

CHILDREN'S SOCIETY IN DEBT

Organization Issues a War Appeal for More Funds.

The forty-third annual report of the New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty, Fourth Avenue and Twenty-third Street, for the year of 1917 was made public yesterday. It shows that the society acted upon 21,935 complaints, involving 65,805 children, and the total number of children cared for was 8,400. The total disbursement were $165,798.93.

Through the aid of the society 545 lost children were returned home, and 937 adults were arrested for offenses against children. The number of children who were taken into custody on a charge of delinquency by the society was 4,833. More than 150,000 meals were supplied to children.

John D. Lindsay, President of the society, in a war appeal says: "The responsibilities of the society are vastly increased by war conditions. The advanced cost of food supplies and help, with other extraordinary demands, have already burdened the society beyond its resources and put it in debt. It faces the necessity to combat still more difficult conditions. Experience in Europe has proved that children have been among the worst war sufferers and the whole world has answered the appeal to help them. Your help is needed to protect our children from conditions leading to like dangers here."

HIGH TAX FOR BABY HATERS.

Jersey City Official Threatens Reprisal for Offending Landlords.

Landlords who discriminate against tenants with children in Jersey City will have to pay more taxes after this if James F. Gannon, Director of Revenue and Finance, finds it out. Mayor Hague received yesterday a letter from a young wife who wrote she and her husband had been ordered to move with their seven-months-old baby. She had paid the rent promptly and had given no cause for complaint, and as the landlord refused to say why he wanted her to move it was plain to her the baby was the reason.

Similar complaints from tenants with children have been received by the Mayor and other Jersey City officials lately. Their conclusion appears to be that Mr. Gannon can supply the remedy.

"If families are to be annoyed because they have children," Mr. Gannon said, "the City Administration will adopt retaliatory measures. I shall raise the tax valuations of such landlords to the limit. The baby-hating landlord will have to pay more taxes."

ROBERT M. OLYPHANT DIES AT 93 YEARS

Ex-President of Delaware & Hudson Railroad Was the Oldest Alumnus of Columbia.

Robert Morrison Olyphant, honorary Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Delaware & Hudson Railroad, of which he had been President for twenty years before his retirement from active life, died yesterday at his home, 160 West Fifty-ninth Street, in his ninety-fourth year. Mr. Olyphant was the oldest alumnus of Columbia University and the oldest member of the St. Andrew Society of the State of New York, an organization he joined in 1846.

He was born Sept. 9, 1824, the son of David W. C. Olyphant and Anne Archer Olyphant. His father was a New York merchant in the East India trade, and was the son of Dr. David Olyphant, who came to Charleston, S. C., soon after the battle of Culloden, and later, in 1776, was appointed Director General of Hospitals. Robert Morrison Olyphant was named for Robert Morrison, who was a famous missionary to China. He entered Columbia with the class of 1843, and was graduated a year ahead of his class.

His father was then the senior member of the firm of Talbot, Olyphant & Co., and Mr. Olyphant joined the company. In 1844 he made a trip to China, and, returning, married Miss Sophia Vernon of Newport, R. I., and upon her death he was married to her younger sister, Anne Vernon. Of ten children, Mr. Olyphant is survived by his son, Robert Olyphant of this city, and a daughter, Mrs. George Caspar Kellogg of Plattsburg, N. Y.

Mr. Olyphant reorganized his father's company in 1858 and again visited the Orient. He retired from the mercantile trade in 1873. Long after his retirement Mr. Olyphant became assistant to the President of the Delaware & Hudson Railroad. He was elected to a Vice Presidency of the road, and later became President. Upon his retirement in 1903 he was elected honorary Chairman of the Executive Committee.

Mr. Olyphant was a Fellow of the National Academy of Design and helped raise the funds for the erection of the first Academy building. He was deeply interested in art, and for many years was a patron of the Canton Christian Church in China.

$700 FOR ROMAN PORTRAIT.

Sale of Early Egyptian Art and Chinese Bronzes Brings $12,690.

Returns for the 108 numbers of the Alexandre Rosenberg sale of early Egyptian art, Chinese bronzes, Persian miniatures, &c., at the Anderson Galleries last evening were $12,690, the highest price, $700, given by M. Abeles for a Greco-Roman portrait of the fourth century. This was in wax colors on a panel similar to those found in Egyptian tombs of the period, covering the heads of mummies. It was the portrait of a woman, representing one of the best periods of Roman painting, specimens of which are rare.

A modern French painting by Maurice Denis, "St. George and the Dragon," brought the second highest price of the sale, going to the same buyer for $600. The landscape showed the characteristics of the Brittany coast, red rocks, and deep blue sea, a group of peasant women at one side and St. George killing the dragon in the centre. A painting by Paul Signac, one of the founders of the neo-impressionistic school in France, "Towers at the Entrance of the Harbor of La Rochelle, France," went to Abeles for $390. A Rhages pottery bowl went to the same buyer for $330.

For a Rhages pottery tile with the design of a group of hunters in relief E. Tabbagh paid $350; a Rhages polychrome bowl went to W. N. Grinnell for $225; a pear-shaped Rhages ewer to J. R. Reed for $210, and a Rhages ewer, with mouth in form of cock's head, went to Tabbagh for $325. A Persian miniature, a man on horseback killing a lion, went to Abeles for $390, and another miniature, a harmony of green, blue, and muave, went to Tabbagh for $200.

BARS MAY DAY MEETING.

Labor Lyceum in Brooklyn Revokes Permit.

There was no Labor May Day demonstration at the Labor Lyceum in Brooklyn last night, the Trustees of the Lyceum having revoked the permit for the meeting, after they had talked with Police Inspector Charles Formosa and Police Captain Jacob Van Wagner. The police officials later denied that they had ordered the permit revoked.

The hall was crowded when Edward Lindgren of the Brooklyn defense conference announced that the Trustees would not allow the meeting to take place. "That's an example of what free speech means in this city," shouted Lindgren.

At that time Inspector Formosa, Captain Van Wagner, and about twenty-five uniformed men were in the Lyceum. Lindgren said the meeting would be held at Socialist Headquarters, 167 Tompkins Avenue, and the crowd moved over there, the police with them.

"Jim" Larkin, principal speaker, said, in referring to the Irish conscription fight, "There is no danger of our people over there being compelled to do anything for England. We have a real union in Ireland, and every man is banded together."

A collection, amounting to $26.05, was taken up for the I. W. W. Defense Club, but no Liberty Bond subscriptions were obtained during the meeting.

ACCUSE TWO OF CONSPIRACY

West Pointer and Notary Who Took Affidavit Arraigned.

Henry L. S. Allison of 447 Gold Street, and Frank D'Ambrosia, a Brooklyn notary public, were arraigned yesterday before Judge Chatfield in the United States District Court, Brooklyn, charged with conspiracy. Allison recently obtained an appointment to West Point through the efforts of ex-Congressman John J. Fitzgerald, and in his application stated that he was a graduate of Manual Training School in Brooklyn, had been for one year in the University of Virginia, and for more than a year in Polytechnic Institute, Brooklyn, before admission to West Point. The prosecution charges that Allison has never attended any of those institutions.

Allison testified that he had been a student under the name of Douglas Bedell, and that he had travelled extensively in Europe and in this country under that name. In contradiction of this, the prosecution alleges that a man named Bedell was a student at the University of Virginia, but that he came from Allenhurst, New Jersey, and still resides there. Allison was held in $5,000 bail, and D'Ambrosia, who took Allison's affidavit, was held in $4,000 bail for complicity. The penalty is $1,000 fine, or twenty years' imprisonment, or both.

MAJOR WADSWORTH DEAD.

Head of New York Forest Commission and Agricultural Society.

BOSTON, May 3.—Major William Austin Wadsworth, long identified with country life organizations in New York, died here today in his seventy-first year. Major Wadsworth was a native of Boston, and maintained a home here, but passed much of his time in Geneseo, N. Y. He was President of the New York State Forest, Fish and Game Commission, the New York State Agricultural Society, and the State Road Improvement Association.

Major Wadsworth's father, William Wolcott Wadsworth, was a large landowner at Geneseo, and his farms, eight or ten square miles, still belong to the family. William Austin Wadsworth was born on Dec. 8, 1847. He was educated at Boston and Vevey, Switzerland, and was graduated from Harvard in 1870. Later he went to Berlin University, Germany.

He was a member of the Independent Corps of Cadets, and later joined the Quartermaster Corps, United States Volunteers, for service in the Spanish-American War. Major Wadsworth was a member of the Military Order of the Philippines, the Military Order of Foreign Wars, and he was Chairman of the Livingston County Defense Committee in the present war.

William Henry Flagg.

William Henry Flagg, a member of the firm of Flagg & Worcester, bond investment brokers, died yesterday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Carroll W. Johnson, 20 Ivy Court, Orange, N. J. Mr. Flagg was well known to the older generation of business men in this city, and had been identified with financial affairs for many years. Before he formed the firm of Flagg & Worcester he was for several years a member of Reed & Flagg. He was the son of the late Major Henry Fisher Flagg and a brother of the late Francis Fisher Flagg, who was Vice President of the American Express Company.

A. G. Hooley Drops Dead at Show.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 3.—A. G. Hooley, judge of dogs, dropped dead while acting as judge at a kennel show here last night. His home was in Plainfield, N. J.

Abraham G. Hooley was for several years a member of the New York Stock Exchange firm of Hooley, Larned & Smith. He was a dog fancier and owned the Meadowview Kennels. He made a specialty of breeding setters, several of which won championship honors.

Letters to The Times on Many Questions Brought Up by the War

NEXT PEACE MOVE

Expected from Vienna but with an Understanding with Berlin.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is generally assumed, and it is probably true, that peace is even more urgently needed in Austria than in Germany. Before Count Czernin's resignation it was widely believed that Vienna was becoming restive under German control, that its policy was diverging from that favored at Berlin, and that the Dual Monarchy might conceivably desert its ally and conclude a separate peace. This belief was strengthened by the different attitudes taken by the representatives of Austria and of Germany at Brest-Litovsk, and by the failure of Austria to take part in subsequent military operations in Russian territory. The resignation of Count Czernin and the appointment of a Foreign Minister said to be more satisfactory to Germany tended to confirm this belief. In spite of this indication of German influence at Vienna, it is assumed that divergences between Austrian and German policies will recur, that such divergences will be real and important, and that Austrian peace overtures will deserve more serious consideration than any that emanate from Germany.

A recent utterance of Die Zeit of Vienna, quoted in the March issue of La Nation Tchèque, (Paris,) tends to show that such expectations are illusory. Speaking of Austrian abstention from military operations in Russia—an abstention which apparently disquieted some ill-informed Pan Germanists—Die Zeit, a journal which is regarded as semi-official, said, in its issue of Feb. 24:

> Those who criticise the conduct of the Central Empires are in error, especially those who are disposed to call attention to differences in the action of the Vienna and Berlin Governments. The situation is precisely opposite. Had Germany needed us, we should of course have marched; but, as it is hardly necessary to say, our waiting attitude was arranged between Germany and Austria-Hungary.
> Austro-Hungarian participation was neither necessary nor opportune, for it would have compromised seriously the plan of a peace offensive concerted between Austria-Hungary and Germany and developed for some time past with remarkable success by the Vienna Government.

According to the latest indications the next drive for peace will be started from the Vatican. It will be warmly welcomed and strongly supported in Vienna, and the "waiting attitude" will be taken in Berlin. We shall probably hear of renewed differences between Germany and Austria. If so, we may assume that these also have been "arranged." In the main point at issue Vienna will continue to play the German game—to secure a "negotiated peace" (meaning an old-fashioned diplomatic deal) on the basis of the present "war map."

SOLDIERS' HOME LETTERS

Have an Important Part in the Fight Abroad.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read with great interest the special from Washington published in your today's issue regarding soldiers' mail and the complaints owing to the way it is being handled. Might I quote from a letter dated March 13, from my son, received here yesterday, showing how our boys "over there" view the matter? "You should have had by Feb. 17 my letters written about Christmas. It's a shame the mail is being held up so much."

Reading this in conjunction with the reply of the American officer whose attention was drawn to the failure in mail service, viz., "the soldiers are here to fight and not to read mail," my blood simply boiled in indignation that such a man is in control of any of our men. His words prove clearly his unfitness to lead or care for the men under him.

To show how much home and news of home mean to our boys I quote further from the same letter:

> Dear Mother: Your birthday has been one of glorious sunshine. What could be more appropriate? Although we were fairly busy, I had a chance to read "Carry On," by Coningsby Dawson. Remember in one of your letters you spoke of it very highly. He certainly portrays the attitude of all of us toward those at home. None of us probably realized how we felt until this affair came along to wake us up. We are all thinking of home, not because of homesickness, but it's the bright spot on the horizon that keeps us going when things aren't breaking right. We act in the present, live in the past, and dream in the future.

And that military brute—he must be a product of Germany—would debar from our boys the kind words from home, so that they would feel themselves forgotten, forsaken—in reality in the "hell" which they look on daily.

Possibly of as much importance as mail are the parcels from home now denied them. At the moment I am not sure of the date when the order went into effect requiring the approval of commanding officers of requests for articles, these to be made in writing. But this I know: my son has asked several times for cigarettes, chocolate, and underwear, and these have had to be denied him by us, although he is craving for the first, and has described his remaining supply of the latter as shot to pieces.

I wonder if our soldier boys in France know of the order already referred to, or if in blessed ignorance they are allowed to continue making their requests known to those at home, but lacking the official approval only to spell failure in having their needs filled.

SUFFRAGE CAMPAIGN FUND.

Contributions Which Put a Heavy Burden on the Taxpayers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is a distinct public service for THE TIMES to have published the main features of the Treasurer's Report of the Woman Suffrage Party of New York State.

From the list of contributors published this morning, we find that of the $420,405 expended by the suffragists last year, $339,116, or 80.7 per cent. of the campaign fund, was contributed by forty-seven individuals; that $141,327, or 33.6 per cent., was contributed by twelve individuals; that $95,939, or 22.8 per cent., was contributed by eighteen other individuals.

Thus, we find that $237,266, or 56.4 per cent. of the fund, was contributed by thirty individuals.

On the other hand, only $1,254.94 was received as dues. That is, less than one-third of 1 per cent. of the big campaign fund was raised from dues. If the dues were as low as 10 cents, this would limit the number of persons who paid them to 12,549.

It appears, therefore, that the people of the State of New York have been led to adopt a political experiment that will add $2,500,000 election expenses to the State budget, not because there was a mighty and insistent demand from the majority of the women of the State for the privilege of voting, but because there were fifty individuals willing to put up $339,000 to conduct a campaign to fasten six times this amount upon the taxpayers in election expenses.

This suffrage demonstration that less than fifty individuals can raise enough "campaign funds" to swing an election and to fasten the burden of voting duty on women, and the burden of higher taxes on every citizen of the State, should certainly convince Congress that this double burden should not be imposed upon other States without the consent of the voters, and positive evidence that the majority of the women themselves desire the suffrage, which is certainly not indicated in the huge campaign fund of the New York Suffrage Party.

IGNORING ULSTER.

A Reply to an Irishman's Plea Against Conscription.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your correspondent, A. Loftus Bryan, in your issue of April 29, says he is tired of hearing people, who ought to know better, say, "Oh, I am ashamed of Ireland behaving in this disloyal manner and refusing to accept conscription."

As an Englishman, who is anxious, as most other Englishmen are, for Ireland to have home rule, I am sick and tired of reading the unfair and misleading statements made by Irish home rulers and Sinn Feiners. The common idea is all this home rule propaganda is to make out that Ulster is insignificant. Nationalist Ireland shouts loudly about the right of small nationalities to settle their own affairs, but ignores the fact that Ulster has some rights as well. Ulster is not, by any means, an insignificant portion of Ireland, excepting geographically. In proof of this I would point out that the recent Irish Convention allowed for Ulster to have 40 per cent. of the representation in the Irish Parliament.

Your correspondent expatiates largely on the fighting done by the Nationalists, but omits to state that 51 per cent. of the recruits from Ireland came from "insignificant" Ulster. Most Americans seem to be unaware that Ulster contains practically the whole of the industries of Ireland. True, Guinness's Brewery is not in Ulster, but the Guinnesses are Unionists, the same as the Ulsterites. Ulster is the only portion of Ireland that can hope to support itself. Industrious and progressive Ulster naturally feels reluctant to hand over the business management of its affairs to a Parliament which is likely to have little sympathy with industry and progress, and is sure to be priest-ridden.

Again, the continual harping upon England's willful stupidity and injustice in not granting Ireland home rule is ridiculous and absurd. For the last five or six years England wished to give Ireland home rule, if Ireland would only settle her own differences and accept it.

It is strange, if your correspondent is a Protestant, as he states, that he should talk about the religious bigotry and intolerance of Ulster. The present condition of Ireland is largely due to the indolence of Nationalist Ireland, together with the religious difficulty. Two independent investigators from America some years ago summarized the Irish trouble as being due to 70 per cent. temperament, 20 per cent. religion, and 10 per cent. unsympathetic government.

A few points that home rulers are not very keen to talk about is that the original Home Rule bill called for an annual subscription of $35,000,000 from Great Britain; that Ireland gets ten times as much as England or Scotland out of the Old Age Pension bill in proportion to what she pays in, yet she refused to accept the National Insurance bill; that the Irish Land act cost British ratepayers something like $330,000,000. It seems quite fair to take the Englishman's money and to backbite him all the time.

T. W. NIBLETT.
New York, May 1, 1918.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

We are all interested in Ireland. We have welcomed the Irish who have come to this country. Among them are eminent divines, lawyers, Judges, Senators, bankers, captains of industry. In this war for justice and freedom we need their cordial co-operation. Let me remind them of a few facts:

There never was a united Ireland, independent of England. There were warring tribes and separate kingdoms. When the Normans invaded Ireland in 1160 they went at the invitation of the King of Leinster, who had been deposed by his subjects. The different provinces never united in any independent Government. In course of time Ulster was settled by Scotch Protestants, and religious as well as political differences have divided Ireland.

Why now should Leinster, Munster and Connaught insist upon governing Ulster? It is as if Maryland, in 1788, had said: "We must have Delaware. Geographically Delaware should be a part of Maryland. It is an important manufacturing State, with much wealth. But it was settled by Swedes; it prefers a separate State Government." Why cannot the Irish take a leaf out of the American book and let Ulster alone?

It is obvious that the relation of Ireland to England is such that England can never concede absolute independence to Ireland, any more than America could give independence to the seceding States in 1861. Nor has Ireland physical power to maintain independence.

It should have home rule, a Parliament, with the powers of our State Legislatures. The three provinces should be represented in this. If they govern well, in all probability Ulster would come in. When we formed our Constitution we did not coerce any colony. North Carolina took no part in the election of Washington. It did not come into the Union until two years after the Constitution was framed, nor until seven months after the first President was inaugurated.

If the other three provinces of Ireland would concede as much to Ulster they could have home rule at once.

FOR THE MARCH TO BERLIN.

A Great American Force Should Be Put in Training Now.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Mr. Taft is right. No more half measures, feeding our boys piecemeal into the bloody maw of the German machine! Our task was plain from the beginning. Blind indeed the men who cannot see it now. Start forthwith to train as many men as Germany has trained, 10,000,000, from which to draw an army as needed. Train them in cantonments, or without cantonments, in the streets, in the fields, between hours, after hours—business men, salaried men, and laborers. Meantime train the women to take the place of these men in factory, office, and field. Consider what it would mean to have 2,000,000 of our boys at the front at this moment, boys trained from the beginning of the great war, from the moment the purpose of Germany was revealed—revealed as by a flash of lightning at midnight—by the invasion of Belgium! How many thousands of lives, laid down in the past few weeks and additional thousands yet to be sacrificed, would have been spared! Before an army so strengthened, would even the Germans, who seem to have everything except understanding, have continued to cherish the delusion that they could win this war? Could they, in the face of such a force, have persisted in immolating the hundreds of thousands of their own young men on the altar of their mad ambition?

Just as lack of foresight has made possible the present sacrifice of precious lives, so now continued failure to take the situation in hand will spell added horror for the world, added millions of debt piled up to blight the fair promise of the future. Common sense declares that we must send our boys in such numbers as to crush, not to feed, the German machine. They are ready and able to do it. The fight is on. America sees the issue and only awaits the word. As Mr. Taft has said, put in France such an army as America can raise and we will march straight to Berlin.

This cannot be done by moving in the wake of events. It calls for control of events. Which course does the practical sense of America demand: to allow disaster after disaster slowly to awaken us to a realization of the immensity of the task before us, suffering that task to grow tremendously meanwhile, or to face and rise at once to its needs and thus direct disaster elsewhere?

THE FALL CAMPAIGN.

An Up-State View of the Issue—Prohibition to the Fore There.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial article in yesterday's paper, entitled "One Hundred Per Cent. Loyal," was read by me. I wish to say that I am of the same opinion regarding the matter, but may I state that probably there will be no particular issue on the question of loyalty or disloyalty? I hardly think any one will run for office this Fall who is not strictly loyal.

There is an issue, however, that will be very prominent before the people, especially among the up-State people, and that is the ratification of the Federal Amendment that was before the Legislature this last Winter. It is quite noticeable that Governor Whitman has not made very strenuous efforts to have the amendment ratified, although he says he believes that it should be. It will not be strange to find that that will be the prominent issue urged by him for re-election. He probably will also urge the people to elect a Legislature that will be with him on that proposition, as he, no doubt, will put it.

Referring to Whitman as a politician, I believe the people in general think that his success from the standpoint of a politician has not been equaled since the days of Hill. In common parlance, he has "got by" with a good many things. I understand he is to be urged to call a special session of the Legislature for the purpose of action upon the amendment, but I do not believe he will do it; he would rather have that for an issue this Fall. I think that 80 per cent. of the Republicans above Harlem are "dry," so called, and that about 20 per cent. of the Republicans are "wet," but when it comes to choose between Whitman, a "dry" candidate, and a Democrat you will find all the "wet" Republicans in line, just as they were during the Hughes election, when a large number of them were proclaiming that they wouldn't vote for Hughes. As you say, it is to be hoped that the Democrats make no mistake in the selection of their man. There will be no use of running Hearst; he couldn't get 50 per cent. of the Democratic vote up-State, and I don't believe there is any chance of winning with him or an out-and-out whisky man. Whitman is clever and he can't be defeated with a straw man or one who is not high class and of strict integrity.

German Agents Among Negroes.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

> A somewhat amusing instance of the failure of German propaganda, through a total misunderstanding of the psychology of the people toward whom it was directed, has come out during the visit of an old Southern "mammy" to her "white folks," now living in New Jersey. I offer it as another bit of consoling proof that we have little to fear, in the long run, from similar nefarious efforts.
> It appears that German agents went from community to community in the South, just after America entered the war, making addresses in the negro churches, in which they urged the negroes to rise against the whites in case they were ordered to fight the Germans. These worthies explained to the negroes that Germany had no quarrel with the negroes, and did not want to fight them; that the cause of the war was a disagreement with a few white men over some ships, a matter which did not concern the negro in any way whatever; that the white man simply wanted to make the negro do his fighting for him.
> The negroes in Georgia discussed these statements among themselves for a time; then they resolved to inquire into the truth of the statements made by the strangers from some of their white friends. From these they soon learned the facts of the situation, and the explanation that, if Germans do not want to fight negroes, it is because the Germans "feel themselves too good" to fight a negro, to quote the "old mammy."
> "But," she added, "they got to fight us, whether they want to or not. Uncle Sam done said we can go, and we're agwine!"

Russia as a Possible Source of Good Airplanes for Us.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Lieutenant G. V. Piotrowsky, a celebrated aviator, speaking at St. Mark's Episcopal Church, said:

> During the early days of the war Russians participated on the eastern front in some of the most tremendous battles the world has ever known. Yet in your papers and in those of England and France those battles were barely mentioned.

Lieut. Col. B. Roustam-Bek in his book, "Aerial Russia," (the profits from the sale of which go to the families of British aviators,) writes:

> I have noticed over and over again that the striking achievements of Russian aviators, which are published in the Russian newspapers, are never by any chance reproduced in the British press.

When Russia sent hundreds of thousands of men to France, and when Russia in 1916 sent to England and France 80,000,000 bushels of wheat it was treated as a joke. We were told by the press that the Russians were not Russians at all, but Serbians dressed up in Russian uniforms, and at any rate there were only a few of them and of no importance. One New York paper even informed its readers that the Russian soldiers were more like cattle and so ignorant that they did not know their right foot from their left.

The Russian victories were always minimized, the defeats exaggerated; the Russians were "annihilated, cut to pieces, and captured by the million." It was considered good policy to withhold everything favorable to Russia from the American public. But presto change, Russia is out of the war and we are now told officially that she has over 2,000,000 German and Austrian prisoners. So, after all, the "horde of the Czar" did not do so badly; and again, there must have been some Russian victories or how could all those men have been captured.

But to come to the point. I have before me a clipping from a New York paper, headed: "Russian Aircraft Swell Huns' Forces." It is a cable from London quoting an editorial from The Daily Mail, telling America that the Russians, (white Hottentots, 98 per cent. of whom cannot read and write English, and are ignorant natives, don't you know,) are building airplanes for Germany. The cable states: "Russian airplanes had a great reputation in Germany and some of them had been used as models by German manufacturers."

"Factories for the manufacture of certain types of machines are springing up from Petrograd to Moscow." The Daily Mail specifies eight existing establishments, including the Korpusnai aerodrome in Petrograd, the largest in Europe.

Now what prompts me to write this letter is this: Why is the cable from London good "news" when previously at the time the Russians flew their giant airplanes from Petrograd to Lemberg; when the Russians flew from Bessarabia to Saloniki; when the Russians originated the means of shooting past the propeller when in flight, (synchronization of action between the rifle and the passing blades,) and when the Kaiser said that he wished his aerial service was as good as that of the Russians, no one cabled to America such news, favorable as it was, to Russia? Must a nation, like an individual, be dead before a good word is spoken for it?

I confess I am a Russian, a "white Hottentot," an "ignorant foreigner," and all that, but will some one enlighten me how it can happen that the Germans, the most scientific murderers and warmakers in the world, go to the 98 per cent. ignorant Russians for models in airplanes?

But if the Germans can get them, would it not be a good scheme for the United States, and the Allies too, to order some of those Russian airplanes? Summer is coming, the great North Dvina River is a good waterway to Archangel, and if 80,000,000 bushels of wheat could be shipped by the route some 10,000 airplanes could be. The Germans last Winter ordered 350 Argus motors from Sweden. They are not particular where and how they get their munitions. They will pay the Russians high prices and get the planes. The Allies have made many blunders before in regard to Russia, and if now they let Germany monopolize the Russian aircraft industry it will neutralize the efforts of the United States.

The writer is a real Russian, one that would like the job of soaping the rope that will make the noose to hang Kerensky, Trotzky, Lenine, and one who for many years tried in vain to explain to his American friends that in some industries Russia is a leader, and who now wants to impress the reader with the fact that the menace of German control of Russian airplanes is real and a great calamity to the cause of liberty. The Russians are natural-born wood and sheet metal workers; the supply of spruce and linen is unlimited and there is nothing to prevent an immense output of Russian airplanes.

The German "Gotha," the British "H. Page," and the Italian "Caproni" planes are imitations of Russian machines, and they are doing good work; but, as is always the case, the original is better than the copy, so let the United States get Russian airplanes and beat the Kaiser to it.

What German-American Teachers Refused to Sign?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Better late than never, and vastly to the credit of the eighteen members of American college and university Faculties who are of German birth, is that declaration of principles wherein they condemn, "without reservation," the part taken by the German Imperial Government in the war.

It is to be wished that they had gone a step further, a step only in so far as it would be an open confession of their unconditional and categorical support of Britain, France, and all the rest of the allies who are fighting, along with us, not only the German Government but also the German people. Is it not mathematically clear to any one who holds the view that, as the declaration says, "after the aims and ideals of the war have been clarified" by "a year's earnest discussion * * * it seems fitting that Americans of German descent should state their convictions"—that humble apology, in the form of grateful recognition, be made to France and Britain?

This they do not do, but this they will yet come to see that they must do, for the simple fact that France and Britain have fought the fight of the United States, which this very declaration now recognizes as a fight for the right. This is a difficult confession, we grant, but doubtless men who have gone so far as these eighteen will sooner or later see their way clear to making it in full.

A further point of interest, of great interest, is raised by this welcome declaration with its eighteen signatures. To how many members of American college and university Faculties was it presented? How many declined to sign it? What were their names and addresses? It is information which every patriotic citizen of the country has a right to know.

Insignia for the War Workers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

From the time of the Declaration of Independence down to the present day we have been a nation of people who have instinctively shrunk from titles and insignia of rank, and quite rightly, as such insignia are out of harmony with a democracy so complete as ours. The military value and necessity of insignia have, however, never been questioned. Now that we are nobly committed to the cause of freedom of the world from the domination of barbarians and the murderers of women and children, we look upon our soldiers with a peculiar sense of just admiration, and they occupy an exalted position in our eyes. This is all quite as it should be, but with it there is an element of gross unfairness to a not inconsiderable proportion of our finest manhood. These who are affected may be divided into three classes.

The first class comprises those noble men who have voluntarily tendered their services and lives to their country, but whose offers have been rejected on the grounds of some measure of physical disability. Such men have made their offers, for the most part, solely from their deep sense of patriotism and their rejection has been no fault of their own. They remain entitled to the same expressions of respect and admiration as are accorded to their more fortunate brothers whose services were accepted, and who are marked to all eyes by their uniforms. Such men as these nobly deserve to be granted an official mark in the form of some distinguishing badge or button of suitable dignity which will inform us all that they have been willing to make the greatest of all sacrifices on behalf of the common cause. As matters now stand such brave men are often subjected to the humiliation of having to explain why they have not entered some branch of the service, or, if not actually interrogated, they remain conscious of the existence of the question in the minds of many with whom they come in contact. The injustice of not granting them a distinguishing mark of honor is too patent to need comment.

In this same class there should be placed those who have served only in this country and have become unfit for further service by reason of some physical disability. They should be granted the same badge of honor, or another of equal import.

The second class comprises a very different group of men, but one no less worthy of being accorded public recognition. I speak of those whose special training makes them more valuable to the nation out of actual military service than in it. Such men include a host of specialists in various mechanical and scientific pursuits, teachers in our universities whose services as teachers bear directly upon the successful prosecution of the war, such as those in the chemical, engineering, and medical departments, and others. These men, who have volunteered their services and have been told that they are more valuable where they are than in the army or navy, or who have been officially notified that they are to refrain from seeking active military service on account of the importance of their duties, patriotically and bravely remain at home and are compelled to endure feelings similar to those of the men in our first class. Should not such men be granted an official distinguishing mark, different from that of the first class, but one which would indicate that they are not without the military ranks of their own volition? Certainly they deserve such insignia no less than do the men of the preceding class.

A third class of men also exists, equally deserving of their badges, but meriting insignia of a different type. These are the men who have been drafted, who have not sought exemption, but who, like the men of the first class, have been rejected for some disability, or, like those of the second, have been retained in civilian life on account of fitness for some special work.

So far I have sought to point out the justice of the granting of such insignia and the gross injustice of leaving the patriotism of these men unrecognized. There is quite another aspect to the question, however, and one of no mean importance. It is the influence that the granting of these insignia would have upon the vast numbers of men not falling within these groups and not already in service. I am firmly of the belief that their granting would constitute the most profound stimulus to our young manhood to volunteer, either for the purely military services, or, if unfitted or especially equipped, for other war work. Would it be unjust to those who are now waiting until they may be called in the draft, or to those who are without its age limits, but free from dependents, thus to stimulate their patriotism to higher levels? I think not! And there are many who think as I do, for I have taken the trouble to interrogate widely before writing. In further support of this belief I would cite the widespread use of service flags and Liberty Loan buttons.

Finally, attention should be called to the fact that England, a country as democratic as ours, has long since adopted an analogous group of insignia and has found the plan most successful.

May I not plead for the co-operation of the press and of those Americans who feel as I do and ask them to urge Congress to give this matter prompt consideration?

ITALIAN DIRIGIBLES.

Advantages Claimed for Them Over the German Zeppeline.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Having read the article entitled "World's Scientists in Life and Death Race," appearing in THE SUNDAY TIMES, I wish to correct the statement that "no other nation has anything even approximately matching the Zeppelin." It is unfortunate that the past lack of unity and interchange of ideas between the countries now at war with the Central Powers has caused the loss of invaluable time, due to the ignorance of the progress and advancement made by the foremost scientists, inventors, and engineers of each country working separately and individually. For example, the above quotation regarding the Zeppelin shows, providing the author is writing with authority, that it is not generally known here in America that the Italian Forlanini dirgible, without exception, is the foremost flying machine of this type in the world, and promises to revolutionize aeronautics.

For the last ten years I have had the honor of collaborating with Mr. Forlanini on dirigible construction, perfecting the last type early in 1917. Over seven months ago I was released from my Government (Italian) and sent here to advise and co-operate with the American Government on this important program.

The truth is that the Zeppelins, though far from being perfect, are not a failure, if only succeeding in compelling England and France to maintain their vast defenses in and around London and Paris, as well as keeping an invaluable and constant watch over the North Sea. I will illustrate just one of the many advantages of the Forlanini type dirigible over that of the Zeppelin. At the record Zeppelin altitude of 13,000 feet battleplanes can easily "top" the Zeppelin, thus destroying it with fire bombs. On the other hand, the Forlanini dirigible attains an altitude of 18,000 feet with war efficiency, and can mount very rapidly, after discharging its bombs, to an altitude of 22,000 feet, make its raid, and return in safety at a high altitude—always remembering that the fighting efficiency and speed of the battleplanes decreases rapidly after reaching an altitude of 14,000 feet.

We, the Allies, have the best and most efficient weapons of all branches of modern scientific warfare. I can personally attest to several very important inventions practically unknown outside of Italy. Let us hope, therefore, that a closer understanding and unity of purpose will bring about, to quote again your article, the "principal allies maintaining in this country scientific missions, constantly augmented by new arrivals fresh from the scene of action," for we in Europe look to America for big things done in a big way, and stand ready to contribute to the common cause that which we have to bring about a triumphant victory over our enemies.

WOMEN'S LABOR LAWS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Of the four bills initiated by the Consumers' League of the City of New York into the 1918 Legislature only one passed both Senate and Assembly. This was the Nicoll-Meyer Messenger bill which will prohibit the employment of girls under twenty-one years of age as messengers, and regulate the employment of those over twenty-one years of age to a nine-hour day, six days a week, and prohibit their employment between 10 P. M. and 7 A. M. This bill has yet to receive the signature of the Governor.

The Minimum Wage bill, which would have given to a commission the power to fix, after investigation, the lowest sum upon which a girl could live in decency and health, was not referred out of committee. The effort of Senator Wagner to have the committee discharged from further consideration of the bill was defeated by only three votes in the Senate.

The bill regulating the hours of women employed in the transportation companies as guards, conductors, &c., never came to a vote. The bill regulating the hours of women employed on elevators passed the Assembly, but failed to pass the Senate.

Five bills were introduced into the Legislature to break down provision for women employed in restaurants. After a long bitter fight in the Assembly, with the Restaurant Association of New York State on one side and the labor unions, the suffrage, social, and civic organizations on the other, these bills were finally defeated by a large majority.

And so, as far as protective legislation for women is concerned, our labor laws are intact for another year at least, with the addition of the protection for women and girl messengers.

Since the outbreak of the war, the Consumers' League has stood back of the Government in urging the maintenance of all labor standards, but not only must labor standards be maintained, but the reorganization and development of industries in which women are needed must be managed with the least possible waste to the women and the industries.

> In connection with the article in THE TIMES Magazine Section of April 28, entitled, "War School for 100,000 Soldiers," may I call attention to the fact that this subject of technical training of soldiers at universities and vocational schools had its origin with a number of citizens of New York, on recommendation of the undersigned, through resolutions adopted at a meeting of the Patriotic Educational Guilds on April 20, 1917? The resolutions were transmitted to the President and to the Senate and House Military Committees, and resulted in the insertion in the selective service law of paragraphs under which authority is given to the President for organizing sundry technical regiments and for the detail and due instruction thereof in mechanical and agricultural training.

GREEKS AND BULGARS

Reminders from the Greek White Book of Injustices Now Denied.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your issue of last Sunday "A Bulgarian" in a letter to you gave an extract from a report of Mr. Naoum, the former Minister of Greece at Sofia, which appeared in the Greek White Book, (Document No. 77,) in order to show that the complaints made by the Central Committee of Unredeemed Greeks at Athens to the allied and neutral Governments against Bulgaria and Turkey were baseless and unworthy of notice. The sentence which immediately follows the above-mentioned extract says: "According to an official report, up to the 15th of April, 6,000 persons died from starvation in Cavalla. In Drama and in Serres the situation is the same. The condition of the population is literally deplorable."

Two previous reports, one being by the same Minister and the other by a Greek high official, deal with the persecutions of the Greek populations by the Bulgarian Government and people. As a matter of fact, the report dated March 23, (O. S.) 1917, from which the said extract was taken by the "Bulgarian," is only a sequel to two other previous documents.

Thus, the report of a high public official of Eastern Macedonia, dated March 9, (O. S.) 1917, (Document No. 75,) after reference being made to the occupation of the city of Cavalla by the Bulgarian troops, says:

> The Bulgarian Military Governor of the city immediately appointed to the vacant position of Mayor the Turk Hembi Bey, who at once formed a Municipal Council of Turks, the Greek councilors having been treacherously imprisoned for some time with this very object in view, as being suspects. There was then put into operation a pitiless spoliation of the property of the Greek element by Bulgarians and Turks, by means of an illegal commandeering of the goods in their warehouses, by extortion of money, by arbitrary seizures from the houses and shops of all material useful or salable, and through a clever and profiteering overvaluation of food supplies and articles of absolute necessity.

After referring to some acts of robbery committed by the Turks, it adds that > all this took place with the toleration and even utter indifference of the military authorities of the city, which busied itself only with the emptying of the public warehouses and big shops which had been abandoned by their owners. This was followed by a downright looting of private houses right in broad daylight, under the pretense of a search for military supplies.

Equally the report dated March 27, (O. S.) 1917, of the same Minister, (namely Mr. Naoum,) after referring to the distress prevalent among the inhabitants of Eastern Macedonia, which is under Bulgarian occupation, says:

> The state of affairs in Eastern Macedonia has, during these last two months, become extremely critical, and, in fact, desperate, owing to the frequent deaths from starvation, observed especially among the Greek population, for the Turkish troops have supplied food to the Mussulmans and the Bulgarian troops to the Slav-speaking villages. In Drama and in certain other cities, thanks to the initiative of the Greek Prefect and the praiseworthy financial aid of the wealthy, cheap food-distributing stations have been established for the relief of poor people, but these unfortunately cannot operate regularly because they cannot obtain food supplies.
> On account of the desperate situation thus created in Eastern Macedonia, I have already repeatedly, both in writing and by personal interview, made the strongest possible remonstrances to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs here, and to the Prime Minister himself, to whom I have protested most vigorously against the destruction that is being wrought in Eastern Macedonia. I then and there reminded him of the express promises given to Greece for the security of life and property of the inhabitants, and called his attention to the painful impression which would be made by such a policy on the part of the Bulgarian Government, which could not but influence public opinion in Greece and affect the friendly relations existing between the two countries. Not satisfied with these steps, I called on the Director of his Majesty's Political Bureau, Mr. Dobrovitz, to whom I set forth in detail the facts about the pitiful condition of Eastern Macedonia, urging him to bring all this to the knowledge of the King, with the hope that his Majesty would intervene energetically with the Bulgarian Government to better the situation. I protested to Mr. Dobrovitz most energetically on account of the indifference of the Bulgarian Government in the matter, emphasizing that if this should continue it could not fail to affect the relations between the two countries. Mr. Dobrovitz, professing complete ignorance of the situation, promised to transmit all that had been said to his Majesty the King.
> I proceeded also to similar steps with the German officials here: and endeavored to bring about the intervention of our legation in Berlin with the German Government there as to the matters at stake.

In a report dated Dec. 5, (O. S.,) 1916, of the same Minister, (namely, Mr. Naoum,) after referring to the sufferings of the Greek populations and to the rudeness with which they were treated by the Bulgarians, he says that > in some villages the [Greek] churches and schools were seized and the Bulgarian language was introduced. Acts of plunder were committed and forced contributions were levied. * * * In Cavalla all the houses were forced, and the movable property of the [Greek] inhabitants will soon be transported to Sofia by special trains. Refugees of the district of Serres were taken by force to Drama, where they are suffering intensely from hunger, and deaths from starvation occurred. The above-mentioned refugees will be transported to Serbia to reside there.

A telegram addressed by E. Zalocostas, Minister of Foreign Affairs, to N. Theotoky, Minister of Greece at Berlin, dated Dec. 13, (O. S.,) 1916, states that > you should represent to the German Government that it is inconceivable after it has seized or has permitted Eastern Macedonia to be seized, a fact which constitutes, indirectly, to be sure, the cause of all the misfortunes which today weigh heavily upon Greece, and after it has transgressed the categorical promises given in writing that the three large Macedonian cities would not be seized and that personal freedom, right to property, and the religious status quo would be respected. It is inconceivable, I say, that it today leaves the Bulgarians free to annihilate the Greek element in Macedonia.

These reports were written at a time when friendly relations existed between Bulgaria and the Government of the ex-King Constantine.

FILLING THE NURSES' RANKS

Heavy Demands of the War Make a Shortage for Other Work.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

When it was announced that 30,000 or 40,000 nurses were going to be required for our war hospitals, public attention naturally centred upon the matter of filling those hospitals.

This matter is in good hands and will undoubtedly be handled with ability; but, while the flood of patriotic volunteers of slight training is being restrained from entering our war hospitals, attention has been diverted from the point of our real danger where shortage of nurses is already being felt.

What we need to look out for is to supply the thousands of extra women that will have to fill places in the homes vacated by the trained nurses that are going into war work. We must remember also that unless there is to be loss and suffering these women must be supplied, not two or three years from now, but in the immediate future.

If we fail in this we shall weaken our civil life, and it is our civil life that supports our armies.

The shortage of nurses is having the following effect: People who have hitherto been able to afford graduate nurses are now bidding against the hospitals and public nursing associations for graduate service, or bidding against their less well-to-do neighbors for the service of the practical nurses; and the available numbers of these non-graduates is being cut down still further by the call for women's labor for other occupations.

The shortage of nurses due to the war is therefore being felt not only by the hospitals and public health nursing bodies, but is being largely passed on to the plain people of moderate means, and will take the form of a lack of the "practical" nurses that these people have hitherto relied on. These are the nurses who do the great bulk of the actual nursing of the country. Much of their work has not been done in the best way possible, for it has not had help or supervision from graduates as it should have had, but it is none the less absolutely necessary work that cannot be dispensed with. This service is now being taken away from the people and nothing is being done to replace it.

Our families must be cared for in sickness if the soldier at the front is not to be disheartened by bad news from home, and if the workman in the shipyard or munition shop is not to drop his tools to look after his family in sickness, as the workman always does when there is no one else to do it. The same thing applies in a still greater degree to the more isolated farmer if he is to keep us and our allies supplied with food.

There is, however, no need of this failure. Our national nursing leaders have now a great opportunity to serve the country by directing the execution of some plan that will meet the present emergency not in part but in whole. If they merely fill up the war hospitals and leave the rest of the country to suffer, they will have failed. If they should disclaim all responsibility for civil work after allowing the public to believe for a year that they intended to meet that responsibility, they would fail doubly.

If they have no better plan they can strengthen their body of visiting nurses, and call for a sufficient body of nurses' assistants who will fill the gap and learn to serve in the homes of the people under the direction of these graduates. This has been shown by trial in Boston, Detroit, and other places to be entirely practicable, and an advantage to both the people and the nurses. Whatever the best plan may be, the time is rapidly passing for merely considering plans; there must be either action or failure. I know a single town where twelve out of nineteen graduates and seven out of eleven attendants have been lost from the regular nursing force, and there is probably further loss among the unregistered nursing force.

If nothing is done suffering will come in the homes of the people. Right there is the danger point, and our nursing leaders must not fail us.

R. M. BRADLEY,
Trustee of the Thomas Thompson Foundation.
Boston, April 30, 1918.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A letter in THE TIMES moves me to add a few words, from the medical standpoint, concerning war nurses, now needed so badly. Dr. Grimshaw of Roosevelt Hospital has pleaded for a reduction from the three-year course for graduate nurses to two years; but war needs cannot wait while this goes into effect, even if it should be adopted by the Hospital Training Schools, and the number of nurses will be far in excess of possibilities in that direction. Many thousand nurses are needed in much shorter time, and experience abroad with the volunteer aid nurses has been shown so successful that this country should not hesitate to follow the same line. It has been found that the class of women who volunteer make good nurses as a rule in a comparatively short time, for their heart is in their work.

While not wishing to depreciate the value of the two or three year course for graduate nurses, the experience of physicians has been that we do not always find the best nurses from the longest courses, nursing depending so largely upon the psychology of the individual. Three to six months of intensive training in actual work has proved abroad that excellent nurses can be, and are, turned out for much needed service, and this country should give them the opportunity. It may be necessary to draft women later; but it goes without saying that those who volunteer and go willingly stand a much better chance to make good, and they are needed now. Many educated women are only waiting for the red tape to be cut to take up the work, and they should be encouraged to do so, rather than held back. The present age limit of 25 should be placed at 20, for not only do we need the larger numbers, but the younger woman has the requisite strength, and their enthusiasm is apt to be greater.

TRADE BOARD BANS PRICE DICTATION

FOLLOWS COURT RULING

Decision Forbids Concerns Indicating to Dealers What They Must Get for Commodities.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—The Federal Trade Commission has rendered a decision on price fixing along the lines of the recent decision of the United States Supreme Court in the Gramophone case. The order issued by the commission is given to decide the case of the Chester Kent Company of Boston, manufacturers of proprietary medicines, and it is drawn to cover every form of price fixing known to business in this country.

The decision forbids the Chester Kent Company to indicate to dealers the prices for which its proprietary or patent medicines shall be resold, obtaining agreements from dealers to adhere to such prices, refusing to sell to dealers who fail to adhere to such prices upon the same terms as dealers who do adhere to the prices, and furnishing any advantage to dealers who adhere to resale prices. In announcing the decision the Trade Commission makes public the following statement:

"Some of the most distinguished lawyers in the United States have appeared before the commission to argue this question, as well as many of the leading business concerns of the country, some of whom have insisted that the maintenance of resale prices was proper, and others who have contended that it was not. Almost all of the large department stores of the country have been heard in opposition to it.

"After full consideration the Federal Trade Commission has decided to issue complaints against all business concerns who refuse to sell unless the purchaser will agree to maintain a resale price fixed by the seller. The case just decided is the first formal finding by the commission to that effect.

"When once an article has passed from the maker to a purchaser he owns it, and the owner of such article may sell it at any price that he chooses, provided he does not himself sell it at such price as to be below cost, and thus thereby enter into unfair competition with other retailers selling the same article.

"This decision is going to be open to considerable controversy in relation to the subject matter thereof, and the matter will probably have to be settled by an act of Congress in the manner suggested by Justice Brandeis in his concurring opinion in the Supreme Court of the United States, in the case of the American Graphophone Company.

"The Stephens bill which is now in Congress is in relation to that matter, but in the estimation of many business men and others it is thought to be broader than it should be. It may be that resale prices can be so regulated by placing the power somewhere protecting against unfair prices as to make it work equitably, and be a fair method of competition in commerce, but that question will undoubtedly have to be settled by Congressional action."

FRENCH CHAPLAIN SANGUINE

Abbe Flynn Denies France Has Been "Bled White."

The Rev. Patrick Flynn, chaplain with the Second French Army in its defense of Verdun, told 1,000 policemen at Police Headquarters last night that he believed the battle of the Marne, the defense of Verdun, and the arrival of the American forces, with the constant valor of an increasing British Army, made victory certain for the Allies.

He denied the assertion that France was "bled white," and said that although 1,300,000 Frenchmen had been killed in battle or had died from disease or wounds, and 1,200,000 had been maimed or taken prisoner, an army of 4,725,000 men was fighting against a weakening opponent. He said that every French soldier was confident of victory after repulsing a powerful foe at the Marne and Verdun with an army about 1,000,000 fewer than France has now.

Abbe Flynn said that the consolidation of the Allied armies made more certain that all religious prejudices would be wiped out and that the Allies would be unified in all things for the advancement of civilization.

GERMANS LAY TRADE PLANS.

Already Preparing for Economic Struggle After the War.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—An official French dispatch received from Basle today states that active industrial preparations are being carried forward in Germany to meet conditions during the reconstruction period after the war.

"The great banking houses," said the dispatch, "the navigation companies, the manufacturers of chemical products, and great metallurgical companies are uniting in order to dominate the market and react against the economic war announced by the Allies.

"The woolen merchants are uniting their efforts to the same end. They have just founded at Bremen a society which, with the European Commercial Association, will be a council for the purchase of raw materials in Russia, Rumania and the adjacent countries.

"All the woolen merchants are to be admitted who, before the war, had on their own account imported at least 10,000 bales of wool per year. The founding of this society is considered the first step toward the woolen trust in territories under the economic influence of Germany."

URGES AMERICANS TO HELP.

Mme. During, Back from France, Says Civilization Is at Stake.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 3.—Mme. Elmire During, a native of France who has lived in New York for several years, has arrived at the Traymore here to recuperate after two years spent as an ambulance driver on the French front. Twelve relatives, including her brother, the youngest jurist in France, have been killed in the war. Her son, Maurice, is a student at Princeton.

"My message to Americans, delivered with all the fervor at my command," said Mme. During, "is to rush with all haste to back up the brave American boys who are fighting with the French and the British. Every American man and woman should work to the utmost to the one end. The Germans have become a lot of madmen, guided by the most tyrannical, the most cruel, the most heartless military maniac in history—the Kaiser.

"The Allies must triumph, or there is an end of civilization as the world has known it. The Germans are powerful, unscrupulous, and determined. They must be crushed with force."

NEW YORK BROKERS HELD.

Charged with Transacting Business After Their Firm Failed.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., May 3.—Three members of the defunct New York Stock Exchange brokerage firm of Atwater, Foote & Sherrill, with home offices in this city, were arrested here late this afternoon. Gilbert F. Foote and Harold W. Sherrill were charged with forgery, third degree; grand larceny, first degree, and the hypothecation of customers' securities and transacting business after insolvency. Morton Atwater was charged with transacting business after the firm was insolvent.

The defendants were arraigned before Supreme Court Justice Morschauser and waived examination for their cases to go to the Grand Jury. Bail was fixed at $20,000 in each case. District Attorney Aldrich made the charge in court that customers' securities to the amount of $250,000 had been hypothecated.

BAKERS' FLOUR ECONOMY.

Cracker Manufacturers Saved 164,000 Barrels in March.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Cracker and biscuit manufacturers conserved 164,000 barrels of wheat flour during the month of March, according to figures announced today by the Food Administration. Although they were not required to use substitutes in their products until April 14, during March 88 per cent. of their total output was comprised of substitutes for wheat.

The saving of 164,000 barrels was calculated on a basis of 335,000 barrels used in March, 1917. Under the Food Administration regulation restricting bakers to 70 per cent. of their last year's supplies, the manufacturers received only 235,000 barrels this year, using 171,000 of this.

VETERAN'S SIGHT RESTORED

Operation Relieves Skeyhill, Blinded at Gallipoli.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Blinded by a shell explosion at Gallipoli, in the early period of the war, Thomas Skeyhill, an Anzac private, had his sight restored here today by a simple operation on the vertebrae of his neck.

Examination of Skeyhill, who has been lecturing throughout the country in the interest of the Third Liberty Loan, showed vertebrae at the head of the spinal column slightly out of position, and a correction was easily made with the result that the blindness was dispelled. Physicians explained that the displaced vertebrae had impaired the functions of nerves indispensable to sight.

Naval Reserves Lose Columbus 1492

The New York Telephone Company made known yesterday that the changing of the United States Junior Naval Reserve telephone number, Columbus 1492, was due to the redistribution of the Columbus exchange. They can retain their patriotic number by paying the ordinary excess mileage rate, which would amount to $24 a year. F. H. Bethell, Vice President of the telephone company, said he realized the particular significance of Columbus 1492 being the telephone call of the junior sailors, but the telephone company was prevented from granting special privileges in numbers by a rule of the Public Service Commission.

REVERSES DIVORCE DECREE.

Appellate Division Orders New Trial of Opera Singer's Case.

A decree of divorce obtained by Mme. Margarete Matzenauer, the Metropolitan Opera contralto, from Edoardo Ferrari-Fontana, opera tenor, was reversed yesterday by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court and a new trial in the case was ordered. One of the grounds for the reversal was the fact that a New York lawyer who went to Rome in behalf of Mme. Matzenauer "besmirched himself by hiring himself out as a private detective."

Mme. Matzenauer, who married the tenor while they were singing together in Buenos Aires, lived with him for about three years, during which time they sang together here and abroad. They have one child. Their married life was somewhat stormy, due to a clash of artistic temperaments, the husband contending that one point of difference was over the present war, since he is an Italian and his wife is an Austrian. They separated two years ago, and Mme. Matzenauer sought grounds for a divorce.

One of her allegations was that Fontana in Rome went to a hotel with two young women and took a room near them. He testified that they were the daughters of a family friend, and that he was in the hotel solely in the rôle of protector.

Rules Against Schieffelin.

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court affirmed yesterday the decision of the lower court denying an injunction in the suit of William Jay Schieffelin of the Citizens Union against the Board of Estimate to restrain the raising by taxation of $2,061,364 or any other amount to pay the city's share of the cost of widening Queens Boulevard. The plaintiff contended that the cost should be met by the sale of corporate stock rather than by direct taxation. When the case had reached the Appellate Division the Board of Estimate had already included the item in the tax levy. The Appellate Division held that even if the action of the board were technically illegal, it is not such an illegality as can be prevented by a taxpayers' action.

PHILLIPS IS MISSING NOW.

Draft Delinquent Dismissed from Upton Has Left City.

Charles Francis Phillips, the draft delinquent, who was recently dismissed from Camp Upton as an undesirable person for service in the United States Army, and who was ordered returned to the camp by Provost Marshal General Crowder, was reported missing yesterday. Phillips, it was said, is believed to have left the city, one report being that he is on his way to Mexico. It is understood that the border military authorities have been notified to watch for him, and if he tries to cross the Rio Grande to arrest him as a deserter and return him to Fort Jay, Governors Island, for trial by court-martial.

It was also reported yesterday that a prominent Hindu who has been concerned in anti-British plots in this country intended to bring about rebellion in India has escaped into Mexico. This man is now under indictment in the Federal District of Southern New York.

Doing Without Is as Important as Doing

Staying at home and helping by saving does not seem like a very heroic part to play in the great war.

But it is just as necessary; just as important; just as honorable.

For every soldier who goes to fight, five tons of arms, ammunition, food, clothing and other equipment must be sent abroad.

If we consume as much food and other goods as usual, there will not be enough for our soldiers.

If we spend as much money on comforts and luxuries as usual, our Government will be unable to meet that enormous demand for military supplies, or to furnish the necessary transportation to carry them across the sea.

Your savings in MATERIALS are needed to make up that five tons for every soldier; your savings in MONEY are needed to enable the Government to buy those materials.

Our soldiers cannot fight without your help. Your part in the war is a big part—an essential part. DO IT WITH ALL YOUR MIGHT.

Buy all the Liberty Bonds you can.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Irregular Price Movements Leave Small Net Change—Closing Hours of Loan.

Selling of stocks which usually features the closing sessions of a week that has seen substantial advances brought about a halt in yesterday's upward movement in many issues, and the list closed highly irregular. Wall Street had one eye on the Liberty Loan activities, which seriously interrupted market trading, and the day's moderate total was considerably below Thursday's amount. The most active issues in yesterday's session closed the day at practically the levels established in the preceding session. Steel again touched its best price for the year without being able to pass that record, and afterward fell more than a point on profit taking transactions. It closed within ⅛ of its final figure on Thursday. Republic established a new high for the year by going to 85⅝, subsequently losing nearly all of its gain. There were numerous issues which showed better strength on small transactions, but the market moved in such a contrary fashion as to confuse any effort to trace the effect of the better tone carried in the day's war news.

Subscriptions to the Government loan were pouring in yesterday at a rate that guarantees at least a moderate over-subscription to the offer. There have been a multitude of small purchases which were put off until the last moment, and until opportunity has been given to collect these it will be impossible to estimate closely how much the various districts have surpassed their allotments.

The visit of the French soldiers and Anzac officers to the Financial District brought about a complete cessation of business in the Stock Exchange, while spirited competition for the distinction of buying the largest amount of bonds in honor of the poilus was bringing in a total of more than $3,000,000 on the floor. The day's subscriptions, as brought together up to noon, were disappointing by comparison with Thursday's record, but the largest amounts came after the total had been announced. As it stood at noon, the total for the entire country was within $60,000,000 of the $3,000,000,000 sought, with the New York District still short $125,000,000. Traders were inclined to the view that the ending of the campaign today will be followed by a new awakening of interest in stocks. To some extent this will be offset by the obligations to which investors have committed themselves in paying for the new bonds, but there is undoubtedly a very large volume of investment funds awaiting a clear indication of the outcome of the battles in progress on the western front.

GOOD SENTIMENT IN LONDON

Great Difficulty in Obtaining Shipping Shares.

LONDON, May 3.—Money was in ample supply today. Discounts were steady.

In the stock market the news from the western front inspired a good sentiment throughout the list. There was a larger volume of business, in which the investment shares moved up. Japanese and French issues were strong.

There was a considerable call for shipping shares, which were difficult to obtain. In the base metal and gold mining section an expansion of the demand was evident. The industrials were firm, particularly the cement stocks, on the revival of rumors that the Government intends to take over the cement works.

Trading Active on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, May 3.—Trading was active on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes, 58 francs 50 centimes for cash. Exchange on London, 27 francs 15½ centimes. Five per cent. loan, 87 francs 50 centimes.

PAID $13,000,000 IN TAXES.

Total of 3 Per Cent. Levy on Corporation Incomes Since Jan. 1.

ALBANY, May 3.—Over $13,000,000 has been received so far from the new corporation income tax, Controller Travis announced today. This amount—exactly $13,110,935—the Controller shows, represents a 3 per cent. tax on the net incomes of all mercantile and manufacturing companies doing business in the State since Jan. 1 last.

Under the law the Controller returns to the localities where the corporations are situated one-third of the amount collected. During the first quarter $12,263,458 was received, $8,175,639 going to the State and $4,087,819 to the several counties. The amount collected last month to be distributed totaled $847,476. Of the third remitted $2,339,010 represents New York City's share.

No Need to Tax the Memory.
If you read it in The New York Times you will find the date and a brief synopsis in The New York Times Index. Issued quarterly since the first day of 1913. Sent for examination. $2.00 an issue, $8.00 per year. The New York Times Index, Times Square.—Advt.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Cerro de Pasco Bonds Converted.

The Cerro de Pasco Copper Corporation now has outstanding approximately 918,000 shares of stock and no bonds. The last of the original $10,000,000 bonds was retired last Wednesday. About $9,927,000 bonds were converted into stock. The elimination of the funded debt does away with interest charges, but a more important factor is the relief which the company gets from sinking fund charges of one-third the net profits each year while the bonds were outstanding.

The Copper Price Situation.

Copper producers and refiners are scheduled to consult with representatives of the War Industries Board on May 22 in regard to the fixed price for the metal. The copper men placed many facts in regard to increased costs before the War Industries Board on May 1, which are to be studied in the interval. It is understood that an increase from 23½ cents to 24½ cents a pound will be asked, the advance to be used chiefly to offset higher refinery costs.

Profit on Car Orders.

A 5 per cent. profit on the new Government car orders looks small against the background of unusual returns made by manufacturers on certain war orders. Altered into dollars, however, it has a different aspect. Assuming that the American Car & Foundry Company does $90,000,000 worth of business on 30,000 cars, the profit will be $4,500,000, equal to the 7 per cent. preferred stock dividend and more than 7½ per cent. on the common stock. An order of this size would occupy the plants about four months at full capacity.

Pullman Business Booms.

J. S. Runnels, President of the Pullman Company, was quoted as saying in Chicago yesterday: "The sleeping car business is the best we ever had. Travel is in normal volume. When trains are taken off or the number of sleeping cars reduced the upper berths are filled. The extra persons carried in a car increase profits rapidly. Our earnings are the best we have ever shown and the prospect is encouraging."

Royal Dutch Dividend.

Declaration of the Royal Dutch Petroleum Company's interim dividend of 15 per cent., payable May 6 in Holland, indicates a new method of disbursing profits to shareowners. In the past an interim payment in January and a final dividend in July have comprised the year's distribution. The 15 per cent. dividend last January meant $2.17 for each American sub-share at the rate of exchange then prevailing. The portion of the American shares in the latest declaration has not yet been announced.

Southern Sales of Cotton.

Just at this time one of the most interesting things in the cotton market is the amount of sales, compared with the quotations, in spot markets in the South. As opposed to recent sales of more than a thousand bales a day on several markets, the largest sales at any one market yesterday—New Orleans—totaled only 390 bales, at 28.50 cents. Galveston was 75 points lower, at 27.25c, but only 211 bales were sold. At Little Rock the price was 31 cents, unchanged, and 383 bales changed hands at this price. Savannah pegged its quotation at 32.50c, where it has been held for a long time, and sold no cotton at all. On the other hand, Houston sold 200 bales at 27 cents, off an entire cent.

Good Terms for Norwegians.

Further evidence of the excellent bargain which the owners of Norwegian shipping now in American ports have been allowed to make with the United States Shipping Board was given by the report yesterday that they will receive dispatch money for loading and discharge on the basis of 250 tons a day—that is, bonuses for speed in loading and unloading above that figure. If, as reported, they are to carry coal and ore between North and South American ports, shipping men incline to consider this "bogey" almost ridiculously low. There are about forty of these ships, aggregating, it is estimated, close to 100,000 tons.

Argentine Payments Resumed.

Bankers doing business with Argentina were informed by the Federal Reserve Bank yesterday that payments on account of remittances to Buenos Aires could again be made at the bank. The program was a continuation of the arrangement concluded between Federal Reserve officials and the Argentine Government more than two months ago to improve the position of the dollar at the Buenos Aires market without making necessary gold shipments at the present time. Under the original agreement it was provided that American importers pay in the amount of bills due South American merchants and that an equivalent amount be paid by the Argentine Government to the merchants on the other end. Balances are to be adjusted by gold shipments at the end of the war. The first step in the plan called for total payments of $40,000,000. These were reached around March 15. Officers of the Reserve Bank declined yesterday to make public the amount of the second quota.

COPPER PROFIT CUT IN HALF

Shattuck-Arizona Co. Earns $625,533 in March Quarter.

The Shattuck-Arizona Copper Company had a gross income of $625,533 in the March quarter, a decline of $694,000, or more than 50 per cent. from the result in the corresponding period last year. Expenses and taxes absorbed $429,311, compared with $623,471, and $10,704 was set aside for depreciation, this last being a charge not made in the first quarter last year and the year before that.

The surplus for dividends amounted to $185,518, against $696,159. It was equal to 53 cents a share of stock. Of the 2,717,075 pounds of copper produced in the three months, about 1,434,000 pounds were sold to the Government at 23½ cents a pound. It was necessary to carry an unusually large amount of metal over because of delays in deliveries from the refinery. The net operating cost was 12.88 cents a pound for copper.

You know the solid investment worth of LIBERTY BONDS.

Over and above that, have you considered what the SUCCESS OF THE LOAN is worth to you?—what its failure would mean?

The oversubscription of the Third Liberty Loan will be an enormous encouragement to our boys in France; to our hardpressed Allies; to the whole civilized world.

It will serve notice once more on Germany's insolent war-lords that they are up against a UNITED AMERICAN PEOPLE.

It will hasten the final day of American Victory. It will make that Victory certain and decisive.

American Victory means, besides many other things, relief from burdensome taxes, the restoration of stable financial conditions, probably one of the most prosperous periods in the history of the country.

COTTON MEN PLEDGE ALL TO THE NATION

Joint Convention of Manufacturers Demands the 'Utter and Complete' Defeat of Germany.

READY FOR PRICE CONTROL

Urge Rationing Plan for Cotton and Its Products — Banker Harris Urges Vigorous War Efforts.

Peace with victory was demanded yesterday at the closing session of the joint convention of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers and the American Cotton Manufacturers' Association held at the Biltmore. The discussions during the three days of the big gathering of cotton manufacturers had made it plain that no patched-up peace would satisfy the mill owners, whether from the North or the South. Accordingly, when the Committee on Resolutions of the National Association called for the prosecution of the war to a victorious peace the resolution was passed unanimously amid prolonged cheers. The preamble and resolution read:

Whereas, In the war in which we are engaged against Germany and her allies the sacred rights of free men everywhere are at stake, and only by the utter and complete defeat of our enemies can liberty and peace be made dominant and continuing forces in the world:

Resolved, That the members of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, collectively and individually, pledge themselves to the sacrifice where needed of life, labor, and means, and of all that they love, to the end that justice shall reign among men and nations, and selfish and unrighteous force be cast down into the dust.

While the resolution calling for war with the German Government to a finish, as well as other resolutions, were passed by each of the two cotton organizations in separate meetings, all were identical in language or spirit. All of the discussions on the resolutions revealed that sectional lines had disappeared in the cotton industry of the nation in the determination to win the war and back the Government to the limit.

Another resolution pledged the manufacturers to assist the Government in every way in its utilization of its resources of men, materials, and transportation, to the end that the production of luxuries and nonessentials might be reduced as rapidly as possible, and all such forces thus made free for the production and transportation of products essential to the prosecution of the war and the maintenance of our civilian population.

Ready to Accept Government Control.

Both of the big cotton associations yesterday defined their attitude toward Government control and price-fixing. It was set forth by both associations that they would "cheerfully accept control and price-fixing of their products, if the Administration deems such action necessary to win the war."

The resolutions adopted on the subject held that, should action be taken, the interests of the country would be best conserved by applying as nearly as possible the same regulations to all industries, and to all branches of the industries—the producer, the manufacturer, the wholesaler, and the retailer. It was also emphasized that the prosperity of industrial America was essential to the financing of the war, and that any plan for price fixing or other control should rest upon the basis of such a return on capital invested as would continue to yield the necessary taxes and to provide funds for the purchase of the bonds required. The secretaries of the associations were directed to send copies of the price-fixing resolutions to President Wilson, Secretary of the Treasury, and members of the fiscal committees of Congress.

The convention by resolution deprecated recent reports to the effect that cotton was still finding its way into Germany, and in view of this called upon the Government to ration cotton and its products as follows: (1) The military needs of the United States; (2) the military needs of the Allies; (3) the needs of neutrals for goods for the military equipment of the Allies; (4) the civilian needs of the United States; (5) the civilian needs of our allies; (6) the civilian needs of neutrals, and under this head the certainty that in no way should this cotton reach enemy countries.

The manufacturers asked the Priorities Committee of the War Industries Board to put coal on the preferential list of essential industries, particularly in view of Secretary of the Navy Daniels's statement made at Thursday night's dinner of the convention that the cotton industry was essential to the winning of the war.

One of the most significant resolutions, of the many adopted, was this:

Resolved, That the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers go on record as favoring such trade relations against our enemy as may be required to prevent their developing or over-encouraging apparently peaceful industries for the possible purpose of strengthening their supplies for war or to be useful to them for the purpose of forcing their views on the world.

It was brought out that American cotton manufacturers through the purchase of dyes from Germany unconsciously helped to build up munition factories to aid the German Government in its policy of conquest and robbery. In order to prevent such a condition existing after peace is declared, the American and allied Governments were urged to study all available means for controlling the sale of all essential raw materials to the end that after the war the organized purchasing power of the enemy be not used to obtain raw materials at prices more favorable than those commanded by the Allies.

Other resolutions adopted opposed riders attached to appropriation bills in Congress which would reduce maximum production of war industries; opposed the proposed fifty-four-hour week bill pending in the Massachusetts Legislature, and called upon employers and employes to support the decisions of the National War Labor Conference Board, of which ex-President William H. Taft is Chairman.

At the morning session of the convention and following the presentation of the gold medal of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers to John A. Stevens and associates for their paper, "The Evolution of the Steam Turbine in the Textile Industry," the members listened to addresses by Benjamin F. Harris, President of the First National Bank of Champaign, Ill., and to Charles H. Sabin, President of the Guaranty Trust Company, whose subject was "Adjusting Industry to the Strain of War Finance."

Mr. Harris in his speech demanded a more active prosecution of the war and a better organization of the powers of the nation for carrying the war through and for world reconstruction after the war. He was vigorous against socialism, of which he said that "it and the world are today going in opposite directions," but spoke hopefully of the possibilities suggested in the program of the British Labor Party.

"America's fundamental difficulty," Mr. Harris said, "and one of her greatest dangers lies in the lack, not necessarily of 'pitiless publicity,' but of an honest knowledge of essential facts. These must come from our leaders and departments, as well as from a bureau now become a special pleader that must stick to its text and title of Public Information, to the end that a comprehensive and virile public opinion may develop that cannot be easily used, swayed, or misled.

Favors Constructive Criticism.

"This war," he continued, "is so democratic, so personal; a war which we have to fight and pay for, and fight to see that it is fought in virile fashion; it is so much your war and my war, that it is impossible for any of us to withhold, and we must not withhold any suggestion or constructive criticism such as should be invited and welcomed.

"We cannot be neutral in thought or derelict in duty—such policy dishonors us, and we justly pay the price; we cannot stand behind what is behind; we cannot be dumb, when our conscience and our country call for a strict accountability. There are gaps between our rhetoric and our realization; between our idealism and our ideas, that strong, practical statesmanship and citizenship must close.

"We know there is a glaring discrepancy between our idealized democratic purposes in government and in this war, and the autocratic conduct of some of those who guided and are guiding industry, production and government. We have not anticipated, much less seen, or seeing, dared to face and factor the problems of the bewildering expansion of industrial life in its many and menacing social, economic and political phases. We are beginning to see that the dollar and peace are but incidents in the life of any man or nation that is to live.

"Unless the great and eternal forces working for us work earlier and more effectively than we dare to hope we face two or many years of war. Peace cannot be made with a serpent nor treaties with a wild beast. Months ago it was our clear duty to tear out by the roots all disloyalty and Bolshevism under our flag. For shame, that we have yet to hear the report from the first firing squad.

"Country Is not Aroused."

"The country is not aroused, is not efficient, largely because of the psychology of its leadership, if it is leadership. We have been weak, like Kerensky, in dealing with facts and traitors; we have trifled like Trotzky with diplomats and our national life, exhibiting meanwhile a disconcerting and damning pacifist taint that 'thanks God we were wholly unprepared' and makes ready to repeat."

Discussing labor and capital in the industrial side of the war, Mr. Harris said that there had been too much talk of labor having more at stake than others. "All of us have everything at stake," said Mr. Harris. "The Secretary of War, the right man in the wrong place, was probably the first to start and widely use the vicious cost-plus system. This directly and indirectly is widely responsible for many of our labor and cost troubles.

"The Government should have an economic and financial strategy board that should tell us immediately exactly to what extent they demand production in different plants and industries; the increased working hours, shifts and men they must have, and then see that the men are put into those industries. When this is done the Government will be getting first choice and first service, and we individual citizens will gladly take what is left for us, and we will do without what we can't get, whether it is called an essential or a nonessential.

"A month before the war was declared I said that the nation would eventually indict those in authority who had failed to employ the thirty months before that in preparing for the situation in which we then found ourselves. I am willing to let that statement stand, and add that our Allies and democracies everywhere will indict and point to us as a glaring example of the acme of inefficiency; of square pegging round holes; of wasting priceless, precious months, with our officials meanwhile actually and publicly bragging that they were to produce twice as much shipping as they have produced, and 300 times as many airplanes as have been produced, &c.

"Before peace comes," Mr. Harris said in conclusion, "we must provide greatly enlarged powers to federally incorporate, supervise, and regulate our great railroad systems through the Interstate Commerce Commission. Inasmuch as capital is, and properly, placed within the control of that commission, and inasmuch as labor is getting more than 50 per cent. of the gross railway income, it, too, should be placed in the hands of the commission.

"We will have to have plain, matter-of-fact aid or protection for our manufactures after the war—real, not idealized. It goes without saying that our foreign banking must be encouraged. Likewise, we must have the metric system of weights and measures.

"In peace and war, in season and out, we must stand for a thoroughgoing Americanization of ourselves and our newcomers and for a disciplining, compulsory military training for all our boys."

Mr. Sabin, in his address, predicted that the position of this country would be materially improved at the close of the war.

"We have become a creditor nation," he said, "and will continue to be. At the outbreak of the war we were debtors to the extent of $5,000,000,000 or $6,000,000,000. Since then we have received over $1,000,000,000 from abroad. We have bought abroad probably $2,500,000,000 of our securities, and we have loaned through private channels approximately $2,000,000,000 to foreign countries, and, in addition, our own Government has given war credits in the way of advances to the Allies of approximately $5,000,000,000.

"How much further this process will go no one can estimate at this time, but it is certain that the declaration of peace will leave us in a strong position as a creditor nation."

The election of officers by the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers resulted as follows: President, W. Frank Shove, Fall River, Mass.; Vice Presidents, Russell B. Lowe, Fitchburg, Mass., and James Thomson, New Bedford, Mass.; Directors for one year, Lewis Dexter, Manchester, N. H., and John Skinner, Easthampton, Mass.; Directors for two years, Albert Blum, New York, and Charles M. Holmes, New Bedford, Mass.; Directors for three years, J. Arthur Atwood, Providence, R. I.; Charles B. Chase, Fall River, Mass.; Grosvenor Ely, Norwich, Conn.; Frederick L. Jenckes, Pawtucket, R. I., and William L. Lyall, Passaic, N. J.

The American Cotton Manufacturers' Association elected these officers: President, Arthur J. Draper, Charlotte, N. C.; Vice President, James D. Hammett, Anderson, S. C.; Secretary-Treasurer, Winston D. Adams, Charlotte, N. C., and Chairman of the Board of Governors, Allen F. Johnson, Atlanta, Ga.

The annual meeting of the National Council of American Cotton Manufacturers took place last night at the Biltmore. The meeting was of an executive character and was designed, among other things, to map out a plan of procedure for the ensuing year. Stuart W. Cramer was chosen Chairman; Edwin Farnham Greene, Vice Chairman; Albert Farwell Bemis, Treasurer, and Winston D. Adams, Secretary.

New National Banks Chartered.

The report of the Controller of the Currency, as of May 1, on the national bank charters during the first four months of this year, with a comparison with the first four months of last year, shows that this year there have been ninety-six applications for new charters for national banks, with capital aggregating $5,040,000, against 135 applications for 1917, with capital of $7,815,000. Of these fifty-one charters were granted, as compared with fifty-two granted during the same period a year ago. Seventy-nine national banks increased their capital stock, and three reduced it. Twenty-three went into voluntary liquidation, whereas twenty-eight did so in 1917. Nine applications were refused.

Pierce Oil Profits $3,954,771.

The Pierce Oil Corporation and the Pierce Fordyce Oil Association show combined gross profits of $3,954,771 in the 1917 report, an increase of $317,262 over the net in the preceding year. This was the result of oil operations. Outside income amounted to $154,272, and charges totaled $652,482 before providing for $717,967 interest and $933,445 depreciation. Federal taxes absorbed $106,000, compared with $91,304 in 1916, and a final surplus of $1,609,490 remained, compared with $2,451,076 the year before.

Copper Production Falls Off.

The Anaconda Copper Mining Company produced 26,500,000 pounds of copper in April, a decline of 1,500,000 pounds from the total in March. The fact that April contained one less working day than March was the principal factor in bringing about the decline, as operations at the mines have been making satisfactory progress.

The Inspiration Consolidated Copper Company turned out 9,250,000 pounds in April, as compared with 8,750,000 in March and 6,200,000 in February. The Miami Copper Company's April output was 4,913,600 pounds, against 5,174,365 in March and 4,602,365 in February.

BOARD OF ESTIMATE AGAINST ASTOR PLAN

Denies His Petition to Erect a Business Building in Madison Avenue.

REVERSES STANDARD BOARD

Representatives of J. P. Morgan Succeed in Keeping Section Free for Residences.

The Board of Estimate yesterday reversed the action of the Board of Standards and Appeals in authorizing Baron William Waldorf Astor to erect a business building on the Astor property on Madison Avenue, between Thirty-fifth and Thirty-sixth Streets. Representatives of J. P. Morgan have sought to keep the section restricted to residential use, and recently the Committee on City Planning and Public Improvements, of which Borough President Frank L. Dowling is Chairman, reported in favor of such restriction.

Mr. Dowling presented his report yesterday denying the petition of Baron Astor, and demanded to know whether or not the Board of Estimate had full jurisdiction over the matter, or whether the action of the Board of Standards and Appeals was final. He explained that his committee is charged with investigation of all applications for changing sections of the city from residential to unrestricted business districts, and is supposed to safeguard the homes of city residents from invasion by garages, factories, mills and generally undesirable neighbors. The Borough President said:

"If zoning restrictions imposed by the Board of Estimate can be upset and defied at will by the Board of Standards and Appeals this board might just as well abandon its attitude of jurisdiction over the character of buildings to be erected in various parts of the city. The Board of Estimate has twice disapproved of the application of Baron Astor to invade this residential section in Madison Avenue, but if the Board of Estimate has no authority in the matter, or if it is disposed to surrender its authority, we might just as well know it now. We have scores of applications before the Committee on City Plan of the Board of Estimate to change zoning regulations. If all applications pending today for authority to erect garages alongside of public schools, public libraries, and hospitals are to be renewed in the Board of Standards and Appeals with the likelihood of having that board ignore or override the Board of Estimate, I think we ought to know it. We ought also to know whether or not we are to surrender the right of protection that we have exercised as to the invasion of residential districts by manufacturing and business buildings."

The Borough President then suggested that the Board of Estimate sustain his report and refer the matter to the Corporation Counsel for an opinion as to what steps could be taken to nullify the action of the Board of Standards and Appeals, and this was done.

The board considered a communication from the Merchants' Refrigerating Company stating that the New York Central Railroad had refused to construct a spur track in Tenth Avenue between Sixteenth and Seventeenth Streets to connect their new cold storage warehouse with the main tracks of the road because the city had insisted upon the payment of $1 for each car removed over the spur. The railroad company had declared that such payment would prove burdensome and would be detrimental to shippers in Manhattan, and would tend to divert traffic to adjacent points in New Jersey.

"I don't think we ought to allow the New York Central Railroad to come in here and accuse us of delaying the war because we do not pass a resolution giving the railroad permission to pay for this spur the way they want to pay for it, when the truth of the matter is that the New York Central is delaying the war because it won't pay the dollar a car the city demands," said Controller Craig. "I think anything of this kind ought to be nipped in the bud."

John W. Dixon, counsel for the refrigerating company, pointed out that in all cases excepting the present one the city charges a flat yearly franchise rate determined by the assessed value of the property. He informed the board that if the dollar a car was insisted upon his company would have to pay it, and, ultimately, the consumer.

"Who is the President of your company?" asked the Controller.

"W. Fellowes Morgan," replied Mr. Dixon.

"The President of the Merchants' Association?"

"Yes."

"Oh," said the Controller, "isn't he the man who kept the New York Central where it is?"

"I don't know anything about that," replied Mr. Dixon. "I am here as a lawyer." After further argument the board refused to modify the terms.

THE CONDITION OF TRADE.

The extension of Government participation in the markets for materials and supplies is noted by the commercial agencies as the primary feature of the current week's developments. Dun's Review says:

The movement to control commodity markets is spreading, hides and skins having come definitely under the price-regulating program, and available supplies of materials and merchandise are not only diminishing steadily, but some important articles are no longer obtainable for civilian uses. This obviously tends to limit activities, and ordinary transactions, while still bulking heavy in the aggregate, are not in all instances what they were before it became necessary to subordinate all other demands to Government requirements. The extreme and rising costs, moreover, compel economy and retrenchment in many quarters, and there has been the added restriction on retail trade of unseasonably low temperatures over a wide area.

Total bank exchanges this week at the principal cities in the United States amount to $5,261,239,300, a decrease of 11.6 per cent. as compared with the same week last year. New York reports a loss of 19.5 per cent., and this largely accounts for the falling off from a year ago, inasmuch as most of the cities outside the metropolis show more or less gain, and the aggregate at all points is 5.3 per cent. larger than for this week in 1917.

Bradstreet's says:

Retail trade has been adversely affected by cold weather that has extended over a wide area, as well as by the great popular response to the Third Liberty Loan, but these transient factors are eclipsed by fears that textiles for Fall and Winter are likely to be very scarce, and while ordinarily the possibility, if not the probability, of the Government stepping in to fix prices would bring about a sharp pause in buying, the fact is that in some instances buyers are paying now for fabrics intended for distribution next Autumn.

To Pay French Credit Installment.

Bonbright & Co., Inc., announced yesterday that funds had been received from the French banks participating in the $15,000,000 French export credit of March 12, 1917, for the payment of the second $5,000,000 installment under that credit due May 7, 1918. This makes a total of $55,000,000 repaid by the French banks against four similar credits for a like amount arranged to finance part of our French allies' purchases of war materials in this country. There remains to be paid only one more installment of $5,000,000, which has not yet matured.

Net Income Is 3.85 Per Cent. on the Preferred, with Nothing for the Common.

HEAVY OPERATING EXPENSE

Increased $11,430,912 Over 1916—Earnings in Previous Year Were $16,717,357.

The report of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Company for the calendar year 1917, concerning which there has been a great deal of curiosity and much speculation because of the postponement for four months of action on its dividends, with reports that the road had not earned its preferred stock dividend, was issued yesterday. The report reveals that during 1917 the St. Paul earned a net corporate income over its fixed charges of $4,468,631.

Comparison is not made with the calendar year 1916, because last year, in accordance with orders from the Interstate Commerce Commission, the St. Paul, along with all other railroads which had not already done so, changed its fiscal year to agree with the calendar year. The income for 1917 of $4,468,631, however, may be compared with the net corporate income of the St. Paul for the year ended June 30, 1916, the last previously reported, of $16,717,357.

The St. Paul has been paying dividends of 4 per cent. on its common and 7 per cent. on its preferred stock. As there is $115,845,800 worth of preferred stock in the hands of the public, it earned for the year barely 3.85 per cent. on its preferred stock, with nothing left over for the common. The fact that in face of this situation the Directors, instead of passing both dividends, have deferred action for four months in succession, is understood to indicate an expectation that the terms of the road's contract with the Government, and its rental based on the average of three years, will permit retention of the dividend rate. The income for 1916, as mentioned above, would alone, when averaged with 1917, cover the dividend rate. Much of the St. Paul stock, it is understood, is held by savings banks, which by law in many States cannot invest in railroad stock unless the dividend is earned with certain margins.

The gross operating revenues for 1917 amounted to $113,789,201, an increase of $3,129,512, but in the same period operating expenses increased by $11,430,912, to a total of $85,195,963, thus cutting the net operating revenue from $36,844,637 to $28,543,237. At the same time taxes mounted to a total of $6,517,211, against $5,480,119 for the previous year, bringing the operating income down to $22,026,025, a loss of over $9,000,000. The funded debt was reduced slightly by $243,000, but the interest charges still amounted to $16,596,623, thus leaving the net income at $4,468,631.

President Byram in his report said that 80 per cent. of the permanent work on the subways for eliminating grade crossings in Chicago has been done, and thirty-seven grade crossings in that city have been eliminated. During the year, also, the elevation of the tracks in Milwaukee was completed, and the new subway ordered by the Wisconsin Railroad Commission at Portage constructed. Electrification of the 217 miles of the road from Othello to Seattle and Tacoma was commenced in March last year and will probably be completed by July 1, 1919.

WHEAT.

While the movement of wheat at interior points continues of discouragingly small proportions, it is the prevailing belief in some quarters that there is still a probability that there may be some increase before the season closes. It is thought that there is still a fair amount of wheat on the farms which the Food Administration is anxious to see marketed, and considerable pressure has been brought to bear in this direction. A very large proportion of the wheat now moving is going to Europe in one form or another, and the main effort of the Administration at present is to maintain its shipments to our army in Europe and to our Allies.

RYE.

The local rye market was dull and featureless, with no prices named, while in the West Minneapolis was 1 cent lower at $2.67 and Chicago and Duluth were nominal.

CORN.

After showing more or less weakness early, the corn market rallied sharply toward the close on covering. The July position in Chicago sold up to $1.49⅝, an advance of 5½c from the low point of Thursday. In the local cash market trading was dull but prices were steady, kiln dried No. 3 yellow being quoted at $1.60; No. 4 yellow, $1.55; No. 3 white, $1.80, cost and freight New York.

PROVISIONS.

A firmer tone prevailed in the provision market, and prices at the close were at the top. Hogs were higher and the movement at Western points was moderate. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 20,000 head; estimated for Saturday, 14,000 head; Kansas City received 5,000 head and Omaha 9,800 head.

COFFEE.

Yesterday's coffee market was again a very quiet affair. The market opened unchanged to an advance of 1 point and trading was practically at a standstill all the morning. Prices advanced later in the day, closing at net gains of 5 to 8 points, but the improvement was the result of a very few buying orders appearing around the ring with no pressure to sell in evidence. In the local spot market business continues very quiet, interior buyers being stocked up and not showing an interest in offerings. Range of prices:

SUGAR.

While one or two local refiners remain withdrawn from the market, the two or three which are in a position to take business are reported to be making liberal allotments and buyers are less keen. The country trade is being well taken care of and at the moment the situation shows considerable improvement. The International Sugar Committee reported purchases of 130,000 bags Cubas, May shipment, at 4.985c, cost and freight. Purchases so far through the committee for May shipment amount to about 175,000 tons, a good start toward the hoped-for 300,000 tons for the month.

LOSS ON RAILROADS SO FAR, $100,000,000

First Three Months of Government Operation Yields Net Income of Only $54,108,661.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—During the first three months of Government regulation, 114 American railroads showed a net operating income of $54,108,661, against $144,011,399 for the same period under private direction in 1917.

For the three-month period ending with March, Interstate Commerce Commission statistics issued today show operating revenues were $726,011,329, against $688,178,857 in 1917; operating expenses, $637,784,608, against $512,775,369, and net revenue from railway operations, $88,226,721 against $175,398,488. The operating income for March was $50,628,302 as against $57,592,067, the same month last year.

The earnings report indicates roughly that the Government lost more than $100,000,000 in operation of the railroads during January, February and March. Railroad administration officials looked for such a record as a result of bad weather and traffic losses in January. They believe the loss will be made up in later months. March earnings, although far below normal, are almost twice as much as in February, and are much better than in January, when a deficit in railway operating income was reported.

For the first time, the Interstate Commerce Commission reported the item of "net operating income," which is the basis for Government compensation. This, for the 114 roads reporting, amounted to $46,595,000, which is the operating income, less expenditures for equipment, rents and joint facility rents. For the same roads in the corresponding period of last year, this item was $134,000,000.

The commission's report for March is incomplete, since returns are expected from eighty-two additional roads.

MAYOR'S PROTEST IGNORED.

Craig, Smith, Dowling, and Bruckner Vote Against Him in Board.

The request of the Public Service Commission that the Board of Estimate consent to a relocation of the Fourteenth Street-Eastern Rapid Transit line between Bushwick Avenue and Bogart Street, Brooklyn, was granted by the board yesterday by a vote of nine to seven, in spite of the protest of Mayor Hylan. With the request the commission sent an explanation to the effect that the desired modification of the plans would save much money in the cost of real estate and in construction, and would better serve the public.

The Mayor objected on the ground that the new route would destroy from forty to sixty houses, but Chief Engineer Lewis of the board did not agree with this statement. Those who voted in opposition to the Mayor were Controller Craig, President Smith of the Board of Aldermen, Borough President Dowling of Manhattan, and Borough President Bruckner of the Bronx. The Mayor smiled over his defeat and remarked:

"Well, I had Queens, Brooklyn, and Richmond with me. We are right on the ground and are familiar with the matter."

THE COTTON MARKET

Net Decline of 83 to 105 Points Carries Prices Back Close to Recent Low Level.

The local cotton market continued weak yesterday under general selling and very little demand from any quarter, and worked back very close to the low level of the present movement, closing at a net decline of from 83 to 105 points. There were no particularly new developments, beyond more favorable weather and crop prospects, and the decline was generally attributed to a combination of the same factors which have been sending prices down for the last month, with perhaps a little more aggressive short selling than usual.

Market observers yesterday were attributing the fact that spot markets are still far higher than futures to nothing more significant than the stubborn refusal of holders of cotton to recognize that their opportunity has passed and that the carry-over this year will be ample for buyers' needs in this country, no matter how great the scarcity abroad owing to shipping shortage. The selling was said to be about equally divided between liquidation of long cotton, with the undoing of hedges against actual, and fresh short selling.

The opening was irregular, off from 15 to 47 points, and prices broke some fifty points further immediately after the call. The covering rally in the middle of the day brought prices back some thirty-odd points, indicating that some of the bear operators were not overconfident, or at least content with a moderate turn, but as soon as this coterie had covered, the market turned weak again, and offerings even increased in volume. The close was practically at the bottom, and there was only enough profit taking at the close to hold prices stationary.

Exports yesterday were 5,426 bales, making 3,264,033 so far this season. Southern spot markets were unchanged to 100 points lower on very small business.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

DRY GOODS SALES IMPROVE.

Wholesale Distribution Is Well Ahead of This Time Last Year.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 3.—Marshall Field & Co., in their weekly review of the dry goods trade, say:

"Current wholesale distribution of dry goods is well ahead of the corresponding period a year ago. Road sales for both immediate and future shipment show good increases over the same week in 1917. Merchants have been into market in about the same number. Collections are excellent."

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 2,429 packages, including 300 packages in transit for export. Comparatively little desirable fresh creamery was carried over Thursday night, and the arrivals were very light. A number of jobbers wanted stock and prices advanced another ½c with the market closing firm. Ladles and packing stock slightly favor the seller. Creamery, higher than extras, a lb., 47@47½c; extras, 92 score, 46½c; firsts, 88 to 91 score, 43½@46c; seconds, 83 to 87 score, 39½@43c; thirds, 37½@38½c; creamery, unsalted, higher than extras, 49@49½c; extras, 48@48½c; firsts, 45@47½c; seconds, 41½@44½c; State dairy, tubs, finest, 46@46½c; good to prime, 43½@45½c; common to fair, 37@43c; renovated, extras, 39@40c; firsts, 38@38½c; lower grades, 34@37c; imitation creamery, firsts, 35@36c; ladles, current make, firsts, 33¼@34½c; seconds, 32½@33c; lower grades, 31@32c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 32½@33c; No. 2, 32c; lower grades, 29@31c.

EGGS.—21,229 cases. The market is steady on high grades of current packed Western medium and ordinary qualities are freely offered. Storage packings moving slowly, and outside quotation extreme for important movement unless the goods are of exceptional fancy quality; some pot marks already in storage command slightly higher bids. Dirties more plentiful, moving slowly, and outside quotation more extreme. Checks about steady. Nearby white eggs steady, with a moderate demand for strictly fancy goods, but much of the supply has no value above the range of 39@41c. Fresh gathered extras, a dozen, 38@38½c; storage packed firsts, 36½@37¼c; regular packed extra firsts, 36½@37c; regular packed firsts, 35@36c; seconds and poorer, 33@34½c; fresh-gathered dirties, No. 1, 32½@33¼c; No. 2 and poorer, 31@32c; fresh-gathered checks, good to choice, dry, 29@30½c; undergrades, 24@28c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby Western hennery whites, fine to fancy, 41@42c; ordinary to prime, 38@40c; gathered whites, ordinary to fine, 37@40c; Western and Southern gathered whites, 37@39c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby hennery browns, 38@39c; gathered brown and mixed colors, 35@37c; duck eggs, 29@45c.

COMMODITIES PRICES.

An Excess of Advances Shown in the Changes Last Week.

Wholesale prices again took a turn upward this week, according to the quotations given in Dun's list, with the result that the current excess of advances over declines was twice that of last week. Sixty-six changes were shown this week, against sixty last, of which the respective advances were forty-three and thirty-five. The changes in the foodstuffs, save in the dairy products, were about equally divided between gains and losses.

The following list gives the minimum wholesale prices quoted on forty-one standard commodities this week at this city, unless otherwise specified. They are corrected to yesterday, and with them are given the corresponding prices for last week and the same week a year ago:

†Government basis.

After a short breathing spell prices in the dairy products took a turn upward. The best butter advanced to a point 5 cents a pound higher than at this time in 1917, while cheese also advanced. The latter, however, is still cheaper than last year. Both fancy nearby and the best Western eggs went up, though the advances were small in both instances. However, they both cost more than the consumer had to pay for them a year ago.

Mess pork continued unchanged at Chicago, with live hogs and Middle Western lard higher. The week's declines were supplied by live beef, live sheep and short ribs. No changes were shown by the fresh or the dried fruits, but in the vegetables there was another sharp drop in the price of old potatoes. Last year's prices on them was more than three times as high as the current quotation. Onions and white turnips were also cheaper, but cabbage and rutabagas turnips went up. Choice pea beans and choice red and white kidney beans all were lower. Domestic fancy head rice went up for the second time in the last few weeks.

No changes took place in the listed coffees, and the only fluctuation in the teas was a rise in low Japan. In the spices Zanzibar cloves continued to get cheaper, while higher prices were asked for mace, nutmegs and white Singapore pepper. In the grains the only rise was in malt, the declines being contributed by corn and oats. Largely due to the increased demand resulting from the war, several advances were recorded in the various grades of burley tobacco in the list.

Governmental action in the regulation of hide prices resulted in no revisions either way in this part of the list, and the same was true of the kinds of leather quoted. In the lumber market advances were noted in white pine, cypress, mahogany, and cherry. There were no declines. After a period of price weakness, common Hudson River brick regained some of the lost ground. In the metals the only changes were advances in antimony and tin.

Declines in certain narcotics, notably jobbing lots of opium and morphine sulphate, marked the week's changes in the combined lists for drugs, chemicals, dyestuffs, and oils. In this part of the general list there were sixteen revisions, of which nine were advances. In the naval stores resin and turpentine were higher. Spirits advanced at Cincinnati. Other changes included a rise in English vermilion paint and a decline in Brazilian crude rubber.

The textile markets lacked their usual snap and interest this week. Bleached goods and staple ginghams were higher, largely as a result of confirmation of former prices, tentatively made. Gray goods were easier, and quoting them on the basis of second-hand selling figures they showed quite a little decline from recent high levels. Burlaps, while steady for the most part, could easily have been more active.

UNITED STATES GOVT. BONDS

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

The market on the Consolidated Stock Exchange closed yesterday practically unchanged. Fractional fluctuations were recorded in the final quotations, with a majority of the active issues showing small declines. The entire list, however, was off about a point from the high marks of the season. Profit taking was much in evidence during the day. Trading was in good volume, especially in the afternoon session, but wholly professional in character.

Tailored Dresses Sought.

Tailored dresses in close fitting smart effects, both for street and sports wear, are being called for in the reorders that local manufacturers have received during the last few weeks. Serge and wool jersey cloth are apparently dividing the honors in these garments, with fibre silk next in the order of popularity. Navy blue and pearl gray are very popular in the serges, while in the jersey weaves pepper and salt effects in dark but rich shades seem to be most generally favored. Girdles or leather belts are worn with most of the dresses, some of which are made up in variations of the surplice style.

Late Styles in Motor Coats.

Many of the latest style developments in motor coats for women are proving very popular. They include models made up along straight lines with large cape collars and kimono sleeves. Belts, frequently of leather, are being wound in and out through slashes around the waist, and extremely large flaring pockets are being used. The colors which seem to be most generally favored just now are of the brighter variety. Very light tan and the new olive drab are among the most sought. Only the very modified military effects are taken in large quantities, though the more extreme creations are not entirely neglected.

Pile Fabrics Are Popular.

Local sellers of pile fabrics report that the demand all Spring for velvets, velveteens and corduroys has been exceptionally good. Retailers everywhere are said to have taken liberal quantities of the lighter weights, suitable for the Spring and Summer trade, and in a great many cases, it seems, they have come back to market for "a second helping." The cutting trades, however, have been the best buyers. It was pointed out that velvets and velveteens have been very popular in dresses and suits this season, and that corduroys have been among the generally favored fabrics for separate skirts, particularly sports skirts.

Middy Blouse Refinements.

Refinements of the middy blouse are making their appearance in the latest waist offerings of the local trade, and it is said that they are attracting a great deal of very favorable comment from buyers generally. Instead of the usual coarse fabrics, however, they are made of the finest silks in oriental colorings and extensively worked in beaded designs of various sorts. In some cases sleeves are made very much fuller than they have been this year. Though some of them button down the sides or the back, many are of the slip-on type, just as the old "middies" were. In all cases they are to be worn outside the skirt.

Knit Goods Men Elect Officers.

Victor P. Sahner was re-elected President of the National Association of Knit Goods Selling Agents at the annual meeting of that organization here yesterday, and J. P. Quinlan was again made Treasurer. Thomas Googerty was elected Vice President. Other business at the meeting included a general discussion of the proposed Board of Arbitration of the Knit Goods Industry, which is soon to be established in the hope of reducing litigation in the courts over trade matters to a minimum, as well as to establish the most cordial relations between the manufacturers, the jobbers and the selling agents. The proposed board will have fifteen members, five of whom will be appointed from each division of the industry. It is expected that the names of the five men who will represent the selling agents will be announced in the near future.

Gray Goods Prices Soften.

The continued lack of demand on the part of buyers, so far as the purchase of cloths from first hands is concerned, in the local gray goods market, is finally having the effect of making these factors come closer to the former's views as to what things are worth. Spot 39-inch 72-76s were sold from first hands yesterday at 21 cents, and though this price did not establish a new market level, the real level is somewhat lower than it was a week back. Second hands again sold 38½-inch 64-60s at 17 cents, this time for deliveries running from June to October. Sheetings were again quiet, but business was done at full prices on sateens, presumably meant for Red Cross consumption. The deliveries bought were May, June, and July. These were the average mill asking prices for printcloths at the close:

30-inch, 56-44s	15½c	38½-inch, 60-48s	16c
38½-inch, 64-64s	18½c	27-inch, 64-60s	13½c

Trying to Cut Down the Wait.

Apropos of the campaign to help the stores economize during wartime by encouraging the customers to "carry their own," there is a movement on foot to increase the number of charge "carries" by reducing the time that is required to have a purchase of this kind properly viséed. In some stores this can be done by the floor managers, while in others direct contact with the credit office is necessary. In both cases there is a certain amount of delay, and this delay is a fruitful source of customers having things sent. All they have to do in that event, in practically all the stores, is to ask the sales person to charge and send the article bought. This is a much quicker procedure for the customer, but one directly opposed to the best interests of the stores at the present time.

A New Kind of Swindling.

A new kind of confidence game, of which dry goods stores are sometimes the victims, was described to a TIMES reporter yesterday by the credit manager of one of the leading local establishments. According to the rules of this "game," the player must stand beside a customer who is making a charge purchase and carefully note the name and address of the customer as they are given to the clerk. Then the player must go to the cashier's office and request the bill of the customer whose name was noted. On receipt of this bill it must be paid by the player of the game by giving a worthless check, drawn on any bank. Then the receipted bill is asked for and is taken to some other department. There it is used as identification of the bearer as a charge customer. One man played this game so successfully that, by paying some one else's bill with a small but worthless check, he was enabled to buy and get "charged" about $1,500 worth of jewelry.

Novelty Skirts Doing Well.

An excellent business in separate skirts of a novelty order is now being done here for the current season. One of these has a novelty block check taffeta body, over which is a black voile tunic falling from waistline to knee. A second overskirt drops from the knee to the ankle, it also being of black voile. The lower skirt is trimmed with a border of the material in the body of the skirt, and the whole is finished off with a sash of similar material ending in a large silk tassel. Another novelty is a skirt of white satin showing a fancy border printed in black. This skirt also has a sash garniture and is further decorated with a novel single pocket. A skirt of plain cream serge shows an unusual border arrangement that consists of six rows of colored wool yarn. All of the colors are different, and they include blue, yellow, pink, red, green and black.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

Riverside Drive and Bronx Lots in Exchange—Other Selling Activity.

An important deal on Riverside Drive which forecasts the erection of a tall apartment house was closed yesterday by Anthony Campagna, President of the Lucania Realty Corporation, who purchased from Frederick Brown, operator, a plot 58.10 by 102 feet on the south corner of 140th Street.

In part payment the buyer gave an excavated plot of about eight lots on the northwest corner of Cauldwell Avenue and 156th Street in the Melrose section of the Bronx, 200 by 117.6 by irregular. Mr. Brown acquired the Riverside Drive plot last month in a trade for the Highcliff Apartments, 177th Street and Audubon Avenue.

It is understood that Mr. Campagna will erect a new type of apartment house on the Riverside Drive site.

The Cauldwell Avenue plot was acquired by the Lucania Realty Corporation last year as part of the purchase price in the sale of the Shoreview, 448 Riverside Drive. Slawson and Hobbs negotiated the deal.

Cash Sale on West 149th Street.

Max Price and Jacob Price have purchased from a client of Goldberg & Kramer the six-story apartment house at 232 to 234 West 149th Street for a reported price of $49,500. The structure covers a plot 40 by 100. Abraham Leichter represented the buyers as attorney. The broker in the deal was I. Schwartz.

Sale on Mott Street.

Michael Morris purchased from the Dormond Realty Company the six-story brick tenement at 43 Mott Street, on a lot 25 by 90. Jacob Finkelstein & Son negotiated the sale. The property, which is assessed at $31,000, was acquired recently by the seller at foreclosure.

To Occupy Chelsea Dwelling.

Leonard Weill has resold the three-story modernized dwelling at 326 West Eighteenth Street, on a lot 21 by 50, to a client of J. Irving Walsh, for occupancy.

Dr. S. McLean Buys East Seventy-first Street Dwelling.

Executors of the estate of the late Mary L. Van Ness sold to Dr. S. McLean 17 East Seventy-first Street. The property consists of a five-story private dwelling, on a lot 20 by 102.2. Pease & Elliman negotiated the sale.

Investor Increases His Washington Heights Holdings.

Melville H. Bearns has increased his holdings on Washington Heights by purchasing from the Gross & Herbener Operating Company 544 to 556 West 158th Street, Nos. 544 to 550 are a six-story elevator apartment house, having seven apartments on each floor, and standing on a plot 100 by 100. The parcel at 552 to 556 is a two-story and basement business building, containing stores and offices, on a plot 50 by 100.

These properties adjoin the block front on the east side of Broadway, from 157th to 158th Street, which Mr. Bearns purchased last week. His holdings at this point now measure 200 feet on Broadway, 125 feet on 157th Street and 225 feet on 158th Street. Byrne & Baumann negotiated the sale.

Buyers for Tenements.

O'Reilly & Dahn, in conjunction with Hell & Stern, sold to a client 270 Audubon Avenue, a five-story new law tenement, on a plot 50 by 100.

The One Hundred West 142d Street Corporation purchased from the Isaac Lowenfeld Realty Corporation 567 to 569 West 191st Street, a six-story new law tenement, on a plot 50 by 100. It was held at $85,000.

Louis N. Hartog sold to the Fifty Per Cent. Profit-Sharing Company, Ransom S. Morgan, President, the five five-story single flats at 201 to 209 West 141st Street, each 20 by 100, located just west of Seventh Avenue. The property is assessed by the city at $168,000. The R. S. Morgan Realty Company negotiated the sale.

Buying in the Bronx.

Anna Codwise sold to William Goldstone the Seabury apartment at 890 East 172d Street, southeast corner of Seabury Place, a five-story structure, on a plot 50 by 100. It was held at $65,000. Negotiations are pending for a resale of the property.

Brooklyn.

Alco Building Company, associated with Realty Trust, sold the one-family semi-detached dwelling, with garage, 2,156 Sixtieth Street, in the Mapleton Park district, to Harry Schwartz of Manhattan.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—A narrow trough of depression extends from South Dakota eastward to Georgian Bay, attended by showers in the lake region. There were also scattered showers in Southern New York, Northern New Jersey, and Northeastern Pennsylvania, and more rains in Southern and Western Texas. Elsewhere the weather was fair.

High temperatures prevail generally except in the South and in the upper Mississippi Valley and the Northwest. They are 15 to 30 degrees above the season average.

Showers will fall Saturday from the lake region eastward, but with this exception generally fair weather will prevail Saturday and Sunday east of the Mississippi River.

It will be somewhat cooler Sunday in the south upper lake and west lower lake region.

Winds for Saturday and Sunday along the North Atlantic Coast will be moderate, variable, with showers; Middle Atlantic Coast, southwest, fair, preceded by showers Saturday in the northern portion; South Atlantic Coast, gentle to moderate, shifting, except moderate northeast off the Florida Coast; fair.

FORECASTS TODAY AND SUNDAY.

Eastern New York—Showers Saturday; slightly warmer near the coast. Sunday, partly cloudy.

Southern New England and Western New York—Local showers Saturday. Sunday, partly cloudy.

New Jersey—Fair Saturday; slightly warmer near the coast. Sunday, fair.

Eastern Pennsylvania—Cloudy Saturday; probably showers and warmer in the northern portion. Sunday, partly cloudy.

Northern New England—Showers Saturday, except fair in Eastern Maine. Sunday, showers.

'PEACE BY VICTORY!' REPUBLICAN SLOGAN

Chairman Hays Says West Is for a Vigorous Prosecution of the War.

SETTLES CALIFORNIA ROW

Will H. Hays, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, who is in this city after an extended trip through the Far Western States, said at the Waldorf-Astoria last night that the west as a unit was behind the war and that the Republican Party from coast to coast was committed to the peace-through-victory program of the Wilson Administration.

"There is no doubt any more of the red-blooded West being heart and soul for a vigorous prosecution of the war to a victorious finish and is willing to give its men and its money for the cause," said Mr. Hays.

Mr. Hays went West partly to make speeches for the Liberty Loan, partly to prevail upon Republicans in the remote States of the Far West to submerge partisanship whenever the war was concerned, and to confer with Republican leaders. During his stay in California Mr. Hays succeeded in putting an end to factional strife in the Republican State organization, which was responsible for the defeat of Charles E. Hughes, the Republican candidate, in the last Presidential election.

Chairman Hays tersely defined the program of the Republican Party with reference to the war as follows:

1.—Win the war now.

2.—Peace by victory and not by compromise or bargain.

3.—Sane preparation to meet the problems of reconstruction that must follow the war.

"The fact is," said Mr. Hays, "that we are as unprepared for peace as we were for war. Our course after the war lies over an unchartered sea. We cannot begin too early to prepare for the problems that will confront us. These are manifold and with an important bearing on business, labor, and on the industrial and agricultural development necessary to make up for the wastage war always brings with it. I have urged on Republicans everywhere that they must stand solidly behind the Administration in support of the war and be prepared to make the second mile of the war. The response has been unequivocal everywhere. From coast to coast we are committed to the war with our last man and our last dollar."

"It is only natural," he added. "The Republican Party was conceived in a spirit of patriotism and will always continue to be the party of patriotism. Before it was out of its swaddling clothes it saved the life of the nation. Its loyalty is measured only by its possibilities."

"Does this mean that the Republican Party will cease criticism of the Administration in matters related to the war?" Chairman Hays was asked.

"There will be politics, of course; that is inevitable, but there will be no attempt on our part to play politics with the war," was his reply. "Personally, I cannot see where there could be any objection to sympathetic suggestions. This war is not the war of the Democratic Party, it is our war as much as theirs. For one party to try to run the war alone and absolutely shutting out co-operation from another party is very much like a man who, with two strong horses, shuts one in the barn all the time and leaves the other to pull the load alone."

Mr. Hays brought back with him from California clippings from Democratic newspapers as evidence to prove the success of his mission. One of these, published in Los Angeles, admitted that his visit had resulted in a united party, and went as far as to predict that "the Democrats would never get another electoral vote from California."

Mr. Hays came here on his way to Washington to close the lease for the new headquarters of the Republican National Committee in this city. The committee will occupy a suite of offices on the third floor of the Knox Building, Fortieth Street and Fifth Avenue.

VICTOR COMPANY LOSES.

Decree Orders Dissolution of Alleged Combination in Trade.

A decree that a combination, alleged to have been created by the Victor Talking Machine Company, is in restraint of trade and a violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, and must be dissolved, was signed yesterday by Judge A. N. Hand of the Federal District Court. The petition on which the decree was based was drawn by Henry A. Guiler, a special assistant to Attorney General Gregory. The defendant denied all of the allegations charged against it, and the decree was prepared in Washington and signed here without any public argument.

The allegations in the Government's petition for a dissolution of the alleged illegal combination were similar to those contained in a complaint drawn by Wise & Seligsberg, counsel for R. H. Macy & Co. last year in a suit for triple damages amounting to $570,000. The complaint accused the Victor Company of having entered into unlawful agreements with upward of 7,000 dealers in various parts of the United States for the purpose of preventing competition, to limit the supply, and to fix the prices of talking machines and records made by the defendant.

Under the terms of the decree the company is also restrained from issuing warnings to distributors and dealers of results that would follow any violation of the rules and regulations of the company, and from suspending or otherwise punishing its agents for selling to those under the company's ban.

In answering the Government suit, the company asserted that when the license agreements with distributors complained of were issued they were lawful and valid under the interpretation of the patent laws and Federal laws regulating commerce, given by the United States Supreme Court. It also said that since decisions had been given by the courts to the effect that license agreements were not legal all of them had been cancelled.

Edmond E. Wise of Wise & Seligsberg said last night that he did not think the decree would have any especial effect upon the Macy suit. Argument in this case, he said, would be heard next week.

HEAR WIGGIN WILL QUIT.

Wholesalers Want a Practical Coal Man as Fuel Administrator.

After discussing a rumor in the coal trade that Albert H. Wiggin intended to resign as State Fuel Administrator, the Wholesale Coal Trade Association sent yesterday to Dr. Garfield, the National Fuel Administrator, a request that in the event of Mr. Wiggin resigning a practical coal man be selected to fill his place. The letter to Dr. Garfield was sent through Charles S. Allen, the Secretary of the organization.

"Rumor reaches us that Mr. Wiggin has or is likely to resign as State Fuel Administrator," Mr. Allen wrote. "The matter was discussed today at a meeting of the Directors of the Wholesale Coal Trade Association of New York, and I have been directed to transmit to you the request of this association that his successor be a practical coal man. It is felt here that there is a grave possibility of a coal famine this year, and the situation in New York under the circumstances demands calling into service a man who has a thorough knowledge, not only of the requirements of this community and the territory depending upon it for its coal supply, but one who shall know thoroughly the producing district from which the supply must necessarily be drawn.

"If you agree it is desirable to appoint a man who has knowledge of the coal business this association solicits the privilege of suggesting the names of men possessing the necessary qualifications."

Mr. Wiggin is Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Chase National Bank. It was said by G. M. Dahl, Vice President of the bank, that Mr. Wiggin was out of town. Mr. Dahl would not discuss the rumor.

Booklet Assails Governor Edge.

TRENTON, N. J., May 3.—Declaring that he hoped to forestall any campaign of personalities such as was so emphatically repudiated by the New Jersey electorate in the Gubernatorial campaign two years ago, Governor Edge today took official cognizance of an anonymous booklet surreptitiously distributed through the mails to State voters. It devotes twenty pages to criticism of the Edge Administration. The name of any campaign committee authorizing or paying for it or that of the printer, or any other mark of possible identification has been omitted. The Governor is considering referring a copy to the Attorney General as evidence of violation of the Corrupt Practices act.

Nagel to Take a Federal Post.

ST. LOUIS, May 3.—Charles Nagel, former Secretary of Commerce and Labor in President Taft's Cabinet, left today for Washington, where, it is said, he will take a Federal post, the nature of which is not disclosed.

HEAVY GERMAN BOMBARDMENT OF BRITISH SOUTH OF YPRES; AUSTRIAN RULER ADJOURNS PARLIAMENT, ATTACKS IN ITALY; LIBERTY LOAN OVERSUBSCRIBED, PERHAPS BY BILLION OR MORE

ALL DISTRICTS OVER QUOTA

Partial Official Total at 4 P. M. Yesterday $3,203,655,400.

MANY SALES NOT REPORTED

Feature of Last Day of Campaign Was the Spectacular Canvass in New York.

BONDS WIDELY DISTRIBUTED

12,000,000 to 15,000,000 Buyers, More Than Double Number in First Liberty Issue.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The Third Liberty Loan drive ended at midnight tonight a complete success. Officials are confident that when all the sources of subscriptions have been officially heard from the oversubscription will be as high as $1,500,000,000, bringing the total of the Third Loan to approximately $4,500,000,000. It is believed there is something like a billion dollars' worth of sales not yet officially reported.

Today's incomplete reports to the Treasury Department indicated that there was already an oversubscription of half a billion. The latest official reports, however, placed the total as $3,203,655,400, with only partial reports for the final day of selling reported. Many banking institutions have been so busy selling bonds they have been unable to report the totals taken in during the last few days.

Sales continued until 12 o'clock tonight throughout the country, in order to enable the bondsellers to put over the highest possible percentage of oversubscription. The average of careful predictions of the oversubscription at the Treasury Department today was around $1,500,000,000.

The total of $3,203,655,400 given included a report from New York up to 6 o'clock this afternoon, and reports up to 11 this morning from the Boston and Philadelphia districts. It is clear that every Federal Reserve district has completed its quota.

Relative Size of Loan.

The Treasury Department tonight gave out figures showing the relative size of the greatest war loans of the various belligerent countries to date:

British Victory Loan early in 1917—5 per cent.—Total subscriptions, $5,099,254,320.

United States Second Liberty Loan—4 per cent.—Total subscriptions, $4,616,000,000.

Eighth German War Loan—4½ and 5 per cent.—Total subscriptions, $3,600,000,000.

French War Loan of 1915—5 per cent.—Total subscriptions, $2,261,584,400.

Austrian Seventh War Loan—5 per cent.—Total subscriptions, $1,150,000,000.

Italian Fourth War Loan—5 per cent.—Total subscriptions, $1,000,000,000.

Hungary Seventh War Loan—6 per cent.—Total subscriptions, $600,000,000.

Canadian Victory Loan, November, 1917—5½ per cent.—Total subscriptions, $418,000,000.

New York Work a Feature.

The feature of today's campaign was the work of the New York committee. Resuming canvassing this morning with a total of only $773,550,650, or 85 per cent. of its quota, the district rolled up subscriptions of approximately $129,000,000 by 4 o'clock this afternoon, and then continued striving for as large an oversubscription as possible.

Not only New York State, but New York City went over 100 per cent. in the final day's work. This made a perfect record for the district, as the twelve northern counties of New Jersey and Fairfield County, Conn., previously had gone over the top. Banks remained open in New York City until midnight tonight to aid in rolling up a big oversubscription.

Final day's subscriptions in the Atlanta district, which has been at the foot of the percentage column virtually throughout the campaign, came today "in an avalanche."

"Sales reported from all parts of the district indicate that the quota may be exceeded by more than 25 per cent," a telegram from Atlanta tonight declared. "We believe that practically every county and community will go over the top. Every State has already exceeded its quota."

An official report received by telephone from the Richmond district tonight said that subscriptions amounting to $135,814,450 were in hand, and indications were that the $150,000,000 mark would be reached. Maryland has subscribed $41,000,000, against a quota of $38,000,000, and it is hoped that the $45,000,000 mark will be reached. Every State in the district is said to be over its quota, and several States say that they think every county is over. The number of subscribers probably will be double that of the second loan, it is Liberty Bond Subscriptions by Districts; All of Them Have Now Gone "Over the Top"

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The following table shows Liberty Bond subscriptions by districts, their quotas, and percentages obtained by last official report. These figures do not show that the Cleveland, Richmond, and Atlanta districts were "over the top," but advices from those districts tonight after the official figures had been received were to the effect that they had exceeded their quotas:

District.	Subscription.	Quota.	P. C.
St. Louis	173,475,300	130,000,000	133

Number of Subscribers Here 4,000,000, Double That of Second Campaign—City Also "Over the Top" and Unfurls Honor Flag.

Despite the handicap under which the New York District labored by reason of the fact that Liberty Loan subscriptions which it was said properly belonged here had been filed in other districts, figures given out last night at the Federal Reserve Bank showed that not only had the district completed its quota of $900,000,000, but that it has gone considerably above it, the exact total being $926,971,000. This does not include a large volume of subscriptions filed yesterday throughout the district, and it is believed that when the final records are compiled it will appear that this district crossed the $1,000,000,000 mark, or one-third of the nation's third war loan.

The New York Federal Reserve District takes in all of the Empire State, twelve northern counties of New Jersey, and Fairfield County, Conn. Before yesterday morning's tabulation of Friday subscriptions, the district outside of New York City had exceeded its quota, but the city was still under its allotment, but shortly before noon a sufficiently large amount of applications were filed by Manhattan and Bronx banks, acting for their customers, to send the city and the district "over the top."

The honor flag, won by the city, was raised at 12:20 on the City Hall, where a large and enthusiastic crowd had gathered to witness the ceremony, which was coincident with the arrival of the Liberty coach, which, during the four weeks' drive, had slowly moved from Buffalo to New York, collecting subscriptions on its way.

The most remarkable feature of the loan campaign in this district has been the wide distribution that has been obtained for the bonds. It is estimated that the number of subscribers will total at least 4,000,000, compared with slightly more than 2,000,000 for the Second Loan and 985,000 for the First Loan. These figures indicate that persons of moderate means and especially those of small means have awakened to the exigencies of the war and have come forward with their money to assist the Government in financing the conflict. The fact that the bonds have been so well distributed among small investors and have not been lodged in the hands of banks and wealthy individuals removes the likelihood of the bonds slipping from par, because the number of large blocks taken by those who might be obliged to dispose of their holdings is relatively small compared with previous loans.

Result Pleases Governor Strong.

Benjamin Strong, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and Chairman of the Liberty Loan Committee, in response to a request for a statement, said:

"The success of the Liberty Loan is a message which will hearten our fighting men and again prove to the German people that we are in this war for victory. This district has raised more than 100 per cent. of its quota. The Liberty Loan Committee feels highly gratified at this result and desires to express its deep appreciation of the unstinted service rendered during the campaign by hundreds of thousands of workers.

"The raising of so large a sum is a big task, and the result in dollars is a credit to the people of this district. But gratifying as the result is from a standpoint of dollars, the showing as regards individual subscription is even more pleasing. It is impossible to state accurately how many individuals in this district have bought bonds of the Third Liberty Loan. We believe the number is around 4,000,000. This is a marvellous showing, and there can be no surer or more inspiring proof of the fact that the people are united to win the war, cost what it may."

Renewed Efforts to Sell Bonds.

Yesterday being the last day of the campaign, Liberty Loan workers made their final effort to obtain subscriptions. On the streets, in hotels and restaurants and department stores, solicitors pleaded anxiously for more and more bond subscriptions. Many of them urged passers-by to help pile a big oversubscription; others reiterated the suggestion, "Match the President," while still others cried out the warning, "It is your last chance to buy a bond and wear a button." In all parts of the city the people manifested a keen interest in the winding up of the campaign, and the enthusiasm of the final rush produced many additional subscriptions. Rallies were held throughout the city, the Pershing "veterans," the "Blue Devils" of France, and the Anzacs participating in the demonstrations. Meetings were held in City Hall Park, in Madison Square, in front of the Public Library, and in Times Square, where the thirty-six-hour continuous speech-making engagement did not end until midnight. Many of the banks kept open until midnight for the accommodation of last-minute subscribers.

The coupon books, calling for weekly payments, proved particularly popular with the crowds, and many bought the $50 and $100 books, thus "matching the President." There have been sold in this city about 952,000 of these books, and many orders for them have not yet been filled. It is estimated that the total will exceed 1,000,000.

Great Activity Throughout District.

Reports from various parts of the New York District received last night told of great activity, practically all communities announcing a huge pile of small and large subscriptions entered during the closing hours of the campaign. Applications received by the banks yesterday will be reported to the Bond Issue Division of the Federal Reserve Bank tomorrow. This office, particularly the subscription department, is overwhelmed with work, and a staff of 300 or more clerks labored throughout the night. They will be relieved this morning by another shift of workers, who will continue the job.

Under the conditions of the Liberty Loan subscription books closed at midnight last night, but the reporting banks have until Thursday, May 9, to make their final returns. The system of reporting subscriptions followed by the Reserve Bank has been for all institutions to tabulate their subscriptions daily and to mail a postcard every evening on which the total is indicated. Under this plan the figures given out by the Federal Reserve Bank have always been twenty-four hours late. The Reserve Bank received yesterday a record of Friday's subscriptions and their total was $851,656,800. The banks in Manhattan and the Bronx were so anxious to file their returns that they did not wait to mail the postcards, but sent special messengers, and in certain instances used the telephone. These returns raised the total to $926,971,000. It should be noted, however, that this figure does not include subscriptions filed with up-State banks or with all of the local institutions, so that indications are that the final total will be in excess of $1,000,000,000.

Although the mail advices showed an over-night gain of about $78,000,000, subsequent returns from Manhattan banks brought the day's increase up to $153,420,350, by far the largest daily total of the campaign.

Totals for Subdivisions.

CHARLES THREATENED FORCE

Demanded That Government Be Spared Parliamentary Criticism.

PREMIER TOOK THE MESSAGE

Poles and Socialists Refused Consent, but Their Protests Were Ignored.

ASCRIBED TO FOOD CRISIS

Agitation for Creation of a Southern Slav State Also a Factor.

AMSTERDAM, May 4.—Emperor Charles of Austria has empowered the Austrian Premier to adjourn Parliament and forthwith inaugurate measures to render impossible the resumption of its activities, a Vienna dispatch says.

A statement published in Vienna indicates that the closure of Parliament is due to the seriousness of the food situation. The statement says:

"The Government will devote its entire strength to the economic problem and will try to create conditions required to enable the population to hold out."

A Vienna dispatch says that the Austrian Premier, Dr. von Seidler, speaking at a conference of party leaders, declared that the serious economic and food conditions made it imperative for the present Government to be spared Parliamentary criticism. He therefore demanded that the proposed sittings of Parliament be postponed, adding that unless the party leaders took this step the Government would prevent the sessions forcibly.

Agreed to by Party Leaders.

The President of the Lower House of Parliament said, in reply to the Premier, that the conditions prevailing in the country and the demand from the larger political parties for resumption of the sittings of Parliament made a further postponement impossible. The leaders of the German party favored postponement, but Dr. Victor Adler, the Socialist leader, and the other party representatives, including the Polish group, were opposed. Notwithstanding their protests the postponement of Parliament was agreed upon.

Premier von Seidler admitted the existence of many problems which must receive consideration, especially the agitation for the creation of a southern Slav State.

"However, discussion of this problem is impossible for the present," he said, "because it concerns not only Austria, but also Hungary and Bosnia. But one thing is certain, if such a state were created it could be only under the sceptre of his Majesty, as a component part of the monarchy. It could not include those parts of Austrian territory which border on the Adriatic and are closely connected with districts where the German language is spoken. But national aspirations exist also in these districts and it is only natural that the national wishes of the southern Slavs be duly considered."

Serious, but Not Desperate.

In the course of discussion of the question of revising the Constitution on the basis of national autonomy, Premier von Seidler announced that in Bohemia the Government would speedily issue regulations providing for the appointment of administrators for districts inhabited by distinct nationalities. After sounding a warning against inciting nationalities against one another, he said:

"Our entire military and political situation has reached a climax. The next few months will bring a big decision. I am firmly convinced the decision on the battlefield will be in favor of Austria and her allies.

"Our economic, especially our food, conditions are very serious, but they are not at all desperate. To hold on now to a final happy decision is the vital question for the State. It therefore is necessary that, unhampered by Parliamentary confusion, the Government be left in a position to devote all its strength to these tasks."

The Premier then recommended the postponement of Parliament.

The Wiener Zeitung publishes the following statement of reasons for the adjournment of Parliament:

"We are in the last decisive phase of the war. No enemy any longer threatens in the east, but, in firm union with Germany and our other allies, we must force our other opponents also to renounce their hostile intentions. Despite one or two promising tendencies Parliament has been unable to find a stable policy. As things are, the resumption of the sittings of Parliament would not facilitate the position but would only sharpen political antagonism and thereby endanger the fulfilment of those economic tasks on the successful solution of which everything depends.

"Until the reassembly of Parliament, which will take place at the soonest possible moment, the Government will devote its entire strength to the economic problems of the day, especially to the task of arranging for the nation's food supply, and will try in every way to create conditions which are required to enable the population to hold out. French Shell Disables Gun That Is Bombarding Paris

PARIS, May 4.—News has just been received from the front that a French gun made a direct hit yesterday on one of the long-range German cannon with which Paris is being bombarded and put it out of action. Deputy Charles Leboucq, who returned to Paris from the battlefront last evening, confirmed the report. He said:

"I was with the battery yesterday which fired the lucky shot. The fog which had interfered with observation during the last few days had cleared, our fire could be rectified, and the target was hit. One of these guns exploded some three weeks ago. Another was hit ten days ago. It is impossible to say yet if this latter gun was the one destroyed yesterday. Photographs taken of the gun positions have not yet been developed.

"This success shows the great skill of our gunners. I showed them letters from Parisians expressing their gratitude and asking how they could show it. The gunners replied: 'No better way than to send us pinard.'"

Pinard is army slang for wine.

REPORTS FIGHTING IN ITALY RESUMED

Vienna Dispatch Says Emperor Charles Has Started for the Front.

ROME NOTES NO NEW DRIVE

But Announces Desultory Gunfire and the Destruction of 14 Enemy Airplanes.

VIENNA, May 4, (via London.)—Heavy fighting on the Italian front is reported in bulletins from the War Office. Yesterday's statement says:

The fighting activity again increased to considerable violence yesterday along the whole Italian front between the Giudicaria Valley and the Adriatic. The official report from Austrian headquarters today says:

In the southwest lively fighting continues.

AMSTERDAM, May 4.—A Vienna dispatch today says:

"The Emperor yesterday started for the front, accompanied by the Chief of Staff, Field Marshal Arz von Straussenberg, and the German military representative, Major Gen. Cramon.

The absence in the foregoing dispatch of reference to a specific front makes it appear probable that the Italian front, the scene of Austria's major activities at present, is meant. The announcement of the visit therefore seems significant in view of the recent reports of a probable renewal of the Teutonic drive on the Italian front and signs of increasing military activity along the Austro-Italian lines.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Advices to the Italian Embassy from Rome today made no mention of the beginning of the Austrian offensive on the Italian front, but said the Austrians, because of the heavy snows, had been obliged to postpone their offensive operations.

General Amadasi is quoted as having written from the front that the snow having obstructed the roads, the movement of the enemy troops in the mountain zone was very slow and difficult, and the offensive against Italy had therefore been postponed.

"The delay caused by the snow and the general atmospheric conditions permits the Italians to complete their defensive works," says the dispatch, "and add to their reserves of guns and ammunition, which are being produced in large quantities in our factories at day and night schedules. The losses in war material suffered by Italy last Fall have entirely been replaced, and Austria begins to feel that Italy is growing stronger every day, and that it is not safe for Austria to bring any assistance to Germany on the Western front."

Austrians Lose 14 Airplanes.

ROME, May 4.—Only desultory artillery fire at various portions of the Austro-Italian front is reported in today's War Office statement. There have been intensive aerial operations, however, and in the air-fighting fourteen enemy machines were brought down. Raiding operations also have been carried out in numerous sectors.

The official statement says:

As the result of Italian and British patrol actions a few prisoners were captured at Canove, in the Assa Valley, Trentino front, while reconnoitring parties were repulsed and pursued in the Monte Tomba-Monfenera district. Enemy attempts on Italian advanced posts were stopped at Ositz.

In various portions of the front there was desultory artillery fire.

Aircraft actions were carried out despite the enemy's attempt to oppose them. The British dropped sixty bombs

Americans Penetrate to German Third Line After Artillery Completely Levels Enemy Positions

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY, Saturday, May 4.—Since the Germans started the big drive on the Somme, it has been comparatively quiet on the American sector, with the exception of the Seicheprey raid, but yesterday and today they have given evidence of renewed attention to the American forces.

On the Toul front and the right bank of the Meuse there was an extraordinarily heavy artillery fir last night and this morning. It came as something of a surprise to the Americans that the heavy bombardments were not followed by raids. There is a disposition to attribute this to the effect of the American artillery fire, which responded in kind to the German efforts.

Our troops gave the Germans some of their own medicine in the Lorraine sector yesterday. Following a heavy bombardment of the enemy positions, the Americans went over the top and penetrated the German positions to the third line without finding one of the enemy. Their trenches had been obliterated by our fire.

The Americans have had a similar experience several times recently. Failure to find a German is attributed to his desire to withdraw from our fire rather than stick and fight the American raiders.

It is generally believed that the German activity in front of our lines is intended to keep us busy, so that we cannot send additional forces to the French front.

Our Artillery Brings Down German Airman

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Saturday, May 4.—An American artilleryman this morning accomplished the feat of bringing down a boche airman with a pot shot from a seventy-five gun. A German flier just after midday started over our lines on the Toul front. At the moment no American fliers were in sight. There was bright sunshine, and the boche was flying at an altitude of about 3,000 feet when the gunner saw him.

Just after the firing started the boche turned suddenly and wended his crippled way just back of the German lines. Observers saw him taken from his machine by his comrades. It is rare that the artillery brings down an airplane on the front lines.

The enemy aviators have recently been staying well over their own lines, their last three flights having taken place there. Today, in perfect weather conditions, they tried several sorties for observation, but ran away from several invitations to fight.

'WE'RE ALL RIGHT,' SAYS LLOYD GEORGE

Returning from Meeting of War Council, He Bids the British People Be of Good Cheer.

FOUND ARMIES CONFIDENT

Declares American Troops Have Given Good Account of Themselves in the Fighting.

LONDON, May 4.—Premier Lloyd George, who has returned from his visit to France, where he attended the sessions of the Supreme War Council and went to the front, spoke enthusiastically today of the American troops.

"A good number are already there," said Mr. Lloyd George. "Many more will pour in steadily during this month. The French who saw their fighting in the battle lower down the line said they were first-class fighting material, full of courage and resource, and all very keen.

"The Germans have rendered at least two great services to the Allies' cause. They have accelerated the advent of the American troops, and they have made unity of command at last a reality. The French and British are fighting in close comradeship, each with full appreciation of the qualities of the other."

"Have you any message to bring from the army to the people?" the Premier was asked. To this he replied:

"The message I bring from the British Army to the people at home is, 'Be of good cheer. We are all right.'"

Of the great battle now going on, the Premier said:

"I saw General Foch, Sir Douglas Haig, General Pershing, and other officers of the higher command, and they were all very confident. I also saw a very large number of regimental officers and soldiers who had actually been in the fighting line during the last six weeks of very strenuous work, and their confidence was also amazing.

"I met no pacifists, no pessimists, among them. They could not in the least understand the wrangles in certain quarters in England, which seemed to proceed on the assumption that they had been defeated and that the only question of importance was who was to blame.

"Apart from the mishap of the first few days, which they all recognized, they were confident that they were winning and that they were inflicting great losses on the enemy. 'When the enemy get ground,' they said, 'we make them pay an enormous price for it. In these offensives you can always buy land if you are prepared to pay the purchase price. But the cost for the Germans is great and is increasing.'

"They were certain that the Germans would soon be sorry they had committed themselves to these attacks, even if they were not already so.

"That was the general feeling I found among the men of all ranks in the British and French armies."

GLOOMY OUTLOOK SEEN IN RUSSIA

Allied Officials, Returning, See No Likelihood of a Settled Government.

ONE GERMAN HOPE DASHED

Kaiser Can Re-enlist Only a Few Prisoners of War—Our Siberian Policy Condemned.

By CHARLES H. GRASTY.

PARIS, May 4.—Gossip of internal conditions in Russia is brought to Paris by officials identified with allied interests in Petrograd and now arriving home after a difficult and roundabout journey. The reports are very discouraging in all particulars save one. It is agreed that Germany is having and will continue to have difficulty in capitalizing her Russian successes.

There are supposed to be 1,500,000 German prisoners in Russia. My informants say that Germany will do well to get 10 per cent. of them back under arms. The prisoners are participating in the general picnic of the mujik element, which comprises 80 per cent. of the Russian population. There is no possibility whatever of organizing Russian soldiers into German military units.

There is some comfort for the Allies in the difficulties now being encountered in Russia by the scheming Germans. Nevertheless, the latter are employing a ceaseless propaganda, and in certain other directions they may be able to accomplish results. They are using Bolshevism to introduce anarchy into the allied countries by subterranean streams which pass through neutral territory. This influence is very subtle and hard to combat. France is constantly subjected to it, but the fine morale existing here has shown no contamination.

Germany is said to have got less war material in Russia than is commonly supposed, owing mainly to Russian waste, improvidence, and graft, through which the supplies furnished by the Allies were dissipated before Germany could get them. One item regrettably large is twenty excellent destroyers, built or being built on the Baltic, which a little allied forehandedness might have corralled, but which are now falling into German hands.

Hundreds of Officers Murdered.

The following significant facts are cited as showing Russian conditions: In a single day in Kiev 1,048 Russian officers were murdered by a Bolshevist mob. There have been many murders in Petrograd, and not a single conviction for them. Indeed, the courts have been abolished. There are "rump" trials, and anybody in the audience has the privilege of testifying, asking questions or making speeches.

In the streets of Petrograd former Generals in uniform may be seen selling newspapers, while ladies in scanskin

SIGNS OF NEW LYS DRIVE

Heavy Shelling by Foe Followed by an Attack Near Locon.

REPULSED BY HAIG'S MEN

British Make Progress Near Meteren and French Gain in Locre Region.

HEAVY FIGHTING IN AIR

Thirty-six German Machines Brought Down in Day, Says the British Report.

LONDON, May 4.—Under cover of a heavy artillery barrage, German troops this morning delivered an attack on the British positions south of Locon, (on the southern flank of the Lys salient and three and one-half miles northeast of Bethune.) The assault was completely repulsed, says tonight's announcement of the War Office.

This was the most important of several local engagements that took place today in this northern area, following an intense bombardment, begun by the enemy's guns early in the morning.

The firing was especially severe south and southwest of Ypres and in the Nieppe Forest-Meteren sector, further east, but the German infantry made no attacks there.

In the region of Locre (west of Kemmel) the French troops bettered their position again today and took fifty prisoners.

Near Meteren the British also made some progress. They advanced their lines a little by an operation during the night in the Hinges sector, (north of Bethune,) capturing forty prisoners and two machine guns.

The night bulletin of the War Office reads as follows:

The enemy's bombardment this morning south and southwest of Ypres was vigorously replied to by our own and the French artillery. No attacks developed.

The infantry fighting during the day was confined to local engagements at different points. In successful minor operations carried out by us last night in the Hinges sector we captured over forty prisoners.

A local attack, attempted by the enemy early this morning south of Locon under cover of a heavy artillery barrage, was completely repulsed.

In their operations early this morning in the Locre sector French troops made progress and captured over fifty prisoners.

British troops, acting on the right of our allies, also made progress in the neighborhood of Meteren.

On the remainder of the front there is nothing of special interest to report.

The day bulletin of the War Office reads:

We improved our position slightly last night by a successful minor enterprise northeast of Hinges on the southerly side of the Lys salient and captured machine guns.

A successful local operation, in which several prisoners were secured by the French troops, was carried out in the Locre sector.

Early this morning the enemy's artillery opened an intense bombardment of the French and British positions from the neighborhood of Locre to the south of Ypres, and has shown great activity in the Forest de Nieppe-Meteren sector.

An official statement on aerial operations tonight says:

A most successful day's work was accomplished by our airplanes Friday, good visibility assisting cooperation with the artillery.

Bombing was carried out with the utmost vigor. Over twenty tons of bombs were dropped on the Chaulnes, Tournai, and La Bassée railway stations and on Estaires, Marcel Cave, Menin, Comines, and Middelkerke.

Fierce fighting continued all day. Twenty-eight German machines were brought down, five were driven down out of control, and three were shot down by anti-aircraft guns inside our lines. Eleven of our machines are missing.

After dark a thick mist set in on most parts of the front. Over two tons of bombs were dropped, however, on the Chaulnes and Juniville railway junctions. In spite of the very bad weather all our machines returned.

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, May 4.—There were unmistakable signs today of a resumption of the German effort to force the allied positions on the hill chain west of Kemmel. Last evening the Germans opened a tremendous bombardment on Scherpenberg and on Mont Rouge, but no infantry action followed.

At 5 o'clock this morning the German artillery crashed forth again upon the Anglo-French lines north of La Clytte and to the south of Mont Rouge.

The Allies are well prepared for the attack, but the weather is thick and wet, so that aerial observation is virtually impossible.

BERLIN NOTES HEAVY GUNFIRE.

But Reports That the General Situation Is Unchanged.

BERLIN, May 4, (via London.)—There was much artillery activity on the battlefront in France, says the official report from General Headquarters today, but the situation is without change, it is stated.

The situation is unchanged on the battlefronts.

The artillery activity was spirited on various sectors throughout the night in the Kemmel region and on both sides of the Avre. It increased this morning to greater intensity.

A British partial attack, southeast of Arras, was repulsed.

The artillery activity revived before Verdun.

After unsuccessful reconnoitring thrusts by the enemy on the Lorraine front, the fighting activity during the forenoon was slight.

At Parroy Wood and west of Blamont the firing revived during the afternoon, but died down again at nightfall.

The official report from General Headquarters tonight says:

French counterattacks against Kemmel and Bailleul failed under very heavy losses.

HARASS GERMAN SUPPLY.

Allied Airmen's Work Has Been of a Telling Character.

AMSTERDAM, May 4.—The effective work of allied airmen in harassing the German supply service is described by the newspaper Les Nouvelles of The Hague, which says that allied aviators sank in one day twenty-three Belgian boats laden with gravel and road material for the German front in Picardy. The vessels at the time were twelve kilometers (seven miles) from the enemy rear line. The newspaper adds:

"Three weeks ago the Luxemburg bridge at Namur was again badly damaged by aircraft. Two arches were destroyed and one boat was sunk. Three German sentries on the bridge were killed. The movement of vessels to the front has never been so intense as since the opening of the German offensive, and the destruction and devastation wrought by allied airmen, has never been so great.

"Roads had been cut up so that the Germans experienced great difficulty in bringing up sufficient gravel and stones to fill the craters."

Les Nouvelles ascertains that it was bombs dropped by allied aircraft that destroyed a railway station in the Province of Hainaut, Belgium, on March 22. A munitions train of sixty freight cars was in the station and forty cars blew up in succession, killing and wounding many Germans. Rigorous measures were taken immediately to keep onlookers away from the scene of the disaster. A German officer estimated the loss in shells at 1,000,000 marks.

CALL IT WORSE THAN VERDUN.

Veterans of Fleury Style That Child's Play Compared to Flanders.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, May 3. (Associated Press.)—Veterans of the defense of Verdun predominated among the French soldiers who so gallantly defended Kemmel Hill against the Germans. Many of them had fought at Fleury, and they knew what hard fighting was, but they say that Verdun was child's play compared to the conflict in Flanders recently.

The bombardment at Verdun set a high water mark for concentration of guns of all calibres, but, say those who went through it, it was nothing compared to what the French troops experienced during the German drive against Kemmel.

The French troops took up positions about Kemmel on April 22, relieving the battle-weary British. Throughout April 23 and 24, before the attack, the Germans maintained a tremendous bombardment and threw hundreds of thousands of gas shells, mixed with ordinary explosive shells.

On the morning of the attack on Kemmel the German gunners placed ten big shells a second on the crest of the hill, and during that day the French put on their gas masks fifty different times, for as fast as the wind cleared the gas away another deluge of the poisonous vapor poured over the hill. Part of the time the Poilus had to sleep in their gas masks. Despite the great quantities of gas thrown the French had only twelve casualties from it, according to the latest reports, which speaks eloquently of the efficacy of the French gas protectors.

A large part of the fighting was with machine guns, of which the Germans always had great numbers, and at times the German enfilading fire was terrific. The French artillery and machine guns, however, in their turn reaped a great harvest from the enemy.

At times the French 75s got into heavy concentrations of infantry and tore them to pieces. The German losses in many instances are placed as high as 40 per cent.

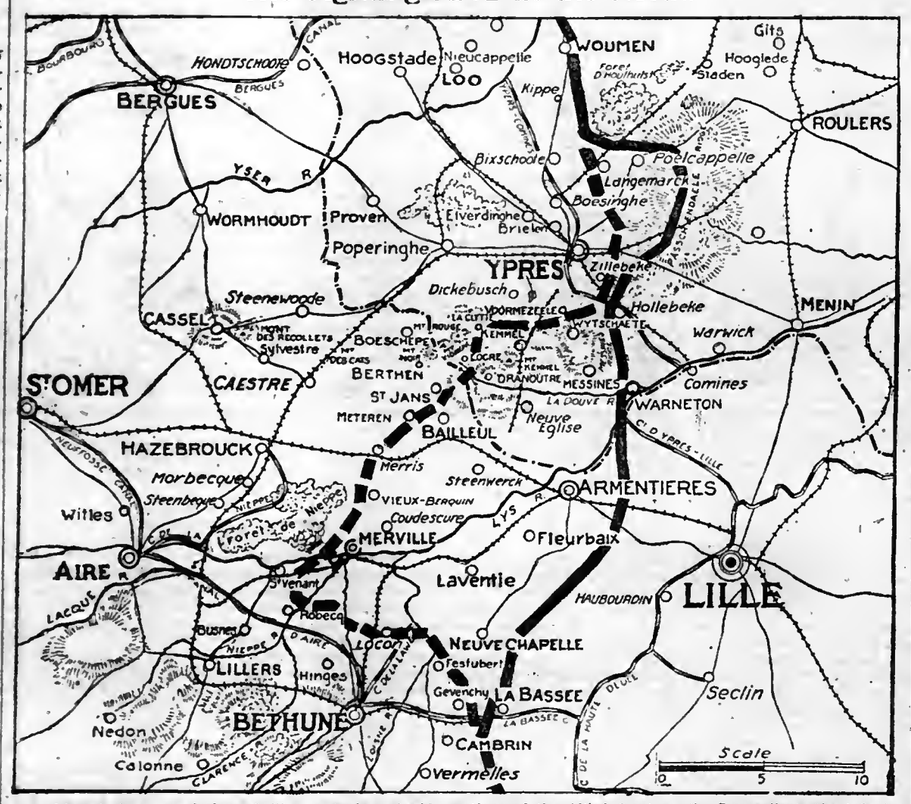
The work of French runners with messages was noteworthy. They refused to rest and kept at their task.

The rationing of one famous regiment which fought at Verdun was a great feat. It had always been noted for its fine rations, and the commander decided that nothing should deprive the men of their accustomed fare. It was impossible to use the transport because of the artillery fire, so rations were brought forward on machine gun carriages under a heavy fire. The regiment had its beefsteak and wine every day and furnished neighboring regiments as well.

Nearly all the stretcher bearers were killed. One stretcher-bearer worked six days and nights without rest.

German airplanes were out in force.

The Fighting Area in the North.



Although there was furious shelling yesterday of wide sections of the Allied front on the Lys salient, the infantry engagements were of a local character. Most pretentious among them was an assault on the British line near Locon (north of Bethune), which ended in the repulse of the foe.

The French bettered their positions near Locre, while Haig's troops also made some progress near Meteren (west of Bailleul.)

They flew at an altitude of 100 meters and used machine guns continuously against the infantry.

AVRE BOMBARDMENT HEAVY.

But There Are No Infantry Operations on the West Front.

PARIS, May 4.—The official statement issued by the War Office tonight reads:

There was no infantry fighting during the course of the day.

There were reciprocal bombardments north and south of the Avre River, and also along the Ailette River.

The day report of the War Office says:

There were rather heavy bombardments in the region of the Avre.

The French carried out several raids near the Oise and Ailette Rivers and west of La Pompelle, bringing back a number of prisoners.

A German attack near Courcy and two others north and northeast of Rheims were without result.

Everywhere else the night was calm.

265 TRAINS OF WOUNDED PASSED IN THREE DAYS

Even Open Coal Cars Used by Germans for Hurt, Says One Who Watched in Belgium.

AMSTERDAM, May 4.—Two hundred and sixty-five trains, full of wounded soldiers returning to Germany from the battlefronts in Picardy and Flanders, says the newspaper Les Nouvelles of The Hague, were counted in the daytime on April 9, April 11, and April 12 on the Namur-Liége railway.

The transports were so crowded that the Germans were even using open coal cars to carry the wounded.

Hospitals, convents, schools, and factories in Belgium, the paper adds, are all packed with wounded.

BRITISH LOST 250,000, MISSION ESTIMATES

Renewal of Attack Serious if Reserves Are Insufficient, It Is Pointed Out.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—British losses in men killed, wounded, captured, and missing on the western front since the German offensive began March 21 are estimated by the British Military Mission here at nearly 250,000. The situation was summed up in this manner:

"The casualties in the British Army are emphasized by the German wireless. . . . Although figures from German scurces would be undoubtedly much exaggerated, yet it is certain, from the severity of the fighting, and from the fact that the entire combatant forces of the British Army have been almost continuously engeged, that the British losses in proportion to reinforcements immediately available must be very heavy. It is probable that one would be approximately accurate in quoting these as close on to 250,000.

"Everything points to the German offensive being continued almost immediately, and, should the brunt of the attack again have to be borne by the British, the situation will be undoubtedly serious unless sufficient troops are available close at hand in reserve to strengthen the line as required and bring relief to the British divisions, who have been in the line almost continuously since the beginning of the present battle. Should the Germans determine again to attack in Flanders it is certain that any advance in the direction of the Channel ports will be made at great cost to themselves and over the bodies of the British Army who have so often shown in the past such bulldog determination in the defense.

As examples of what the British have gone through, the case of two divisions which lost a large percentage of their effectives is cited. The Twenty-fifth, a new division, in the fighting between March 22 and March 26 lost 4,000 men. Put into the fighting again from April 10 to April 19, it lost 5,000 more. Despite these losses, it was brigaded with the French for a counterattack, and still later it beat off four heavy German attacks.

The Twenty-first Division fought continuously from March 21 to March 28 and lost 4,000 infantrymen of a total strength of 9,000. Later it drove back a German attack in which five German divisions were engaged and increased its losses to 6,000.

RUSSIANS HERE APPEAL FOR HELP

Want Supplies and Industrial Aids Sent to Their Country with Troops, if Needed.

SAY RUSSIA WOULD REJOICE

A Constructive Program Would Meet the Sympathy of the Great Masses of the Population.

A. J. Sack, director of the Russian Bureau of Information in the United States, an organization allied with the Russian Chamber of Commerce here, issued yesterday the following appeal to the American people:

The hour has come when wo, Russians in the United States, conelder it our duty to send out the S O S to the American democracy. Help Russia, save Russia! If help to Russia will not be rushed immediately, in the most generous way, Russia will become an easy prey to Germany, which means the prolongation of the war for eeveral years, with new millions of young lives eacrificed. Save Russia, help her to re-establish her fighting front, and by so doing you will save the lives of hundreds of thousands of American boys!

Help to Russia must be twofold: General help, in the form of rolling stock and engineers to re-establish the means of transportation; in foodstuffs, clothes, shoes, &c., for the unfortunate population, and eepecially military help in the form of corps of instructors who would take up immediately the task of organizing regiments, divisions, and, finally, armies of those Rueeians who are ready to fight for their country and freedom.

The corps of allied military instructors who may come to Russia for the purpose of re-establishing her military power can produce good results if they start with an appeal for volunteers and organise around themselves as a centre, with all possible speed, a real Russian army, so that their coming to help should in the feast he foreign military intervention.

This constructive program, if properly planned, can meet the sympathy and support of the great massce of Russia's population, if the execution is preluded by a joint allied declaration telling plainly that the Allice are ready to do everything in their power, in accordance with President Wilson's declaration, to free Russia from Germany's yoke, to restore to Ruesia her lost territories and to preserve the Russian democracy by giving her the possibility for free development.

In this hour of her national distress Russia needs, above everything else, eympathy and friendship, in declarations and acts of her allies. They should be generous in both euch decisrations and acts. Let Russia feel that she is not alone, that friende are coming without any selfish purpose, without any desire to gain from her misfortune, with the single purpose of making her again powerful, freo and happy. A powerful Ruesia, a happy Russia, a free Russia will be a blessing to the entire world, and her resurrection will mean a speedy defeat of German militarism, a triumph for democracy the world over.

This is indeed a difficult, but not an impossible program. If the Germans by a carefully prepared and punctually executed plan were able to knock Russia off her feet in a year's time, the Allies are able to bring Russia back in about the same period of time. Germany succeeded by playing on Russia's weariness of war and hy encouraging the work of the Bolsheviki, who did their utmost for Russia's destruction. The Allies must eliminate, as far ae possible, this weariness hy rendering a generous financial and technical cupport to Russia and by encouraging the sound elements of the Russian democracy, the elements which, representing the overwhelming majority of the Russian people, crave for national unity, for a stable democratic government recognized hy all classes, and for Russia's activa reentrence into the union of the great democracice fighting for the principle of justice and freedom.

A TIMES reporter asked Mr. Sack how the United States could send foodstuffs, clothes, and shoce to Russia with assurance that such supplies would not fall into the hands of the Bolsheviki.

"In the first place," said Mr. Sack, "you must distinguish between the Bolsheviki and the Russian people. The Bolsheviki are a small minority who presume to rule, and who are easily recognized. Secondly, the sending of supplies presupposes the presence of an allied force to protect it. The supplies must not go in without protection, or else they surely will fall into the hands either of the Germans or the Bolsheviki, and will never reach the Russian people. The supplies should go in simultaneously with an allied expedition."

Such an expedition, Mr. Sack went on to say, ehould bace on Vladivostok, Siberia being the most accessible route through which an allied force could accomplieh a peaceful penetration of Russia. The only other parts of Russia which were not yet under Bolshevist control were the Caucasus and the Cossack regions of the Ural and the Don, but neither of these regions offered a convenient base of eupplies, sucb as could be perfected at Vladivostok, with its direct accessibility to the United States and Japan.

"An expedition advancing through Siberia, organing the eound Ruselan elements into a great force," he continued, "could certainly count on the support of the Caucasian and Cossack peoples, who have always been hostile to the Bolsheviki and the Germans, and who have failed in their opposition to the Bolsheviki up to the present time merely because they have lacked supplies and ammunition. But thero must be civilian sections. Social workers and educators are as much needed as supplies among the Russian people."

Asked whether the Bolsheviki would not meet such an expedition with armed opposition and Germany send troops to organize and support the Red Guards, Mr. Sack said:

"There would undoubtedly be opposition at first, but it is highly improbable that Germany would be able to spare any large number of men for renewal of activities on the east front without eacrificing somo of their gains to the Allies on the west front."

When he was asked why Russians in this country had not encouraged the United States to undertake such an expedition, he replied:

"The Russians in this country have long been eager to advocate the adoption of such a program for Russia, and, in fact, have indicated as much in their general appeals that help be sent to Russia. It is a difficult program but it can be accomplished. If Germany were in the allied place with her understanding of the facts and psychology of the Russian situation she would have 3,000,000 Russians fighting on the east front within a year. The Allies can do likewise."

PEKING, April 28, (Delayed.)—The Chinese Eastern Railway management having severed its connection with Russia, a new Board of Directors wae elected here yesterday. General Horvath [formerly Russian military commander at Harbin] has been chosen Acting Vice President and General Manager. The Chinese Government had previously appointed Ko Chung Hsi President. This reorganization enables the railway administration to deal with local problems.

The Premier this evening returned to Peking from the conferences he has been holding with military leaders.

It le reported that the Klang-Si troops have defeated the southern forces and have entered Canton.

PEKING, April 27, (Associated Press.)—The majority stockholders of the Chinese Eastern Railway have severed the official connection of the road with Petrograd end named a new Board of Directors. The road was built with Russian capital, and the contract for its construction provided that half of the board should be composed of Russians. Tho decision reached by the shareholders today, according to an announcement from the Russian Legation, was based on "present conditions in Russia."

Lieut. Gen. Horvath was named Vice President and General Manager. Vice Admiral Koltchak was elected a Director.

CANADA LOWERS AGE LIMIT.

All Men 19 Years Old Will Be Called on to Enroll.

OTTAWA, May 4.—Canada has lowered the age limit for military service registration from 20 to 19 years.

A proclamation calling on all men 19 years old to enroll will be issued shortly, and, it is understood, will provide for registration before June 1, though none of the registrants will be called to the colors before July.

UKRAINE PEASANTS LED BY A COSSACK

Have Proclaimed Gen. Skoropauski Commander in Chief, Berlin Says.

FIERCE FIGHTING IN KIEV

Partisans of the Rada Still Resisting —Germany Promises Food Exports Soon.

AMSTERDAM, May 4.—A telegram from Kiev by way of Berlin purports to describe the events attending the overthrow of the Ukrainian Government. It says:

"A meeting of several thousand peasants from tho entire Ukraine took place on April 29, at which discontent with the entire polley of the Government found expression in more or less incisive form. The most important of these meetings passed a resolution calling for the overthrow of the Government, the closing of the Central Rada, the cancellation of the Consiituent Assembly convoked for May 12, and the abandonment of land socialization.

"General Skoropauski, the descendant of an old Hetman of the Cossack Republic, was proclaimed Hetman, (Commander in Chief.) He immediatcly proceeded to the square in front of tho Sophia Cathedral and was ceremoniously consecrated by the clergy. The Rada, at first weakly protected by Government troops, continued to sit, but it yielded when the troops were persuaded to retire for the sake of avoiding bloodshed.

"Apart from eome minor fighting, which claimed a few victims, the revolution passed off outwardly quite undisturbedly. May 1 also passed quietly throughout the Ukraine."

The telegram adds that the arrest of several members of the old Government, recently reported to have been effected hy the German military authorities, had nothing to do with the revolution.

Fighting occurred in Kiev when the Ukrainian peasants overthrew the Government, says the Kölnische Volkszeitung.

The Main Committee of the German Reichstag today dealt with events in Ukraine, according to a telegram from Berlin. The President of the committee etated that it also was desirable that information should be given on events in Finland and the etatus of the negotiations with Holland.

Friedrich von Payer, Imperial Vice Chancellor, speaking in behalf of Chancellor von Hertling, made a statement on the Ukraine situation, dealing first with the decree issued by General Herman von Eichhorn, relative to the sowing of crops there; second, the arrest of the members of the Ukrainian Government, and, third, the overthrow of the Ukrainian Government and the conetruction of another. An official report will be issued soon.

The Main Committee resolved that the discussion which followed the Vice Chancellor's etatement should be declared confidential.

Only about 50 per cent. of the Spring sowing has been done in the Ukraine, Herr von Waldow, President of the German Food Regulation Board, has informed the Food Committee of the Reichstag, according to the Kölnische Zeitung.

LONDON, May 4.—Telegrams received in Zürich report the continuance of violent fighting in Kiev between partisans of tho old Government and those of the new peasant Government, the Exchange Telegraph correspondent at Zürich reports.

CONDEMN UKRAINE POLICY.

Two Berlin Papers Criticise Germany's Course in the East.

AMSTERDAM, May 4.—In the course of a sharp criticism in connection with recent evente in the Ukraine, the Vorwärts of Berlin says that affairs in the East are in a deplorable condition.

"The peace concluded there has become a peace calculated to scare away opponents still at war with us," the Socialist newspaper says. "It was agreed with Russia that Esthonia and Livonia would remain under its sovereignty, and three weeks later a personal union of these countries with Prussia was benev ntly considered. We see only enormous political damage being done the U ine, and not a morsel of bread to be euppiied Germany from that country."

The Berlin Tageblatt seye:

"We cannot deny that we havo not succeeded in winning the affection of the population under our military rule of Lithuania, not to speak of Poland. It is precisely the same in the Ukraine. Even optimists may see that the Eastern structure stands on a very unstable foundation. It was always clear that the Ukraine at the earliest poseible moment would seek union witb Russia."

GERMANS BEHIND REBELS.

Said to Have Planned a Coup d'Etat to Obtain Ukrainian Food.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—An official dispatch received today from Switzerland said that the Central Powers were preparing to take drastic steps in the Ukraine as the result of the difficulties in obtaining supplies from that country and the revolt against Teutonic rule.

"The news reaching Switzerland from the Ukraine by way of Berlin and Vienna," said the dispatch, "does not permit of a doubt that we are face to face with a coup d état of the Central Empires. The latter, driven by famine, are ready to employ every means to seize from the Ukraine the resources which sho still contains. It is reported that blood hae already been shed in Kiev in combats between the partisans of the new Government and those of the former, and tho Kölnische Zeitung, following the German practice of attempting to clear itself before being accused, hastens to announce that the troops of von Eichorn aro not actively participating in these combats. But the truh is quite otherwise.

"In well informed circles in Switzerland it is not ignored that quite recently agents of Baron von Mumm and Marshal von Eichorn distributed arms and munitions to their partisans. Considerable funds were distributed secretly by the German staff for the success of the coup d'état.

"The Frankfurter Zeitung recognizes that the revolution now being dealt with in tho Ukraine is solely the consequnce of the demands of the Central Empires, which want foodstuffs and cereals at all coste, and which will not hesitate to do anything to obtain them. According to accurate information received in Zurich, combats also took place at Ekaterinoslav, at Kharkovat, at Kherson, and at Odessa, between the Germans and the Ukrainians in revolt."

VICTORY IN FINLAND COMPLETE, SAYS BERLIN

20,000 Reds Captured in a Five-Day Battle—Many Others Surrendering.

BERLIN, May 4, (via London.)—The official report on operations in Finland says:

Finland has been cleared of the enemy. German troops, in co-operation with Finnish battalions, attacked the enemy between Lakhti and Tevasthue in an encircling movement, and in a five days' battle, in spite of a hitter defenee end desperate attempts to break through, we have overwhelmingly defeated him. The Finnish forces cut off his retreat in a northerly direction. The enemy is closed in on every side, and, after the heaviest losses, is laying down his arms. We took 20,000 prisoners. Thousands of vehicles and horece were captured.

STOCKHOLM, May 4.—The Finns do not contemplate the conquest of Karelia, according to the Helsingfors correspondent of the Svenska Dagbladet, who hae sent the following tclegram:

"I can report authoritatively that no Finnish action for conquest of Russian Karelia can be expected, since Germany will not support euch a plan. Meanwhile, a movement has been set afoot hy the inhabitants of Karelia to institute a plebiscite regarding the question of joining Finland, and if a majority should favor it Germany might be inclined to support their demands."

Karelia is a region in the northwest of Russia, embracing the southeast corner of Finland and including parts of the Governments of Petrograd, Olonets, and Archangel, and bordering to the northeast on the White Sea. The Karelians belong to the Finnish stock.

New Story of Korniloff's Death.

PEKING, April 27, (Associated Press.)—Harbin newspapers eay it has been learned definitely that General Korniloff, former Russian Commander in Chief, who was one of the leaders in tho movement againet the Bolsheviki, is dead. They also report that the Bolsheviki have recaptured Novo Tcherkask, capital of the territory of the Don Cossacks.

coats are shovelling enow. Bolshevist soldiers stand by laughing gleefully at such scenes. People who were formerly well-to-do are reduced to menial employment. Many noblewomen beg food from house to house.

The orgies on Russian ships in various ports are said to beggar description. The officers have all been murdered by their men, who took possession of the vessels. Among others, two former royal yachts are ecenes of revels in which the basest passions have free rein. The black flag and the skull and crossbones fly over the fortress of Peter and Paul as well as over the house at Helsingfors which was formerly a naval officers' club, but is now frankly converted into an anarchists' club.

The lower classes are simply making a prolonged spree of it. Doctrines are enunciated to which most democrats everywhere would willingly subscribe, but what the professors of these principles practice is worthy only of disgust. People of position and substance who could get away have done eo, but by far the larger proportion were caught and have lost everything.

In euch conditions it is difficult to trace tendencies. My informants do not credit recent reports of an attempt to re-establish Czardom. The Russian, they say, is an infant mantally, and whoever has the last word is likely to influence him temporarily; but the time is not yet ripe for installing autocracy or any other form of order.

The Russian masses had formerly a vague trust in America, but in the general confusion this has partly disappeared. England is distrusted, and France is not liked. The Germans have the most influence because they are always on the job, appealing to Slav susceptibilities.

I have tried to develop, in my various sources of information, some line pointing toward recuperation and recovery in this great country, whose collapse well-nigh carried us all down. My informants saw no present hope. Apparently there is no element that could constitute a nucleus of order. I suggested the Cossacks. The answer was:

"They are good people, but they have all they can do to protect their own country from the Bolshevists. And remember their distance from Petrograd—almost as far as Denver from New York—thus rendering the transportation of soldiers impossible, although I believe that a few thoueand Cossacks could hold Petrograd. If the United States Marines stationed in China had happened to be in Petrograd at the psychological moment it is possible that Ruesia could have been held in the Entente."

Condemn "Dallying with Bolsheviki."

I recently cabled, with favorable eomment from Henry P. Davison, head of the American Red Cross, some optimistic matter about the Soviet's action in Moscow, of which Raymond Robbine was the author. The authorities ahove quoted hold the positive opinion that these views are too roseate, and depreeate the weight apparently given them in Washington. They regard as child's play all dallying hy America with the Bolshevist elements, and insist that the Allies should "grasp the nettle" in Siberia. The American method of dealing with the situation in that country is said to he very embarrassing to Japan, where the American "infirmity of policy" has, it is stated, produced unhappy domestic differences. Japanese public opinion must now be re-canvassed before the new Government can proceed fearlessly, which leaves Siberia open to the influence of German propaganda, to which the Russians are peculiarly susceptible.

BAR MARX DEMONSTRATION.

London Socialists Not Allowed to Celebrate His Birthday.

LONDON, May 4.—The celebration of the centenary of the birthday of Karl Marx, the German Socialist, arranged to be held in a London park tomorrow, has been prohibited by the Home Secretary on the ground that it would be likely to cauee disorder and make undue demande on the police.

The principal organizer of the meeting was a pacifist weekly paper, and several trades unions co-operated. There were to have been hands and hanners and speeches, with resolutions against a "capitalistic war."

NEW YORK AVIATOR KILLED.

Lieut. S. T. Valentine Falls 2,000 Feet in Flight Over Florida.

ALCADIA, Fla., May 4.—Lieutenant S. T. Valentine of New York City, attached to the Army Aviation School near here, was killed instantly today when the airplane in which he was flying fell approximately 2,000 feet.

Licutenant Valentine had started on a cross-country flight when the accident occurred. His machine suddenly dropped about 500 feet, but then appeared to have righted. Again it lurched and plunged to earth. Valentine had been in training here about two weeks.

Bavarians Must Eat Less Meat; Bread Ration Also May Be Cut

THE HAGUE, May 4.—Speaking befors the Bavarian Chamber on the food situation, the Food Minister said that conditions permitted the hope that the people would be able to hold out.

He said it might be necessary to reduce the bread ration, but not before the time that potatoes would be plentiful. A reduction in the meat ration was unavoidable, he continued, but the milk and fat rations would not be reduced.

The Food Minister added that the Bavarian situation was far better than that in many other Federal States.

DERIDES PROPHECY OF PREMIER'S FALL

Hall Caine Says That He Will Weather Storm Raised by His Irish Policy.

"FIRED THE NATION'S SOUL"

Lloyd George's Enemies Compared to Those of Washington, Pitt, and Lincoln.

NO TIME TO LOWER MORALE

To Permit Any Secondary Issue to Hinder Victory Called "Unpardonable Crime."

By HALL CAINE.

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 4.—The prophets of doom are saying that the Lloyd George Government is approaching its hour of destiny. If it lives through the next few weeks it may survive the war, but a considerable body of the vigorously energetic and vehemently vocal persons in Parliament and the press have decided that it shall not live. They are not Nationalists, nor yet Unionists, but disaffected Liberals who were followers of the last Administration and have never been faithful to the present one.

The Irish question is to be the cause of the collapse, the new Home Rule bill, whatever it may be, will fail, the Government will resign, no other Government will be possible under the present Parliament, there will be a general election and then—nobody seems to know what will happen then.

The prophets of doom may be right, but one thing seems certain. If the Government is to fight for its life during the next few weeks, Ireland may be the excuse for the struggle, but it cannot be the battlefield. The disaffected Liberals of the late Administration will not challenge Home Rule. They are already committed to it. Neither will they condemn the conscription of Ireland. The feeling of England, Scotland, and Wales is too strong and deep for them. No English, Welsh, or Scottish Liberal will be so bold as to question the sole right of the Empire to control imperial issues. No candidate outside of Ireland who values his seat or even his safety will dare by any juggiery of principle with expediency to make common cause with the Sinn Feln. No priesthood, outside of the Irish priesthood, will encourage their people to believe that while all other British subjects must fight and die, Irish subjects may resist and live.

Charges Against the Premier.

Where, then, if not over Ireland, will the battle have to be fought? If the Government has to go to the country over the body of the Prime Minister himself and his alleged sins and shortcomings in the prosecution of the war, those sins and shortcomings though they be many and however unwelcome the task, it seems to be the duty of such of those who believe the present Prime Minister to be the only possible Prime Minister under the existing conditions and the only statesman in this country who commands at once the sympathy of a majority of our own people and the confidence of the people and Governments of our allies, to make full and frank summary in advance of the charges that are certain to be made against him on the election platforms in order that they may be seen for what they are worth, and thus show the real character of their subject—untouched for rectitude, for patriotic spirit, and for ability to prosecute our British end of the war.

First, it will be said that having become Prime Minister, Lloyd George, who had hitherto been nothing if not a democrat, violated the first principle of democracy by abolishing the Cabinet, which in Parliamentary government is understood to be responsible to the nation, by assuming a position of authority more absolute than had ever before been occupied by any servant of the people, by gathering about him as his chief directing assistants a group of advisers who, as regards their rank and official position, were not responsible to Parliament, and as regards their political record and opinion were notoriously opposed to every democratic aspiration.

It may be white truth or black lie, but whether truth or lie can it be said that the fact, if fact it is, has had any effect on the nation's will to wage and win the war? It cannot with truth and justice be said to have done so.

Lloyd George and Northcliffe.

Next it will be said that by way of reward for the assistance he has received from the group of journalists who are charged with bludgeoning his predecessor out of power he has granted them facilities which have been denied to their professional colleagues, that with his own journalistic instinct and his sure knowledge of the best way to work upon the public mind he has encouraged, if not inspired, such a raking and harrowing of the ground he intended to plow as has given the effect of special and unfair advantage in the use of Government secrets to private organizations, and that, above all, he has tolerated, if not invited, a kind of unofficial collaboration in legislation, in the management of the war, and in the highest functions of Ministers on the part of certain outstanding journalists who, whatever their capacity for government, have no mandate from either crown or people, and therefore no responsibility to either.

It may be white truth or black lie, but whether truth or lie, can it be said that the fact, if fact it is, has had any recognizable effect on the fortunes of the war?

Next it will be said that, acting under this outside influence and in order to maintain his hold of power, he permitted himself from time to time to impose civil rule upon military and naval chiefs, and even to dismiss from the service of the nation, for reasons which have not always been divulged, some officials of the utmost credit and authority, silencing criticism by employing his friends on the press to discredit them in advance in the eyes of the public.

Again, it may be white truth or black lie, but whether truth or lie can it be said with any certainty that the fact, if fact it is, has ever strengthened the forces of the enemy or weakened our own?

Next, it will be said that on taking up the highest position in the State, he made, and on various occasions since has repeated, promises of success in arms, in the means of protection from famine, and in security from assault which have not been fulfilled; that, whether from reckless overoptimism or from setbacks which no man could have foreseen, in the lamentable failure and still more lamentable corruption of certain of our allies, he has kept his word of promise to our ear and broken it to our hope.

The Bogey of Imperialism.

Next, it will be said that, although ostensibly and no doubt sincerely a democrat, the Prime Minister has lent himself to an imperialistic policy in the prosecution of the war; that his chief colleagues within the Cabinet and consultants without would be, if occasion arose, as surely as the German Chancellor himself, the upholders of an essentially military régime; that some of them in earlier years and in other spheres have drawn the sword against the will of the people or threatened to draw it; that this bias in favor of a doctrine of force has been the principal cause of the alienation from the Government of the Labor Party and one of the lame and lying excuses for the manifest farce of the proceedings at Brest-Litovsk, which led to the Russian peace.

Finally, it will be said that his alliance with that part of the personnel of his immediate advisers who are charged with imperialistic bias, as well as with some of his more prominent supporters in the press, has been a necessity of his position as a leader with a vast following and yet no party, an inevitable sequel to the circumstances under which he took and holds office; that he full well knows that a coalition so inharmonious can only last as long as it is to the interest of both parties to maintain it, and that each side in the meantime, without love or a pretense of fidelity, is frankly using the other for the carrying out of its will.

It may be white truth or black lie, but, whether truth or lie, can it be said to be interfering with the work of the war?

It cannot in truth and justice be said to be doing so.

Premier "Fired the Nation's Soul."

What, then, will the charges mean and what will they come to? They will mean that the Prime Minister, partly as a leader and partly as a man, has awakened during the last year and a half of office a certain body of active and intensely vocal personal hostility, but that nothing he has done and nothing he neglected to do, however it may have offended against party or Parliament, can by the light of any known fact or natural inference be thought to have injured the nation in the only interest that matters now, the prosecution of the war. On the contrary, it is admittedly beyond the question of reasonable minds that in concrete and material things, as well as in the higher things of spirit, the Prime Minister has made immense contributions to the nation's power and will to win. No other man has so fired the nation's soul or so strengthened the muscle of its fighting arm.

It is difficult to think of the last three and a half years of the country without thinking of him. It will be impossible to tell the story of these days of dread and darkness without the name of Lloyd George being vlened through and through it. Sins and shortcomings there may have been, but whether at the head of affairs or holding a lower place, the present Prime Minister has been a leader and an inspirer of the nation since the first days of the war, and it seems as sure as that the sun will rise tomorrow that, whether in office or out of it, he will be a leader and an inspirer of the nation down to the day of peace.

Therefore, when the people talk of a possible change of Government, let us warn them to take care that before they cry, "The King is dead," they will be in a position to add, "Long live the King."

Assailed as Lincoln Was.

And now as to the merits of the charges against Lloyd George. In what way do they differ from the charges which have been made in the past and in nearly every country against the statesmen who have conducted the affairs of nations in the period of war? Of such kind were the charges against the younger Pitt, who during the quarrel between England and France was told in the House of Commons that he was a degenerate son, that his partiality for the enemies of his country in Parliament was enough to make his father's bones stir under the pavement of the Abbey, that he was a stern oppressor of England, an indefatigable distractor of Europe, that he resembled equally the disciple who kissed in order to betray and the fallen angel who first sowed dissension in Paradise. Of such a kind were the charges against Washington, who after his proclamation on neutrality in the war between England and France was the subject of a storm of passionate newspaper attacks in which hints of the guillotine were put forth as a proper end to a career of infamy, and of such kind were the charges against Lincoln, who, at the close of his first Presidential term, when the civil war was going slowly and the severe sacrifice of the campaign and its enormous accumulation of public debt were being severely felt, was the object of such bitter and vindictive assault, both inside Congress and outside of it, that he came within 400,000 votes of being defeated for his second term of office.

The British nation, with its great allies, America, France, and Italy, and its martyr confederates, Belgium and Serbia, is now confronted by the sternest moment of our deadly struggle. We are face to face with an unregenerate and relentless enemy which, flushed with the first and we trust a temporary success of its long-threatened offensive, will stop at no slaughter of its own soldiers to follow up its advantage.

It is no time to lower the morale of our army and navy by disruption at home, by disputes about the personal doings of the Prime Minister, by a fruitless change of Government, and by all the mischievous turmoil and strife of a general election. If Ireland is to be made the excuse for so shocking an injury to the highest interest of humanity, let us say at once plainly and without fear that Ireland is not worth it. Nothing would be worth it, because nothing matters to us in this great hour except liberty, security, faith, and the dignity of man. We have no right, no time, and no strength to think of anything else now. To permit any secondary issue, no matter how momentous, whether it is an Irish issue or any other, to disturb our primary duty of prosecuting this holy if awful war to its only righteous end, which is the end of all war, would be an unpardonable crime against morality, religion, civilization, and every sacred cause that pertains to the future welfare of our children. It would be the sin against the Holy Ghost.

COMPULSORY VOTING IN PRUSSIAN BILL

Clause Adopted by Lower House of Diet—Effect of Defeat of Equal Suffrage Feared.

AMSTERDAM, May 4.—A clause making it obligatory for every elector to use his vote has been passed by the Lower House of the Prussian Diet, which is considering the suffrage reform bill. The principle of the secret ballot also was approved.

German newspapers are greatly concerned over the effect on the country and the army of the rejection by the Lower Chamber of the Prussian Diet of equal suffrage. The Berliner Tageblatt speaks of "limitless disappointment" and "deep indignation," and says that in its effect on the broad masses of the people there is danger which should not be underestimated.

"It has been rightly pointed out to the Government from many sides," the Vorwärts says, "that no one can say how long this war will last, and what trials it will still impose on the people. A couple of weeks of rosy optimism has been unable to blind the clear-sighted. Even in the East the horizon is again assuming a threatening aspect."

MANCHESTER, May 4.—In a leading editorial on the rejection of equal suffrage by the Lower House of the Prussian Diet The Manchester Guardian says:

"The Prussians are now learning the obvious proof that it is impossible for men to be tyrants abroad and free at home. They cannot have a junker foreign policy and a democratic domestic policy. The German military successes are a victory over the German people. The Prussian franchise affair should teach even the dullest-witted German progressive that.

"We are not going to prophesy results in Germany, but the systematic ruthless application of junker principles, both at home and abroad, seems as dangerous a political expedient as ever was tried. It is a brutal repudiation of all morality in the region of politics, and the erection of might, force, and power into supreme rule in government. Clearly such a fabric, if it has any life at all, can endure only so long as the junkers can hold out the prospect of a complete military triumph. Any failing in the field may bring down the whole edifice."

ALSATIANS TO FRONT LINE.

German Method of Settling Question of the Two Provinces.

GENEVA, May 4, (Associated Press.)—The German military authorities are sending direct to the front lines all youths from the reserve depots in Alsace-Lorraine, according to an Alsatian chemist who has just arrived from Mülhausen. The chemist has already lost four sons, the latest, aged 18, having been killed at Locre.

"The Germans are employing their last reserves," said the Alsatian, "especially the soldiers from Alsace-Lorraine. It is the German manner of settling the question of the two provinces. If a referendum is taken after the war, only a few Alsatian electors will be left."

ORONSA SURVIVORS AT WORK

Separate to Take Up Duties Assigned Them, Mostly in Britain.

LONDON, May 4.—The American Y. M. C. A. men who recently were landed from the torpedoed steamer Oronsa have separated for the performance of the various duties to which they have been assigned. Because of the recent large increase in the American military and naval establishments in Great Britain, most of them will be retained on this side of the Channel.

The first man to leave the party was assigned to be the Secretary of a new Y. M. C. A. hut at an American camp "somewhere in England." Others were assigned to camps, stations, and ports in the north and south of England. A dozen more of the workers will leave in a few days for Ireland for duties with the American soldiers and sailors there.

The final meeting of the entire party of fifty-seven survivors was at a dinner last night. A war ration menu was provided, and afterward there were short speeches by every man of the group. During the dinner the men arranged for the formation of a permanent organization to be known as the "Oronsa Rowing Club," which plans to hold reunions after the war.

The members of the party who are remaining in London over Sunday will hold a special service of thanksgiving in the Eagle Hut Chapel. This service will be held simultaneously with similar services in Young Men's Christian Associations in American cities whence the fifty-seven came.

GEN. SARRAIL PUT ON RETIRED LIST

Will Be Bonnet Rouge Witness Because Some of His Reports Went Through Paper's Office.

AND REACHED THE KHEDIVE

General Made Verdun Impregnable, Then Went to Command in Saloniki—Recalled by Clemenceau.

The French Ministry of War has just retired from active service the General who, by his foresight in the first year of the war, made Verdun the greatest death trap in all military history, after he had protected the right wing of the Allies fighting the battle of the Marne, in September, 1914.

This General is Maurice Sarrail, who is down for important testimony in the Bonnet Rouge and Calllaux cases as the result of recent revelations. At the Bonnet Rouge trial on May 3 it was alleged that one Adda had obtained for Abbas Hilmi, former Khedive of Egypt, General Sarrail's complete reports on the condition of the Saloniki army, which he commanded for a time. This report Mme. Lewis, former stenographer to the assistant manager of the Bonnet Rouge, identified as having copied at her employer's request. Two letters from General Sarrail to the Minister of War, discussing the situation and asking for reinforcements, were also copied by her.

Born at Carcassonne, Sarrail entered the military school of St. Cyr in 1875, specializing in infantry tactics. When, in 1902, General André became Minister of War, he had Sarrail, then a Major, made ordnance officer.

Later he was successively commandant at St. Cyr, Colonel of the 30th Regiment of Infantry, Commandant of the Palais Bourbon, and Director of Infantry Tactics and Strategy. In 1908 he obtained the stars of a Brigadier General, and in 1911 those of a General of Division.

The war found him at the head of the 8th Army Corps at Bourges. After the battle of Charleroi he received command of the Third Army, displacing General Ruffey. In this capacity he not only defended Verdun against the attacks of the German Crown Prince during the battle of the Marne, but prepared that terrain in innumerable ways, by taking large guns from the steel cupolas and placing them in trenches, devising mines and secret pits, &c., for the German assault of Feb. 21, 1916, which in the succeeding six months cost the Kaiser hundreds of thousands of men.

On Aug. 6, 1915, he was secretly ordered to succeed General Gourand as commander of the French forces in the Eastern Mediterranean, then on Gallipoli. His choice was clothed in dramatic circumstances. At the time he was under charges, made by General Dubail, then commander of the armies from the Argonne to the Swiss frontier, and now the Military Governor of Paris.

Although M. Caillaux was then in South America, his "defeatist" propaganda had begun and some of Caillaux's henchmen in the Chamber seized upon these charges to attempt to overthrow the Government, whose Minister of War was then Millerand, and even to oust Joffre as Generalissimo, putting Sarrail in his place. The charges against the latter are said to have been merely technical.

Just before the Chamber opened on Aug. 20, a Deputy approached M. Millerand and inquired whether he had heard that the Government was to be interpellated in regard to General Sarrail, who had been relieved of his command and had suffered dismissal, if not worse, at the hands of the Ministry.

Thereupon, M. Millerand is said to have replied:

"You may tell the politicians who are trying to make political capital out of General Sarrail that they are a little late. General Sarrail is now in command of the Eastern Mediterranean army. And to show what we think of him we have made him a present of two additional army corps. He has been there for over a fortnight.

When the Chamber convened there was no interpellation in regard to General Sarrail.

In the following December General Sarrail was placed in command of the allied forces at Saloniki. He directed the retreat of the Vardar, the victory at Monastir, and the manoeuvres which led to the abdication of King Constantine.

He was recalled Dec. 23, 1917, and was succeeded by General Guillaumat. This recall, only a few weeks after M. Clemenceau came into power, was deemed significant.

EMPEROR CHARLES BANS PARLIAMENT

the same time it will zealously endeavor to utilize and develop existing possibilities of an understanding between parties so that after the reassembly of Parliament the country may enjoy anew an unhindered constitutional life."

Austria has been deep in difficulties, both political and economic, for more than a year, and it has been an open secret that Emperor Charles was desirous of bringing about peace, his efforts in this direction having occasionally aroused criticism in Berlin.

In the last few months there have been insistent reports that the food situation in Austria was growing desperate. It has been represented that, except for the favored classes, the people were receiving barely more than enough food to avert actual starvation. Owing to the lack of direct communications with Austria, and the difficulty of obtaining authentic information, however, it has been impossible to form any estimate as to the gravity of the food crisis.

POLITICAL CRISIS LINKED WITH FOOD

German Feeding of Two Austrian Provinces Likely to Inflame Racial Feeling.

LONDON, May 4.—"There are at least a dozen different crises in Austria today," wrote an English correspondent yesterday. All these crises appear to concentrate on the problem of food. Even the racial animosities of the composite empire, which have been the weak timbers of its structure, have been inflamed into bitterness by sectional jealousies over food distribution.

These crises appear now to have reached a culmination today in the Government's decision to prorogue Parliament for the war period. What straits Austria has reached were partially revealed by the Premier's speech to party leaders, and also by the German official statement that all food supplies from Ukraine this month will be given to Austria on account of her greater need.

The Hague correspondent of The Times, discussing the German food shortage, remarks:

"Even the ordinary German public realizes that something worse than food scarcity threatens Austria."

For two months the exasperation between the Slavic sections of the Austrian population and the other races has been at the highest tension. The Germans have been bullying Premier von Seidler with insolence which reached its climax in the request that the Austrian frontier populations of German race should, for food supply purposes, be annexed to Germany.

To many politicians this yielding of the Food Administration in Bohemia and Tyrol must seem a distinct step toward the breaking up of the Austrian Empire.

Some terrible pictures of the food situation in Bohemia have reached the outside world through the correspondent of the Vienna Arbeiter Zeitung, (Socialist,) who accompanied the Emperor in these districts. He wrote:

"Everywhere the Emperor was met by deputations who described to him the dreadful scarcity of food and starvation suffered by the populace.

"At Schluckenau a deputation stated that 50 per cent. of the population were underfed and a large proportion of the people were unfit for work. There is a great deal of hunger, typhus, and tuberculosis."

A telegram via Amsterdam says that several newspapers doubt if in the interval it will be possible to create a basis, giving better prospect for further parliamentary labors. The Berlin Tageblatt says that the principal reason for the adjournment of Parliament was the Government's failure to create a basis for the formation of a majority and the Crown's desire to avoid debates on the Emperor's letter and on members of the House of Parma concerned.

A dispatch from Vienna, via Zurich, says that Dr. von Seidler, the Austrian Premier, has now been compelled to admit that Austria is unable to feed the populations of North Tyrol and Northern Bohemia, and that he has, therefore, consented that the former be attached for provisioning purposes to Bavaria, and the latter to Saxony.

This concession, the dispatch adds, was wrung from him by leaders of the German parties after a conference lasting six hours. The Austrian Government yielded with the greatest reluctance, for the political consequences of this concession may be far-reaching. It is pointed out that it will accentuate the feud between the German and non-German races in Austria-Hungary, since both the provinces affected are German-speaking, and will strengthen the agitation for the incorporation of Austria in a German federation.

RIPE FOR REVOLUTION.

Conflicting Nationalities of Austria-Hungary a Rising Menace.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The suppression of the Austrian Parliament by the Emperor came as no surprise to Washington. The Parliament is composed of 233 Germans, 108 Czechs, 82 Poles, 33 Ruthenians, 42 Jugoslavs, and 19 Italians. The Germans have considerably less than a majority.

Ever since its convocation in May, 1917, when the Government summoned the Parliament in order to give color to the contention of liberalism, this body has been a hindrance to the Government. The Czech Deputies declared for the creation of an independent Czecho-Slovak State. The Jugoslavs issued a similar declaration and have worked with the Czechs.

The Jugoslavs, Poles, and Czechs have been relentless in denunciation of the oppressive policy of the Government, under which close to 100,000 subjects of the empire have been executed at the order of the military authorities or left to die in prison from starvation. On many occasions Parliament became a babel. Last February these three Parliamentary groups refused to vote for the budget. Premier Seidler handed in his resignation. It was not accepted. The crisis was relieved when the Poles, bribed by party promises, left their Slav colleagues in the lurch and voted for the budget.

In another respect the suppression of Parliament is viewed as a concession to the Magyars. Those holding reign in Hungary since 1867 have been resentful at the claims of the Czechs and the Jugoslavs, fearing that the Government would be forced to make some concessions to them. If the project of unity were realized Hungary would be reduced to about half of its present size. On several occasions the Magyars called on the Government at Vienna to suppress the Parliamentary agitation, threatening to form a separate Hungarian army and impose restrictions on the exportation of foodstuffs.

The economic situation of the Dual Monarchy is undoubtedly exceedingly critical. As early as the middle of December, 1917, the Food Dictator, General Hoeffer, openly declared that unless Austria was able to procure 600,000,000 pounds of foodstuffs there was danger of a famine. The wheat yield of the last year was little more than half the normal—75,000,000 hundredweight, instead of 130,000,000.

Flour has been sold in Prague and Vienna at from $4 to $6 a pound. Bakeries in these cities have been closed at intervals on account of lack of flour. The scarcity of flour is largely attributable to the lack of fertilizers, shortage of farm hands and horses, and refusal of Czech and Jugoslav peasants to cultivate the soil. From disclosures in the Reichsrath it would appear that Bohemia, which up to the present year always had had a large surplus of grain, had to be supplied from outside sources to prevent the population from starving.

In the Winter famine was averted by the importation of grain from Rumania, of which about 50,000 carloads were brought in—only a drop in the bucket. It was said that in the camps of Austria upward of forty prisoners were daily dying from starvation.

The financial situation also has been getting worse. For a long time the Austro-Hungarian State Bank published no reports of its condition. When it issued a statement it was disclosed that the note circulation of the bank had increased from 2,494,000,000 crowns in 1913 to 18,439,000,000 in 1917. At the same time the bank's stock of bills of exchange had decreased from 926,000,000 to 22,000,000 in the corresponding period. In 1917 the State loans to both Governments amounted to 19,300,000,000 crowns. The ratio of State to private loans is now 100 to 5. The gold reserve has shown a corresponding slump.

ULSTER UNYIELDING AGAINST HOME RULE

Meetings at Dublin and Belfast Indicate That Unionist Opposition Is Stiffening.

LLOYD GEORGE IS HOPEFUL

Belief in London That Bill Now Being Framed Will Meet Problems of Ulster Situation.

LONDON, May 4.—At a meeting of the Irish Unionist Alliance in Dublin yesterday a resolution was discussed to the effect that while the Alliance was confident of the honorable intentions of the delegates to the recent Irish Convention, it differed totally from the findings of the convention and adhered to the fundamental principles of the alliance, namely, the maintenance of the union between Great Britain and Ireland and opposition to home rule.

An amendment was offered to the effect that while the meeting approved the attitude of the Unionist delegates to the convention, events that had since occurred compelled a change of views. The meeting adjourned without voting on the resolution.

The standing committee of the Ulster Unionist Council met at Belfast and adopted a resolution indorsing the attitude of the Ulster Unionists at the convention and condemning the "unprecedented and unconstitutional action" of Sir Horace Plunkett, the convention's Chairman, in writing his letter to Premier Lloyd George covering the proceeding of the convention. Another resolution was adopted supporting the steps taken by Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster Unionist leader, "since the present crisis arose."

These meetings were the outward signs of a general stiffening of the Unionists against home rule since the alliance between the Nationalists and the Sinn Feiners against conscription was effected. The Belfast correspondent of The Morning Post describes the meeting of the Ulster Council as "the first step of loyal Ulster's new campaign to defeat the home rule conspiracy." The meeting, he says, was called by Sir Edward Carson in view of the War Cabinet's failing to keep its pledges to Ulster, and he adds:

"Ulster stands today where it did four years ago, in unwavering opposition to home rule. As a matter of fact, the opposition is now stronger than ever because of the terrible Sinn Fein menace, while the action of the Catholic bishops at Maynooth welds all the Unionists into one solid phalanx."

The latest report with reference to the progress of the Home Rule bill is a statement by The Daily Mail that, immediately upon returning from the meeting of the Supreme War Council in France, Premier Lloyd George conferred with the committee in charge of the bill with the result, it says, that there is reason to believe a basis for the adjustment of the clauses dealing with Ulster and with the customs and finance have been found, and it is now hoped the bill will be presented to Parliament before May 19.

With reference to the conflict between the Nationalists and the Sinn Feiners in East Cavan, where the latter have nominated Arthur Griffith, Vice President of the Sinn Fein organization, to the vacant Parliamentary seat against Mr. O'Hanlon, Nationalist, it develops that John Dillon, Nationalist leader, and Professor de Valera, head of the Sinn Fein, are to speak from the same platform on conscription at Ballaghaderreen on Sunday. It is predicted that this will be the greatest gathering of Irish peasants since the early days of the Land League.

With reference to the various reports regarding the Viceroyship, The Times says it understands Viscount Midleton has declined to take n part in the new Irish Government. Lord Decies, husband of the former Helen Vivien Gould, who, according to one rumor, was to be appointed to the Viceroyalty, has told an inquirer that he knew nothing about the report. "If I did I would tell you," he said.

GOUGH PRAISES HIS MEN.

Says "Their Tenacity and Doggedness Saved Britain and France."

BELFAST, Ireland, May 4.—General Sir Robert Gough's first public statement regarding the conduct of the Fifth British Army, which he commanded in the retreat from St. Quentin, comes in a letter to the Lord Mayor of Belfast in which the General pays a tribute to the work of the Irish troops.

General Gough says the Fifth Army was greatly outnumbered on the opening days of the German offensive, while the odds against the British troops increased in the latter days of the battle. Nevertheless the Fifth Army fought with splendid calmness and doggedness, and, the commander adds, "their tenacity saved Great Britain and France by permitting the arrival of reserves." The letter follows:

"The fighting of the Ulster Division, as indeed, of all the divisions in the Fifth Army, against the greatest odds hurled on any body of troops throughout this great war, was magnificent. The main features of the situation to which the whole Fifth Army was exposed are known to every one, and give some idea of what those odds were—fourteen infantry divisions against forty German divisions on March 21, reinforced by some eight to ten more German divisions during the subsequent two days.

"I cannot speak too highly of the splendid calmness and doggedness with which my fellow-countrymen met and fought this storm, and though many laid down their lives their splendid tenacity saved the British Empire and France by permitting the arrival of reserves.

"The corps commander has issued an order thanking all ranks for the fighting spirit they displayed and reminding them that further deeds of gallantry will be required of them in the coming months."

DUBLIN'S MAYOR CONFIDENT.

Believes Wilson Will Hear Him in Opposition to Conscription.

LONDON, May 4.—The Dublin correspondent of The Express quotes the Lord Mayor of Dublin as saying that he was expecting to receive passports any day for a visit to Washington.

"I go as a special representative of Ireland," the Lord Mayor is quoted as saying. "My task is simply to state Ireland's reasons for resisting conscription. President Wilson will, I feel sure, listen to me. Lloyd George and Bonar Law did recently in London."

The Lord Mayor has a son serving in the British Army, and he cited this fact to his interviewer as evidence that he was not disloyal.

CALLS WILSON FOE OF IRISH.

Cologne Gazette Also Persuades Itself That He Is Anti-Catholic.

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, May 4.—With the obvious intention of stirring up Irish-Americans against President Wilson the Cologne Gazette publishes an article which endeavors to prove that the President is the arch-enemy of the Catholic Church and the Irish. The paper says that since the outbreak of the war the Irish have rightly waited for a mighty word of release from the American President, and argues that they have had a right to expect it, as Mr. Wilson is waging war for the self-determination of oppressed nations.

"Mr. Wilson has not yet spoken, as his principles only hold good against Germany," says the Gazette. "On the contrary, he refused long ago, through his press Cossacks, to mix himself in the internal politics of Brother England, although he presumed to advise the German people as to what sort of government they should adopt."

It is asserted that when good Catholics like Minister Egan at Copenhagen, for love of Wilson call the Kaiser the greatest enemy of Catholicism, they also hit the German Catholic Cardinals and Bishops who support "the greatest enemy of the Catholic Church."

The paper says President Wilson is not willing to help the Irish, especially as he does not expect to require the Irish vote again. "But," it says, "Wilson must show his colors in the next few days, and the visit of the Dublin Mayor to America, which already has been announced, will clear the situation. If Wilson refuses to receive the Mayor at the White House or even allow him to land, as THE NEW YORK TIMES indicates, the Irish will finally know how they stand with Wilson and will act accordingly. One cannot play tricks with 20,000,000 Irish. . . . Egan, who is Irish, has a job attacking the Kaiser. They have not forgotten in America, however, how Wilson treated the highest member of the Catholic Church."

PEACE EMISSARY ARRIVES IN LONDON

Dutch Financier, Friend of von Kuehlmann, There with Feelers, but Gets No Cheer.

MOVE IS BACKED BY BALLIN

Agent Is Told There Is No Such Term in English as "Peace by Arrangement."

LONDON, May 4.—An emissary of Germeny's new peace offensive already is in England. According to the Central News he is a Dutch financier. Another agent, the agency says, is believed to be on the way.

As signs of a German move for peace develops the newspapers reflect the determination of the British nation and its allies to see the war through. They say it is impossible that Germany should succeed in duping the Allies into a peace which does not fulfill the principles for which they are fighting.

The Times says the general expectation that the Germans, failing to obtain a crushing victory in France and Flanders, would inaugurate a peace campaign in the allied countries, seems likely to be fulfilled. It continues:

"On the one hand, German speakers and agents show suspicious readiness to dilate upon the food shortage and general discomfort in Germany, with the obvious intention of lending a ring of sincerity to Germany's profession of anxiety for peace. At the same time, neutral emissaries of well-known antecedents and tendencies are understood to have arrived recently in England and other allied countries for the purpose of suggesting that if the Allies will only show a pacific disposition they will find Germany ready to meet them on moderate terms. In some instances these emissariss are believed to have put forward proposals as to the best policy for the Allies to follow.

"It need hardly be said that the origin of these manoeuvres is quite as well understood as was the purpose of the military offensive in March, and that the allied Governments are likely to present as firm a front to any peace intrigue as the allied armies presented to the German military attacks."

Emissaries Taking Risks.

The Daily Mail says: "The presence of amiable neutrals in England, with no visible business, has already begun, including the arrival of a pro-German friend of the German Foreign Secretary, Dr. von Kühlmann, who is not charged with any official mission as far as his London legation is aware. These neutral emissaries should save themselves much trouble and some personal danger if they would recognize clearly that Great Britain is not to be duped like the Bolshevist and Ukrainian dupes."

The Daily Express says: "If the present feelers are being put out by von Kühlmann, the obvious answer is that von Kühlmann has no power to pledge his country to anything. Germany is today absolutely in the hands of the militarists. When the militarists have given up hope of victory in the west let the Kaiser himself approach the Allies as a whole. Let him admit he cannot win the war, categorically abandon his scheme of conquest, and withdraw his armies within his own frontiers. After that the Allies will talk, but the Germans and von Kühlmann may make up their minds that hole-and-corner intrigues will be boycotted, and that we shall continue fighting till a clean, not a patched-up, peace is in sight."

The Express adds that the first of the peace offensive agents in London laid his proposals semi-officially before various officials. The newspaper says it understands on high authority that this agent is a Dutchman with important financial associations, and that he came as a friend of von Kühlmann; that is to say, his inquiries were made on behalf of the civil and not the military party in Germany.

Backed by Albert Ballin.

"This agent represented to the authorities here," the newspaper continues, "that by our refusal to consider peace last year we deprived the civil party in Germany of the chance of ousting the military party, and also that the most we could hope for now was peace by arrangement. He was told there was no such thing in the English dictionary as peace by arrangement. He was told also: 'Very soon there will be no such phrase as raw material in the German dictionary.'

"There is no doubt that the present peace offensive is inspired largely by Albert Ballin (Director of the Hamburg-American Line) and other magnates of the German shipping world, who foresee that a determined Entente can easily cut them off for many years from all markets of the outside world, as well as from allied ports.

"The failure of the first envoy to find a sympathetic hearing will not end the peace offensive. It is known that other neutrals have been persuaded to undertake the task of laying further suggestions before the British Government, without any apparent inspiration from Germany. But the business associations of these envoys are too well known for any doubt to exist that they are deliberately inspired."

The evening newspapers also are skeptical.

"That Great Britain is always ready for real peace goes without saying," says The Pall Mall Gazette, "but such peace involves the settlement of the moral questions raised by the war, full expiation of Germany's fiendish crimes, and the establishment of complete safeguards against any future outbreak of Hunnishness. No suggestion has come from Germany of her readiness to satisfy those standards and none can be expected until the military class which controls her public life has been rendered powerless by defeat."

The Westminster Gazette says: "There is, in our view, no solid guarantee for peace until German militarism is either broken in the field or so discredited in other ways that it will cease to dominate the German people. Our first question to the enemy should be, is he prepared honestly to make an end of the system which has produced this war?"

The Evening Standard says: "Our best plan is wholly to disregard such arguments, in whatever quarter they appear and however disguised. As an American speaker well put it the other day the only way to peace is through the war."

SCOUTED SIXTUS LETTER.

Clemenceau and Briand Say It Was Never Taken Seriously.

PARIS, May 4.—Premier Clemenceau and former Premier Briand appeared yesterday before the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Chamber of Deputies and gave that body information on the subject of the peace soundings made by Austria last year, as developed recently in the publication of letters written by Emperor Charles to his brother-in-law, Prince Sixtus.

Premier Clemenceau, says the Echo de Paris, declared in the clearest possible fashion that "at no time was there any real possibility of peace, nor could at any time the tentative proposals made by Austria, under whatsoever form, be taken seriously."

WANT DARING MEN FOR TANK SERVICE

Government Calls for Volunteers for Training in Overseas Camps.

CHANCES FOR PROMOTION

Assistant Secretary Roosevelt Reviews Bluejackets at Pelham Bay.

The United States Marines, according to unofficial records just made public, recruited more than 4,000 men in the United States during April, of whom about 1,000 are New Yorkers. The recruiting service is now in the midst of its effort to enlist 4,000 more men, and it is believed that about 10,000 of them will be enlisted during the present month. Only about one man in five who apply is accepted by the marines, so rigid are the regulations.

The recruiting officers of the Tank Service in New York are receiving hundreds of applicants daily for that new arm of the American Army, which is now mobilizing at the tank training camp, on the Gettysburg battlefield. Like the marines, the recruiting officers for the 10th Corps, which is the official name of the tank organization, are accepting only those men who measure up to the highest physical and moral standards.

After about six weeks at Gettysburg the men of the tank units proceed overseas to continue their training. In no arm of the service is promotion so rapid as is the case in the Tenth Corps.

"All men entering this service," a statement issued at the headquarters at Sixth Avenue and Forty-second Street yesterday says, "are given occupational classification. All men enter the Tenth Corps as privates and receive promotion on their merits. Early promotions to the highest noncommissioned grades are available, and from the noncommissioned personnel the future commissioned officers will be largely drawn.

"No commissions will be made in the Tenth Corps from civil life. The service will be vigorous and only in exceptional cases can men for limited service be accepted. This arm requires a personnel of the highest grade, capable of independent thought and action, for upon that line will the success of trench warfare depend."

A special appeal is issued by the corps for chauffeurs, automobile, and auto truck drivers; motor cyclists, engine mechanics, machine gun mechanics, acetylene welders, blacksmiths, telephone operators, wireless buzzer operators, stenographers, typists, and cooks.

The War Department has requested the Military Training Camps Association of the United States, 19 West Forty-fourth Street, to aid in obtaining 100 stenographers and 50 commercial telegraphers. All applicants should apply to Captain Arthur F. Cosby at the offices of the association.

Assistant Secretary of the Navy Franklin D. Roosevelt reviewed the officers and bluejackets at the Pelham Bay Naval Training Station yesterday morning. More than 7,000 bluejackets were in line. Mr. Roosevelt, escorted by Commander William B. Frank, the commandant, made a tour of the entire training plant inspecting the buildings.

After the inspection the Right Rev. Bishop Patrick J. Hayes of the Archdiocese of New York dedicated the recently constructed Knights of Columbus Hall. The Rev. Thomas S. McGrath, the camp Chaplain, assisted in the dedication of the building.

Major F. Reichenbach, Signal Corps, U. S. A., with headquarters in the Maritime Building, 8-10 Bridge Street, announced yesterday that a splendid opportunity was being offered for immediate overseas service to truck and motor cycle chauffeurs, stenographic clerks, cabic splicers, linemen, and expert commercial telegraph operators. Applications should be made in person.

FLIER KILLED; CADET HURT AT BAY SHORE

Ensign Alden of Fort Wayne, Ind., Loses Control of Plane and Plunges Into Sea.

WAS TEACHING SPIRAL DIVE

Cadet Mooser of Boston May Die—Mr. and Mrs. Alden Visit Son, Only to Hear of His Death.

Ensign T. Spencer Alden, a flying instructor, whose home is at Fort Wayne, Ind., was killed, and Philip P. Mooser, a student aviator, of Boston was fatally injured when the hydroaeroplane in which they were flying over Great South Bay got beyond their control at a great height and plunged down into the water.

Eight other hydroaeroplanes, flying from the naval training station at Bay Shore, L. I., were in the air over Great South Bay, near the Fire Island Inlet, at the time and saw the accident. They swooped down from all sides and lighted on shallow water in which the wreckage of the plane was floating. They swam to the wrecked machine and found the two men pinned in the wreckage at a depth of five feet. They finally succeeded in bringing the two bodies to the surface and placed them in a launch which had come from the training station.

Just as the body of Ensign Alden was being carried from the launch to the training station, a man and woman arrived from the land side. They were Mr. and Mrs. Alden, father and mother of the Ensign, who had just arrived from Fort Wayne, Ind., to see their son, and had gone at once to his training station. They were overcome with grief.

Assistant Surgeon Archibald found that Ensign Alden had been killed instantly by the fall. Mooser was unconscious and, apparently drowned, but a pulmotor restored his breath. An examination then disclosed that he had suffered many injuries, among them a compound fracture of the skull, which is almost certain to prove fatal.

According to the witnesses who were in flight over Great South Bay at the time, Ensign Alden had relinquished the wheel to the student. Starting from a great height, they were attempting to perform a difficult feat in spiraling down at a sharp angle, when the machine "side slipped" and fell almost perpendicularly.

Ensign Alden was commissioned six months ago. He came to the Bay Shore station six weeks ago. Mooser finished his ground school work only a short time ago, and was taking his first lessons in the air. Alden was 25 years old, and Mooser 23.

A naval funeral will be held in honor of Ensign Alden at the station on Monday morning at 9 o'clock, and the body will be sent to Fort Wayne.

A gasoline engine on a hydroplane, about to be housed at the Naval Airplane Station at Bayshore, L. I., at 8 o'clock last night, backfired and set the machine ablaze. The flames spread to the hangar and an alarm was sent in for the Bayshore firemen. They saved the building and the rest of the plant after a sharp fight. The hydroplane was practically destroyed, but no further damage was done, and no one was hurt.

Col. Dimond Left $500,000.

The will of Colonel Thomas Dimond of the Seventh Regiment Veterans' Association, who died April 22 last at 20 West Seventy-third Street, disposes of an estate of more than $500,000. The will gives the widow, Mrs. Jennie Diamond, $20,000 outright, and a life interest in a trust fund of $250,000. His daughter, Florence Dimond, and sons, James R. and George A. Dimond, each get $2,500 outright and a trust fund of $75,000.

GERARD NOT IN MOVIE FILM.

Part in "My Four Years in Germany" Taken by Actor.

Referring to a dispatch in THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday from The Hague, quoting the comment of the Vossische Zeitung of Berlin on the alleged appearance of Ambassador Gerard in the motion picture "My Four Years in Germany," Mr. Girard said yesterday:

"The Vossische Zeitung should be informed that I do not personally appear in the film. The part of the American Ambassador is taken by a good actor, Halbert Browne, who has a leading part in the play 'Yes or No' at the Longacre Theatre. I may add, however, that if my personal appearance in the film would add to the defeat of Germany and the destruction of its evil power I would make the effort, even if it would be regarded as a loss of dignity. That would be little enough sacrifice in view of the sacrifice thousands of my fellow-citizens are making on the battlefields of France.

"THE NEW YORK TIMES has performed a public service in printing in full the revelations of Prince Lichnowsky and proving the aggression of Germany in this crucial conflict which is saddening and impoverishing the world."

ARREST WOMAN FOR BIGAMY

Navy Officer's Wife Held on Complaint of William Johnson.

MINEOLA, L. I., May 4.—A matrimonial tangle was disclosed today when Mrs. J. V. Perry, wife of a naval officer, was arraigned before County Judge Smith, on a charge of bigamy. She pleaded not guilty, and was held for further hearing. Perry was in court when his wife was arraigned, sat near her, and declared he would fight for her to a finish.

Mrs. Perry, it is alleged, had been married four times. In 1902 she wed Arthur Buckingham, a clerk of the Corporation Trust Company, Manhattan, whom she divorced in 1907. On Aug. 22, 1910, she married Eugene Collins and they went to Southport, Conn., to live. She became housekeeper for William B. Johnson, a farmer of Canaan, and in 1912 they were married. Later they came to Freeport and about two years ago they separated. She went to Brooklyn to live. Last Summer Johnson wanted to sell some of his property and sought to find Mrs. Johnson in order that she could sign the deed and waive dower rights. He found that she had been married to Perry. He filed an affidavit with the Nassau County Grand Jury charging her with bigamy.

FIFTH AVENUE AT [illegible]

This Shop Has Raised the Ten Star Industrial Honor Flag

Awarded to its employees—100% of whom have bought Bonds of the Third Liberty Loan

It is with a full measure of deep pride that we publish the results of the response of our employees to the call of their country for a loan.

One Hundred Per Cent—including every one of our employees—man, woman, boy and girl is in possession of at least one bond of the Third Liberty Loan.

Those of the Bonwit Teller & Co. organization—and there are many—who joined the fighting forces will have their names inscribed indelibly on the honor roll of their country and be cherished in our hearts for their supreme sacrifice. And no less will the great quota of 100% Third Liberty Loan buyers be honored.

Beyond the fact that the money loaned was guaranteed by the entire resources of the greatest and most potential government in the world—beyond the fact that 4¼ per cent will be the annual interest paid on these loans—the spirit of our people was aroused to enthusiasm and action, the traditional American patriotism stirred within and moved them to do their utmost.

It is to combat the Hun that our people have pledged themselves to aid the conduct of this war to the end that Liberty and Democracy may be triumphant.

Their efforts begin anew and with redoubled vigor tomorrow in aid of

THRIFT STAMP CAMPAIGN

The 25 cent Thrift Stamps are issued to help you to save and exchange for a $5.00 War Savings Certificate Stamp. When sixteen 25 cent Thrift Stamps, representing a total of Four dollars are affixed to a Thrift Card, and a cash payment of sixteen cents (during the month of May) is made, this card should be exchanged for a War Savings Certificate Stamp for which you will be paid on January 1st, 1923—Five Dollars.

The frightfulness of the Hun, whose atrocities and brutalities surpass even the warfare of the untutored savage, must perish from the earth together with his blatant complacency and his insidious moral and physical poisons. The world must be rid of his vice and venom so that his warped and shriveled soul can no longer play the predatory vulture upon humanity; so that he may never more visit his horrors upon peace-loving people; so that he may never again turn into a shambles a Belgium, a Poland, a Serbia, an Armenia; so that he may not segregate families, outrage women and butcher infants; so that his perfidious nature may not send to watery graves innocent women and babes as food for sharks.

HOUSE TO MAKE AVIATION INQUIRY

Military Committee Will Hold Up $1,000,000,000 Until Baker Explains Situation.

MAY HOLD BACK FUNDS

Not Likely to Vote Further Sums Until $640,000,000 Has Been Accounted For.

ACTION URGED IN SENATE

Gallinger Insists That Entire Aviation Situation Be Subjected to Investigation.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Before the House Committee on Military Affairs will authorize the appropriation of $1,000,000,000, requested by the War Department for aviation, there will be a thorough investigation into the causes operating against the production of airplanes. This was determined by the committee today.

There was much opposition expressed by members of the committee today to recommending the vast sum sought for aviation by Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War. The objections were that the country had not had any definite information as to what had been done with the $640,000,000 appropriated last year. Mr. Baker said yesterday that he would lay before the committee the latest figures and he and the officials directly responsible for airplane production will be examined by the committee next Tuesday.

The investigation will go into every angle of the aviation situation, and will determine whether contracts were let to paper companies or whether, as has been charged, the first big expenditures by the War Department were for automobiles for men connected with aircraft production.

Unless officials can convince the committee that aircraft production has been reorganized and progress is being made in turning out machines the appropriation will be cut down. The committee will insist upon knowing the number of airplanes now being produced, and how many can be built monthly.

Members of the committee say that great sums of money have been wasted in ill-conceived experiments and in intrusting the work to inexperienced men.

"We think that it would have been better if the War Department had been less secretive about what it proposed to do in airplane production and more open about what it had done," said Representative Thomas S. Crago, a member of the committee, in discussing the plans of the committee to make the investigation.

"The committee wants to know the actual situation and to correct any evils if they still exist. I do not think that the committee will be satisfied with general statements but must have up to date reports upon the number of airplanes built and the certain progress to be made within the coming months. What we will seek to learn is whether the money authorized last year has been wisely spent and if not to stop practices, if they still exist, working against speedy production.

"I believe the country should know what has been done with the money authorized by Congress, and that a great deal more information along war expenditures could have been given to the people and Congress without furnishing the enemy with military information. The confidential aspect of war activities and the optimistic promises about airplane production have been a scandal. These promises were made without knowledge of conditions, and I still believe that the Aircraft Production Committee has not found itself.

"If it has reorganized and is not prepared to turn out machines in sufficient number the committee wants to know about it. If not, it wants to know the causes existing and offer some remedy."

GALLINGER ASKS INQUIRY.

Senator Wants Borglum's Charges Thoroughly Sifted.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Senator Gallinger offered a resolution today instructing the Committee on Expenditures to inquire into expenditures of appropriations made by Congress for war purposes. The New Hampshire Senator had in mind the charges made by Gutzon Borglum regarding aircraft production. Senator Gallinger wants these charges sifted, regardless of any other inquiry that might be conducted by the Military Affairs Committee.

Senator Thomas of the Military Affairs Committee conferred with President Wilson last night on the aircraft situation, but he declined to reveal what the President had said, except that Mr. Wilson was anxious that the country have a clear understanding of what has been done in working out the aircraft policy.

BRITISH DEFEAT TURKS EAST OF THE JORDAN

Repulse Attacks on Es-Salt, Taking 314 Prisoners—Foe's Losses Heavy.

LONDON, May 4.—Turkish forces in Palestine, which crossed the Jordan River on Thursday, made an attack on a British position and were repulsed, the War Office announces. On the following day they again attacked, having received considerable reinforcements, and were beaten off with heavy losses. The British took 314 prisoners.

The text of the statement reads:

Throughout May [no date] the fighting continued east of the Jordan at and to the south of Es-Salt. Enemy forces which had crossed the river and had advanced to attack our troops holding the village of Es-Salt, were driven back.

Our air service attacked troops and rolling stock on the Hedjaz Railway in the vicinity of Allan, and on the Wadi Sir, south of Es-Salt, with bombs and machine gun fire. Two of our machines failed to return.

During the night of May 2 and the morning of May 3 the enemy renewed his attacks on Es-Salt from the northeast and north with considerable reinforcements. In each case the attacks were repulsed with heavy losses, and 314 prisoners remained in our hands.

Respite for Six Election Inspectors.

In the case of six election inspectors recently convicted before Supreme Court Justice Goff of primary frauds, Supreme Court Justice Greenbaum yesterday granted certificates of reasonable doubt under which the following defendants will be released on bail pending the appeal: Adolph Calmbacher, Ignatz Luft, Leon Liberman, Joseph Lilymeld, Clark James, and Frank Le Rocca. Justice Greenbaum said it is a matter of doubt whether Justice Goff did not commit an error in refusing to explain to the jury what the duties of an inspector are as defined in the election law, and as requested by counsel for the defendants.

on hutments in the Assa Valley. An Italian airship dropped a ton of explosives on the aviation ground at Campo Maggiore. Fourteen hostile machines were brought down.

TRENTINO ATTACK EXPECTED.

Military Observers Look for a Drive Toward Industrial Centres.

If the Teutonic offensive on the Italian front has not actually arrived, as is indicated by the news from Vienna describing "heavy fighting along the whole Italian front between the Adriatic and the Giudicaria Valley," although somewhat discounted by later news from Rome, it is believed to be a matter of days, if not of hours, before the Austro-German hosts will be attempting to force the front door of Italy, hoping thereby to open the back door into France.

Emperor Charles is said to have started for that front with his Chief of Staff, Field Marshal Arz von Straussberg, and Major Gen. Cramon, the German Kaiser's agent. Time, which means much to the Allies for men, armaments, and supplies, could be allowed to give no further aid after the melting of the snows in the Alps opened the way to the enemy's lines—in the north from Trent and Bolzano, and in the east from Klagenfust and Laibach via Udine, the former headquarters of the Italian General Staff. Besides, the German attack in Flanders and Picardy has reached a point where it is most important to the enemy to create a diversion, according to military authorities.

Theoretically, at least, the Austro-German objectives labored for last Autumn until the snow impaired or closed their lines of communication remain unaltered—to reach the metallurgic centre of Italy, in Lombardy and Emilia, with the political corollary of forcing a separate peace at Rome and the military corollary of attacking France from Piedmont.

Italy Strong in Men and Guns.

On the other hand, it is known that Italy, principally by the utilization of her water falls to furnish electric power, has more than replaced the armament she lost in the invasion last year; that she has so increased the number of her trained men that she has been able to spare several divisions for service on the French front, and that she has also made use of former Austro-Hungarian subjects—a powerful political asset against the Dual Monarchy, whatever may be their military value. Finally, by a decree issued on May 3 by the Interallied Supreme Council of War sitting at Abbéville, under the Presidency of Premier Clemenceau, General Foch's authority was extended to the Italian front, thus realizing the ideal which military men of the Entente have been preaching ever since the defection of Russia—"one army, one front, and one supreme command"—a tactical and strategic axiom first verified by Napoleon 121 years ago, who alternately fought on the Rhine and the Isonzo, with his lines of communication running through Switzerland.

Since the Austro-Germans, however, were forced to suspend their offensive in Italy last January conditions have changed that, in the opinion of Italian military experts, the new offensive will not be a sequel to the old along the Piave, down the valley of the Brenta, and on the Sette Comuni, but rather in the Giudicaria Valley to the west of the Lago di Garda.

Not only is this approach nearer the metallurgic region and nearer France, but a successful drive here carried into the old Quadrilateral, famous in the Italo-Austrian wars of 1859 and 1866, would possibly force a retreat on the part of the Allies from the Piave and their positions on the northern line as far west as the Lago di Garda—down the Brenta, the Astico, and the Adige—causing a withdrawal from the Val Terragnolo, where the Italians have maintained themselves within midcalibre range of Rovereto since they entered the war.

It is a well established military fact that last October Cadorna needed only a few more batteries of heavy artillery in order to blast his way thirty-five miles to Laibach, with the probability of putting Austria-Hungary out of the war. Fear of this on the part of the Dual Monarchy was recently revealed in the Franco-Austrian peace pourparlers conducted at that time in Switzerland.

The Catastrophe of Last Fall.

Cadorna's victories, however, had left his Monte Nero line exposed on its flanks at Plezzo and Tolmino, and his Bainsizza front at the Idria on the north and at Monte San Gabriele and Monte San Daniele on the south. On Sunday, Oct. 21, five German divisions allowing the Austrians, with their uncertain Jugoslav battalions out of the way, struck at these places, involving the Second Army, which in five days lost over 200,000 men in prisoners and 600 guns. With this catastrophe to the Second Army, the Third was automatically forced westward from the Carso, and the Fourth south from the Carnic Alps, as the Piave was reached. Then on Nov. 10, Germany struck down to Asiago, on the Sette Comuni, thus placing a strategical position for development on the left rear of the Piave, and on the right rear of the Terragnolo line before Rovereto.

English reinforcements under General Plumer and French reinforcements under General Fayolle came. First, not believing that the Italians could hold the Piave, they intrenched themselves on the Adige. But the Italians held the Piave line, and late in December the French and English reinforced them there, the former at the Piave crossing and the latter at the Montello, halfway down to the sea.

Since then, while the Italians have continued to strengthen their Piave front, the line from the Astico to the Piave, in the north, thirty-five miles long, has undergone only two important changes—two threatening openings have been closed; by the French at the junction of Calcina and the Piave, and by the Italians at the angle formed by the Frenzela Torrent and the Brenta.

It is not known what reinforcements the Austro-Hungarian armies have received since the melting of the snows. At last accounts the estimate of the enemy's forces was about 1,000,000 men, including from five to seven German divisions, (65,000 to 91,000.) In the course of the Winter there have been thousands of desertions from Jugoslav regiments to the Italians, some companies going over complete. Recent reports said that Field Marshal Conrad von Hoetzendorf was in full command of the enemy, with headquarters at Udine, where, besides the German and Austro-Hungarian flags, those of Turkey and Bulgaria also floated.

TO HOUSE ITALIAN REFUGEES

The American Red Cross Will Build a Village Near Pisa.

ROME, May 4.—An American village will soon rise at the gates of Pisa to accommodate 2,000 refugees from Venetia. It will cover thirty acres, and there will be a church, a school, and a hospital building. Plans for the village have been adopted and the work will be carried out by the American Red Cross.

FRENCH BAND COMING HERE.

Thirty of the Military Organization Are Conservatoire Prize Winners.

PARIS, May 4.—The French Government is about to send to the United States a military band of carefully picked men under the leadership of Gabriel Pares, former bandmaster of the Republican Guard of Paris. Thirty of the band members are first prize men of the Paris Conservatoire, and four have been similarly honored by the Conservatory at Rome.

In addition to the ordinary répertoire of brass bands, the organization will be able to play orchestral music. Among the bandsmen are a number of fine violinists and 'cellists and an excellent pianist, who give concerts of modern French and classical chamber music.

Workers for Rumania Reach England.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE, May 4.—The American Red Cross Mission to Rumania, headed by Colonel Henry W. Anderson of Richmond, which left Jassy on March 9, has arrived here. In order to avoid contact with the Germans the Americans took a circuitous route through Russia, and left that country by a northern port. All the members of the mission are well.

SENATE ACCEPTS SEDITION BILL

Conference Report Adopted, 48 to 26, and Now Goes to House for Action.

FRANCE AMENDMENT OUT

SEE BLOW AT FREE SPEECH

Hiram Johnson and Lodge Criticise Provisions — House Passes Flood Passport Bill.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—By a vote of 48 to 26 the Senate today adopted the conference report on the Sedition bill, as recently amended in conference, to penalize disloyal utterances and efforts to hinder the prosecution of the war. Two Democrats, Hardwick of Georgia and Reed of Missouri, voted against it, aligning themselves in the opposition with twenty-four Republicans. The conference report now goes to the House for action and is expected to be adopted there.

As put through the Senate the bill was shorn of the amendment offered by Senator France and eliminated by the conferees to exclude from its operations persons "who speak the truth for good motives and for justifiable ends." This amendment was urged by various Senators as protecting freedom of speech, but the Senate declined to reinsert it in the bill. Its elimination had been advocated by Attorney General Gregory, who maintained that it would hamper the effort to reach disloyalists.

What the Bill Provides.

As adopted, the measure provides punishment of not more than $10,000 fine or twenty years' imprisonment, or both, for any one who "makes or conveys false reports or false statements with intent to interfere with the operation or success of the military or naval forces of the United States, or to promote the success of its enemies, or who shall willfully say or do anything, except by way of bona fide and not disloyal advice to an investor, with intent to obstruct the sale by the United States of bonds, or the making of loans, or who shall cause, or attempt to cause, or incite, or attempt to incite, insubordination, disloyalty, mutiny, or refusal of duty, or shall obstruct recruiting or enlistment; or shall willfully utter, print, write, or publish any disloyal, profane, scurrilous, or abusive language about the form of Government of the United States, or its flag, or the uniform of its army or navy, or any language intended to bring the form of Government of the United States, or the Constitution, into contempt, scorn, contumely or disrepute; or shall willfully utter, print, write, or publish any language intended to incite, provoke, or encourage resistance to the United States, or to promote the cause of its enemies; or shall urge, incite, or advocate any curtailment of production in this country of anything, product or products, necessary or essential to the prosecution of the war, with intent to cripple or hinder the United States."

The measure also provides that any employe or official of the Government who "commits any disloyal act, or utters any unpatriotic or disloyal language or who, in an abusive and violent manner, critises the army or navy, or flag of the United States," be at once dismissed from service. The Postmaster General is authorized to hold up any mail upon satisfactory evidence that it is in violation of the prosions of this act.

Details of the Vote.

Here is the vote by which the conference report was adopted:

Against—Democrats: Hardwick, Reed—2. Republicans: Borah, Brandegee, Calder, Curtis, Dillingham, France, Gallinger, Gronna, Hale, Harding, Johnson of California, Kenyon, Knox, Lodge, McNary, New, Norris, Page, Sherman, Smoot, Sutherland, Wadsworth, Watson, Weeks—24. Total—26.

Senator Johnson of California voiced a vigorous protest against enacting the measure, characterizing it as an abridgment of the right of free speech. He deplored the excision of the France amendment, saying that it would have saved the bill from imposing an "unconstitutional restriction upon honest criticism."

"Measures such as this do not unite a people," declared Senator Johnson. "They breed discontent; they cause suspicion to stalk all through the land; they make one man to spy upon another; they take a great, virile, brave people and make that people timid and fearful. No matter how you may repress and suppress by legislation with measures such as this, deep down in the hearts of all shall be found distrust of neighbors, insidious suapicion wandering all over the land, and finally the very discontent that every one of us would avoid."

Airplane Engine Not Tested.

Senator Johnson alluded to the recent death in an airplane accident of Paul Herriott, his former secretary, on the aviation field at Fort Worth, Texas, saying that his death was "unnecessary and could have been prevented." He read a letter from Lieutenant Ennis, Commander at the aviation field, saying that failure to test the engine of Herriott's airplane was responsible for the accident.

"If the anguished hearts of those who loved such men as Herriott and others of our heroes should cry out against those who permitted that sort of thing—if those who care for them should in abusive or other language denounce those who were responsible, or insist in some language that might be determined scurrilous or abusive that there was fault on the part of officers of the United States, those who thus cried out from anguished hearts would be liable to twenty years imprisonment under this bill," said Senator Johnson.

"I have confidence in the Department of Justice, but I cannot yield with a ready acquiescence to everything that it desires, even at this time. I cannot yield the right that the American people hold so dearly—free speech. A brave man does not have to boast, and a patriot does not have to protest his loyalty. This bill puts a premium upon hypocrisy; it makes the man with the greatest vocal vociferation of his own virtues and his own patriotism the greatest man among us."

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts criticised the Department of Justice for not having availed itself of existing laws for the suppression of sedition.

"We have lawe enough," he declared. "There is no reason to pass additional legislation, if that which we now have is not to be enforced."

Spy, but Not Even Interned.

Senator Lodge, without mentioning names, referred to a man, of German birth, who had twice deserted from the army and in whose pockets were found some war plans, evidently, the Senator said, for spy purposes.

"If the information that has come to me is true, this man is a spy," said Senator Lodge. "Yet he has not yet even been interned."

Senator King of Utah said he was investigating the incident mentioned by Senator Lodge and if the facts developed as stated, and the War Department failed to act, he would offer a resolution in the Senate calling for a court-martial of the accused man.

"This bill will only afford a screen behind which personal enemies may sneak, to subject individuals to humiliation," said Senator Thomas of Colorado. "It will open the way for fostering personal enmity."

The Colorado Senator expressed the belief that German propaganda had much to do with holding up the aircraft production. The Department of Justice had means at its disposal to reach that, he said, without any further law.

"Any man who votes against this bill may go home, to proudly say that he voted to throw a cloak around the enemies of his country," said Senator Overman.

"Does the Senator want that to go on the record?" demanded Senator Wadsworth. "I'm sure he doesn't mean exactly what he says."

"I will strike out 'proudly,' if you like," retorted Senator Overman.

The North Carolina Senator urged the passage of the measure to put an end to "insidious, vicious German propaganda," which, he said, was being spread throughout the country. The Administration, Senator Overman said, needed drastic legislation to deal with it.

WASHINGTON, May 4, (Associated Press.)—In debate on the Sedition bill today Senator Sherman of Illinois exhibited a clipping which, he said, was taken from The St. Louis Post-Dispatch of April 13. This reported an interview with Dr. Charles H. Weinsberg, President of the Missouri State Branch of the German-American Alliance, in which he predicted Germany would break through the allied lines, would overrun Italy, and would win the war within six months. That ought to have been excluded from the mails, the Illinois Senator said, but Postmaster Burleson did not see it.

"What is the politics of that paper?" asked Senator Lodge.

"Independent, with Democratic proclivities," was the reply.

"That isn't the kind of sedition they are after," answered Senator Lodge.

Senator Sherman explained that the paper was owned by the same persons owning The New York World.

"I am astonished that a paper would permit an article of that kind to appear," Senator Sherman remarked, referring to The Post-Dispatch. "I can't think of a more damaging article than that."

Senator King said if "any American newspaper man published articles like that he ought to be put in the penitentiary and punished under the provisions of this bill." He called attention to the large number of newspapers in the country, and said it would be difficult for the Postmaster General to read all of them.

ADOPTS PASSPORT BILL.

House Sends Measure Aimed at Spies to Senate for Action.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Without a roll call the House today passed the Flood Passport bill giving the President greater power over the issuance of passports and in restricting travel during the war. The bill now goes to the Senate for action. The legislation was suggested by President Wilson and is intended to stop an important gap affecting spies.

Under the bill the President is authorized to restrict by proclamation the departure of persons from and their entry into the United States except under certain conditions. The bill will make it unlawful, except under regulations and limitations to be prescribed by the President—

For any alien to depart from or enter, or attempt to depart from or enter, the United States, unless and until he shall have secured from such official or department as the President shall designate permission to depart or enter, as the case may be.

For any person to transport, or attempt to transport, from or into the United States another person, with knowledge or reasonable cause to believe that the departure or entry of such other person is forbidden by this act.

For any person knowingly to make any false statement in an application for permission to depart from or enter the United States with intent to induce or secure the granting of such permission either for himself or for another.

For any person knowingly to furnish, or attempt to furnish, or assist in furnishing, to another a permit or evidence of permission to depart or enter not issued and designed for such other person's use.

For any person knowingly to use, or attempt to use, any permit or evidence of permission to depart or enter not issued and designed for his use.

For any person to forge, counterfeit, mutilate, or alter, or cause or procure to be forged, counterfeited, mutilated, or altered, any permit or evidence of permission to depart from or enter the United States.

For any person knowingly to use, or attempt to use, or furnish to another for use any false, forged, counterfeited, mutilated, or altered permit, or evidence of permission, or any permit or evidence of permission which, though originally valid, has become or been made void or invalid.

After proclamation it shall, except as otherwise provided by the President, be unlawful for any citizen of the United States to depart from or enter, or attempt to depart from or enter, the United States, unless he bears a valid passport.

The bill seeks to prevent persons unfriendly to the United States either leaving this country or entering it. It is part of the Department of Justice's program to prevent spies enterinf the United States. This legislation is the outgrowth of a recommendation made by President Wilson in his address to Congress on Dec. 4, 1917.

Representative Flood, Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Affairs, in presenting the bill to the House, said:

"Citizens need not secure such permits as are required of aliens, but must bear valid passports. That some supervision of travel by American citizens is essential appeared from statements made at the hearing on the bill. One case was mentioned of a United States citizen who recently returned from Europe after having, to the knowledge of our Government, done work in a neutral country for the German Government. There was strong suspicion that he came to the United States for no proper purpose. Nevertheless, not only was it impossible to exclude him, but it would now be impossible to prevent him from leaving the country if he saw fit to do so. The known facts in his case are not sufficient to warrant the institution of a criminal prosecution, and in any event the difficulty of securing legal evidence from the place of his activities in Europe may easily be imagined.

"It is essential that the Executive have wide discretion and wide authority of action. No one can foresee the different means which may be adopted by hostile nations to secure military information or spread propaganda and discontent. Swift executive action is the only effective counterstroke.

"The committee was informed by representatives of the executive departments that the need for prompt legislation was most pressing. There have recently been numerous suspicious departures for Cuba which it was impossible to prevent. Other individual cases of entry and departure at various points have excited the greatest anxiety. This is particularly true in respect of the Mexican border, passage across which cannot legally be restricted for many types of persons reasonably suspected of aiding Germany's purposes."

QUEEN OF NETHERLANDS WAS READY FOR FLIGHT

Wilhelmina Kept Automobiles at Call When Crisis with Germany Was at Its Worst.

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, May 4.—THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent learns from chauffeur gossip that during the two days when the political tension with Germany was at its height Queen Wilhelmina's automobiles were kept in readiness day and night, and that her chauffeurs were not allowed to leave the cars.

In the event of hostilities the Government and the royal family would immediately leave Amsterdam.

COAL OUTLOOK BRIGHTER.

There Will Be Enough for All if Present Output Is Kept Up.

There is hope for anthracite coal users in the reports just made public of the increase in the anthracite output during the last few weeks, and it is predicted that if the present rate is kept up there will be coal enough for the householders and to keep war industries running. The Anthracite Committee of the United States Fuel Administration announced yesterday there are prospects that for the year there will be about 80,000,000 tons to supply all needs. While the outlook was dark four weeks ago, Floyd W. Parsons, editor of Coal Age, said yesterday the situation was brightening.

"There was no Liberty Loan holiday and no Mitchell Day," he added, "so the miners got back on the job three weeks ago early and the output increased 12 per cent. The next week it increased 4 per cent., and last week it showed a further increase of 5 per cent.

"Already it has been determined by the Railroad Administration that 50,000 of the 100,000 cars to be ordered immediately shall be coal cars. More than 1,000 locomotives have been added to the nation's transportation equipment since the first of this year. Two hundred and fifty of these locomotives were built for Russia; 100 were built for France, and the remainder were in fulfillment of domestic orders. Such a helpful contribution to a serious situation is noteworthy and augurs well for future months."

SECURITY LEAGUE TO MEET.

Demand for Seats Necessitates Use of Metropolitan Opera House.

Because of the great demand for seats to the annual meeting of the National Security League, which will be held in New York next Wednesday, it was announced yesterday that the meeting will be held in the Metropolitan Opera House instead of in Carnegie Hall as originally planned. Delegates from all parts of the United States, representing 281 branches of the society, will attend the meeting. Elihu Root will preside at the meeting and Senator Irvine L. Lenroot of Wisconsin will make the principal address. S. Stanwood Menken, President of the league, will read the annual report. Dr. Robert M. McElroy of Princeton University will also speak.

Among the box holders are Mr. and Mrs. James W. Gerard, Dr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Pearson, Nicholas F. Brady, Mr. and Mrs. Elihu Root, Lawrence F. Abbott, Mrs. George Haven Putnam, Job E. Hedges, Arthur S. Somers, James Gayley, the National League for Woman's Service, Frederic R. Coudert, Alton B. Parker, C. Willing Hare of Philadelphia, Mr. and Mrs. S. Stanwood Menken, Alexander J. Hemphill, Jules S. Bache, Jacob H. Schiff, Clarence H. Mackay, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Curtiss James, Eversley Childs, William Hamlin Childs, Emerson McMillin, Mr. and Mrs. J. Kennedy Tod, John Markle, Mrs. Oliver Harriman, T. Coleman du Pont, and J. G. White.

PUBLIC SERVICE HEARINGS.

The Public Service Commission will hold the following hearings this week:

Tomorrow at 2:30, concerning the alteration of grade crossings at Pennsylvania Avenue and other streets in the Borough of Richmond, and as to the motive power and service of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company.

Wednesday at 2:30 on the application of the Kings County Electric Light and Power Company for approval of an issue of $1,000,000 in bonds; relating to the compliance by the Brooklyn Edison Company with the uniform system of accounts; ratee and charges of the New York Steam Company, and investigating the general conditions of the Rockaway Electric Railway Company.

Friday at 10:30, concerning the rates charged for gas in the Second and Fourth Wards of Queens.

Children's Undermuslins

There is a difference between a garment that is too big and one that is roomy.
Making sure of a good cut and a good roomy cut, is the principal insurance against quick wear-out in children's undermuslins.

It is just as important as materials that wear. This is why experienced mothers depend upon Best's undermuslins for the children and upon the May Sales for stocking up.

As an instance of the superior making of Best Spring undermuslins, six or eight more yards are used to the dozen pairs of children's drawers. Other garments are cut along the same roomy proportions.

Even if they cost more, garments that are made to stand wear would in the long run be economy. At any time they cost no more than the average, and during May Sales decidedly less.

Worth while savings in the May Sales are:

KNICKERS, cambric or nainsook; choice of embroidery edges, 2 to 10 years, Special .50
Nainsook embroidery insertion and edge, 2 to 10 years, Special .69

Detective Sergeants Busy.

A Liberty Loan Committee of Detective Sergeants from the office of Second Deputy Police Commissioner W. J. Lahey which has been canvassing the financial district obtained subscriptions amounting to $621,200 in less than two days. This committee is composed of Detective Sergeants Hine, O'Connell, Gegan, Daly, and Shaw, and their lists show the following subscriptions:

Equitable Trust Co.	$400,000
J. P. Morgan	100,000
Central Trust Co.	25,000
John D. Rockefeller, Jr.	10,000
The Post Keller	12,000
William J. Burns	1,000

These Detective Sergeants are striving to win the $1,000 prize offered by a wealthy citizen to the policeman who sells the largest amount of Liberty bonds. Should these Sergeants win the prize they will devote the money to fitting out an ambulance which they will send to France.

Police Commissioner Enright announced yesterday that the loan drive made by the police had netted about $17,000,000, although not all of the reports were in at a late hour last night. The Brooklyn force reported a total of $7,331,500.

That the 9,000 shipyard workers in the Port Newark yards of the Submarine Boat Corporation had subscribed to $1,010,000 was the word received yesterday by Vice President Sutphen at the New York offices of the company.

Record Amount for Shipyard.

"This is the record amount from workers in a Government fabricated shipyard," Mr. Sutphen said. "Not only are our men making a record for driving rivets, but they are doing so in buying bonds. That shows a splendid spirit in a yard of but three months' organization, and yesterday there was a stampede of the men at the noon hour to get to the booths to buy the bonds. Italians, Poles, and Serbs clamored for places on the improvised platforms, where they addressed their fellow countrymen in their native tongue, urging the buying of bonds.

"These men have the spirit to fight out the war, and have become partners with the Government in helping to finance the building of ships that they themselves are working on. There will be a big final demonstration at noon today, when the last bonds are bought and the total amount made known."

More than $35,000,000 in subscriptions and more than 500,000 individual subscribers is the record that the employes of Eastern railroads will establish when the final returns are in, according to a statement made yesterday by Secretary J. W. Adams of the Railroad Committee. In the Second Loan campaign the total was $19,000,000.

Help wallop William well, buy bonds!
Liberty bond or liberty bound, which will you have it?

RAINBOW DIVISION GETS $516,388,850

Trade Committees Well Over Quota of $450,000,000, With Final Returns Not Included.

The trade committees composing the Rainbow Division of the Liberty Loan not only succeeded in rounding up their quota of $450,000,000, which is one-half of the quota for the entire New York District, but they went far above that figure, the latest returns, compiled last night, showing a total of $516,388,850. It is believed that subscriptions not yet tabulated will add considerably to this total. For the second loan the trade committees collected subscriptions to the amount of $408,911,000.

The following table gives the standing of the various committees, the latest figures for the third loan being compared with the final totals for the previous loan, and the stars indicating that the record of the second loan had been beaten:

John Wanamaker of New York and Philadelphia furnished Liberty Loan subscriptions to the amount of $4,916,517. This includes $1,500,000 subscribed for by John and Rodman Wanamaker and $1,154,067 invested in the bonds by the stores, the same representing five days' retail sales at both establishments. The balance is made up of $883,450 collected from patrons, $716,000 from employes of the Philadelphia store, and $663,000 from employes of the New York. Every one of the employes of both stores has subscribed to the loan.

Borough Employes Subscribe $151,800.

At the close of the Liberty Loan drive in the office of the President of the Borough of Manhattan a total of $151,800 had been subscribed by the employes of the office. This is exactly 100 per cent. increase over the subscriptions to the previous loan.

Students of the Julia Richman High School, working after school hours, secured 11,870 subscriptions to the loan, totaling $2,006,500. Every one of the 3,400 girls of the school obtained at least one subscription. Students of the Boys' High School in Brooklyn have $3,000,000 of subscriptions to their credit.

Brooklyn yesterday celebrated its success in going "over the top" in the Third Liberty Loan drive with a big patriotic demonstration at the Borough Hall, from the top of which an honor flag was unfurled to the breeze. It was the first time in the three loan campaigns that Brooklyn had exceeded her quota of subscriptions.

The ceremony of hoisting the honor flag was preceded by a parade through the streets of the downtown district. In the line were two companies of artillerymen from Fort Hamilton and a detachment of Naval Reserves. Twenty-four Anzacs, on their way to the battlefront, received a warm welcome when they appeared on the stand at the Borough Hall. Addresses were made by Borough President Riegelmann, Postmaster Walter C. Burton, County Clerk William E. Kelly, and others, and there was music by the Pelham Bay Naval Band.

DRIVE ON TO LAST MINUTE.

Final Hours of Loan Sale Filled with Patriotic Celebrations.

The Liberty Loan Committee filled Broadway and other streets so full of Liberty bond salesmen last night that at many points they appeared to outnumber the public to whom the bonds were being sold. Operatic stars were singing, noted orators thundering, bands playing soldiers, sailors, and Boy Scouts parading, and droves of salesmen selling bonds.

The "Blue Devils," who have proved to be the greatest single advertising feature for the loan, were rushed about from place to place until they were seen during the day at almost every part of the island below Fifty-ninth Street. Aguinaldo's plan of marching a couple of hundred men around and around in a circle until they appeared an innumerable host was improved upon by those who had the direction of the French heroes.

Men who thought they were staggering under the load of Liberty bonds they had bought found only one possible way of crossing Times Square in financial security, and that was by pretending to be Liberty bond salesmen.

On a smaller scale the same proceeding was going on along Broadway from Times Square to the vicinity of Spuyten Duyvil and on many of the cross streets. Thousands of canvassers, who had spent the day going from apartment to apartment, swarmed into the streets in the evening and sold bonds from automobiles and soap boxes.

Rivalry at Liberty Land was stern between two veteran salesmen of this campaign—the two-year-old Melvin Vincent Webb and ninety-four-year-old Samuel T. Hopkins of Long Island City. The dean of the junior group at Liberty Land, Raymond Francis Rowe Kennedy, ran up his record for sales to more than $7,000. The most successful bond sellers at Liberty Land were the members of the Women's Auxiliary of the 165th Regiment, many of whom have or have had sons at the front. One of these was Mrs. Thomas J. Clarkin, whose son, James F. Clarkin, was killed on March 7 last.

Thousands of people were turned away when the gates were closed at Liberty Land last night, because the crowd was already as great as the 69th Regiment Armory could hold. It was estimated last night that nearly $2,000,000 worth of bonds, mostly in small lots, had been sold during the three weeks. The sales of the Women's Auxiliary of the 165th United States Infantry, (the old 69th,) the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the British Empire, and the members of the present 69th Regiment, amounted to more than $250,000.

The campaign came to an exciting close last night in many churches, schools, hotels, halls, theatres and other public places, so that practically the whole public of New York City yesterday was engaged either in selling or in buying bonds. Veterans of Pershing's army and tough soldiers from Australia and New Zealand had a busy day, showing themselves at Liberty Land, at the City Hall, and in every place where it was calculated that the sight of men fresh from France would have the greatest effect on men and women able to back them with money.

GETS $70,000 BONDS IN RAFFLE.

Stock Exchange Member Paid $250 for Chance.

Two Stock Exchange members learned yesterday that the Liberty Loan campaign had brought them considerably more than the satisfaction resultant from hard and successful work in distributing the bonds among subscribers. As the holder of the last of 400 numbers taken out of a hat on Friday night, Burnet R. Ruggles of Fahnestock & Co. drew a prize of $70,000 Liberty bonds in the $100,000 raffle which was organized a fortnight ago by members of the Cotton Exchange. Casimer I. Straiem of Hallgarten & Co. drew the next to the last number and received $20,000 worth of bonds.

The raffle chances sold at $250 each, and it was said on the Exchange yesterday that the lucky purchasers held only a single number each. Several other participants owning two or more chances got nothing; one Stock Exchange member put $1,000 into four numbers but won nothing. The third prize of $7,000 Liberty Bonds was drawn by F. W. White and the fourth of $3,000 by F. Calhoun, these men being connected with the cotton market. This was the largest of many Liberty Bond raffles originated and conducted for the most part in the financial district during the campaign.

MANY HONOR FLAGS GO TO BUSINESS HOUSES

Advisory Trades Committee Announces Partial List of Firms Privileged to Display Ten Stars.

The Advisory Trades Committee of the Liberty Loan, which has had supervision over the work of the eighty-odd business organizations comprising the so-called Rainbow Division, decided early in the campaign to award "Industrial Honor Flags" to business concerns and banks which secured subscriptions from 60 or more per cent. of their employes. An Honor Flag, with six stars, was awarded to concerns having obtained subscriptions from 60 per cent. of their employes, a flag with seven stars was given to those obtaining 70 per cent., &c. In cases where a one hundred per cent. record was established an Industrial Honor Flag with ten stars was awarded.

NEW YORK DISTRICT EXCEEDS LOAN QUOTA

subscription drive. A dense throng in City Hall Park cheered the unfurling in front of the historic city structure of the honor flag awarded for completing the quota. The announcement that the city had gone "all the way" in its subscriptions was made by Arthur M. Anderson, Director of Distribution of the Liberty Loan Committee, and the honor flag was presented to Alfred E. Smith, Acting Mayor, by both Mr. and Mrs. Anderson. At almost the same moment the Liberty coach drove up from the finish of its 473-mile trip from Buffalo, and there was more enthusiasm.

The building alterations on the roof of the City Hall left no staff available for the honor flag, but halyards were speedily rigged from the scaffolding about the new tower, and Acting Mayor Smith hoisted the flag to the accompaniment of cheers from the crowd.

The police band played the "Star-Spangled Banner," "God Save the King," and the "Marseillaise," while the French "Blue Devils" and the bluejackets and soldiers present stood at attention and every head was bared. Miss Edna Jovce sang several selections, accompanied by the band; William J. Roberts, a steeple jack, climbed one of the flagpoles on the top of the Park Row Building, unfurling the Stars and Stripes, and a number of speakers held forth at the Liberty Bell booth across the way.

Just as Mr. Anderson arrived at the City Hall to present the honor flag to the Mayor the Liberty Coach drew up in the plaza. Fifty of the "Blue Devils," who had arrived just before 12 o'clock, took their places in front of the Liberty Bell and a platoon of bluejackets was drawn up in front of the steps of the hall. Australian soldiers and many of our own boys in khaki were also there as the gayly decorated vehicle, drawn by the four Vanderbilt grays, came to a stop with a flourish of trumpets. Acting Mayor Smith was all ready to receive the party. On the coach were Mrs. Alfred G. Vanderbilt, widow of the former owner; Miss Marion Hollins, the driver; Mrs. Arthur Iselin, Mrs. Thomas Hastings, Mrs. Whitthrop Aldrich, Mrs. Joseph P. Davis, Frank D. Lyons, Judge William J. Mcoore and Frank D. Lyon of Binghamton, former State Commissioner of Highways. Miss Hollins presented the Acting Mayor with the proclamations of the different cities the coach had passed through. Mr. Lyons, who led the party, was the spokesman, Acting Mayor Smith replying.

Part of the ceremonies at the City Hall during the day were centred about the Liberty Bell booth directly across from the Hall, in the park. It was Labor Day and a number of prominent labor men were speakers. Mrs. Price Post, assisted by a large corps of women representing the Mayor's Woman's Committee on National Defense, had charge of the arrangements. The speakers included James Holland, President of the New York State Federation of Labor; Hugh Frayne, New York representative of the American Federation of Labor and a member of the War Board; Sergeant Paul A. Haverstein, one of the Pershing veterans, Leon Reuse, President of Typographical Union No. 6; Acting Mayor Smith, Miss Ann Hogan, representing bookkeepers, stenographers, and accountants of New York, and Meyer Abrahamson, President of the United Umbrella and Stickmakers' Union.

After the honor flag demonstration the "Blue Devils," perched atop their buses, blared a final fanfare from their "Hun hunting" horns and left City Hall on a whirlwind tour of the city. They went to the Bronx and back and were cheered all the way by the crowds at Liberty Loan meetings on the street corners and by the throngs waiting for The Evening Mail Marathon runners. In the afternoon they attended a concert at the Rubenstein Club, and were then taken on a tour of the dozens of outdoor Liberty Loan meetings. They wound up the evening at Liberty Land, where their presence gave the final touch of reality to the war exhibit.

Cleveland Expects $325,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, May 4.—The total subscription for the Fourth Federal Reserve District, for which Cleveland is the headquarters, it is estimated tonight, will approximate $325,000,000, or $25,000,000 over the quota. The city's subscription is likely to be between $60,000,000 and $65,000,000. There are approximately 250,000 individual subscribers in the city.

LOAN SURPLUS MAY BE $1,500,000,000

declared. Most of the subscriptions have come from individuals, the banks taking very few bonds.

Extra Star for Delaware.

Delaware, which is in the Philadelphia district, has the honor of being the first State to obtain an extra star for its flag. A message from the committee this afternoon said that it had doubled its quota and was, going forward to triple it if possible. Philadelphia district celebrated its success tonight by flying an honor flag from the Liberty statue, south of the City Hall. Bands played, whistles were blown and bells were rung throughout the city. Five hundred and eighty-four honor flags have been awarded in the district.

A 33 per cent. oversubscription in the New England district was hoped for tonight by the committee there. Every State in the district passed its quota this afternoon. The number of individual subscribers up to the beginning of business today was 1,089,620. Percentages of subscriptions by States were: Connecticut, 130; New Hampshire, 126; Maine, 110; Vermont, 115, and Rhode Island, 101. Eleven hundred and ninety towns have been awarded Strenuous efforts were being put forth in the San Francisco district tonight to bring the total up to $250,000,000. It was estimated, also, that the total number of subscribers in the district would exceed 1,000,000, as compared with 624,000 in the second campaign. Very few subscriptions have been taken from banks, Tacoma and Los Angeles, for instance, having attained oversubscriptions, without a single bank subscription. Thirteen hundred and six honor flags have been awarded in the district, California leading with 574.

All of the 169 counties in the Cleveland district were reported this afternoon to have subscribed their quotas. This included a number of counties in the southern part of the district, which made very poor showings in the first and second loans, due to the fact, it is believed, that the message of the war and the loan had not reached them.

$90,000,000 from Dallas.

Subscriptions of more than $90,000,000 were reported unofficially from the Dallas district tonight and the canvassing was continuing at a vigorous pace. Arizona had subscribed 130 per cent. of its quota; Louisiana, 118; Texas, 106; New Mexico, 104, and Oklahoma, 99. The Minneapolis district reported that every county and every State in the district had made unofficial reports indicating oversubscriptions. The total number of honor flags awarded in the district to date is 2,691.

Up to 3 o'clock this afternoon subscriptions in the navy totalled $14,698,150, with every indication that the $15,000,000 soon would be reached.

The Panama Canal Zone committee reported today that it had received subscriptions of $1,037,450, of which $909,650 were from employes of the Panama Canal and Railroad.

Baltimore reported today that its foreign-language division had obtained subscriptions totaling $2,777,000 divided as follows: German, $1,397,000; Jewish, $800,000; Polish, $290,000; Bohemian, $200,000; Italian, $100,000; Lithuanian, $75,000; Greek, $3,000, and Chinese, $2,000.

The Cleveland foreign-language division reported 21,875 subscriptions for a total amount of $1,255,850.

Mrs. Antoinette Funk, Vice Chairman of the National Woman's Liberty Loan Committee, today announced that she expected the committee to turn in subscriptions totaling $750,000,000. The following résumé of the committee's work was given out tonight:

"Alabama, $4,078,000; Indiana, $17,500,000; Iowa, $12,000,000; Kentucky, $8,500,000; Oklahoma, $4,500,000; North Carolina, $3,500,000; Tenessee, $8,000,000; Arizona, $1,675,000; Arkansas, $5,684,000; Kansas, $7,000,000; Michigan, $9,000,000; Missouri, $14,500,000; Mississippi, $1,500,000; Nevada, $800,000; New Jersey, $15,000,000; Texas, $10,000,000; Virginia, $4,500,000; West Virginia, $5,750,000; reports from Illinois and Ohio are not so encouraging: Philadelphia, yesterday, $75,000,000, no doubt there will be $90,000,000; Pittsburgh close to Philadelphia; Washington, $3,500,000; Richmond, $3,000,000; Delaware, $4,000,000."

Of the employes of the Louisville & Nashville Railway 18,936 today subscribed $1,358,650, and the railway itself subscribed $1,000,000.

According to official estimates the number of subscribers throughout the country is between 12,000,000 and 15,000,000, as against 10,000,000 to the second loan and 4,500,000 to the first.

NEW ENGLAND'S QUOTA FILLED.

Campaign Officials Believe District Has Oversubscribed by $50,000,000.

BOSTON, May 4.—New England went "over the top" with flying colors in the campaign for the district's quota of $250,000,000 of the Third Liberty Loan. With each of the six States registering an oversubscription and with an eleventh-hour rush for bonds everywhere today and tonight, campaign officials said they were confident that the final tabulation would show that the people of the district had subscribed more than $300,000,000.

Returns at the Boston Federal Reserve Bank up to the close of business Friday night showed that the district's total was $284,273,000. One-sixth of the banks were not included in this tabulation because their reports did not arrive in time. They have until May 9 to make final returns.

The campaign in this city ended in a whirlwind of buying. Banking institutions and Liberty bond booths were swamped with subscriptions. Thousands of persons thronged the Common to subscribe for bonds at the various booths there, and increased clerical forces were unable to tabulate subscriptions as fast as they were received.

New England and cities and towns made a good showing in the contest for honor flags. At campaign headquarters tonight it was said that out of 1,502 committees 1,225 had reported oversubscriptions, and that fully 200 had won from one to five stars for their honor flags.

In the percentage standing of States Connecticut, with 130 per cent., was leading the district. Its latest tabulation showed subscriptions of $43,311,000, or approximately $10,000,000 over its allotment. Reports from that State tonight, campaign officials said, indicated that late subscriptions would probably give Connecticut an oversubscription of about $20,000,000.

CHICAGO HAS SURPLUS.

Nearly $17,000,000 in Excess of District's Loan Quota.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., May 4.—Chicago went "over the top" today to the extent of nearly $17,000,000. The city's subscriptions to the Third Liberty Loan were estimated at 9 o'clock tonight at $143,000,000, or $16,820,000 in excess of the minimum quota. The official figures for the Seventh Federal Reserve District given out earlier in the evening placed the total subscriptions in the district at $310,620,450, the minimum quota being $425,000,000. This table gives the Chicago total as $135,481,350, to which was to be added subscriptions of more than $7,000,000 received after banking hours. The official table was:

	Quota.	Total Sub-scriptions.	P.C.of Quota.
Cook County..	$126,180,000	$135,481,350	107.37
Illinois, outside of Cook Co.	52,809,000	70,919,650	134.32
Indiana	53,770,000	59,588,550	110.78
Iowa	71,050,000	100,250,900	141.07
Michigan	75,600,000	90,265,800	119.40
Wisconsin ...	45,000,000	63,154,200	138.50
Total.....	$425,000,000	$519,620,450	122.26

The total number of subscribers in the Chicago District was given as 2,370,313.

PRESIDENT BOOSTS BOND SELLING AGAIN

Subscribes $500 at Theatre for Fund to Meet Challenge—Starts Avalanche of Buying.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—President Wilson received a great demonstration tonight at a local theatre when a four-minute speaker announced that he had bought still another bond, this time one for $500. Last Wednesday, when the President agreed to sponsor the "match-the-President" movement by buying a $50 bond on the installment plan, after previously subscribing for nearly $20,000, it was believed that he had reached his maximum effort.

Tonight a man in the theatre audience announced that he would buy a $5,000 bond if ten other persons present would subscribe for one $500 bond each. Eight persons quickly met the challenge; then there was a pause. The President, from his box, quietly beckoned to an usher and told him to inform the speaker that he would take one of the bonds.

The announcement started a wave of buying that extended even to the chorus, every member of the company purchasing a bond and swelling the night's total at the theatre to more than $100,000.

Pribiloff Islanders Invest.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Natives of the Pribilof Islands have subscribed $2,350 to the Liberty Loan. The Department of Commerce was advised today that part of the money to pay for the bonds would be taken from funds deposited under the trusteeship of the Commissioner of Fisheries, and that the remainder would be paid by the natives from money received for fox skins.

Converts Bail Into Liberty Bonds.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., May 4.—Federal Judge Landis today ordered his clerk to convert $30,500 received for bail into Liberty bonds. The bonds will be held as bail in place of the money. Should the persons concerned ask for return of the bail they will receive Liberty bonds instead of money.

Hastinga Takes $300,000 in Bonds.

HASTINGS-ON-HUDSON, May 4.—Five times the quota is the proud record of this little village on Liberty bonds. The total is over $300,000. The National Conduit and Cable Company duplicated each subscription above the $75,000 mark.

The total for the entire country as computed by the War Savings Committee up to May 1, however, appears to be $193,019,647.02. Of this amount New York City alone contributed $11,156,380.19. A comparison of the city with the country from the month the war savings campaign began to May 1 appears in the following table:

Month.	New York City.	United States.
December, 1917...	$1,831,853.07	$14,709,956.52
January, 1918....	1,856,330.24	32,585,886.40

Total.....	$11,156,380.19	$193,019,647.02

Aside from the ordinary channels of thrift stamp distribution, the War Savings Committee is realizing extensive results in the chain system whereby many stamps are sold through the circulation of thrift cards through the mails. The system was of purely voluntary origin, some purchaser of a thrift card having devised the idea some months ago of sending his card containing one stamp to a friend with the request that that friend fill out the card and mail four other cards containing one stamp each to four other friends, who were to be requested to keep up the chain. Thus each recipient not only fills out his card with the purchase of fifteen additional stamps, but also gets four more friends to do likewise, and so on in an endless chain. The War Savings Committee is being constantly informed of the progress of the chain, and while no means have been found of compiling the total sales resulted in this fashion, it is estimated that more than 5,000 cards a day are issued for chain purposes.

Atlanta Has Great Final Rush.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, May 4.—The Atlanta reserve district has exceeded its quota of $90,000,000 by fully 25 per cent., according to reports received by Chairman W. C. Wardlaw. Every State in the district was well over the top. The reports to headquarters today were overwhelming, bearing out the belief that hundreds of small banks and many large ones were holding back their totals until the end of the campaign. This city's quota was $6,431,000, and the subscriptions will be more than $7,000,000.

Utica Claims Double Honors.

Special to The New York Times.

UTICA, N. Y., May 4.—Utica boasts of the youngest subscriber to the Liberty Loan—Virginia Yates Eckert, one week old. The city also boasts the largest percentage of subscribers for cities of over 50,000 population. The latest figures here give 35,433 subscribers, more than 47 per cent. of the 1910 population.

TIEUP IN EAST RIVER TUBES.

Accident to Third Rail Delays Traffic for 40 Minutes.

A support holding up a section of the third rail at the centre of the Interborough tunnel under the East River collapsed late yesterday afternoon and the rail grounded. In consequence all trains between the Atlantic Avenue station in Brooklyn and the Bowling Green station was stopped. The accident happened at 4:44 o'clock and it was not until forty minutes later that traffic was resumed. There was very little damage done and no one was hurt.

Two trains were in the tunnel at the time, but not near the fallen rail, which was making a brilliant electric display. One train was bound for Manhattan and the other in the opposite direction in the south tube. Both trains were fairly well filled. As there was nothing to denote the cause of the trouble the passengers simply chafed at the delay and were still doing so when suddenly the lights went up and the trains began to move.

At the Brooklyn stations the sale of tickets was stopped and hundreds came to New York on the tubes. In Manhattan a limited service was maintained south of City Hall by use of the curve at South Ferry.

R. HITCHCOCK DIES SUDDENLY IN HOTEL

Director of Harper & Bros. Stricken at Dinner to "Blue Devils" in the Park Avenue.

HIS DEATH KEPT A SECRET

Neither His Father-in-Law, the Host, Nor French Fighters Were Permitted to Hear of It.

Ripley Hitchcock, author, editor, and a Director of the publishing firm of Harper & Brothers, with which he had been associated for the last sixteen years, died suddenly in an anteroom of the Park Avenue Hotel last night, as his father-in-law, Charles C. Sargent, Vice President and New York representative of Roger & Gallet, perfumers, of Paris, was acting as host to 100 French "Blue Devils" at dinner in the hotel dining room. Mr. Hitchcock was in his sixty-first year.

He arrived at the hotel shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and assisted in decorating the tables for the dinner, which commenced at 5 o'clock. At that hour the famous French fighters who came here to spur subscriptions for the Third Liberty Loan marched into the dining room. As they were being seated Mr. Hitchcock, who was near a door, complained of illness, and, rising, started to leave the room. He reached the door, but stumbled and nearly fell, and was assisted out by his wife, who had been seated next to him. Upon gaining the anteroom medical aid was summoned, but Mr. Hitchcock died before two army surgeons, who were in the lobby of the hotel, reached his side. Death was due, they said, to angina pectoris. Mr. Hitchcock's body was removed to his home at 34 Gramercy Park.

Mr. Sargent was not told of Mr. Hitchcock's death until the dinner was over, and the French fighters were not informed that death had suddenly taken their newly made friend. Mr. Hitchcock had been introduced to the fighters as they gathered before the dinner. Mrs. Hitchcock before leaving for her home, made the following statement:

"Mr. Hitchcock could not have wished to have died under any finer circumstances. He died when his patriotism was being stirred to the highest pitch, with his two sons in the army, one of them in the service in France, and one in training in this country, and in the sight of these magnificent men who have been fighting for the world."

Ripley Hitchcock was born in Fitchburg, Mass., July 3, 1857, the son of Dr. Alfred M. Hitchcock and Aurilla Phebe Wellman Hitchcock. He was graduated from Harvard in 1877 and shortly afterward removed to this city, where he engaged in literary work. He was a special correspondent for The New York Tribune during the summers of 1882 and 1883, traveling in the West and Northwest, and in Mexico. In the Winter months of these years he served as literary and art critic for The Tribune, and remained with that newspaper until 1890, when he joined the publishing house of D. Appleton & Co. in 1892 he went to the Harpers.

It was while he was with D. Appleton & Co. that "David Harum" in manuscript went the rounds of the various New York publishing houses. Among the first to receive it was D. Appleton & Co., and the now famous book was given him to read. The book, he told the heads of the firm, could be made into a successful work if certain chapters were rearranged. His suggestion was followed out and his literary opinion was verified, as the book became one of the best sellers of the day.

Mr. Hitchcock was the author of several works on art, and he wrote extensively on historical subjects. Notable among his works are "An American Landscape Painter—George Inness," "Etching in America," "The Western Art Movement," "Representative Etchings," "The Madonna in Art," "Thomas De Quincy—a Study," "The Louisiana Purchase and the Building of the West," and "The Lewis and Clark Expedition." He was the editor of the following: "The Life of an Artist," by Julee Breton; "The Story of the West Series," "Library of History and Exploration," and "Decisive Battles of America."

Mr. Hitchcock is survived by his wife and two sons by a former marriage.

One of his sons, Lieutenant Roger Hitchcock of the Aviation Section of the Signal Corps, is in France with a bombing squadron. Ripley Hitchcock, Jr., is a private at Camp Devens, Ayer, Mass. Before he entered the service he was at Harvard, a member of the class of 1918.

Robert Underwood Johnson, former editor of the Century Magazine, speaking of Mr. Hitchcock's death last night, said:

"Mr. Hitchcock was recognized as a man of admirable judgment in literary matters and of great familiarity with books, old and new, and he kept up an extensive correspondence with writers both in England and America. His special interests were in the field of art and American history. He was one of the original members of the American Institute of Arts and Letters, and was for two terms its Secretary. Mr. Hitchcock possessed great executive ability."

Mr. Hitchcock was a member of the New York Historical Society, the New England Society, the Century Club, the Authors, Harvard Club, and the National Club of London. Funeral services will be held in Grace Church Chantry on Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

Isaac Wilson Dies in Waldorf Lobby

Special Agent Isaac Wilson of the Treasury Department died suddenly on Friday night in the lobby of the Waldorf, several hours after his return from Canada, where he had been on a Government mission. Mr. Wilson joined the special agency force of the Treasury Department in 1885, and during his career was responsible for the apprehension of many criminals.

BARS SALE OF WHEAT FLOUR

Food Board Instructs Bakers to Sell Only Baked Product.

The New York Federal Food Board issued the following instructions to the bakers of the city yesterday:

In order to obtain more complete compliance with the regulations of the United States Food Administration for the conservation of wheat flour, you are hereby notified that you are, from this date, forbidden to sell wheat flour and substitute cereals from the stocks of such commodities in your bakery.

This does not forbid bakers who also maintain grocery stores from selling wheat flour and substitutes. Where bakers are engaged in the grocery business, it is necessary for them to keep separate accounts of their purchases and of their sales of wheat flour and cereal substitutes for each business. Flour for their baking business must be purchased on a basis of three pounds of wheat flour to one pound of cereal substitute. Wheat flour for sale as flour must be purchased on a basis of one pound of wheat flour to one pound of substitutes.

Twenty-five per cent. of cereal substitutes must be used in the baking of all bread or rolls, whether the dough for such bread or rolls is prepared by the baker in his own shop, or by his customers who bring the dough to him to be baked.

Attention is also called to the suggested bread prices of the Federal Food Board of New York, on a cash and carry basis to the consumer, which are as follows:

10 ounce loaf.....7½ cents.
16 ounce loaf.....9 cents.

Bread should not be sold at prices in excess of the above when a customer pays cash and takes the goods home.

The Federal Milk Commission for the Middle States held a meeting at the Federal Food Board yesterday, and decided to adjourn until May 20, when it will reconvene to consider prices for June.

I. H. Klein, Secretary of the Food Council of this city, announced yesterday a series of food demonstrations to be held at the Harlem Patriotic League, 120 East 125th Street, beginning next Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

UPROAR AT RINGWALD TRIAL

Mrs. Cisler Rushes from Chicago Court Saying She Is Threatened.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 4.—The hearing of Bernard Ringwald, wealthy cabinetmaker, detained under disloyalty charges, came to a sensational climax today when Mrs. Beryl Cisler, witness for the Government, rushed from the corridor to Lewis S. Mason, United States Commissioner, crying, "He said he'd knock my head through the door."

When she was quieted she explained that Gale Ringwald, son of the defendant, had made the threat. Young Ringwald had listened to the testimony clad in an army uniform. He is a member of the field artillery.

Mrs. Cisler testified that the elder Ringwald showed her a paper containing a report of German gains, remarking "Isn't that fine?"

She further said he declared that "the ships had no business crossing the ocean," that the Lusitania "got what it deserved," and that he had said "if he could get near enough to Wilson he would kill him."

The case was continued until next Saturday. Ringwald being released under heavy bond.

LAWYER ADMITS FORGERY.

E. C. Wintringham Signed Dead Woman's Name to Pension Vouchers.

Edward C. Wintringham, a lawyer, living at 803 Union Street, Brooklyn, pleaded guilty yesterday before Judge Chatfield in the United States District Court in Brooklyn to forging the signature of Mrs. Catherine Meagher to pension papers. Mrs. Meagher, a widow of a civil war veteran, died in July, 1916, and the forgeries were executed on pension vouchers sent to her address after death.

In admitting the charge, Wintringham said that he had lent money to Mrs. Meagher, and that she had been turning over her pension to him as payment and that his indorsement of the voucher after her death had been a case of habit. He will be sentenced June 5 and until that date was released on parole to United States Marshal Powers. Wintringham formerly had offices and a large practice in Manhattan.

VICTORY PRAYERS ON MAY 12

Defenders Organization Pleads for Mothers' Day Supplications.

Mothers' Day, May 12 this year, is to be made the occasion of international prayer for victory in behalf of the mothers of soldiers and sailors who are fighting for democracy. The National Association for Mothers of Defenders of Democracy, 622 Vanderbilt Avenue, of which Mrs. John R. McArthur is the President, has issued a country-wide appeal for victory prayers on that day, and it is expected that at least 77,000,000 persons will unite in prayers on May 12. The movement has the approval of a host of organizations and individuals.

"Tell any woman who has a man 'over there' she loves—husband, son, sweetheart—to write, write, write. Fine, cheerful letters are wanted," General Pershing wrote to the committee.

The committee initiating the movement includes, besides Mrs. MacArthur, Mrs. Isabella Charkes Davis, Mrs. Georgine Thomas of Paris, Edna Marione, and Mrs. George Francis Kerr. When these letters were sent out for approval and support there was a question in the minds of those initiating the movement as to how the men of big business and the officers of the army and navy would receive it. The immediate response was most encouraging and gratifying.

Major Gen. John J. O'Ryan writes: "An intimate knowledge of the duties and responsibilities of our soldiers and of the sacrifices entailed by their families, and more particularly by the mothers, has led me to believe that the fullest measure of sacrifice in war is made by the mothers. That their fortitude and spirit of sacrifice can be stimulated and strengthened by prayer will not be doubted, and if there is efficacy in prayer the generous and sympathetic petitions of our people on behalf of the mothers of our soldiers should aid and comfort them, should strengthen and give them peace of mind."

Lettera giving their approval and support have also been received from the Governors of Connecticut, Iowa, and North Dakota.

It was a remark by Harry Lauder that suggested the idea which developed into this appeal for prayer. It was at the beginning of his tour of America recently closed. After the comedian had made the audience laugh and weep, after he had made his appeal for the wounded Scots, he closed with this sentence: "And let me tell you, folks, you can never bear the burdens of this war, the sufferings that will come to you before it is finished, unless you get next to God and learn to pray."

Steampipe Bursts on Lexington.

The Colonial Line steamer Lexington, while bound up the East River last evening on her way from her North River pier to Providence, broke a steampipe and had to be towed into the pier at the foot of East 136th Street. No one was hurt and her 100 passengers were sent to Providence by rail. The Lexington was off Little Hell Gate when she began to whistle for help. The engineer kept her up-stream until a tug arrived and made fast a line to her. Soon after the fireboat McClellan came up and stood by while the Lexington was being brought to the pier.

BOWMAN MAKES OFFER FOR TWO MORE HOTELS

Owner of the Biltmore May Acquire the Belmont and Murray Hill.

Terms are being discussed for the sale of the Hotel Belmont, at Forty-second Street and Park Avenue, and the Murray Hill Hotel, at Forty-first Street and Park Avenue, to John McE. Bowman, President of the Hotel Biltmore Company and owner or controller of half a dozen other hotels in New York. It was said last night by Benjamin L. M. Bates, lessor of the Belmont and owner of the Murray Hill. If the deal takes place Mr. Bowman will have under his control a chain of large hotels in this city unequalled except by those controlled by T. Coleman du Pont, head of the Hotel McAlpin Company, who recently purchased the Hotel Waldorf-Asteria.

Mr. Bates would not discuss the price involved in the transaction, but he said his terms would either be accepted or rejected by tomorrow. Mr. Bowman could not be found at the Hotel Biltmore yesterday, and Eugene Miller, Secretary of the Biltmore company, refused to discuss the transaction.

Mr. Bowman is the President of the company which owns the Hotel Biltmore and is at present constructing the new 2,500-room Hotel Commodore, which will stand next to Grand Central Terminal at Lexington Avenue and Forty-second Street. Since June, 1916, he has been owner of the Hotel Manhattan and in the same year became President of the company operating the Hotel Ansonia. At Broadway and Seventy-third Street. Recently he was made President of the Bowman - Kerr - Morgan Hotels Corporation, which is building a hotel in Atlantic City.

Last Tuesday it was reported that an agreement was pending between T. Coleman du Pont and Mr. Bates for the sale of the Belmont and the Murray Hill, but this was promptly denied by both men.

The Hotel Belmont was started in 1902 and was completed on May 8, 1906, at a cost of $7,000,000. Mr. Bates has been the manager and lessee since its completion. The hotel is a twenty-eight-story building.

On May 19, 1910, Mr. Bates purchased the Hotel Murray Hill at auction from the estate of the late Hugh Smith for $1,700,500.

ST. MARK'S QUOTA SIXTEEN.

It was announced at the graduation exercises last night of the nurses of the class of 1918 at St. Mark's Hospital Training School, Second Avenue and Eleventh Street, that six members of the medical staff of the hospital were with the military forces of the United States, including Dr. Benjamin T. Tilton, President of the hospital, and Dr. Bradley Martin, Vice President. Both hold commissions as Majors in the United States Medical Reserve Corps. It was also said that ten nurses from St. Mark's were in Europe with the American Army.

OPPOSE ZONE POSTAL RATES

Merchants' Association Declares It Will Harm Publishers.

The Merchants' Association yesterday sent the following telegram, protesting against the application of zone postal rates on second-class mail matter, to Senator John H. Bankhead, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads:

"The association believes that the application of zone postal rates on second-class matter must inevitably greatly reduce the circulation of periodicals by making the cost of distant circulation prohibitory, thereby greatly reducing the revenues of publishers, making the business generally profitless, and forcing many publishers out of business. Such zone rates will be especially destructive to the great publishing interests of the Eastern States inasmuch as the cost of circulation of their publications to distant points will exceed their revenues from such circulation and will, moreover, create conditions which will heavily discriminate in favor of centrally located publishers.

"The Government, because of enforced decrease in the circulation of periodicals, would fail to realize the increase in postal revenues expected from the application of zone rates to second-class matter, and, further, would be deprived of large revenues from the excess profits and income taxes by reason of the unprosperous condition of the publishing business arising from a prohibitory postal charge. The great decrease in the circulation of periodical literature which must result from a prohibitory postal charge will, to a considerable extent, deprive the American people of educational opportunities of great importance and benefit to them. For these reasons we urge that the proposed application of postal zone rates to second-class mail matter be not approved."

TAXPAYERS CAUTIONED.

Department Net Bound by Amount Given in Bill, Says Collector.

Collector Mark Eisner of the Third Internal Revenue District, comprising upper Manhattan Island, said yesterday that his attention had been called to the fact that a number of so-called tax experts had solicited and obtained business upon an arrangement whereby the compensation was based upon a percentage of the tax which they would save taxpayers on their income and excess profits returns.

The understanding which these experts had with their clients was that the difference between the amount of tax as the client originally figured it and the amount shown on the bill resolved upon by the Treasury Department, after the returns had been filed, would determine the amount saved. Commenting upon the scheme, Collector Eisner said:

"Both the taxpayers and the experts are cautioned against the belief that the bill sent out by the department is conclusive of the amount of tax that will be collected. As a matter of fact, the bill in most instances will be based upon the amount of tax disclosed by the return and does not bind the department. The amount may be materially changed after an audit of the returns in Washington and, in necessary cases, after investigation of the books of the concern."

VOLUNTEER NURSES AID BIG HOSPITALS

Teachers College Will Begin Classes for Clinic Assistants This Week.

SPECIALIZE IN CHILD WORK

Course Given in Co-operation with Bellevue Social Service and People's Institute.

Shortage of nurses has already caused the placing of volunteer assistants in seven of the city's large hospitals—Bellevue, Presbyterian, St. Luke's, Vanderbilt Clinic, the Lying-In, Gouverneur, and the Italian. This situation was pointed out yesterday by Miss Mary Wadley and Miss Helen Sloane of Bellevue Social Service as the reason for the formation of the new course for hospital clinic assistants, which will be begun on next Wednesday by Teachers College. The course is to be given in co-operation with Bellevue Social Service, the Federation for Child Study, and the People's Institute, and is to specialize in child hygiene, nutrition, and related topics that would prepare the students to work in the child clinics and social service departments of hospitals.

"The shortage of nurses is not a question of the future; it is here already," Miss Wadley said. "During the month of April I had nineteen vacancies in the social service department here in Bellevue. Fortunately, I have been able to fill the positions, although I was very much put to it to find people with the right training, and what we and other hospitals are going to do unless women can be trained for this we do not know.

"This movement must not be looked on as one to supplement the nursing force only. It is also one to assist with the shortage of doctors. Doctors cannot be made and trained in a few months or weeks. The only thing to do is to conserve their time as much as possible. That is where the trained lay assistant comes in; she is really a clinical secretary; she makes out the record cards, writes down the history, and takes all this routine work off the doctor's shoulders. His time can then be expended in purely medical work. In this way, physicians in hospital clinics can not only handle more cases, but also can do more thorough work. This system of clinical secretaries was first tried in Boston, proved successful there, and later introduced here in Bellevue."

To show the extent to which the volunteer nursing or clinical secretary system may supplement the nursing staff of a big city hospital, it was pointed out that the child out-patient department of Bellevue was practically in the hands of volunteers—young women of intelligence, who have had, however, little or no medical training. In this child clinic are some twenty volunteers, each working so many afternoons a week, and assigned to the different departments, so that the volunteer becomes skilled in her special field. These young women are in charge of Miss Helen Sloane, herself the first volunteer in Bellevue. Miss Sloane began this work in December, 1916, and when this country entered the war Dr. Charles Hendee Smith anticipated the coming shortage of doctors and nurses by organizing the elaborate volunteer helper system now prevailing in the child clinic. The Bellevue volunteers receive no pay, and get one month vacation. It is pointed out that, since these volunteers have been installed, the work has been increased and the method made more thorough. Dr. Smith is one of those concerned in the formation of the course for training clinic assistants at Teachers College.

Miss Wadley stated that Bellevue Social Service was already getting the results of wartime high prices in increased illness among the poor. "It is not a matter of the high cost of food alone," she said. "I think our poor notice the high price of shoes more than anything else. The men have to have shoes to go to work. The children have to have shoes to go to school. Rent is fixed or going up, and the only place where they can cut down is on food. This weakens them and makes them more liable to illness." For cases like these, both Miss Wadley and Miss Sloane insist, women of general intelligence, with a little training, will serve as well, if not better, than surgical nurses, especially better than overworked nurses.

TO CARE FOR JEWS AT FRONT

Commission Leaves Soon to Study Needs and Direct Activities.

The special overseas commission representing the Jewish Welfare Board for work with the army and navy will soon leave for France, it was announced yesterday by Colonel Harry Cutler, Chairman of the board. There will be two commissioners, who will be accompanied by several welfare workers. One commissioner will return to this country after he has made an investigation of the situation and studied the needs of the men of the Jewish faith in the service. The other will remain in France and will direct the activities of the workers. Colonel Cutler said the men for this mission had not been decided upon, although there were several names under consideration.

The Jewish Welfare Board yesterday sent to Chief Rabbi Hertz, who is working among the soldiers of Jewish faith in England, an order for 10,000 psalm books, which will be forwarded to Chief Rabbi Levi, in Paris, and to Chaplain Elkin C. Voorsanger, who is in France, for distribution among the soldiers.

Acknowledgment has been made by the Jewish Welfare Board of a gift made by Mrs. Miriam Blaustein, who presented to the organization the library belonging to her husband, the late David Blaustein, educator and communal worker. All of the books deal with subjects of interest to Jewish people.

Announcement also was made by Colonel Cutler that in addition to supplying recruits to the Jewish battalion, the military organization comprised of Jews who are to serve with the British in Palestine, with Bibles and prayer books, the Jewish Welfare Board has made an appropriation of $1,750 to entertain the recruits prior to their departure.

SEIZE FRITZ LINDINGER.

Restaurateur Must Explain His Knowledge of Betting on Horses.

Three detectives of Inspector Costigan's squad seized Fritz Lindinger yesterday afternoon as he sat at a table in his restaurant at 105 Broad Street. There was considerable of a wrestling match, and when it was over the detectives said Lindinger had shed various pieces of paper that were found on the floor. Some of these, they added, had such cryptic messages inscribed as "Blue Laddy," "Hourless," and other stars of the racetrack, followed by figures showing, the detectives said, the odds against each horse. They found also, so they said, charts that told of racing at Lexington and Havre de Grace. After Lindinger separated himself from his visitors introductions followed and he was served with a summons to apear tomorrow before Assistant District Attorney Smith, who is conducting the gambling investigation, and explain what he knows about betting on a horse race.

This is the second visit of a similar nature to Mr. Lindinger, former President of the Retail Liquor Dealers' Association. In June, 1909, three detectives, after accusing Lindinger of having knowledge of the handbook business, arrested him on a charge of running a poolroom. He was at once discharged for lack of evidence and from the Police Court he went to the then Police Commissioner Bingham and complained against the police. Not satisfied with this, he had the three detectives indicted for assault.

SINN FEIN SPEAKERS ATTACK THE ALLIES

Garden Only Half Full at Rally in Behalf of Irish Republic.

TWO INDICTED MEN SPEAK

"Gen." Mellows Tells Audience That America Is Sidetracking the Irish Question.

Madison Square Garden housed last night a meeting of Sinn Fein sympathizers and agitators, who gathered under the auspices of the Irish Progressive League to further the cause of the Sinn Fein organization in Ireland. The meeting was advertised as a "monster rally," but the Garden was not much more than half full at 9 o'clock, a full hour after the advertised hour to start, when the Rev. Peter Magennis arose to declare the mass meeting underway. It was a strange kind of a gathering held at a time when Fifth Avenue was full of marching allied soldiers, and when the whole city was celebrating the success of the Liberty Loan campaign.

There were about as many women present as men, and every reference to the Sinn Fein was the signal for an outburst of wild applause. Not one word was said about the cause of the Allies. Two of the speakers were aliens, both of them under indictment in the criminal branch of the Federal Court. One of these two strangers, a pale-faced, yellow-haired man, whose name is Mellows, made a speech that in parts came very near crossing the line that divides sedition from loyalty.

Mellows, who is sometimes referred to as "the general," in one part of his speech said that "England sees her doom and is trying to draw Ireland into the vortex with her," a statement that was received with wild cheering. Again when he said that "maybe the war won't end as some people think it will," there was more applause, but not quite so general.

Other speakers were Mrs. Sheehy Skeffington, who has been campaigning all over the country; Patrick McCarton, M. P., who like "General" Mellows is under indictment in the Federal Court; John Devoy, the editor of a Sinn Fein weekly newspaper, who in the course of his speech made some very serious charges against the Federal Government; Harry Weinberger, a lawyer, who before this country went to war used to speak at anarchist meetings and who was counsel for Emma Goldman, Alexander Berkman, and other anarchists who fell into the Federal net; Padraic Colum, who was referred to as a poet, and several others, among them members of the so-called People's Council for Peace and Democracy, an organization which has agitated for a peace such as the German Government is reported ready to negotiate.

A report was current yesterday that the New York Life Insurance Company, which owns the Garden, would call off the meeting, and this may have been one of the causes for the failure of the gathering to assume the advertised big proportions. The New York Life received protests from a large number of persons, who argued that it was not proper to permit a meeting the avowed purpose of which was to attack one of the nations with which the United States was allied, and alongside of whose soldiers Americans were fighting in France. The company, however, did not cancel the contract.

Mr. Magennis made the first speech. He said it was a great pleasure to address "so vast an audience." He attacked Mrs. Jay, who wrote a letter to the New York Life urging that the lease of the garden for the meeting be cancelled. He also said that an American soldier of Irish blood now in France had told him that when he got through fighting Germany he would be ready to go to Ireland and fight against England. This story was the signal for a great outburst of cheering.

"Gen." Liam Mellows was introduced as the first speaker. He began with a reference to the fact that he was an alien, but did not say anything about his being under indictment.

"The Irish," he said, "who have left Ireland lately have not received a warm welcome in the United States," a statement which appealed to the crowd and called for a storm of sympathetic hisses.

"We," shouted Mellows, "are aliens, but we have a perfect right to speak in the United States. The Irish question is being sidetracked in the United States by the press and by our enemies. But the Irish question will not be stifled or the Irish voice silenced in America. We Irish in America are not going to lie down. We ask you Irish of New York to wake up: for God's sake, wake up! Don't lie down like a pack of whipped curs. Get rid of fear and imitate the people at home. Never will Ireland treat England as a friend. With God's blessing we are rebels to the end.

"England sees her doom and is trying to drag Ireland into the vortex with her, so a free Ireland may not rise on her ruins. Blood will flow if conscription is enforced in Ireland, and that blood will not only be on England, but also on the people of America if they continue to acquiesce in England's domination of Ireland."

John Devoy read a very long speech. He said high officials of the United States Government—he excepted the President—were "active in the crusade against us and are helping to defame and calumniate us to the American people." He referred to the "tyrannical" activities of the Post Office Department in withdrawing the mail privileges from certain Sinn Fein publications.

A statement was issued to the reporters to the effect that the rent of the Garden was not paid with German money. It was added that the money had been loaned by Irish men and women.

Near the close of the meeting, and while Mrs. Skeffington was denouncing England, two women in the audience, who were present like hundreds of others out of curiosity, became incensed at the extremely bitter utterances of the woman and one of them, Dr. Eleanor Keller of 55 East Seventy-sixth Street, got up and said:

"This is un-American. I protest against the words of this woman."

The crowd was immediately in an uproar and several men, among them one young fellow of draft age, started toward Mrs. Keller.

Mrs. John Oakman of 3 West Sixteenth Street, who was with Mrs. Keller, stood up when she saw the men advancing, and announced that she agreed with every word of the protest uttered by Mrs. Keller. The police hurried to the rescue of Mrs. Keller and Mrs. Oakman and escorted them out of the garden through a side entrance.

Some of the more excited Sinn Feiners followed the women into the street. They were warned to behave by the police and they obeyed.

Mrs. Keller has one son in the army in France and Mrs. Oakman has a son and brother in the aviation section in France, while her husband is a line officer in one of the overseas regiment.

Mayor and Party Visit Camp Upton

Mayor Hylan, accompanied by Mrs. Hylan and Miss Virginia Hylan, Grover A. Whalen, the Mayor's Secretary, and Tax Commissioner James P. Sinnott, went to Camp Upton yesterday to visit John F. Sinnott, who up to last Tuesday, when he was drafted in the national army, was Executive Secretary to the Mayor.

Swiss to Furnish Wood to Allies.

BERNE, May 4.—An economic agreement has been reached between Switzerland and the Allies under which a fixed amount of wood will be delivered for eight months to the Allies by Switzerland. In return, important concessions will be made concerning food supplies for Switzerland.

TEN YEARS' LITIGATION ENDS

The filing in the Supreme Court yesterday of a judgment for $33,824 marks the end of litigation begun nearly ten years ago by the late Oscar Keen against George H. Robinson of the banking firm of Fisk & Robinson, Merle Middleton, and George Fred Keen to recover his share of the profits from a syndicate organized in 1908 to bring about the sale of the Baldwin Locomotive Works.

Mr. Keen died in 1913, after a referee who heard the suit had decided that the syndicate agreement had been terminated before its purpose had been realized. Shortly after his death the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court reversed the referee and held that such a venture cannot be terminated at the will of one of the parties without the consent of all. This decision, which made new law regarding syndicate transactions, has just been affirmed by the Court of Appeals by a vote of four to three, and the judgment for the estate was filed by Elbridge L. Adams, attorney for the Keen estate, in consequence of the final ruling.

The trial disclosed the fact that the profits of the syndicate were $175,000, this sum being determined in an action brought in the Federal Court by Mr. Robinson in which Jacob H. Schiff testified that Kuhn, Loeb & Co. had offered to buy the Baldwin Works for $35,000,000, but the sellers accepted another offer. An interesting feature of the suit in behalf of Mr. Keen was the fact that before his death he was willing to settle his claim for a fraction of the sum his estate will now receive.

DENIES SUIT FOR RECEIVER.

Estate of Benjamin F. Einstein Loses Point in Legal Fight.

Supreme Court Justice Greenbaum denied yesterday an application in behalf of the estate of Benjamin F. Einstein, a lawyer, for the appointment of a receiver for the New York City Car Advertising Company and the Railway Advertising Company, pending the trial of a suit to compel Jesse Winburn, chief stockholder and President of the corporations, to return to the treasury of each company funds alleged to have been paid to him improperly as salary.

The Einstein estate is a minority stockholder of the two corporations named, and the suit was brought not because of any claim that the corporations are insolvent, but because Mr. Winburn as the owner of about 80 per cent. of the stock deprived the Einstein estate of representation on the Board of Directors after Mr. Einstein's death in 1915, and then after electing his brother-in-law and an intimate friend Directors he raised his salary $37,000 during the years 1916, 1917, and 1918, the salary for the present year being $50,000. The complaint stated that the net profits since 1909 have been between $150,000 and $200,000 a year except in two years.

Mr. Winburn, in opposing the application for the appointment of a receiver, said he has drawn no part of the increased salary and will not take it pending the suit. He said he earns all he receives from the company and spends about a fifth of his salary in getting business. He alleges that the real purpose of the suit is to compel him to buy the stock of the Einstein estate at an exorbitant price.

Striking Ropemakere Discharged.

TRENTON, N. J., May 4.—Three hundred employes of the rope-making department of John A. Roebling's Sons Company, after being on strike several days for increased pay, have been discharged. Other men have taken their places. The strikers insisted on a 10 per cent. increase. The firm met the demand by offering to change the work from day to piece work, which would have meant an increase over what the men had been getting. This proposal was rejected.
